Gabby Still Pins Cub Faith On His Cripples

CHICAGO, Feb. 21. — (AP) — Charles Leo Hartnett is showing a fine disregard these days for the critics who are rating Cincinnati, St. Louis, Pittsburgh and Brooklyn as the year's first division clubs in the National Baseball League.

Gabby, beginning his second term as manager of the Chicago Cubs, hasn't said his club will be in the world series. But he thinks he has the makings of a winner if some of his cripples throw away their crutches and play ball.

The most important "if" on the club is Claiborne Henry Bryant, lanky, 29-year-old righthander, who spent most of the 1939 season "running" for the portly Hartnett. He was laid up almost all season with a sore arm after turning in 19 victories in 1938.

Hartnett will begin conditioning Byrant and all the other pitchers and catchers except Dizzy Dean, who still is unsigned, Friday a Catalina Island Gabby is counting on Bryant, Bill Lee, Claude Passeau, Larry French and Charlie Root to hoist the club into the contending class.

Won Every Third Year

The Cubs haven't finished in second division since 1927 and have won the pennant every third year starting in 1929. They have finished lower than fifth only 10 times since 1900.

"We'll win the pennant this year," Gabby said before taking off for Catalina, "if we can manage to steer clear of injuries. And another thing I'd like to make clear—I intend to catch a lot of games this season. I'm not going to be just a bench manager.

Hartnett is 39 years old and is beginning his 19th years as a big leaguer and as a Cub.

Hastings Defeats Havelock At Badminton

HAVELOCK, Feb. 21—(ENS). — Keenly contested games featured a friendly round-robin tournament here last evening between the Hastings and Havelock badminton clubs. The visitors were the victors, winning ten of the seventeen games played, with a total of 207 points to the locals' 203.

A clean sweep of the ladies' doubles for Hastings, in which the visitors demonstrated their superiority by taking all five matches, clinched their victory. In both the mixed and men's doubles the outcome was decidedly close, with the homesters having a slight edge in both divisions. Havelock won five of the nine mixed sessions, and two of the three mens' doubles.

Refreshments were served by the home club at the conclusion of play. Mrs. Rose Baker, president of the Hastings group, expressed their appreciation and D. F. Miller replied on behalf of the local members.

Results of plays:

Ambers To Meet Bummy Davis

NEW YORK, Feb. 21 — (AP). — In the record books, the young fellow who fights lightweight champion Lou Ambers on Friday is listed as Al Davis, a welterweight who hasn't been beaten in 37 bouts in his two years of professional fighting.

Over in Brownsville, a part of Brooklyn, they call him "Bummy" and know him as a tough young lad with a punch. His real name is Albert Davidoff. The "Bummy" was tagged on him because his pals claimed he was a bum fighter in his amateur days.

Davis never has tackled one of the big timers, except perhaps Tony Canzoneri, who was so far along the downgrade when they met that Al's clouts finally convinced him he should quit for good. Still he has won 22 of his 37 bouts by knockouts and has been held even only by Jack Sharkey, Jr., who did it twice.

Lou is favored to win at 5 to 8, because of his greater speed and experience. But the fight isn't as important to Ambers as to Davis, who sees it as a step toward a title bout with Henry Armstrong and toward the big money.

Kelly, Granites Takes Pair Of Extra-Enders

TORONTO, Feb. 21—(CP)—Seven rinks in the Ontario Bonspiel were out to extend their unbeaten streak to five games as the 13th annual 'spiel entered the half-way mark today. The tournament ends Saturday.

Heading the victorious rinks was D. P. L. Kelly's Toronto Granites which marched through the 1939 tournament with only one defeat—the opening game. It marked his 12th victory of the meet.

The Granite entry yesterday won two extra-end matches, defeating George Barber's Royal Canadian rink 13-12 after edging out an 11-10 decision over C. R. Redfern's Torontos in first-round Seiberling play.

Other rinks without a loss were skipped by W. H. Keller of Midland, W. H. Forbes of Forest, H. A. Dickson of Toronto, A. McTurk of Toronto, G. Campbell of Hamilton and P. T. Graham of Toronto.

The curlers took time out last night as more than 500 players were feted at a banquet. Lt.-Col. George Drew, Ontario Conservative leader and Dr. J. L. Simpson were among the guests.

Eighteen rinks survived first-round play in the Royal York, Seiberling and Birks-Ellis-Ryrie competitions. Of these Toronto clubs had eight rinks winning three-straight games, Hamilton two, Sarnia, Forest, McIntyre, Orangeville, Oshawa, Midland, Lindsay and Schenectady one each.

Among winning skips in first-round matches of the Seagram event were Alex Hayes of Sarnia; Dr. J. A. Wright and Gar Redden of London; A. E. Dunker of Kitchener; Dr. E. C. Watson, Ward Peck and Dr. F. H. Newberry of Detroit.

Score Third Straight Victory

For the third time in a row victory opened the door for the celebrated Kitchener curling team which has once more won the Ontario Championship and the British Consols Trophy. Early next month they will move out to Winnipeg to defend their laurels in the Macdonald's Brier playdowns for the Dominion curling championships. The Ontario champs are shown, LEFT to RIGHT: Cam Seagram, Ernie Parkes, Perry Hall and Bert Hall, skip.

Japan's Chinese Army Wavers; Many Mutinying

HONG KONG, Feb. 21—(AP). — Mutiny and defeat have disrupted a Japanese-sponsored army of Chinese within a week of its first move against the Chinese government forces, the Chinese central news agency reported today.

Japanese military authorities announced February 13 that a new army of Chinese supporting Wang Ching-Wei had been landed on the coast of Fukien Province and was fighting the troops of General Chiang Kai-Shek. They indicated the army was 50,000 strong. Wang is a former Chinese Premier wifo broke with Chiang and was chosen by Japan to head a Japanese-controlled regime in China.

Central News, an agency of Chiang's government, said 1,800 men of this army had surrendered in Fukien, taking with them to the Chinese government side 1,500 rifles and 20 machine-guns. A mixed force of Japanese and the dissident Chinese was said to be engaged on three sides 15 miles west of Amoy, in the Haiting district.

Five hundred other members of this army were said by Central News to have mutinied at Lanfeng, in Honan Province, killing their Japanese officers and advisers and burning barracks and supply depots. The rebel leader was killed, the agency said.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 21 —(CP). — Thirteen may be considered an unlucky number in some circles but employees of a Winnipeg bakery don't think so.

Through the generosity of their late employer, Mrs. Anna Striber, 13 workers soon will share in the profits of the bakery and will "be their own boss." No longer will weekly pay envelopes be the only source of income for Charles Henne, Michael Klengbil, William Danyliuk, Alex. Rodde, Arthur King, Leo Kelch, John Kornufal, W. Kowalsky, Harry Vogt, E. Lachocki, L. Schtifter, Dave Walsh and Tony Kurt.

Mrs. Striker, 78, died last Friday 25 years after she and her husband, Frank Striber, founded the bakery business. Under terms of the will left by Mrs. Striber, the employees will become joint owners of the bakery.

The will orders the bakery to be continued as a company for 20 years, with A. E. Schwab, executor, acting as trustee. Profits from operation will be divided among the 13 men and at the end of 20 years the business will be sold, the proceeds to be divided among the employees named in the will.

If any one of the 13 workers should leave the firm or die in the interval, he will lose his share. Should the executor consider it advisable to close out the firm before the 20 years are up, the whole sum then will be divided among the employees.

Since the death of her husband 10 years ago, Mrs. Striber has been sole owner of the bakery. She left no known relatives.

Finns Blasted

More than 100 planes were counted in the air over Masala, Helsinki suburb. Heinola and Hamo (Hangoe) were attacked. The bombs were said to have missed their marks, falling outside city limits.

The Red army continued hammering at Finnish defences on the Karelian Isthmus, but the Finns said all attacks were repulsed. At least 200 Russians were reported killed when they attacked in bug-like, airplane-motored sleds on frozen Lake Ladoga.

(The Russians reported capturing both the town and fort of Koivisto and "large trophies" The Koivisto coastal guns were the key to the entire western end of the Mannerheim Line. Their loss, foreign observers said, would be a severe blow to the Finns).

The advance of the Russian forces on the western end of the Karelian Isthmus was indicated as Russian shells whistled into the city of Viipuri (Viborg), virtually deserted of its population of 74,000 and now classed as part of the front.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of calomel but have no calomel or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

Manion Proposes

Concerning the war, he promised that as far as possible a pay-as-you-go policy would be followed and an overseas minister appointed. Activities of the ward boards would be co-ordinated and an energetic bureau of information would be established.

Dr. Manion also said that censorship and other regulations dealing with freedom of press and speech would be submitted to a parliamentary committee for review. Fullest possible use would be made of voluntary offers of service by war veterans.

The National Government program to cope with post-war problems was public works, adoption of most of the recommendations of the National Employment Commission, expansion of foreign trade and the tourist business, and measures to attract foreign capital.

Contrary to Democracy

Mr. Gardiner spoke at Lambert and St. Thomas. In the latter city, which is in the provincial riding of Premier Hepburn of Ontario, he said National governments were contrary to Canadian democratic principles.

Speaking in the interest of Wilson R. Mills, Liberal candidate in Elgin, Mr. Gardiner said the Dominion's experience with National governments has been hapless and attended by scandals. He did not know who Conservative Leader Manion proposes to unite with, "but the only factions I can think of at this time certainly wouldn't lead to the proper prosecution of this war."

In reply to accusations of lack of preparedness at the time of war, Mr. Gardiner reviewed steps taken in the Agriculture Department, the co-ordination of departments and the setting up of new departments, the chief of which was the marketing division which assisted materially in regulating Canada's surpluses during the last few years.

Actually, he said, the cause of Canada's low prices of the last few years could be traced to the self-sufficiency programs being carried on in European nations in preparation for the present war. The same low range in prices existed during the five-year period prior to the first Great War.

At Lambeth, Mr. Gardiner said that Prime Minister Mackenzie King is the most experienced and capable man available to head Canada's war government.

The Agriculture Minister also supported the defence of the Mackenzie King war administration to date.

Mr. Gardiner, in answering criticism that the Prime Minister is too friendly to the United States, asked "Could anyone do service to Canada if he were not friendly with the United States?" He asked if there was any reason why Canada should not be friendly with a country to which we must go to purchase machines of war, a country to which we go for loans and a country for which we hope will be lined up with us in "our effort?"

Charges Despotism.

In a Montreal speech, Mr. Cahan, member for St. Lawrence-St. George in the last parliament and Secretary of State in the Bennett government, criticized the government from a legal point of view, charging that it has been despotic and arbitrary in many of its wartime laws.

Mr. Cahan charged that the Dominion Government had "apparently assumed the despotism, which all democratic peoples so persistently condemn in times of peace, is really the only efficient form of government in times of war."

And the government, he said, "having imposed, by its arbitrary decrees, heavy penalties against free speech, has abrutly terminated a session of parliament obviously for fear that members of parliament would exercise their parliamentary privileges by entering upon a fair discussion of the government's conduct of the war."

Mr. Cahan suggested that the war should have "extirpated all domestic partizan political dissensions and controversies."

"The government of the day, instead of attempting to carry on necessary national war services, under the auspices of their own partizan organizations, should, in my opinion, have admitted to their counsels and have earnestly sought the cordial co-operation of men of ability without regard to their domestic political affiliations."

Mr. Cahan charged that a state of war "had not been declared before the government proceeded to make its own arbitrary decrees under the War Measures Act of 1914."

A Blow To Motherland.

Mr. Macpherson, Regina lawyer who was runner-up to Dr. Manion for the leadership of the party at the 1938 national convention in Ottawa, spoke at New Glasgow, N.S., and said the Canadian government's refusal to allow Britain to establish her own air training schools here in 1937 had prevented Britain being as well prepared in the air as she should have been when war started.

In Windsor, Ont., where he was renominated to contest Essex West riding, Mr. McLarty said the government was seeking approval of its war effort. Precautions had been taken to ensure that there would be no scandal in the war program and Canadians would receive full value for every dollar spent.

The present government was making every effort to bring a naturally peaceful nation to a war-time footing, said Mr. McLarty. Conservative leader Manion had not advanced one suggestion to improve the Dominion's contribution to the conflict.

The government, being sniped at by the opposition who at the same time urged no election be called, decided not to ask for an extension of its five-year term. It was decided to place the question before the people to let them choose the party they wished to conduct Canada through the trying times to come.

Mr. McLarty reviewed steps taken by the government to cope with the war situation. Machinery already was well underway for the expansion of shipbuilding in Canada and for the establishment of the Empire air-training scheme.

The government also was working on plans for rehabilitation at the conclusion of hostilities.

Hon. W. D. Herridge, leader of the New Democracy Movement, opening a campaign in Saskatchewan which will last all this week, stated at North Battleford that Canada "is beaten" unless primary producers can achieve a decent standard of living for themselves and their families.

Pope's Godson

Count Lino Lipinsky, godson of Pope Pius XII is pictured here as he appeared shortly after arrival in New York from Rome. The count said that the Pope is working long hours on a new peace proposal but that no one thus far "has the least idea concerning his holiness' plans."

A recent report from Bucharest that Rumania would export only crude oil and no finished aviation gasoline was received with satisfaction here. Authorities explained this would put a further strain on German transport.

Since the war started, Rumania has been seen as a likely theatre of action in any extension of the war into the Balkans. Germany, which invaded the country in the First Great War, wants Rumanian oil and agricultural products. Russia claims the Rumanian province of Bessarabia.

To guard against any Russo-German state in that direction Allied troops have been concentrated in the Near East, and Turkey has pushed her military preparations.

Turks Threaten War.

"Turkey will enter the war the day a foreign power marches into the Balkans," the newspaper Yeni Sabah of Istanbul warned yesterday.

"If Germany attacks the Balkans, she will find us facing her on the side of the Allies, because such aggression would directly menace us.

"To reach Istanbul, it is necessary to cross the Balkans. Our country will not await her turn with folded arms while the Balkans are crushed. That is one mistake we shall not make."

In another attack on British shipping, German bombers ranged along the East Coast yesterday.

Attacks weer reported yesterday off the coasts of Northumberland, Norfolk, Lincolnshire, and Suffolk. Anti-aircraft gunfire was heard even on the outskirts of London, machine gun fire was hear din Essex, and there were widespread air alarms.

Only reported damage inflicted by the German airmen on ships was the sinking of the 172-ton trawler Lowestoft by a bomb. The crew was saved.

events had justified the widom of the former Conervative government in making contracts with Quebec companies. In December, Ontario Hydro was receiving 694,890 horsepower from these contracts, delivery being taken ahead of the terms of the original contracts. To-day's Hydro Electric reserves were hardly adequate. The position in Eastern Ontario was "critical" as far as future power needs were concerned.

If the St. Lawrence power development were proceeded with, Eastern Ontario should have a priority in having its needs filled, urged Mr. Challies. Great blocks of power should not be sent to Western Ontario before Eastern Ontario was satisfied.

Mr. Challies said the people of Ontario wanted to know:

1—Is the Hydro and the Ontario government committed to a single-stage scheme on the St. Lawrence and to further diversion at Chicago?

2—What chance have the municipalities adversely affected by these chances to enter a protest

3—What engineer or engineers or boards charged with any authority in this matter have signed recommendations or approvals of plans to the provincial and Dominion governments?

"As I have already intimated and want to again emphasize the people in Eastern Ontario are not opposed to the St. Lawrence river development but they cannot understand why, after unanimous recommendations of adjudicating bodies a two-stage scheme was recommended, there has been such a radical change of plans unsupported by any responsible adjudicating body," he said. "If there has been why not let us have the facts."

Mr. Challies was unsuccessful in drawing any statement from Premer Mitchell Hepburn concerning the project.

Cross Explains

What government had not gone much further than Ontario in public spending, asked Hon. Eric Cross, Minister of Municipal Affairs, who followed Mr. Challies. Neither British Columbia, Saskatchewan nor Alberta was solvent. The Dominion hadn't balanced its budget.

Opposition critics couldn't show where increased taxation wasn't necessary. The only way to realign the burden on real estate, bemoaned by the opposition, was to extend provincial taxation and then aid the municipalities.

"Great cries have come from them about the reduction of the municipal subsidy by one-half mill," he said. "We could, in fact, eliminate all this extra taxation by discontinuing the subsidy and other forms of assistance to the municipalities. Yet they would be the first to protest."

Capital debt of Ontario municipalities had been placed under rigid control through the municipal board. From 1934 to 1938 net debt was reduced by $85,000,000. Capitalization of relief expenditures by the municipalities had been stopped.

"The per capita municipal levy is lower than at any time in the past 15 years," he said. "The bogey of default is gone and with few exceptions in the 900 municipalities of this province there is hope and confidence in municipal economy."

Rev. A. W. Downer (Cons. Dufferin-Simcoe) urged retrenchment in provincial expenditures in order that the war might be more successfully prosecuted. Economy, maintenance of credit and preparation for a postwar works program should be the guiding policies of the province.

Work of the Ontario health department was outlined by Hon. Harold Kirby, the department minister.

Mr. Kirby said there was a general tightening up of the regulations resigned to check the spread of disease. In venereal disease control there was "a more rigid enforcement of the principle that a person suffering from such a disease was a free agent only so long as he continues to take the prescribed treatment."

The department's chief work was the prevention of disease, but the department was being compelled to assume a large share of the treatment of diseases, particularly tuberculosis.

Bensfort

Miss Mary Wood of New York, is spending a vacation at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Wood.

Miss Isobel Dawson visited Mrs. M. Hancock of Port Hope last week.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Howson were visitors to Warkworth on Friday.

Messrs. George and Harold Beebe were visitors to Toronto on Saturday.

Mr. John Emberson has returned home after being confined to Nicholls Hospital for several weeks. He is making satisfactory recovery.

A special meeting of the three churches on the Fraserville circuit, including Bensfort, Bailieboro and Fraserville was held at Bailieboro last week with five members each from Bensfort and Bailieboro being present, and none from Fraserville. The main business of the evening was the consideration of the resignation of the minister, Rev. F. Horton, which was accepted.

Mr. Fred Barnard moved a vote of thanks to Mr. Horton, which was seconded by Charles Barnard. Mr. Frank Lackey was appointed to attend the presbytery to be held in Peterborough should Mr. W. C. Wood not be able to attend.

Settle Action For $5,000 Against County

Acting upon a suggestion by Mr. Justice Hope at Supreme Court here yesterday, solicitors for plaintiffs and defendant in a civil action against the County of Peterborough yesterday afternoon reached an agreement during the noon recess and brought the hearing to an end. Both agreed to settle, and $5,000 and $700 costs were awarded to the five plaintiffs.

The action was brought by Mrs. Mary E. Wood, 79, of Melbourne, Manitoba; Miss Edith Wood, Keene; Mrs. Sarah Wood, Otonabee township, and Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Hastie, Otonabee township. It was the aftermath of an accident on the Keene road in December of 1938, in which four people were injured.

Mrs. Mary E. Wood asked for $5,000 damages; Mrs. Sarah Wood, $5,000; Miss Edith Wood, $15,000; Mrs. T. A. Hastie, $1,000, and Thomas A. Hastie $300. The settlement of $5,000 covers all their claims and will be divided by agreement between them.

T. J. Carley, K.C., appeared for the plaintiffs, and G. N. Gordon, K.C., for the defendant.

The agreement to settle out of court marked the second such ending to a trial within two days. In both cases Mr. Justice Hope had set the machinery of compromise in action. Only one divorce hearing went its full distance before the court and other cases scheduled for hearing were postponed on request of attorneys.

Nazi General Says Lack Of Tenacity Not One Of Britain's Weak Points

ZURICH, Switzerland, Feb. 21.—(CP-Havas). — The British people "have many weak points," but they "certainly do not have the one known as lack of tenacity," writes General Horst von Metsch, German military expert, in the Nazi newspaper Deutsche Adelsblatt, copies of which were received here yesterday.

"We are only at th beginning of the war," the German officer wrote. "At the most we are in its second phase—if you want to call the Polish prelude the first phase. This second phase is marked by many victories of German airplanes and submarines. But many ships still reach Great Britain daily.

"Moreover new construction and buying are beginning to compensate for losses inflicted on Allied shipping by our planes and submarines."

Warning that Great Britain may duplicate its feat of the first Great War by putting 1,000,000 men on the Western Front, Von Metsch said:

"Once the decision is taken the English will not have the least hesitation. Full realization of this project will take several years. The fact that they have already begun means to us that they have made up their minds to fight a long war.

"There is no need to believe Churchill's statistics, but we must not, on the other hand, underestimate the stubbornness of which the English are capable. Our adversary may have many weak points, but he certainly does not have the one known as lack of tenacity.

"The best thing to do, certainly, is to strengthen our own fighting power. That is the only constant in the war equation, and this is constant only in so far is the data on which it is based include no unknowns. The same is true of Enemy No. 2—France."

Fairview

A very enjoyable evening was held at the home of Miss Olive Bell on Monday evening when the Fairview Young People entertained their friends at a most enjoyable crokinole party. About forty people were present. Lunch was served at the close.

Messrs. George E. Mullen and J. Harold Lewis accompanied Mr. Stanley Darling of Peterborough to Lindsay on Saturday where they attended the annual meeting of the policy holders of the Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance Co. Others making the trip were Mr. Thompson Braden of Lakefield and Mr. Charles E. Moore of the Lindsay Highway.

The Fairview W.A. presented their place "The Red Headed Stepchild," in St. James United church, Peterborough, last Friday evening.

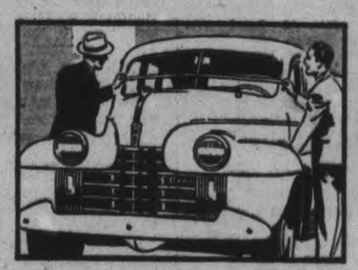
IT'S A BIGGER, BETTER CAR!

They're longer! All three series of Oldsmobiles are longer this year—longer than last year's big Oldsmobiles—longer than other cars of comparable price. Olds certainly gives you more car for your money in 1940.



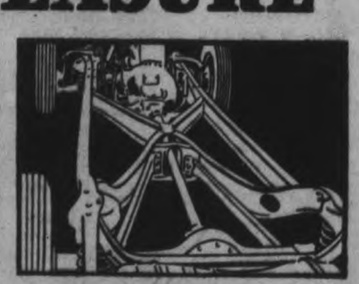
They're wider! Oldsmobile bodies are bigger in all dimensions. More Safety Glass area in windshield and windows increases visibility as well as safety. Even the lowest priced Olds is a finer, bigger car. You'll own it proudly!

They're roomier inside! Measure head room, leg room, and shoulder room. You'll find Olds is bigger and more comfortable, with plenty of space for three adult passengers in front or rear seats of every model in the new line.

ANY WAY YOU MEASURE

Big-car engine in low-priced "Sixty!" A big, 95 h.p. engine gives the Olds "Sixty" the most sensational all-round performance you'll find in any low-priced car—yet actually saves money on gas. Try it on the road!

New Sealed Beam Safety Headlamps! They provide 50 per cent more illumination for safer highway driving. The lens is sealed to the reflector, preventing dust and water from reaching the reflector surface.



Improved Rhythmic Ride! Olds is the lowest priced car with modern coil springs all around. Combined with Knee-Action and Four-Way Stabilization, they give you the world's smoothest, steadiest ride.

Boy Is Robbed Of Penny Bank; Gagged In Barn

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 21 (ENS)—A thief who fits into the category as being one of the meanest in the world, terrified a thirteen year old boy after dark last evening and robbed a penny bank of ten cents within the village limits.

Joe Coughlin, 13 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Coughlin, whose home is on Concession street near the Cement Works feeds the family cow every night about the same time. The animal is kept in a small stable some distance from the house, and when Joe entered the stable about nine Tuesday night, he was seized by a man who throttled his cries, stuffed a dirty rag as a gag in his mouth and blindfolded him. The intruder then marched the boy across two fields to a barn owned by Tom Heffernan, a neighbor.

When they reached the Heffernan barn, the man hoisted young Coughlin into the hayloft through an outside door and climbed up after him. Then he searched the boy's pockets and is believed to have obtained information from the boy as to the location of a pint jar which Joe Coughlin and his 13 year old pal, Don Heffernan were using as a bank.

The two boys were pooling their slim earnings to build up a fund for a camping trip next summer and had hidden their small bank, the jar, in Heffernan's hay loft.

Finding the jar, the intruder took a five cent piece and five coppers and left three cents behind. The total amount that had been saved so far was only thirteen cents, but thirteen cents which had been earned by the two boys are carefully placed in the bank as a start toward the expenses of that much talked of camping trip down the river.

After rifling the bank, the man dropped the boy down through a hay chute to the barn floor, climbed down after him, then after tearing the gag and blindfold from the lad's eyes he fled in darkness. The boy was uninjured except that the fingermarks where he had been choked by the man were still clearly visible on the boy's throat this morning.

Coughlin fled in terror to his home where he told his parents of the strange adventure. Constable Wallace Hendren of Lakefield was called in and made a thorough search of the section without results. There was plenty of evidence though to substantiate the young fellow's story, and the policeman hopes that today after the boy has recovered completely he may be able to give a good description of his assailant.

Croll's Man Out

WINDSOR, Ont., Feb. 21 — (CP). By a vote of 9-3 Windsor City Council last night dismissed ex-Controller George Bennett from his position of Assistant Market Clerk, effective March 31, and re-instated A. L. Moor as Park Commissioner, effective to-morrow.

Both decisions came as the insurgent group who hold a voting majority started to undo appointments and dismissals effected by Mayor David Croll, who lost his majority in the last civic elections.

The Mayor and two of his supporters were absent from the meeting.

Veterans Of 1914 Give $5,000 To Legion Appeal

OTTAWA, Feb. 21.— Into the Canadian Legion War Services campaign pot for half a million dollars to-day went $5,000—the gift of veterans of the First Great War to their younger comrades of the Second Great War.

The donation was received from members of the Pro Patria, Britannia, Naval, and Public Services branches of the Canadian Legion in Victoria, B.C.

This is just one of many instances that have occurred during the present campaign where Legion members themselves, exclusive of the general public, have dug into their own pockets for generous grants. The money will be used to continue the Legion's non-profit making program of education, personal services, entertainment and recreation for Canada's new fighting men.

Stranger Molests Lindsay Ladies

LINDSAY, Feb. 21 — (ENS). — Police here redoubled their efforts to capture a mysterious individual who has chased women and created considerable fear in the South Ward during the past two weeks. Reports are received from three young women, living in the South Ward, to the effect they have been frightened by the man who, in two cases, chased the women to their doors and in the third case was peeking through a window.

Liberal Women Meet.

Mrs. (Dr.) H. L. Logan was elected president of the Lindsay Liberal Women's Club at a meeting on Monday. On the executive with her are: Hon. Friday, March 1—Meeting in Parish Hall, Ennismore, with the same speakers.

Syl Apps, Toronto Maple Leafs' hockey star, who is a Manion candidate in Brant, has been invited to address a meeting of young electors here in the interest of Mr. Fraser. Apps is speaking at Bowmanville on Friday night in behalf of Ross Strike, Conservative candidate in Durham.

Omemee Man Is Kicked By Horse

OMEMEE, Feb. 21 (ENS). —William Morton, proprietor of the Commercial House, was kicked by a horse yesterday afternoon, and was believed to have suffered internal injuries. He was reported by Dr. George Montgomery this morning to have spent a restless night.

Prior to the death of his father more than two years ago, Mr. Morton was employed here as a blacksmith, but since taking charge of the hotel he did only occasional blacksmithing jobs to accommodate friends. A Western horse that had never had a shoe on it was brought to the shop yesterday, and Mr. Morton showed his ability by shoeing it without much difficulty. It was after he had finished the work that the horse suddenly kicked him on the head and back.

ELECTED VICE-PRESIDENT

George A. Elliott of Norwood was elected vice-president of the Ontario Cheese Producers' Association annual meeting in Ottawa last week. The president is George Gardiner of Seeley's Bay. The cheesemen affiliated their association with the Canadian Chamber of Commerce.

COUNTERFEIT MONEY.

Warning went out yesterday to Peterborough merchants to watch for counterfeit money. The bills are of two, five and twenty dollar denominations and are recognized by the fact that the portrait of the royal couple on their face, carried no expression whatever.

DATE ALREADY SET.

Adjutant Norman Buckley's application for permission for the Salvation Army to hold a tag day on Saturday, May 18, was before the Police Commission Tuesday. It was discovered that the date requested by the Salvation Army had already been allocated to the Canadian National Institute for the Blind. Adjutant Buckley will be asked to consult with the board in regard to another date.

COLLIDES WITH BUS.

A car driven by George R. Melton, 620 Charlotte street, came into collision with the rear end of a city bus, driven by Clifford Deck on Charlotte Street, near Water Street, Tuesday. The bus had stopped to accommodate passengers and Melton told the police that he had been unable to stop in time because of the icy road. His own vehicle was damaged to the extent of $50, while the bus was not damaged.

FURNACES IN OPERATION

The warm spell Peterborough is enjoying at the present time doesn't mean as much to officers and men of the Prince of Wales Rangers as it would have meant a month or more ago. For now when it's not too cold anyway, they have three huge furnaces on the floor of their drill hall to heat the huge building. The furnaces have been installed and are in operation.

SENTENCE APPEALED,

Attorney-General Conant has appealed against the sentences inflicted by Magistrate Campbell upon three youths charged with the hold-up of a service station operator at Welcome. These were the three who caused so much excitment here some time ago when one of them, Lloyd McPherson, was caught near Peterborough and the others escaped after a thrilling manhunt, only to be arrested soon after in Hamilton.

LIKES TAX REDUCTION.

"The city council did pretty well in giving us a 33-mill rate," a taxpayer commented to a reporter today. "I think they could have cut off another half mill without crippling municipal work, but on the whole it is a decided improvement. It means a saving of $40 to me from my 1939 tax bill, and on top of that I am relieved of $80 frontage tax on a pavement that has now been paid off. That makes my bill $120 less than last year."

BUS DRIVERS READY

Firemen learned with interest last night that the police force is not welshing in regard to a hockey game between the two uniformed forces. "But we notice," observed one of them, "that there is talk by coppers now that maybe there won't be enough ice by the time they get around to it. Just tell them from us to set a definite date for the battle, and if there is no ice we'll freeze a rink ourselves. We've done it before." And in case policemen aren't too anxious for the game, Ivan Fletcher has volunteered services of the city's bus drivers to match the firemen. It may come to that yet.

441 Auto Accidents Reported To Police Last Year Resulted In 4 Killed, 89 Hurt

"It looks as if things have been going very nicely and the police force has been alive to its duty," commented Magistrate E. A. Gee after perusing the annual report of the police department presented by Chief Constable Samuel Newhall at the regular meeting of the police commission Tuesday afternoon.

Mayor James Hamilton agreed that it was a very good record and that the condition of Peterborough, as shown by the report, was satisfactory. "Many of the cases," Mayor Hamilton noted, "were trivial matters."

Features of the chief constable's report included the statement that there were 441 automobile accidents on city streets last year, resulting in injury to 89 persons and death to four, and the interesting fact that 16 of the 19 automobiles reported stolen during 1939 had been recovered.

Chief Newhall also stated that during the year goods to the value of $17,482.80 had been stolen and the police had been successful in recovering $13,826.30.

The complete report, which was Chief Newhall's twentieth annual, follows:

Many Cases Prosecuted.

The police department prosecuted 910 cases during the year 1939 and collected $3,696.30 in fines and costs. More than 300 were warned not to repeat for minor and first offences, such as boys and girls of tender years, and slight breaches of the by-laws.

15,604 calls to this office were answered and investigated.

202 doors and windows were found insecure, the owners were notified and premises were made secure.

21 fire alarms were responded to and several of them investigated on complaint of the Fire Chief.

1,404 lodgers were given shelter and in some cases meals supplied.

25 lost children were picked up on the streets or handed to the police by citizens and returned to their parents or placed in the children's Shelter.

338 summons were served and 23 arrests were made for other police departments during the year.

40 homes were visited thrice nightly while the owners were away on vacation and were found to be in order on their return.

The Traffic Record.

There were 441 automobile accidents reported during the past year, resulting in injury to 89 persons, four of which were fatal, all of which were investigated and where necessary special reports were sent to the registrar of motor vehicles, Toronto.

19 automobiles were stolen, valued at $7,400.00 and 16 were recovered, valued at $7,200.00.

161 bicycles were stolen, valued at $2,945.00 and 123 were recovered, valued at $2,208.00.

During the past year goods of all classes were stolen valued at $17,482.800 and through the untiring efforts of the police $13,826.30 of same was accounted for and a large percentage of the offenders were brought to justice.

Offences During Year.

Assault (wife or other female), 7; Assault (causing actual bodily harm), 7; assault (common), 10; assault (indecent), 4; assault (police officer) 10; attempted suicide, 4; breach barbers' by-law, 1; breach city by-law, 8; breach Customs Act, 6; breach Children's Protection Act, 1; breach dog by-law, 10; breach Farm Produce Act, 1; breach Game and Fisheries Act, 1; breach Grades and Sales Act, 1; breach Highway Traffic Act, 69; breach Indian Act, 6; breach Liquor Control Act (Ontario), 251; breach Liquor Control Board regulations, 6; breach Opium and Narcotic Drug Act, 1; breach Peddlers' By-law, 2; breach Public Healths' Act, 2; breach Radio and Telegraphy Act, 18; breach Shops and Buildings Act, 1; breach Traffic By-law, 155; cruelty to animals, 1; drunk in charge of a car, 18; escape from lawful custody, 1; false pretence, 9; found in disorderly house, 36; indecent act, 1; keeping disorderly house, 4; mentally ill, 4; non-payment of wages, 4; non-support, 10; obstruct police officer, 2; possession of burglar tools, 1; possession instrument for coining, 1; receiving stolen goods, 5; reckless driving, 16; robbery while armed, 4; shop-breaking and theft, 22; shop-breaking with intent, 7; theft, 68; theft of automobile, 8; theft of use of a car, 1; uttering forged document, 1; vagrancy, 97; wilful damage, 2. Total 910.

Radio.

During 1939 the two way radio was installed in this city and up to the present has given excellent results. If citizens do their part in communicating by phone with the police station (dial 3536 or 3536) instantly, anything of a suspicious nature by loiterers, beggars and other offenders, they need not be disturbed and good result may be obtained.

The prowler car takes in all the city at night and is in immediate touch with the police station at all times. Sometimes both cars are out, but as a rule car number 2 is mostly used for day work, therefore the public need not hesitate about putting in calls, even though an arrest is not made, that is for the police to deal with.

Traffic.

This ever increasing problem showed marked improvement after the passing of the traffic by-law and signs erected and painted strips where completed, after due warnings, 156 were prosecuted for infringments of said by-law.

Recommendations.

I recommend that an additional police constable be appointed to enable me to give the men one day or night off in seven, and especially for relief purposes, viz., traffic and beat duties.

Further that the present motorcycle be dispensed with and a new one purchased.

All has been provided for in the estimates already passed by the Board of Police Commissioners and sent to the city council.

In conclusion allow me to express my appreciation of the kindly co-operation which has been extended to me by the Police Commissioners, the City Council, the members of the legal profession, the Children's Aid Society, the Provincial Police and the loyal support of the members of the police force, including the police matron.

I have the honour to be,
Your obedient servant,
SAMUEL NEWHALL,
Chief Constable.

As the estimates, although passed by the Finance committee, have still to go before the Council, no action was taken by the commission at Tuesday's meeting in regard to the recommendations made by the Chief Constable.

Elmhurst Charged Careless Driving

Although defence counsel, W. B. Gordon, voiced a protest against the delay, a charge against Charles Elmhirst, Otonabee, of careless driving was adjourned for a week by Magistrate G. A. Langley, K.C., in traffic court this morning.

The charge originated in a recent accident on Highway 7 in which cars driven by Elmhirst and W. J. Murphy of Norwood met in collision and Elmhirst received severe lacerations on the face and head.

When the case was called this morning and Provincial Traffic Officer McClure informed the court that he was not ready to go on, Mr. Gordon, who appeared for Elmhirst, complained. "I have four witnesses here and I am all ready to proceed," he said. "I think we should not have to pay the cost of these witnesses."

Magistrate Langley, in adjourning the case for a week, said the expense caused the defence by reason of the case not being heard today would receive consideration.

Garnet Cox pleaded guilty to careless driving and was fined $5 and $2.50 costs.

It was explained to the court that Cox's truck had struck another truck that was loading at the Canada Packers plant and the defendant had paid the costs involved.

Cutter Upset Injects Familiar Note Of Past Into Quiet 91st Birthday Celebration

Mrs. R. A. Dobbin of North Monaghan is reported as saying that anyway Tuesday was a fine day for a cutter ride, even if she was tossed into a snow bank on the way to her sister's home to visit her mother, who was ninety-one years old yesterday.

The outing up to the Brealey's School Line was undertaken by the horse and cutter, means of travel which are so highly extolled in the memories of the older neighbors. The comfort and safety and other qualities of the cutter are simply not what they are cracked up to be, Mrs. Dobbin is probably admitting to-day. She hadn't driven in a cutter for a long time, and is not keen about ever getting in one again. However, in other respects than the incident of being suddenly doused into deep snow the little cross-country jaunt was quite enjoyable. Spring was in the air in advance of the calendar. Mrs. Jane Elmhirst on her ninety-first birthday was happy in the company of her two daughters, and laughed with them at Mrs. Dobbin's account of the sudden flight of her dignity as she scrambled into the soft snow. Somehow it seemed to project a familiar note of the past into the quiet little domestic celebration of a day that was very long ago and of the years that followed it up to the time the automobile came and changed people's habits of travel and ideas of speed and such things.

War Bulletins

Received By Examiner Over Canadian Press Leased Wire

LONDON.—(CP).— Reuters News Agency reported to-day that Finnish military authorities in Helsinki officially denied the Russian assertion that the coastal fort of Koivisto had been captured.

AMSTERDAM. — (AP).— Anti-aircraft batteries fired on foreign planes of unknown nationality last night near Denhelder, a Netherlands naval base, a communique announced to-day.

LONDON—(CP) — "Token" estimates totalling £1,100 to finance expansion of 11 branches of the Royal Air Force were issued by the government to-day. As authorized under the system introduced by the treasury Tuesday, undivulged amounts may be spent for the various defence services following parliamentary approval of £100 "token" credits.

PARIS.—(AP).— The Army High Command's morning communique to-day reported:

"Infantry and artillery fire at various points of the front, notably i nthe Voges mountains and along the Rhine."

CONCARNEU, France.—(AP). — The 933-ton Norwegian steamer Ala sank to-day after striking a wreck near Clenans Islands, off the coast of Brittany. The crew of the ship, enroute from Spain to the Netherlands, was rescued.

LONDON.— (CP).— The 268-ton German trawler Herr Lichkeit, captured by the Royal Navy, was brought into a Scottish port to-day and the crew interned.

PARIS.—(CP-Havas)— Genevieve Tabouis, writing in the newspaper L'Oeuvre, reported to-day that Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop will visit Rome some time in the near future for consultation with Premier Mussolini and Foreign Minister Galeazzo Ciano of Italy.

The commentator said the German Foreign Minister would go to Rome ostensibly to visit a Nazi exhibition arranged by the Germany colony there.

Costly U.S. Currency

LONDON—(CP)—Captain George W. Tailby of Skeffington, Leicestershire, was fined £100 ($445) and £20 costs in Bow street police court today for failing to offer $20,000 in United States currency in his possession for sale to the treasury, in accordance with wartime regulations. It was the first case of its kind since the foreign currency regulations went into effect.

BERNE, Switzerland—(CP-Havas) —Mgr. Cesare Orsenigo, papal nuncio at Berlin, called at the Wilhemtrasse Tueday to discuss the status of the Catholic Church in Poland, the National Zeitung of Basle reported today.

He was received by State Secretary Baron Ernst von Weizsaecker, the Swiss newspaper said.

LONDON.— (CP)— The 2,476-ton Norwegian steamship Steinstad was sunk in the Atlantic Thursday by a submarine, and 13 of her crew are missing, 11 survivors reported today when they landed in a disabled motorboat on an island off the Irish coast.

They said the submarine followed their ship all Wednesday night before attacking. The missing men were in a rowboat that drifted away when a towline to the motorboat parted.

NEW YORK.—(AP)—A total of $300,000 raised within a week to buy armaments for Finland is to be turned over today to the Finnish minister at Washington by Major-Gen. John O'Ryan, national chairman of the fighting funds for Finland, Incorporated. O'Ryan said response to the campaign to raise $10,000,000 for Finland's military defences was "almost instantaneous."

Two Men Charged Theft Of Overcoats

As the result of the disappearance of an overcoat from the court house Tuesday, Aurel Valee was charged in police court this morning with stealing the garment, the property of some person unknown, and pleaded guilty.

"I am asking for a remand for a few days for sentence," said Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., "That will give the police a chance to look up his record."

Valee, alias LaPerle, was accordingly remanded until February 26.

Thomas Gorman, also charged with the theft of the overcoat, pleaded not guilty, in a somewhat indignant tone and said that he was ready to go on with the trial. "I didn't steal any overcoat," he said.

He, too, was remanded until February 26.

Two other men, who had been in company with the other pair on Tuesday, according to Chief Constable Newhall, pleaded guilty to drunk charges and were fined $10 and $4.50 costs or ten day in jail. They will be guests of the county bastille until the latter end of next week.

Call To Businessman

TORONTO, Feb. 21 — (CP). — A call to Canadian businessmen to do their part in the war "in the same spirit which is shown by our youths at the front," was sounded last night by C. W. Colby of Montreal before the annual convention banquet of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce here. The three-day convention ends to-day with election of officers and luncheon.

Italy has a shortage of chorus girls.

Allan T. Brown Suggested As Fair Manager

Allan T. Brown is reported to be the likely choice of the Peterborough Exhibition board for the position of supervising manager which has been proposed in recent years and is now approaching the point of decision.

This development is being influenced by the necessity of acquiring office quarters, a forward step that was approved at the last meeting of the directors. It was then explained that the files, correspondence and books of the Exhibition were scattered around in several places, some of them occupying space in the office of Sheriff Harstone. As the Exhibition has been expanding and the work increasing, the directors realized that it was only a short time until they had to obtain permanent office quarters they could call their own.

The new office is located in the Toronto Savings and Loan building. It is equipped with a vault and has sufficient accommodation for board meetings. In the meantime the proposal to engage a permanent official to look after the growing business of the Exhibition has been discussed, and it is understood that the position has been offered to Mr. Brown.

5 Dogs Drowned Otonabee River

Five dogs, variety and owners at present unknown, were drowned in the Otonabee River Tuesday afternoon when they broke through the thin ice near the foot of Sherbrooke street and met a watery death before help could reach them. Kenneth T. Shadgett of Sugden and Shadgett was an eye-witness of the mass drowning.

"The dogs," he told the Examiner today," were playing around the ice. I did not pay much attention to them at first until I noticed them getting close to where I knew the ice was thin. Then just as I expected three of the dogs broke through and shortly after the other two fell into the hole. We tried to get help but the ice was too thin for any one to venture out on it and they drowned long before we could have found a boat."

Mr. Shadgett said he was unable to say just what breeds of dogs were included in the five victims.

There were two or three white ones and none of them was exceptionally large, he said, but beyond that he could not describe the canines. They were nearly in the middle of the river when they broke through the ice.

Traffic Officers Watch Splashers

Traffic officers state that motorists who like to celebrate the arrival of spring thaws by driving blithely through pools of water on the street and sprinkling the clothing of pedestrians they pass had better watch their step.

The careless driving section of the Ontario Highway Traffic Act covers such inexcusable conduct and the police threaten to invoke its provisions every time they get a chance. The section makes it an offence to drive in a manner showing lack of consideration for others and that fits right in with the habit of needlessly drenching innocent bystanders.

From now on drivers would be well advised to slow up when they are navigating street puddles if pedestrians happen to be in the neighborhood. Otherwise the victims are likely to turn in the car numbers to the police and a careless driving charge will follow.

War Services Canvassers Report $3,664.80

A four day extension in the campaign to raise $5,000 for Canadian Legion War Services was announced Tuesday night by Col. J. A. Dewart, M.C., when incomplete returns revealed the canvassers were still $1,336 short of their objective.

The total in cash and pledges announced in last night's round-up was $3,664.80 but this does not give a true picture of the results as no returns have yet been made from the factories which the leaders confidentially believe will add $1,000 to the fund. Another factor which had considerable bearing on the results was the inability of several canvassers to complete their work, and these men felt that given four more days in which to work would change the picture entirely.

Col. Dewart pointed out that those people canvassed had given splendid support to the appeal, and if the balance of the cards give the same returns returns the success of the campaign is assured.

Division No. 1 headed by Lt. Col. R. T. E. Hicks-Lyne turned in the largest sum at last night's meeting, accounting for $770.25. Team captains in this division are Jim Turnbull, E. Clark, H. J. Clifton, George Nicholls, Al. Sharpe, R. J. Bolton, and E. L. Sackville. Division No. 2, headed by Jim Wharry, turned in $443.75, and the team captains are Graham Eastwood, Paige Rowell, Vern Selkirk, M. J. Roche, F. Pope, Dave Diplock and A. Clarke. John McKone's No. 3 division added $649.50 to the total with C. B. Shaver's team turning in the highest team total, $221.50. The other team captains are Dr. J. J. Craig, Chas. Elliott, Gordon Armstrong, W. A. Richardson, J. A. Bradshaw and F. S. Potter.

Gordon Matthews, reporting for the special names committee, said the total collected, all of which was cash, totalled $1,097.50, and Doug. Loomis reported the collection of $703.80. Lt. Col. Ackerman said that a report would be available from the factories by the end of the week.

FASHIONS

The classic style that every woman likes best is here with new 1940 lines. It has a four-gored skirt that is pretty and feminine in its flare. Soft fullness at the shoulders and an action back make it the ideal sports dress whether you play golf or are just a spectator on the clubhouse porch. For those who like tailored clothes best, this is an ideal frock to wear about the house, too. Then, if you are going south or are planning a cruise, be sure you have this dress, made either with or without the roomy pockets, ready to pack into your trunk.

Style No. 3146 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 36 requires 3¾ yards of 39-inch material for the short-sleeved dress.

Address Is Given On Public Speaking

"Essentials for Effective Public Speaking" was the subject of an informative and well-delivered address by Mr. O. Benson, Culture Convener, at a meeting of Knox Y.P.U. Tuesday evening. Two other members, Mr. Wm. McKinlay and Miss Marjory Lewis, were apt pupils in a closing demonstration of proper speaking.

The convener also conducted the devotional service, assisted by Miss Helen Ward, Miss Betty Allen and Miss Margaret Gertley.

Mr. Stuart Laing, president, was in charge of the business period, at which plans were made for a debating contest, and progress was reported in dramatic enterprises.

Miss Marjory Lewis conducted the recreational period which closed the meeting.

FOR ROMPING GAILY

By ALICE ALDEN

THE TIRELESS teens as well as their baby sisters are pinafore enthusiasts. Off on a holiday or for sunny days ahead, they're choosing such gay little frocks—and inexpensive, too—as today's, for romping anywhere outdoors. An underblouse of solid chambray is combined with stripes in several color schemes, with tan, copen or rose for the background. The skirt is gathered all around and ties in a bow in back. With shorts, this frock is a good bicycling number. Add a petticoat and it's smart for going to market. In fact, the very young housewife will prefer such styles to the obviously kitchen variety.

Socks Often Cast On Too Tightly

Every woman who can knit at all is going to do as much as she can for all the services, but sometimes her zeal is greater than her knowledge. A little bird whispers that all the organizations have to keep expert knitters working at nothing but repairs—one group reporting 500 pairs of socks in need of adjustments. Naturally this slows up the dispatch of badly needed articles to the men at the front, so here are some suggestions to the knitters who are so anxious to help and whose work could be so much more valuable than it is.

Socks otherwise perfect are often cast on too tightly. All socks should have a spread of at least seven inches at the top, and one suggestion made by an accomplished knitter is to use a much larger needle for casting on and then change to the regular needles for the leg of the sock. The same authority again emphasized that there must be no knots in the work. If you don't know how to join wool, lay the two ends together and knit double for an inch or two. That's the easiest way. Another hint is that much trouble would be saved if in picking up the heel, knitters would be sure to get the outer part of the stitch and not the inner, as his causes a ridge.

How about cutting this out and keeping it in your knitting bag? We all want to do our utmost to help and this information should be useful in enabling you to keep your work at the highest point of service.

When the Husband Is Able to Properly Support a Wife She Will Create Greater Happiness for Him by Seeing He Has a Comfortable Place in Which to Live

Getting married is a much more complicated adventure for a girl nowadays than it used to be. When Grandma entered the holy estate all she had to do was to pick out which one of her suitors looked best to her and tie up with him. But the modern girl only too often has to decide between her man and her job, and when she loves both she is on the fence and doesn't know which way to jump.

One of these bewildered young women has been telling me of her dilemma. She is a well-paid private secretary. She likes her work and finds it fascinatingly interesting. She enjoys the dressing up and going downtown in a morning; the routine of the office, wondering who she will see and what will happen; the thrill of watching the boss pull off a big deal and having her small part in it; the excitement of being in a crowd and touching shoulders with people all day.

But she is engaged to a fine young man who makes enough for them to live on comfortably and who believes that woman's place is in the home, and who tells her positively that when she marries him she must give up her job and go domestic. The girl doesn't want to do this. She wants to keep on with her secretaryship. She prefers a mahogany desk to a gas range, and she is afraid she will be bored just shut up in her own house all day. She doesn't like the thought of giving up her individual money, nor does she like the thought of giving up the boy friend either, so what's a poor girl to do?

Being old-fashioned and still believing that, in the long run, marriage is the best career that a girl can espouse, I would say chuck the job and grab the man, and thank God you are getting a husband who is willing to take on himself the responsibility of supporting a family, instead of leaving it to Georgians to do it.

When a boy and girl are desperately in love with each other and he is not making enough for them to live on, it is a fine thing for her to add her salary to his so that they can marry while their love is still fresh and ardent and before their romance become bedraggled and worn out with long waiting. Also, when a man is sick and unable to work, or when he cannot earn enough to support his family, it is a noble and heroic thing for the wife to put her shoulder to the wheel and help pull the domestic load that her husband is too weak to drag alone. But these are exceptions to the general rule that the husband should make the dough and the wife should bake it. This is the division of labor ordained by nature when it made men the stronger and laid upon women the burden of child-bearing, and we flout it at our peril.

There are many reasons why the woman who does not need to work outside of her own home should give up her job when she marries. One is that it starts the young husband out on the right foot by putting upon him not only the responsibility of being the head of the family, but it fills him with a pride of being the one from whom all blessings flow. Nothing fires a man's ambitions so much as having his wife look up to him and be dependent on him, and nothing kills it and lowers his morale so quickly as his being dependent on her.

Another reason is that one of the things that men marry for is to get a home. They want to come home at night to a place where there is light, warmth and cheer, a good dinner smoking on the table and a smiling woman to welcome them. Consequently they feel gypped when they return, tired and hungry, to a dark and silent house where they will have to wait an hour or so for a wife who has been detained at the office, and who will feed them on the contents of a couple of cans.

Still another reason why a woman should concentrate on domesticity when she marries is because it is the best known device for holding a husband. He wants to be his wife's chief interest, not her job. He wants her to use all of her diplomacy in handling him, not her boss. He wants her to be rested so she will be ready to play with him if he feels like it, not so worn out with her day at the office she is too tired to put one foot before the other. And above all, he doesn't want to have to take the brunt of all the nerves and irritations and temper she has had to suppress in business all day.

Making a home is a one-woman job. It takes all that any woman has of brain and brawn to make a success of it, and when she messes it up with another job outside of the home she generally falls in both.

Dilemma of Young Girls and Cosmetics

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I am 14 and my mother is very much opposed to my using lipstick and only allows me to do it on very important occasions, and then is quite unhappy about it. She gives no reason for her dislike of this habit, and she has agreed to abide by your opinion on the subject.—P. S.

Answer: I think that the use of cosmetics is a virtue and not a sin, provided they are put on artistically. Certainly a sallow complexion is improved by a discreet application of powder and rouge. So are pale lips by a little judicious use of lipstick.

It is the abuse and not the use that is objectionable. Your mother would not probably disapprove of your delicately tintink your lips, but it disgusts her to see a girl with her mouth all daubed up with red paint until it looks like a slice of bloody meat.—DOROTHY DIX.

Well-Written Letters Help You to Success

Learn Easy Writing Rules

The very job she has been looking for. How she hopes for an interview! But will her application win only a blank silence—as has happened so often before?

Probably—if her letter is poorly composed, full of such crudities as "ad" for "advertisement." Employers will think her ill-educated, unintelligent.

In the first paragraph give your reason for writing: "My training fits me for the work you describe in your advertisement—" Then give education and age in the third, references in the fourth. Put your request for an interview in the fifth.

Amazing how all your letters improve with a few pointers. Writing to a friend, keep a picture of her in mind. Then your letter won't bore with stiff "I trust you are well's," but will have a me-to-you quality, "How are those rosy cheeks"?

Our 32-page booklet has dozens of tips on letter etiquette, vocabulary, English, how to make your letters bright, interesting, successful. Gives many samples of business, social letters—easy to adapt to your own needs.

Send 15c in coins or stamps for your copy of GOOD LETTER-WRITING MADE EASY to Examiner, Home Service, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS and the NAME of booklet.

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Thursday, February 22.

Peculiar, irregular and conflicting testimonies are found in this day's astral auguries. There may be strange adventures in business, as well as intellectual and personal contacts. And while erratic and singular urges seem to invite these, there is much stability and sound incentive to counteract real danger. A stern application to work would prove an escape.

Those whose birthday it is may encounter a year of stability and substantial progress if they will hew to the old traditional lines, as there are certain curious, eccentric or unorthodox propensities to combat with good sense and the wise counsel of elders. The social and romantic aspects are under this peculiar influence, which, properly governed, may prove constructive and end thrillingly.

A child born on this day, while having a studious, profound and responsible nature, may be assailed by side issues of quixotic, revolutionary or even destructive tendencies. Early and sound training would switch such creative propensities into progressive lines.

Millbrook Personals

The Young People's Society of the Centreville Presbyterian Church were guests of the similar society of Grace Presbyterian Church, Millbrook, on Thursday evening, the president of the hostess organization, Miss Margaret Armstrong, having a general oversight of the program, assisted by the other officers and members. Games, contests and the service of refreshments, with a short opening worship period, rounding out a most enjoyable occasion.

Reeve W. E. and Mrs. Bail, Mr. Andrew Fisher and his mother, of Cobourg, were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Reg. Armstrong, on Sunday evening.

Miss Bernice Smith, student at the University of Toronto, and her cousin, Miss Annabelle McNeil, who is attending Business College at Peterborough, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Smith.

The local School Board, at its February meeting, on motion of F. Stinson and J. E. Allen, approved the requisition for maintenance and debentures amounting to $3,693.30, received from the United Counties of Durham and Northumberland, and ordered same to be forwarded to the counties' treasurer.

Bolivia is building up a fund to care for any economic trouble arising from a cessation of hostilities in Europe.

"TELL BILL GOODBYE"

By Marie Blizard

CHAPTER FORTY-SEVEN

A ROOSTER crowed loudly in the yard back of an old-fashioned house set far back from the road where Fabienne Seymour, with her coat collar turned up and her hair tucked under her hat, sat beside the driver's seat of a white milk truck. The driver had disappeared around back of the porch of the old house.

He came back a few minutes later and got in beside her. "Where'd you want to get off?" he asked, giving her a sidewise look and wondering why he never picked up any good looking ones. This one's face was streaked and her coat was crumpled and soiled from oil and smoke and smudge.

"Just anywhere in the center of town. I—I'll hang around until the garage opens and I can get help to go get my car."

"Tough luck. Bin drivin' all night?"

She nodded. Casually, she said, "You ought to know all the folk around this village. I used to know a man who was an amateur—er—radio fan He had a sending station around here some place. Met him in Danbury at a dance once."

"Sure. Joe Willis. He got a prize last year for doing some rescue work when the lines were down. He lives up the road a piece."

"That's the one! Where does he live?"

"The little red house next to the Congregational church."

"The Congregational church? That's on the green?" she asked, hoping that the town had the usual New England green.

"Right."

Fabenne didn't say anything until they got near the village and she saw the spires of the churches through the barren branches of the trees.

"You can let me off any place here," she said then.

"It'll be pretty cold waiting. The garage don't open until eight.'

"Oh. I don't mind," she said heartily. "Maybe I can rouse somebody."

Rousing anyone was what she did not want to do. She didn't want to see anyone. All she wanted to do was find a heavy stone and complete her operations unseen.

"Don't take any wooden nickels," the milk driver told her.

She promised she wouldn't, waved gaily to him and watched his truck out of sight. Then she struck off across the green for the little red house beside the Congregational church, keeping an eye out for a large stone.

She found a brick, the best of all missles, and felt for the string and piece of paper in her pocket.

Back of the trunk of a large tree she furtively fastened the paper to the brick and tied it firmly with string. Then she skirted the front and side of the red cottage, praying she'd meet no one, that no one in the house was yet awake.

Providence was with her. There was neither sight nor sound of a human being when she broke the glass in what she took to be a kitchen window and dropped the brick through, hearing it fall on the floor.

Ellen brushed the last traces of her afternoon sleep from her eyes and went into the living room where Nicky and Bill were keeping watch by the radio. "Mike Kennedy should be on now," she told them. "He's on WHBH."

The commentator had already started his broadcast. When they found him on the dial, he was saying. " . . . none of the usual crank letters with clues, suggestions and false leads that usually flood police headquarters, newspaper and radio offices. For that reason, this station is inclined to agree with the amateur operator who telephoned this station a short time ago to report an incident which may have some bearing on the Parsons case."

A few minutes ago a telephone call was received by WHBH. We quote the following conversation word for word.

"WHBH? Let me talk to the chief engineer. 'Garson speaking, chief engineer.' "Garson, this is Joe Willis, WLBS, Banbury, Connecticut." "Go ahead Willis. What's on your mind?" "Something I thought might have a connection with the Parsons mystery. The police think they still might be near New York. Well, a little while ago I found a message wrapped around a brick that had been thrown in my kitchen?" "Hold the wire, Willis. I'll write it down. Okay, go ahead." "It's kinda funny, Garson, but here goes: 'Get this message on networks. Matter of life and death. Message is for Bill—just Bill. Tell him he's needed where apple butter was made.' Repeat: 'Tell Bill he's needed where apple butter was made!' No name, no address. That's all."

That, ladies and gentlemen, concludes the message. If Bill is listening—"

Bill was no longer listening; he was on his feet, issuing orders, struggling into his coat, shouting. "Ellen, you get things ready here. Bartlett, get Parsons on the phone and tell him to be ready for me when I pick him up. Don't tell him—or anyone else—anything at all!"

Chris said, "Do you think—"

Fabienne shook her head helplessly. "I'm afraid not. It's twelve hours since I left the message. It seems as if—"

Chris said, "I hear an automobile!"

Fabienne ran to the window and saw the twin lights appearing over the hill, coming closer. The car was slowing up in front of the house!

"The police?" Chris breathed in a terror-stricken whisper.

"No! I recognize the car. It's Bill!" Fabienne stumbled a little in her eagerness to reach the door, hearing his voice. Her knees folded under her and she sat on the end of Sonny's cot, a step from the door which was opening.

"Chris Are you here? . . . Darling!"

And beside her, mountainous, strong and more wonderful than the sight of angels, was Bill!

That, Fabienne thought, was the moment for her to stand up and begin explaining. But Fabienne stayed where she was and her face wrinkled up in a most unattractive way and she began to cry.

Bill said, "Here, blow your nose, and stop that racket. I want to hear what this girl is saying."

His words were curt, but his arm around her shoulder gave her strength and, if she'd dared look at him, she would have seen that he was smiling tenderly.

Chris was talking, lucidly, clearly, bravely, telling them what she had done.

"It's not your fault, Chris. It's all mine. There's nothing to worry about," Larry told her, shakily. "Dad's had a good fright. He'll fix the police. And with Mallory's story to back you up there's no trouble ahead."

Fabienne: "Bill, what did you do?"

"Nothing much, my sweet. I said I HAD discharged Sonny and forgot to notify the hospital authorities. That's all."

"ALL!" she said, with her eyes growing troubled. "Oh, Bill! That's a dreadful mark against you. Why, oh why, did you do it?"

"What else could I do?" he said simply. "I had to do it."

"But you didn't!"

"I did," he repeated. "You see, it's this way, Fab. I'm in love with you."

There wasn't, there simply wasn't anything she could say. She began to tremble, shaking the cot on which they sat.

"Here, here, this will never do! You've got to get back to town before you get pneumonia. Don't try to talk, darling," he said, wrapping her in a blanket and picking her up as easily and tenderly as if she were a child.

OBITUARY

HERBERT TREMAIN

The funeral of the late Herbert Tremain was held Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock from the residence at 360 Parkhill Road to Little Lake Cemetery.

Rev. Dr. E. W. Young, who conducted the service, referred to the long connection the deceased had had with St. Andrew's Church. He had been a regular worshipper most of his life, and was deeply interested in the spiritual welfare of the congregation. He brought up his family with an interest in the active work and life of the church, and most of them are helping in the various organizations.

Mr. Tremain, he said, was a quiet, God-fearing man who had borne a long illness with the utmost patience and submission to the divine word.

Pall bearers were George Tremain and William Tremain, brothers of the deceased, Thomas Forsythe, Arthur Nelson, James Davidson, Jack Heffernan, and W. W. Cole, honorary pall bearer.

MRS. ELIZABETH ANN RUTTER

Death came yesterday to Mrs. Elizabeth Ann Rutter, widow of Andrew Rutter, at the home of her son, Andrew Rutter, 554 Downie street. In her 80th year, Mrs. Rutter died after an illness that lasted three weeks.

She was born in Ringley, Lancashire, England, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Dorning, and came to Peterborough from England 14 years ago. She was a member of St. John's Anglican Church here.

Mrs. Rutter was a woman of strong character, who bore her illness with Christian fortitude. She leaves a wide circle of friends in this city.

Surviving are two sons, Andrew Rutter of Peterborough, and John Rutter of Bolton, Lancashire, England; and three daughters, E[illegible] and Alice Rutter in Bolton, and Cl[illegible] Rutter in Derby, England.

The funeral will be held on Thursday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock from the Funeral Home of Arthur W. Belleghem, 611 George street north; Rev. Canon W. P. Robertson of St. John's Anglican Church officiating. Interment will be at Little Lake cemetery.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

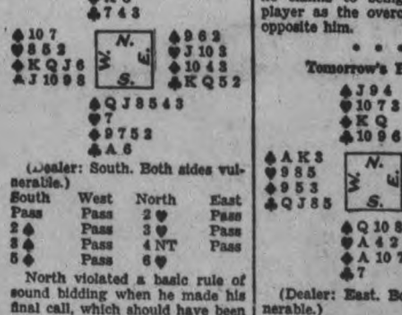
WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

YOU'RE NOT THAT GOOD

YOU MAY be a somewhat better player of the cards than your partner. But, if you think you can get better results in the wrong contract than he can in the right one, you probably are making a bad mistake. Unless he is a terrific waster of tricks, your pair is usually better off in the soundly bid spot. Trying to throw the play of the hand to the stronger member of the pair has undoubtedly cost the loss of many more good scores than it has gained.



(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	2♥	Pass
2♠	Pass	3♥	Pass
3♠	Pass	4 NT	Pass
5♦	Pass	6♥

North violated a basic rule of sound bidding when he made his final call, which should have been 6-Spades. A suit with something in both hands makes a safer trump than one bunched in a single hand. The greatest player in the world could not have made the heart slam against East's lead of the club K.

North took the lead in dummy. He knew the defenders would lead a trump at him if he repeated the club in hope of a ruff, so simply took his beating. He dropped the trumps, took the high spades and diamond A, but had to lose three tricks at the end because he could not get into dummy to use the spades.

Had North bid 6-Spades, or even 7-Spades, the contract would have been easy. Regardless of what West led, South could have walked in, even though he made no claims to being as great a player as the overconfident man opposite him.

Tomorrow's Problem

(Dealer: East. Both sides vulnerable.)

After East bids 1-Heart, South 1-Spade, West 1-No Trump, North 2-Spades, East doubles and West leads the heart 9, how should South plan the play?

Fleet Chief Flies To Murmansk, See Trade Threat

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 22 — (AP). Swedish military authorities, it was announced to-day, have issued new instructions to all anti-aircraft units to fire on any military planes flying over Swedish territory.

The orders followed the bombing of Pajala by Russian planes yesterday which brought indignant demands in the Swedish press that a protest to Moscow be followed by insistence on compensation and assurances against a repetition.

Military experts continued investigations of the bombing.

Under government orders to protest yesterday's aerial bombardment of the town five miles from the Finnish border, Vilhelm Assarsson, Minister to Moscow, was received at the Kremlin late yesterday by the Russian Premier, Vyacheslaff Molotoff.

"Sweden never was the object of such serious violation of her neutrality either during the last war or the present one," declared the Conservative newspaper Svenska Dagbladet.

"If the bombing was unintentional, steps must be taken to avoid repetition of such mistakes."

No injuries to any of the 3,000 residents of Pajala were reported, but a number of buildings were demolished.

The bombs were believed to have been intended for nearby Finnish territory, but the incident brought predictions that the Swedish "Activist" movement for vigorous aid to Finland would gain new impetus.

Murmansk Threatened.

The newspaper Aftonbladet reported that Admiral Nikolai Kuznetzoff, Soviet naval commissar, flew from Moscow to Murmansk today following reports that British naval vessels were cruising off Finland's Arctic shore.

The Stockholm paper's despatch from Moscow said the commissar intended to inspect the Russian Arctic navy, which has been placed in complete war preparedness.

The Kremlin was described as concerned over reports that the British Navy might cut off Russo-German trade via Murmansk.

Interference or any attempt to sink a Russian merchant ship would bring immediate armed conflict, Soviet leaders were reported as saying.

Worth A Movie

London, Feb. 22 (CP)

THE Royal Navy's rescue of more than 300 British merchant seamen from the German prison ship Altmark may be used as the story for a film.

Sir Kenneth Clark, film publicity director at the ministry of information, approached a British producer with the idea a few hours after the prisoners were landed in Scotland Saturday.

It has been suggested that Charles Laughton be asked to play the part of the Altmark's skipper, and that Norway's permission be sought to film background scenes at Gjossingfjord, where the delivery took place.

Cause Of War

London, Feb. 22 (CP)

G. A. GRIPENBERG, Finnish minister to Great Britain, said in an address here today that destruction of the Mannerheim line was included among the Russian demands refusal of which brought on the present Finnish-Russian war.

Finland, Mr. Gripenberg told a luncheon audience, agreed to far-reaching Russian demands in an effort to preserve peace, but refused to make concessions equivalent to a surrender of her freedom.

2000 Soviet Dead Mock Reds About Taipale

HELSINKI, Feb 22 — (AP). — A Red army attack near the Kamara railway station, a communication centre 12 miles south-east of Viipuri (Viborg) on the Karelian Isthmus, was repulsed, the Finnish high command reported to-day

The Russians lost 2,000 dead in continued fighting at Taipale at the eastern end of the Isthmus defence line, the communique declared

To-day's was the first admission by the Finns that fighting had reached the neighborhood of Kamara, although the Russians previously had reported their forces driving through that station on the main Isthmus railway to Viipuri

The Finnish command declared that fighting on both sides of the Mannerheim system across the Isthmus had raged far into last night

A large number of tanks were re-

Abuse Heaped On Iran, Rich Oil District Follows Tactics Used On Finland; Moscow Boasts Of Black Sea Fleet Fitness

LONDON, Feb. 22 (CP) — The Daily Herald said today that reports of heavy Soviet troop concentrations in the Caucasus and along the border of Iran (Persia) are compelling the Allies to keep "close watch" on the situation in the near and middle east.

This "disquieting information," the Herald said, "reveals that more heavy concentrations of Russian troops are taking place in the Caucasus on Turkey's eastern border and the north frontier of Iran."

"Coinciding with the arrival of these reinforcements—they are reported to be crack units of the Red army—comes news of wholesale arrests in Georgia and Armenia.

"The Moscow press and radio have launched a violent campaign against both Turkey and Iran. A torrent of abuse accusing these two countries of being tools of capitalism and of having bowed down before 'imperialistic' Britain and France is being poured out.

"Iran with its rich oil wells is especially singled out for attack and the abuse that is being levelled against her is so similar to that heaped on Finland before the Soviet invasion that real fears are entertained that Russia may be contemplating new aggression. This and renewed Nazi pressure on Rumania are believed to be the reasons for Turkey's sudden application of her emergency national defence law two days ago.

The Times quoted reports, neither confirmed nor denied at Ankara, that Moscow had asked for resumption of the parleys broken off when Foreign Minister Sukru Saracoglu left Moscow. If true, The Times said, this would mean that Moscow has accepted Turkey's view that she can enter into no undertaking with respect to the Black Sea area which would clash with Turkish commitments to Great Britain and France or the straits convention.

MOSCOW, Feb. 22.—(AP).— The fitness of Russia's expanding Black Sea fleet to guard the Soviet Union's southern borders was proclaimed to-day following manoeuvres and at the same time Moscow learned of test blackouts in Baku, Russia's greatest oil centre.

The Black Sea fleet completed manoeuvres several days ago and the warships—of which Russians said two-thirds were new and Soviet made—returned to their Sebastopol base.

Admiral Oktyabrsky, commander, said the results of the manoeuvres were excellent and added:

"The strength of the Black Sea fleet is growing daily. The fleet was, is and shall be a reliable guard of the southern borders of the U.S.S.R."

A Baku paper just received disclosed that a nightly training blackout had been decreed in Baku, beginning Tuesday and continuing until further notice. Baku, port on the Caspian Sea, is the clearing centre for rich oil supplies which are carried by pipe line to the Black Sea port of Batum.

Swedish Town Bombed

Seven Russian bombing planes are reported to have dropped 20 incendiary bombs on the small Swedish town of Pajala, near the Finnish frontier. The Russian bombing followed closely on the announcement that Swedish military leaders were advocating direct aid for Finland.

French Gunners Turn Back 3 German Raids

PARIS, Feb. 22.—(AP)—French machine-gunners drove off three German raids with enemy losses, military sources reported today, during renewed patrol activity on the Western Front.

In the sector east of the Moselle River, they said, German troops attempting to capture a French outpost were repulsed by French cross-fire and retired in disorder.

The fighting resulted in the destruction by fire of one house in a frontier village.

Another German patrol was reported to have skirmished with French gunners west of the Saar River and to have retired leaving behind an unspecified number of dead.

Two German non-commissioned officers were said to have been captured in a third engagement in the same region.

German forces along the Rhine continued to blast away at French loudspeakers broadcasting news and propaganda across the flood-swollen river. The French returned the fire.

No Aerial Casualties

French aerial squadrons, both observation and scouting, took advantage of clear skies to fly over the enemy lines.

One group engaged German fliers, French military advices said, but the fight ended without planes of WARKWORTH, Feb. 22 (ENS).—Fire ranging along Main Street this afternoon from the ashes of Mitchell's store, and with two adjoining buildings in flames, threatened the entire business section of the village while citizens were anxiously waiting for assistance from the Fire Brigades of neighboring towns in the district. Warkworth is a police village ten miles south of Campbellford, in Percy Township.

Two Stores Burned And One Home Before Fire Put Out

At 1.45 o'clock Mitchell's store, opposite the Post Office, was a complete loss. This store was on the north side of the street and towards the east-end fo the business area.

Miss Bridget Morrison's house to the east of it was in flames, and on the west side of the ruin W. C. Allen's grocery store and apartments were ablaze.

Furniture from living quarters and furnishings from stores were piled along the main street, crowded with people from Warkworth and the nearby countryside. The progress of the fire toward the west was heading toward the Royal Bank building if all the efforts to confine it to the Allen store failed.

Paris, Feb. 22 (CP-Havas)

THE Polish telegraph agency today estimated the number of Poles executed by the Germans in the occupied zone at more than 50,000.

So harsh are the methods used by the conquerors, the Polish agency said, that they have provoked "open revolts" by Germans themselves in some parts of Poland.

Last Of American Prisoners Freed By Spain

MADRID, Feb. 22 (AP) — The United States embassy announced today that the last eight American citizens held as Spanish civil war prisoners, including Harold Dahl, a flier, had been released and would start soon for home.

Release of these last prisoners who had fought for the defeated Republican government brought to an end a long diplomatic tussle in which the United States state department had sought their freedom.

Dahl, who had been in custody since he parachuted to earth behind General Franco's lines July 12, 1937, became the most widely known American prisoner of the Spanish war as a result of his wife's efforts to have him freed.

Dahl originally was marked for execution, but he was spared from his penalty after Mrs. Dahl, a singer, sent a letter to General Franco asking clemency.

Two Raiders Downed Over Britain

Four In One, Captured 2nd Falls In Sea; Trawlers Spit Back

LONDON, Feb. 22 (CP) — Two German warplanes were shot down by Royal Air Force fighter planes today, the air ministry announced, as German airmen raided Britain's east coast for the second time in three days, drawing machine-gun fire from several trawlers which they attempted to attack.

The fire from the trawlers gave concrete form to the warning last week by Winston Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, that all British vessels plying the war-tossed North Sea henceforth would be armed for protection against German bombing and machine-gunning from the air.

The downing of the two planes today brought the total German aircraft lost in such raids to an even 50, according to the British sources. They listed 41 German bombers as definitely accounted for and said nine others probably never reached home. The British estimated the total value of the lost German planes at more than £1,000,000 (about $4,460,000).

Recapitulating German flights over the United Kingdom and its waters, the Evening Standard said 72 expeditions had been carried out by a total of 180 planes. It estimated that about 60 non-combatants had been killed in the raids, most of them at sea.

4 Taken Prisoner

The air ministry said the planes downed today were losers in battles with R.A.F. fighter planes, one off the northeast coast and the other near St. Abb's Head, Scotland.

Four Germans who were in the second plane, a Heinkel which fell near the village of Coldingham, 40 miles east of Edinburgh, were taken prisoner and placed in a local station. One was wounded.

Four British trawlers, the Cardew, Emulator, Crystal and Aucuba, all armed, exchanged machine-gun fire with German raiders and reported they drove the attackers off.

The ministry issued two communiques, the first stating:

"An enemy aircraft was engaged and shot down by Royal Air Force fighter aircraft off the northeast coast shortly after mid-day today."

Shortly afterward came the second:

"A second Heinkel (German bomber), attacked by Spitfires of the fighter command, crashed today on land near St. Abb's head."

GERMANS believe that eight British ships are being sunk daily and that the people of the United Kingdom are starving. This was revealed today by Joy Rogers, young English dancer who was one of the eight Britons exchanged for Germans held in England.

When she arrived home she was surprised to find her mother did not need the food she had saved by self-denial during her trip from Germany—two tins of sardines, meat extract cubes, cocoa and sugar. These were given her by the Red Cross.

Henry Forecasts Spending Spree For 1941

TORONTO, Feb. 22.—(CP)— The Ontario Legislature drove toward early prorogation by meeting early this afternoon and holding another night sitting. Conservative Leader George Drew is expected to wind up the budget debate, but estimates remain before the House clears its agenda.

The afternoon sitting will start at two o'clock instead of the usual three to hear the final opposition attacks on Premier Hepburn's wartime budget. Last night's meeting was featured by criticism of the former Conservative Premier, George S. Henry, who charged government extravagance in all departments.

Mr. Henry charged debt service charges were at their highest point; that aggressive doctors in the health department and ambition engineers in the highways department are responsible for Ontario's "uncurbed expenditures."

He said he sympathized with Highways Minister T. B. McQuesten and Health Minister Harold Kirby in that they both had officials "who love to promote the spending of money." Noting a curtailment in highway operations for the next fiscal year, he commented:

"That's probably a prelude to a

Financial Ruin In War, Held Unnecessary

PARIS, Feb. 22 (AP) — Finance Minister Paul Reynaud has quoted figures to prove that financial ruin need not accompany a modern war and declared "we are mastering the situation."

In an address yesterday to veterans of the First Great War he stressed the necessity of co-operation between the government and the people, expressing confidence in France's ability to continue her "financial mastery" of the war if the nation continues accepting sacrifices.

On the ground that French defences already are fully manned and barracks crowded, the war ministry has decided to halve the next contingent of youths to be called to the colors in March.

A war ministry notice said that only men born in July, August and September, 1919, would be included in the next call for a section of that year's class. The first half of the class, men born in the first six months of 1919, were called up last November and all those born in the last six months were to have been summoned next month.

Empire, Humble and High, Honors Tweedsmuir In Simple Abbey Rite

LONDON, Feb. 22.—(CP Cable.)—The Empire to-day honored the memory of the late Lord Tweedsmuir in Westminster Abbey that was richly impressive for its simplicity.

Upwards of 1,000 people, ranging from a representative of the King and the Prime Minister himself to a few humble seats for the service the origin of which is rooted in antiquity.

It opened with the choir in white and scarlet surplices chanting from St. John:

"I am the resurrection and the life, saith the Lord;

"He that believeth in Me though he were dead yet shall he live;

"And whoever liveth and believeth in Me shall never die."

The thread of the prayers was "for John Buchan, Lord Tweedsmuir, and all thy servants who have finished their course and kept the faith."

In their velvet gold braided vestments, the Dean of Westminster, Rt. Rev. Paul De Labilliere, conducted the service, while the Archbishop of Canterbury, Most Rev. Cosmo Gordon Lang, gave the blessing.

Friend Reads the Lesson.

Although the service was Anglican, a divine of the Scottish church was invited into the most famed of all worshipping places of the Anglican faith to read the lesson. He was Dr. Archibald Fleming of St. Columba's (Church of Scotland) in London, an intimate friend of the Scottish-born Lord Tweedsmuir, who read from Revelations: "And I saw a new heaven and a new earth; for the first heaven and the first earth were passed away."

While the Empire was paying homage in Westminster Abbey, Lord Tweedmuir's "ain land" honored him at a service in St. Giles Cathedral, Edinburgh.

Other services were held at Aldershot where the Canadian active service force is in training. All units of the First Canadian Division participated.

The memorial service at Westminster drew a gathering of British statesmen and other notables, past and present, seldom congregated under one roof.

Inquiry Blocks "Greasing" Charges By Cox

TORONTO, Feb. 22 — (CP). — Charles Cox, Liberal member of the Ontario Legislature for Port Arthur, stood before a special committee today and levelled a barrage of criticism against administration of the Ontario Lands and Forests Department.

Cox, former minister without portfolio in the Hepburn government, was interrupted by chairman Paul Leduc when he attempted to read from his lengthy brief about charges of "greasing." The reference was accepted as an exhibit but it was no permitted to be read into evidence.

But Cox went on to condemn the department for granting the permit and cutting rights to the now-bankrupt Lake Sulphite Pulp Company which he described as a "fiasco" which had "given a bad eye to the north." He also declared that big timber companies had failed to live up to the agreements entered into when they were granted cutting rights.

He also accused the department of "absolute disregard for the welfare of Fort William and Port Arthur" and said it was responsible for "even more profligate and short sightedness than the previous administration, if such were possible."

Tries to Explain

The reference to "grease" and "greasing" was made when Cox began to read from a report of the Arrow Land and Logging Company in which explained expenditure of $1,000 as "grease."

Col. Drew asked to see the report and said it referred to "grease and graft" which he thought should be

Nazis To Demand Full Delivery Of Rumanian Oil

BUCHAREST, Feb. 22 (AP) — Rumania ordered her already large military preparations speeded up today following authoritative reports that Germany is challenging the government's ban on export of aviation gasoline to the Reich.

Dr. Karl Clodius, German economic expert, is expected here Monday to insist on full delivery of Germany's 1940 quota of oil and oil products.

The government ordered many of 200,000 reservists originally called for March 1, to start reporting immediately to concentration centres, it was learned.

Effective March 1, Rumania will have 1,600,000 men under arms — virtually general mobilization without being so labelled.

Railways now are jammed with reservists moving toward frontiers and with long trainloads of tanks, armored cars and artillery.

The arrival of Dr. Clodius will coincide with the start of Rumanian trade conversations here with Italy, understood also to be seeking a share of this country's oil exports.

Germany, it was said, will challenge a Rumanian ban on shipments of high test aviation gasoline to the Reich—a measure which Rumania was reported to have taken

New Nazi Aircraft Carriers Expected To Try Raiding

LONDON, Feb. 22 (CP)—Britain's ever-watchful navy and the coastal command of the Royal Air Force are ready and waiting for a possible move by Germany to employ one or more of her 32-knot aircraft carriers in attacks on Allied and neutral shipping in the North and South Atlantic.

Germany launched the 19,250-ton aircraft carrier Graf Zeppelin in 1938 and started building another, known only as "B." It is believed "B" may have been launched and two more carriers are known to be under construction.

The Graf Zeppelin carries 40 fleet-spotting and dive-bombing aircraft of comparatively short cruising range, is armed with 16 guns of 5.9-inch calibre, 10 anti-aircraft guns of 4.1-inch calibre and 22 smaller anti-aircraft guns.

With her speed she could outdistance most battleships and with her armaments she would prove a formidable foe for any destroyer which overhauled her, although she could probably be crushed by a combination of vessels such as chased the Admiral Graf Spee into Montevideo.

Authorities are not overlooking the possibility that the aircraft carrier might be accompanied by escorts of submarines, such an effort would provide considerable protection with their torpedoes but this might be offset by the fact their presence in convoy would force the carriers to reduce their speed to a comparative snail's pace.

It is believed the aircraft carriers could be provisioned for long voyages on which they would behave much as the commerce raiders of the first Great War.

Nevertheless it is felt they would be easier to trace than commerce raiders as activities of their aircraft would give notice of their presence over a greater area.

He ordered the suspended portion demolished.

Seize That Swedish Iron Nazis Freighting Down Norse Coast, London Press Advises

LONDON, Feb. 22.—(CP).—The Daily Express to-day urged that the Swedish iron ore sent down the Norwegian coast to Germany should be seized by the Royal Navy, even though the route goes through Norwegian territorial waters.

The Swedish ore is shipped by rail from Narvik, the paper said, "then it slides down to Germany in ships that cling to the Norwegian coat within the three mile limit."

"That ore would be very useful to us," it continued. "The Germans have abused Norwegian ships in Norwegian waters. They have even attacked Norwegian ships in Norwegian waters. And the Norwegians have permitted such violations of their neutrality.

"Since the German fleet has taken the war into Norwegian waters, we should not tolerate supplies being sent through these waters under the pretense that they are neutral."

Milk, Bread Drivers Called To Join Coal Strikers

TORONTO, Feb. 22—(CP).—The Toronto and district coal strike entered its fourth day today with the 1,200 strikers passing a resolution asking the joint teamsters council to call out milk, bread and general truck drivers in a sympathy strike. The council immediately called a meeting to consider the request.

Further, the strikers asked the hoisting engineers' union for a sympathy walkout by its 300 members who operate cranes in the Cherry street coal dockyards. They also decided to contact railway unions to ask that no more coal be brought into Toronto yards until the strike is settled.

Hope for a Wednesday settlement of the strike ended last night when the largest coal dealers, banded together in the fuel protection and fuel dock associations, turned down a conciliation board proposal for a modified closed shop after it had been accepted by the men and the smaller dealers in the Toronto retail fuel dealers association.

Hon. Norman O. Hipel, Ontario labor minister, called a conference in his office today with Mayor Ralph Day of Toronto, F. D. Tolchard, secretary of the fuel protection and fuel dock associations, and W. L. Hayney, strike organizer.

An appeal to the strikers by Dr. Gordon Jackson, city medical health officer, to allow delivery of coal to dairies so that milk might be pasteurized, brought assurance this would be permitted. The union also will allow deliveries to bakeries and other "essential home services," and it increased from one to two bags the quantity of coal which a householder might take home from a coal yard. Apartment houses or hotels in which there is sickness may have up to 10 tons of coal delivered by union permit.

Dealers have been assured of police protection for coal deliveries but are unable to get drivers. Some firms who have run out of fuel used their own trucks to get coal from the yards under police convoy.

Five carloads of strikers followed two Toronto Fuels, Ltd., coal-laden trucks last night and disregarding police convoys dumped both loads to the street. There was no violence.

Suburban Weston, New Toronto and Long Branch dealers are to make deliveries to customers today under police protection.

"Violence must not be tolerated," said Attorney-General Gordon Conant. "Provincial police will assist Toronto or other local police forces as much as possible and if help is required."

Canada's Effort Based On Allies' Need Says King

(By the Canadian Press.)

A variety of election issues arises as the campaign warms up but the fundamental question shapes up as the war record of the government. Compared to this, all other issues appear subordinate.

Liberal campaign strategy is essentially a defence of the administration's war effort while Conservatives argue it is inadequate and has been handled incompetently. As a remedy, the Conservatives propose a National government.

But the actual prosecution of the war stands out in the election spotlight and conscription, railways, unemployment, post-war rehabilitation, Empire relations and wartime regulations are all lesser considerations.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King, in his second national broadcast last night offered the government's most complete defence of its record so far and covered practically every aspect of the war administration.

There was little in the speech which has not been made public previously but it probably will serve as a basis for later Liberal efforts to vindicate the government's war activity.

The prime minister said the need of the Allied powers was the basis of Canada's war effort and the situation was much different from borough, former Governor General of Canada, and a representative of the aged Duke of Connaught, who served at Ottawa during part of the last war. Hon. Vincent Massey, the Canadian High Commissioner, was there for the Dominion Government and the High Commissioners of Australia and South Africa were nearby.

At the head of members of the immediate family was the new Lord Tweedsmuir in the uniform of a staff lieutenant of the First Division of the Canadian Active Service Force.

Canada's khaki was also visible elsewhere in the great edifice. In transept seats were upwards of 200 officers of the First Division and Canadian military headquarters, headed by Major-General A. G. L. McNaughton, general officer commanding the C.A.S.F., and Major-General H. D. G. Crerar, senior officer of Canadian Military Headquarters. Each wore a black mourning band on his left arm in token of respect for the late Commander-in-Chief of the Canadian Forces.

Off the nave of the church, where they could see little of those conducting the service but could hear it all, were more than 100 men of the ranks. They were mostly troops on leave, drawn to the Abbey of their own free will.

Reminders of War.

There was much else in and around the great "House of Peace" to remind one that the world is at war.

High above the Abbey tower on which the Flag of St. Peter flew at half-mast floated a grey anti-aircraft balloon. The outer edge of the Abbey's high altar was buttressed by sand bags.

By each seat was a printed card advising the congregation that the "Abbey is not a safe place during an air raid." It urged that in the event of warning all take cover in shelters outside the Abbey.

But thoughts of the world outside and its strife were forgotten in the solemnity of the service, the beauty of the choir's chanting, the muted notes of the gerat organ, and the quiet peacefulness of the Prayers for the Dead.

Even the psalm which followed the choir's opening chant carried an assurance to the war-torn world that it was only passing through a phase that is comparatively short. The significant words were: "As it was in the beginning, is now, and ever shall be; world without end."

The hymns were two of the late governor general's favorites: "I Vow to Thee My Country," and "When I Survey the Wondrous Cross."

With the new Lord Tweedsmuir in the immediate family group were his brother, Hon. William Buchan, and his wife, his sister, Hon. Mrs. Brian Fairfax-Lucy, and her husband, Hon. Mrs. Norman Grosner, the late governor general's sister-in-law, her daughter, Mrs. Peyton Jonese, and the latter's two daughters and a son.

Gordon Mitchell's store, Mr. Mitchell runs a transport service, has a meat shop, and deals in some other goods, living alone upstairs. This building appeared to be doomed from the time the fire was discovered. The village Fire Brigade responded, but its chemical equipment was too weak and its pumper was handicapped by the stretch of hose land along Main Street to the mill pond.

By 1.50 p.m. the Mitchell building was completely destroyed, the two adjoining buildings were afire, and local authorities feared that the business section to the west would fall a prey to the flames if the fire continued its swatch in that direction.

Appeals were telephoned to Peterborough, Campbellford, Colborne, and Brighton for mechanical help in fighting the fire, but at 1.45 o'clock help had not yet arrived from any quarter

(With the permission of Mayor Hamilton, Chief Gimblett sent a detachment of the local Fire Department about 1.20 o'clock.)

Loss $12,000

With one residence [illegible]tores destroyed by a Main [illegible]re at 2:20 p.m., the property loss was roughly estimated at $12,000, as combined fire departments stopped the advance of the flames towards the west at James C. Dixon and Company's drygoods store.

Mitchell's store was reduced to ashes, representing a loss of $6,000 on building and its contents, including the living quarters. The flames licked up Miss B. Morrison's house on the east side of the Mitchell store, adding $1,500 to the loss account, and on the west side only the walls of W. C. Allen's grocery store, valued at $4,000, were left standing.

Neighborly Aid

The arrival of the Campbellford volunteer fire brigade about 1:45 o'clock was a timely reinforcement. Mayor F. P. Long accompanied Chief Clarence Williamson and his men. They were soon at work with the local firemen, directing their efforts to checking the fire at the Dixon store.

About ten minutes after 2 o'clock, a detachment from the Peterborough Fire Department with part of their equipment brought a great feeling of relief to the townspeople, and immediate results were seen in combined work by the firemen. Dixon's store was regarded as safe, although smoke from the upstairs windows indicated that there was probably some interior scorching.

The heart from the flames that consumed Allen's grocery was so intense that it melted windows in Leonard's Hotel across the street, and seriously hampered the Warkworth firemen in their earlier work Take 3 Call sent out

The main street of Warworth was littered with furniture and household belongings as occupants of the stores moved them outside when the fire was noticed.

Residents said the dry goods store and roof caught fire two or three times from flying embers, but each time was extinguished without damage.

Cox went on to describe working conditions in his district; claimed that peeling of pulpwood brought transients into the area, adding that "more people are riding freight trains in Western Canada than passenger trains."

Expressing the belief that within 50 years rich forestry regions would be as "barren as the Sahara desert," Cox charged that many forest fires which took huge annual toll in the bush, were man-made. He said "fire fighters are sometimes firelighters," explaining that it is more lucrative to fight fires than work in a camp."

"Do you suggest our fire control is not effective?" asked provincial secretary Nixon.

"No," replied Cox. "It is only a matter of time until the whole country is burned out. Since we have had 'efficient fire protection' the whole country is burning down."

Toronto Holdup Gets 4 Jailed

TORONTO, Feb. 22 — (CP). — Stanley Marshall, night attendant at a lakeshore district service station, told police early today that four men, one armed, took $65 from his pockets after ordering him into a washroom at the station. The men escaped in a waiting automobile, Marshall said.

A "smart-looking fellow" carried the gun and insisted that he wanted only the "company's money," the attendant told police. He said the men had used the washroom a few hours earlier and "acted suspiciously."

Four hours after the holdup four men were arrested in a Yonge Street hamburger store on armed robbery charges. Charged with robbery were Calver Doyle, 21; John Lee, 20; Charles Avery, 20, and William Poole, 18.

Constable Bernard Loveridge made the arrest when he saw a car answering the description of the one used in the holdup, parked outside the hamburger. A fully-loaded revolver was found in the washroom of the hamburg store, police said.

Finn Fliers Go Raiding.

The Finnish high command reported new scouting flights behind the Soviet lines and bombing raids on Red army troops by night.

Finnish problems of defence were complicated by the Soviet strategy of smashing at both extremities of the Mannerheim Line while maintaining pressure along its whole length.

After concentrating near the western end of the line on the Karelian Itshmus and forcing Finnish withdrawal to new positions, the Red army was reported to have thrown two divisions (apparently 30,000 to 35,000 men) against the Taipale sector, eastern terminus of the fortified zone.

The Finns said that despite strong artillery and aircraft support, the attackers were hurled back, and denied at the same time that the Russians had captured Koivisto, the line's big "anchor" battery of the Gulf of Finland.

(A Russian communique declared "nothing of importance", occurred at the front, but that 176 Finnish defensive fortifications had been taken in the past three days, "including the Koivisto fortress area."

(The communique said 16 Finnish planes were shot down in combat.)

Blizzards Timely.

A blizzard, the first this month, was counted as a defensive asset by the Finns, who repeated their story of heavy Russian casualties and light losses for themselves.

February is a bitter, snowy month in this region, and the worsening of the weather is described as lending new heart to the hard-pressed Finns.

Wade Werner, chief of the Associated Press staff in Finland, was caught in one of these raids at a railway station 50 miles west of Sortavala.

The town, unnamed for military reasons, already was a jumble of wrecked and burning buildings, Werner said.

Nevertheless, he had hardly stepped from the platform to a cafe when the bombers returned.

"It seemed incredible, after all the damage they had done the night before," he said, "but I took shelter in the woods with some of the townspeople."

Half an hour later, the clear signal was given, but a new alarm sounded almost immediately as 35 bombers appeared.

Enough Running.

After a second dash to the woods, Werner said he resolved to run no more. So for the successive returns of the bombers he alternately ducked under freight cars and crawled into culverts with other train passengers.

There were four such raids on this one small town in three hours, he said, but finally the slight-damaged train managed to pull out.

This anonymous village apparently is north and slightly west of Lake Ladoga, in what has been described as a comparatively quiet one.

Far to the north, renewed raids on the Arctic Petsamo region were reported from Kirkenes, Norway. Norwegian observers on the border said they counted 52 planes, and great numbers of bombs were reported dropped. That sparsely-settled vicinity had been quiet for several weeks.

ONE FALSE STEP

BY KATHRN BEMIS

THE new streamlined train was slipping into the St. Louis station-shed like an elongated dragon, looking as if any instant the red snout of its engine would spurt white-hot fire, while its hoarse voice, like a weird foghorn from some exotic port blared out warnings to clear the tracks.

It was two minutes past midnight, but, evidently to the milling crowd on the station platform, only the beginning of an exciting day of adventure.

The monstrous mechanical beast brought its glistening body of silver coaches to a quivering pause; apparently to rehabilitate itself for its next long, breathless fling across hard black rails laid on scorching wheat lands, burning sands of the desert, cool mountain passes, down to the far west coast by the sea.

The train stood there now, immobile as the oldest sphinx, sending a quiver of anticipation through pretty Janis Sheldon, aged 18, about to embark on a trip far exceeding her wildest dreams.

She stepped from the humid heat into the train's air-conditioned comfort, unable to curb what she tried to tell herself was absurd exaltation. Scores of girls went to Hollywood these days trying for movie stardom, and she might be lost in the glittering shuffle of them; but she was determined to test her luck, especially now, when she could amply afford to take a chance.

"My ticket says car No. 121, porter. Are you sure this is it?" chopped out Janis, dropping into the rear seat.

"Yess'um," grunted the porter, heaving her two heavy suitcases to the overhead rack. "Car No. 121, seat No. 29; you're O.K."

Planning Her Future

With a Lady Bountiful air she dropped a quarter in his conveniently exposed palm, blissfully complacent over subtracting one whole silver coin from the $20,000 recently inherited from her dear old Uncle Charlie.

She was, however, planning to be very miserly with all this money, make it purchase the fulfillment of her dearest desires—vision of a thrilling niche in Hollywood. She was quite certain that with economical planning she could live there an unprecedented number of years without working at anything. No one knew better than she how to manage on little. Why, she had often gone without lunches for two weeks in order to be able to buy one cheap dress!

She would be a famous star, drawing a huge salary, long before getting down to a rock-bottom bank balance; but if she made a fizzle of the whole thing, she could always return to her old job as stenographer in Boardman West's St. Louis office. Mr. West, attorney for whom she had worked ever since graduating from business college, had assured her of this. He had also tried to make her realize that her inheritance was not an inexhaustible fortune, and had both amused and annoyed her. But she knew that any rich man like Mr. West would underestimate anything less than $1,000,000, and quickly forgave him.

Ever since three years ago, when Janis' parents had been drowned in the Lake of the Ozarks, people had been exceptionally kind to her. But when the supposedly indignant hermit, Charlie Sheldon, died, leaving a small fortune to a niece he had never seen, her name was in newspaper headlines. For a few weeks she was besieged by promoters, salesmen, starving widows and orphans and perpetually jobless. But with Boardman West's assistance she quickly rid herself of all this, and now she hadn't a care in the world.

Fickle Fate Smiles

She hung her gray tweed coat on a nearby hook, took off her green straw hat, tossed it neatly up beside her suitcases. She lightly touched the auburn curls clinging to her ears, found them in place. She straightened the skirt of the green linen frock around her thin flat and sank contentedly into the deep plush cushions of the high-backed seat.

The train glided from the station's electric glare into the black rim of night that her gaze could not penetrate; but she knew that out there, miles and miles beyond, must lie he road leading to her ultimate opportunity.

There would be gaiety, new scenes, new faces against a glamorous setting—perhaps even a Prince Charming. The possibilities this involved caused a faint smile to hover around her delicately rouged lips. She turned from the window and unwittingly settled both smile and her straightforward blue gaze on the intently interested countenance of a young man swinging toward her down the aisle.

He carried his muscular-built, figure like a soldier on parade, wide shoulders flung back, his firm steps rhythmic with the motion of the car. The embarrassed Janis averted her head, but not soon enough to miss the responsive lift of the young man's magnetic, sensuous mouth.

She was disturbingly conscious of some leashed strength within him when he passed her seat, and her heart skipped a beat in anticipation of something inexplainable. She was perfenctly aware of his restive, alert gray eyes boring through her back when he paused behind her with a strange premonition she could not exactly define, yet it was a pleasurable feeling and she did not attempt to discard it.

Other Passengers

Presently he returned to his seat facing her about ten rows away on the opposite side of the car. He sat down beside a huge, apelike older man, whose sleezy clothes were livid contrast to the young man's immaculate custom-made suit. This drew Janis' curiosity. Why should so good-looking a young man choose such an ugly companion?

Then she noticed two rat-faced, shabby men in the seat facing the young man, saw them get awkwardly to their feet, come stumbling and swaying down the aisle, as if impeded by something. Abruptly then she saw the handcuffs which shackled them together, noticed the alertness on the young man's face as he jumped up and followed them.

A corpulent, middle-aged man flung an arm over the back of the forward seat, turned eagerly to Janis.

"Pretty exciting, isn't it?" he chopped out. "Riding in a car with convicts is some experience, I'll say!"

"Convicts!" gasped Janis, her blue eyes wide.

"Yes—nine men being taken to San Quentin by those three guards. That young lad in the middle of the bunch has spent seven years in prison already. Isn't that something?"

Janis' gaze flicked over the two husky guards sitting behind several rows of seats containing prisoners. She saw a nervously twitching, emaciated youth and was filled with pity. Then she shivered with distaste. She was riding in a day coach all the way to the Coast in order to save expense—and she had to run into this!

"Yes," she said anxiously to her neighbor, "it's—its rather dreadful."

"Oh, you needn't be afraid," he assured her pompously, "those guards won't let anything happen—they're wise to tricks tough guys pull."

Judy Muses

The two prisoners who had had their fill of ice water, now preceded the young guard down the aisle to their seats, much to Janis' relief. She tried to compose herself, but found it next to impossible. The very atmosphere of this car was charged with unrest. The woman across the aisle with the sleepy little boy on her lap, the traveling salesmen up front and the white-haired old lady behind them, wore furtively alert expressions, looked as if they were ready to leap through the door at the first sign of insubordination from the prisoners.

From now on, the compelling gaze of the husky young guard riding backward to keep his quota of prisoners in constant surveillance, wandered to Janis more often than was good for her peace of mind. There was no escaping this, for she was directly in his line of vision.

She tried to be provoked at herself for being so sharply conscious of him. A guard or Sheriff—or he might be a G-man — continually dealt with criminals. He was constantly in danger. Heavens! To love a man like that, always be worried about him, would be tragic. But why was she thinking of—love?

She turned toward the window. The train was swishing past a dimly lighted station somewhere in the stacks. There wasn't a human being in sight out there. She sighed, allowed her curiosity to settle on the prisoners again.

Her eyes met the slumberous brown gaze of the young guard whose brown head rested back against his seat. Something went lilting through her senses. She shut her eyes tightly against this man's penetrating scrutiny, resolving to fight the unseemly behavior of her susceptible heart. She thought, "Love and fear can't mix—and I'm shocked by that man's business—his dangerous business of handling men outside the law."

Through the Night

The porter came through announcing, "Pillow! Any one like a pillow?"

Janis' eyelids flew open, she straightened, said: "I'll have one, please."

The porter promptly tucked a plump pillow behind her head, stepped ahead in response to the raised hand of the corpulent man, who demanded two pillows and got them.

Janis gratefully leaned back against the spotless white linen. She was sleepy, but too keyed up to drift easily into slumber. Now and then her heavy lids drooped over her burning eyes, but her sharp inquisitiveness opened them spasmodically, forced her to appraise the sun-bronzed, good-looking features of the young guard up there by the ape-man.

The lights of the car finally were dimmed and, in spite of herself, Janis dozed off. She finally awoke with a start, scarcely realizing that she had been asleep, and cringed at the sight of the sneering, wicked face of the ape-man coming down the aisle. His huge shoulders crouched as if he were about to spring like an animal, his gait was lumbering. He looked like something wild stalking its prey. She cringed away from the aisle, hugging her body tight to the window, even while noting that the man's hands were shackled together, that the two husky older guards were close upon the prisoner's heels.

She glanced beseechingly at the young guard facing her and, unhesitatingly, he got to his feet and came to stand with the three others beside the water-cooler.

She Meets the Man

She jumped at the touch on her pillow, met the arresting brown eyes of the young guard smiling down at her over the back of the seat. Her gaze wavered to his firm brown hand so close to her shoulder. She forced herself to look up at him again. The prisoner was being escorted back to his seat by the other guards the train was skimming through the night like a lightly sailing bird, and still Janis' gaze clung to those brown eyes, so irresistibly different from any eyes she had ever seen.

"You're nervous," he began in a resonont baritone that unconsciously she had been anticipating. "There's no danger — those fellows know they're licked."

"Oh—oh, I'm glad to know—that is, I'm sorry for them, I mean," came unsteadily from Janis.

"You needn't be sorry," he promptly assured her. "They're just a bunch of lifers—no good." His sharp glance at the prisoners sprawled two in a seat, some asleep, others feigning it, told her how closely they must be watched.

"It's kind of you to—to reassure me," she wavered.

He patted her shoulder, sending something electric through her. "I have to get back there. Don't worry any more tonight. I'll see you in the diner—at breakfast. If you need anything, page me. The name's Rock Conover."

She flung him a smile which was a mixture of appreciation and surmise. He sighed and reluctantly left her.

She closed her eyes now to shut the exquisite sense of his nearness in her memory. She wondered why he stood out from the other guards, the three of them being much alike as to physique, deportment and grooming.

Rock Conover! He looked older than the boys she had known in St. Louis—he must be at least 30. He was evidently bravely alert to his job and he possessed some inner driving power which could take a susceptible girl by storm. She must be careful.

U.S. Vessels Dodging War Hazards

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22—(CP)—The United States merchant marine—"not only touched but bumped" by the neutrality law—temporarily is holding its share of the world's cargoes despite the war, officials of the Maritime Commission declare.

Although U. S. ships were banned from the ports of fighting nations, one official estimated American vessels are carrying as much freight as ever. Increased activity on the Pacific routes, he said, probably accounted for this.

Most of the 66 ships whose regular transatlantic sailings were "bumped" by the "combat zone" restriction laid out by President Roosevelt, are running now, he said. The United States Lines, however recently sold eight of its ships to a Norwegian company in which it has part interest.

Experimentally, other lines have sought to solve their problem by re-routing ships. The American Scantic Line, which operated between New York and the Baltic, found entry into that northern sea closed when war broke out. Now it is trying a line running in at Bergen, on the west coast of Norway—just outside the "combat zone."

Two ships of the American Export Lines are trying out service between New York and non-belligerent ports on the Mediterranean. Some ships have been diverted from the east-west journey to the north-south routes.

On some routes, fewer ships are carrying heavier loads than before the war, with the result sailors find less chance for a job these days.

Unemployment among seamen, officials of the National Maritime Union explained, is spread through the whole corps of ocean-workers, instead of a group of workers being laid off for keeps.

Shipping experts seem agreed that the effect of the neutrality law's ban on United States ships in the transatlantic service has not been as serious as was expected when the act was passed.

This may be explained partly by statistics compiled by G. Griffith Johnson, Jr., of the commerce department, which show only nine per cent of U.S. ocean-going tonnage was engaged in trade with ports in Europe and the Mediterranean. Many Mediterranean ports, of course, are still open.

When President Roosevelt stopped United States ships from visiting ports of warring nations, federal agencies prepared to take care of stranded seamen. The Works Progress Administration set aside 5,000 berths on its relief projects and the Maritime Commission offered to take 100 licensed officers and 1,000 unlicensed men into its training school.

On R.C.A.F. Staff

Squadron Leader W. K. Clements has just been appointed to the staff of the Royal Canadian Air Force Overseas Headquarters in London. Squadron Leader Clements has been serving with the R.A.F. in France for five months. He is the First Royal Canadian Air Force officer to see service in the field during the present war, and will bring to his new duties first-hand knowledge of his new experiences in France.

Is This the Reason You Are Constipated?

If you're wondering why your bowels don't work right . . . stop and think about what you eat. Bread, meat, eggs and potatoes. All good nourishing foods . . . but lacking in "bulk" after the digestive process. And you need "bulk!" Food that gives the bowels something to work on . . . to help them move.

If it's this lack of "bulk" that's causing your constipation, Kellogg's All-Bran is just what you need. After digestion a soft mass remains which helps your bowels move. In addition, All-Bran gives you Nature's intestinal tonic, vitamin B1. Eat this tasteful ready-to-eat cereal every day, drink plenty of water, and enjoy happier days. All-Bran is made by Kellogg in London, Can. Sold by every grocer.

Off To Bomb Reich—With Leaflets

Members of the British Royal Air Force are shown loading up a giant bombing plane with propaganda leaflets just before the start of a reconnaissance flight over Germany. On this occasion the bombers went as far as Vienna, Austria, and Prague, Czecho-Slovakia. The leaflets were broadcast over these capitals of formerly independent nations. All the British planes returned safely to their base.

Hastings Tannery Worker Writes Memorial Poem

HASTINGS, Feb. 22 — (ENS) — Albert Scriver of Hastings, whose home spun poetry composed while at work in the tannery here, has gained a goodly amount of recognition both locally and as far away as Rittman, Ohio, where some of his poems have been reproduced in the Rittman Press. However, after the death of Lord Tweedsmuir late Governor General of Canada, Mr. Scriver turned his thoughts to the more serious and composed a poem reproduced herewith dealing with Canada's beloved late Governor General.

To one we knew and loved so dearly,
Canada has said good-bye.
One, whose soul now rests in Heaven,
In that home beyond the sky.
T'will be hard to find another.
One to fill the vacant chair.
One so patient and so loving.
One so upright, just and fair.
We indeed would be ungrateful,
To the one who proved so kind,
Did not we mourn the soul departed,
Weep for those he left behind.
Far away across the ocean,
For John Buchan, friends will yearn
But only this dear loved one's ashes
To his homeland will return.
Time may help to lift the sorrow,
But our love will not decrease,
In the land where grows the heather.
May his ashes rest in peace.
—Albert Scriver.

Making Sure

London, Feb. 22 (CP Cable). EVIDENCE concerning a movement among conscientious objectors to provide instruction for answering questions when they appeal to the tribunal for exemption from military service was brought out at a hearing today.

Douglas MacPherson testified he consulted a member of the "Fellowship of Conscientious Objectors" after preparing a written statement for the tribunal. He gave an affirmative answer when the judge asked if this was done with a view to being prepared to answer questions.

CANADA'S GREAT Energy FOOD

When you add

OVALTINE to milk

your family gets more than just a "flavoured milk drink"

IT isn't only flavour you add to pure, rich milk when you stir Ovaltine into it.

You are adding valuable elements—special barley malt and fresh eggs blended in scientific proportions. Ovaltine makes milk more readily digestible, restores energy, relieves strain on overtaxed nerves, and provides a delicious beverage, for mealtimes or in-between.

You KNOW what you are adding when you make your own food beverage with pure milk and Ovaltine. A few stirs, and it's ready! Hot Ovaltine at bedtime promotes sound sleep and is the finest of "night caps". For your children it is invaluable as an energy food. KNOW what you are getting.

For Quality and Balance in a Flavoured Milk Drink

OVALTINE is good for:
Sleeplessness
Tired Nerves
Convalescence
Growing Children

Apologize? Not Much!

If Norway expects she is likely to receive an apology from Britain over the Altmark incident then Norway is going to wait a long time because that apology will never be forthcoming. Nor should it.

Norway seeks to make out a case showing it would be quite all right for the Altmark to be released because the thing is not a warship nor a merchantman. The Germans contend it is in "state service," and therefore exempt from being interned.

Just what has this remarkable vessel been used for? At the outset it was sent out to accompany the Graf Spee on its raiding expeditions. The Altmark carried anti-aircraft guns, had on board pom-poms and machine guns. Its business was to keep track of the Graf Spee; it could run errands for it or bring supplies, and it was to stand by and pick up passengers and crew from vessels which were sunk by the Graf Spee. It was just about in the same position as the man who drives a car while his fellow thug goes in and robs a house or bank. The law would look upon them as being equally guilty.

While officials in Norway are presenting arguments to show why Britain should apologize and other arguments to show that the Altmark ought to be released, there is another kind of reckoning going on in the land. On the very day when Norway was asking Britain for an apology it was reported that three more Norwegian vessels had disappeared, and her fleet of merchant carriers has been hard hit for weeks. The vessels were torpedoed or sunk by mines. And that is the work of Germany.

Norway is in the position of other smaller nations. She is afraid of offending Germany although Germany has offended Norway in a damnable manner ever since the war started.

The British airman who first spotted the Altmark; the British Admiralty who gave the order to go and get the British prisoners on board, and the British destroyer Cossack which carried out the instructions—they all combined to give a demonstration of gallantry and daring which stands out as a mighty fine piece of work by red-blooded men.

A German vessel which since last October had been making a collection of British prisoners at sea, and which had kept them in lousy and poorly-ventilated quarters, and had fed them on nothing more than enough to keep body and soul hitched together! That vessel now claimed as having nothing to do with the war but being in "the service of the state," is enough to cause a strong man to become nauseated and rush for the rail.

When Prime Minister Chamberlain announced there would be no apology sent to Norway he was speaking for all the people of the British Empire. He was speaking for the Peterborough Examiner and for all the people in its district. Norway may be afraid of Germany—but Britain is not.

Who Pays The Taxes?

Colonel George Drew attacked the proposed increase in the corporation tax, the increase boosting the tax from 2 to 5 per cent. His argument can be stated in his own words: "Every tax imposed on business is an added cost to the things purchased by the consumer. . . .When you increase the tax on the C.N.R. you are increasing the obligation on the people themselves."

That theory is sound as a new dollar, but it is a hard one for people to grasp and believe. The very word "corporation" is not popular. It looms in the mind as something where there is a great gathering together of wealth, and therefore as a place where the tax gatherers should go and make heavy collections. It will be taking the money from those who have lots of it.

It is quite in line with the policy of "soak the rich," and we admit that is a popular idea. When we increase the tax upon an insurance company for example, what are we doing? Dealing only with the people who sit in the head office and causing them to pay more out of their own pockets? Not at all. The people at the head office would not long be there, nor would they have any money with which to pay anything at all if it were not for the thousands of people all over the country who have trusted the company with the payments which they are making to provide for their dependents. The insurance company is merely a trustee for all these thousands of people, and if taxation falls too heavily on the company, then it has to be shifted to the people who carry policies with that company, and many of them may have trouble enough making ends meet.

When you soak a wealthy individual who is in business by way of income tax there is no assurance that the individual stays soaked. Not a bit of it, and our belief is that he does not. He is not apt to look upon a heavy tax as his patriotic contribution to the nation. He is more apt to regard it as part of his year's overhead which will have to be absorbed by business methods or recovered in the course of the year's transactions. He looks to the dear general public with whom he does business to repay him for the amount which has been taken from him by taxation. The man on salary is not in that position. He cannot pass his taxation along and has to stand up and deliver.

We do not see the process in operation, but the operation is going on just the same. Increased taxes by governing bodies are constantly being passed on to the consumer. A government may contend it is taxing a corporation, but it is actually taxing the people with whom the corporation does business.

The Attitude Is Right

North Monaghan Council is not going to pay out relief and have recipients spending money in beverage rooms or otherwise coming into possession of beer or liquor. The resolution adopted at the last meeting gives fair enough warning that such practice will mean going off relief.

Apart from the common sense in the resolution there is something which those on relief may not fully understand. If things were allowed to run without regulation so that recipients of relief could do as they pleased, and if it were generally known that they were receiving relief and buying beer at the same time, it would not be long before the whole system of giving relief would fall into disrepute.

People who were paying taxes and thus helping provide relief money would protest, and they would have reason to do so. Relief is primarily for the living needs of a family where want would otherwise exist, and beer, wine and liquor have not yet been recognized as coming within the classification of "living needs."

Working By a Plan

Apart entirely from the defence which Prime Minister King made of his record in his latest address there was something mentioned which Canadians should not overlook, and that is the close-knit understanding and working arrangement which exists between France, Britain and all the nations within the British Empire.

It would be done the same way no matter who was in control at Ottawa, but the method is one which our people ought to understand. We believe it explains a good deal regarding Canada's participation in the war and shows that it is not a hit-and-miss affair, but rather the playing of a part or the assuming of a certain responsibility which has been assigned by the Allied war authorities.

Ottawa is in day-to-day touch with London. In the last war our chief contribution was the sending of troops to France. This time it was considered that strength in the air and at sea were the places where Canada could help to best advantage, although land forces were by no means overlooked.

The manner in which Poland was so quickly subdued was an object lesson to the Allies, and it told them it was necessary to have superiority in the air, and it would have to come just as quickly as possible. There were conferences with other British Dominions and it was decided that Canada was to become the training centre. The major training centre for the entire Empire. There are training centres from Atlantic to Pacific and planes are being manufactured in Canada, in United States and in the United Kingdom. Canada is actually playing the part assigned to her by the British Government.

There is something about such a close knit working plan between London and the Dominions which is satisfying. There is no guess work about it. We have been told where our help can be of greatest aid and there the emphasis of effort is being placed. And that is exactly as it should be.

Lindbergh Writes

Col. Lindbergh has started writing articles for a United States magazine, and a despatch says the first one appeared today, but the name of the magazine is not given. The Colonel is writing about the situation in Europe and there is this quotation given in the despatch:

"It is the old story in a modern world—the right of conquest against the right of possession. Measured by their own standards of today, or their enemies' standards of yesterday and tomorrow, the Germans are as much in the right as the English and French."

That's worth considering without getting too hot under the collar. The Germans are as much in the right as any other nation. When the Germans marched in and took possession of Austria there were nothing much to prevent the move. Germany had might and Austria had nothing but her desire to live. When Germany decided to take the Sudeten area of Czechoslovakia it was on the claim that the people were Germans, and at the Munich conference it was definitely stated that there would be no more aggression. That was a definite promise made by Hitler to Chamberlain. Hitler then proceeded to establish himself and his army in Prague, the capital of Czechoslovakia, and he ultimately swept in the entire nation. He killed and tortured the people, murdered scholars and ruled by terror in a land which he said he would not enter. Quite right according to Lindbergh.

He turned toward Poland and agreed with Stalin that they would divide the spoils. Every move which Hitler made was an invitation to war; it was a challenge to the world to once more engage in the mad rush toward rearmament. Undoubtedly he set the pace which Britain and France had to follow.

Britain had not made threats against any other nation; neither had France. There was not a square foot of territory which they desired, and there is none today which they wish to claim. Britain had actually gone in for a curtailment of armament, and had progressed to a point where serious-minded men believed it was dangerous to continue. If there ever has been concrete and daring evidence of good faith it was there.

But Hitler missed the point entirely. He could see nothing to indicate a desire for world peace, and his only interpretation was that Britain wouldn't fight. And it is true enough to state Britain did not want war. Chamberlain bent away from it until he nearly fell on his back. He was—and is today—essentially a man of peace.

If Britain and France had kept quiet we do not believe there would have been a small nation left in Europe. They would have been choked and strangled in turn, and Col. Lindbergh would have contended that that too was quite all right.

The future safely of the land where Col. Lindbergh lives—and which he so frequently loves to forsake—depends on the outcome of the present war. Lindbergh can't see it because he won't look at it. He prefers to indulge in that mealy-mouthed palaver about all the great nations being the same. If he knows of a square foot of land which the Allies are planning to gain out of this war he should write it down on a piece of paper.

NOTE AND COMMENT

The man who taught Rudy Vallee to play the saxophone is dead, but otherwise people speak highly of him.

For advertising purposes a newspaper sprayed perfume all over one complete issue, and there's no election on in that part of the country either.

Law is a strange thing. It has been announced that one cannot be guilty of stealing a cat in United States, as a cat is not entitled to rank as "property."

One titled Briton has given the Admiralty a torpedo boat. He has a fortune of some 171 million dollars, so he probably feels he has quite a stake in the conflict.

Woman of Montreal, now 100 years old, says her greatest interest is in her 18 grandchildren and 16 great-grandchildren. And if her interest is divided into 34 equal parts then this splendid lady of 100 years would have few dull moments.

THISTLEVILLE

(By A.R.K.)

¶ My friend from Thistleville was in, it's months since I had sight of him, I wait till he begins; of Thistleville he'll sing in praise tell how he spends his happy days, he talks along and grins.

¶ They've had a fair amount of snow, but still they all can come and go, comes thaw they have a change; and when it's cold on winter night, why they can sit there snug and tight, beside the kitchen range.

¶ My friend has got his taxes paid, of being put out he's not afraid, the cellar's full of chow; the cow come fresh two months ago, and though there's still some time to go, there's hay parked in the mow.

¶ Got lots of wood out in the yard, and hens are cackling fairly hard, there's plenty there to eat; my friend don't do much work at all, he says he knocks off in the fall, and takes an easy seat.

¶ He wonders at the folk in town, the way they hasten up and down, he sees them rush and go; he says he couldn't stand the pace, and break each time into a race, when some shop whistles blow.

¶ He'd almost make you like the place, the grin he wears upon his face, a pleasant way is his; I asked him if the place might grow, and he just answered with plain no—he likes it as it is.

Plain System For Taking The Soldier Vote

OTTAWA.—The armed forces are going to vote in the Dominion elections of 1940 under rules every man of them can understand.

Clear-cut and right to the point, the regulations drawn up by the elections officials tell plainly where and when the forces may vote and explain carefully just how the voting is actually done. They sound simple and fool-proof. Jules Castonguay, chief electoral officer, thinks they are.

These "active service voting regulations" were drafted with all the lessons of the last war-time federal election in mind. Bitter criticism was heard in the House of Commons after the taking of the soldier vote in 1917. Charges were aired of manipulation by allotting soldiers' votes to ridings where the Government candidate needed support. Approximately 92 per cent of the soldier vote of 1917 supported the Government.

The overseas soldier vote was recorded during a period of six weeks up to polling day, while soldiers in Canada voted only on polling day. Ballot bags, not boxes, were used. At the front, "floating polls" consisted of bags carried from one trench to another.

The voter was required to make a written declaration on the outside of the envelope into which he put his marked ballot. That declaration included his name, regimental number and the address and constituency from which he enlisted. If he could not recall that, he could put down the last constituency he could remember. If he could not remember any, he could write down in a further space the constituency to which he would prefer his vote to go. The form of this declaration and the fact the ballot was placed directly in an envelope bearing the voter's name were objects of criticism.

The ballot itself contained five spaces. First was a blank space where he could write the name of his candidate. If he could not do that, he chose one of the four other spaces: "I vote for the Government"; "I vote for the Independent candidate"; a vote for the Labor candidate."

Opening of the bags in the 1917 election began about a week after polling day but was not completed until three months after polling had closed. Approximately 233,000 soldiers' votes were recorded. No official statement was made regarding rejected ballots, although an estimate was made that 100,000 soldier ballots were never opened or counted. Typical was the discarding of 900 votes from a camp near Montreal because the declaration form was not filled out properly. From 25,000 to 30,000 soldier votes taken in Canada were not opened for similar reasons.

SYSTEM FOR 1940

In contrast, the declaration the soldier fills in this time is clear-cut. He puts down his ordinary home address at the time of enlistment and the constituency if possible. If he cannot designate his home address, he does not vote.

That information goes on the large envelope, which both the supervising officer and the voter sign. The ballot, containing only one space for the name of the chosen candidate, is placed in a smaller unmarked envelope and sealed by the voter.

The officer places that envelope in the larger envelope and gives it back to the voter. The voting soldier then puts the envelope in the ordinary mail, addressed to the special returning officer of his division. (There are four voting divisions, three in Canada and one overseas with headquarters in London.)

NOMINATE EARLY

To facilitate soldier voting, nominations are being held early, on March 11, in this election. The complete list of candidates will be cabled overseas. Copies of the entire list will be distributed to the commanding officers of all units and posted as part of orders on the unit bulletin board. Each unit commander then will furnish to the special returning officer of the territory a list of the names, ranks and numbers of all members of his unit, as soon as possible.

Voting will take place before a commissioned officer designated for the purpose by the unit commander. Forces overseas will vote March 14-23; those in Canada, March 16-23.

The counting will be done centrally for each of the four territories in the presence of six scrutineers at each, two Liberal, two Conservative, and two chosen by other political groups with six or more members in the House of Commons.

The special returning officer will have a ballot box for each riding. A roll will be made of the voters in each box and the number of ballots checked against it. Counting will be completed by the Monday following.

BUYING BRITISH CARS

Canada bought 20 per cent more British cars during the first three months of the war than in the same period the year before.

Three hundred vehicles a day, the Society of Motor Manufacturers announces, were exported to countries throughout the world on each working day of the third month of war, an increase of 26 per cent over the year before.

Records for the year in the history of the British motor car industry were set up in exports of British motor cars during September, October and November to Australia, India and Burma, Portugal and Uruguay.—London Correspondent.

Adolf Hitler Is Speaking

(Buffalo Courier-Express takes extracts from Rauschning's latest book, "The Voice of Destruction.")

HERMANN RAUSCHNING, former president of the Danzig Senate, used to be a Nazi, himself. That fact helped to add authenticity to his devastating expose of Nazism in his book, The Revolution of Nihilism. And it helped to provide him with plenty of first-hand material both for that book and his latest one, The Voice of Destruction.

The book contains purported verbatim reports of Adolf Hitler's conversations with Herr Rauschning in 1932, just before the Nazis took control of Germany, and in 1933 and 1934 after Hitler had become master of the Reich. Here are a couple of illuminating quotations wherein Herr Hitler expounds his code of ethics.

"Where would we be if we had formal scruples? I simply disregard these things. I am prepared to commit perjury half a dozen times a day."

"Justice is a means of ruling."

Here are a few quotations wherein Hitler revealed a half-dozen years ago his plans for the war which he finally started last September:

"I shall make any treaty I require. It will never prevent me from doing at any time what I regard as necessary for Germany's interests."

"I shall never start a war without the certainty that a demoralized enemy will succumb to the first stroke of a single gigantic attack."

(He got fooled on that one.)

"When I wage war, in the midst of peace troops will suddenly appear, let us say, in Paris. They will wear French uniforms. They will march through the streets in broad daylight. No one will stop them. Everything has been thought out, prepared to the last detail. They will march to the headquarters of the general staff. They will occupy the ministries, the Chamber of Deputies." (Fooled again there.)

"If I can send the flowers of the German nation into the hell of war without the slightest pity for the spilling of precious German blood, then surely I have the right to remove millions of an inferior race that breed like vermin!" (Here the kindly Herr Hitler was talking about Slavs, Moscow papers please copy.)

Here's a quotation which Mussolini will just love:

"The Italians can never be trained to become a warlike people, nor has Fascism ever understood the real meaning of the great upheaval of our era."

Here are a couple which ought to interest Americans:

"With the treasure of Mexican soil, Germany could be rich and great! Why do we not tackle this task?"

"The American is no soldier. The inferiority and decadence of this allegedly New World is evident in its military inefficiency."

And this invites the attention of all who profess any religious faith:

"The religions are all alike, no matter what they call themselves. They have no future—certainly none for the Germans. Fascism, if it likes, may come to terms with the Church. So shall I. Why not? That will not prevent me from tearing up Christianity root and branch and annihilating it in Germany."

To The Editor

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—I imagine that eastern Canadians (and particularly urban readers) would appreciate seeing the following memorial eulogy, for the "great and good man" this country lost on February 11th, written in a western farm journal over the name of the organized wheatgrowers in Saskatchewan. In 1936 the late Governor-General got close to the hearts of the stricken people in the drought areas. He came east and told us: "I have just returned from an extensive tour of some of the worst parts of the Prairies. I have seen households reduced to the bare bones of equipment."

Manifestly, those prairie Canadians have not forgotten. Listen to them:

Today we mourn.
There has been called from the earthly scene a great gentleman, Lord Tweedsmuir, Governor-General.
Soldier, author, administrator, statesman and historian, he gave freely of his gifts to Canada. Neglected sections of the Dominion knew his presence and lonely people were cheered by his visits among them. He was concerned with the needs of the poor, and the condition of those who suffered economic misfortune.
Above all, he gave an example. The heroes of his books were honourable, steadfast men, warriors for the right. He himself followed, through his life, the counsel of the good poet Bryant:
"So live, that when thy summons comes to join
The innumerable caravan which moves
To that mysterious realm where each shall take
His chamber in the silent halls of death,
Thou go not, like the quarry slave at night,
Scourged to his dungeon, but sustained and soothed
By an unfaltering trust, approach thy grave
Like one that wraps the drapery of his couch
About him, and lies down to pleasant dreams."

SUITS THE TURKS

(Ottawa Journal)

The Turks will welcome the thought that this time the hard-fighting Anzacs are on their side.

ACCURATE PREDICTION

FIVE YEARS AGO, when Lord Tweedsmuir came to Canada as Governor-General, the noted American author, Irvin S. Cobb, wrote an appreciation of him which appeared in the Kingston Whig-Standard.

Cobb said he first knew him as "plain John Buchan, writing the best Scotch novels since Robert Louis Stevenson," then as Colonel John Buchan, "handling a bunch of rampaging American correspondents as gently as though they were so many new-laid eggs" at the British war-time press bureau.

"Now, at Ottawa," write Cobb, "the flags fly and the cannons roar for Lord Tweedsmuir, Governor-General of our noble neighbor nation to the north, but, if His Lordship doesn't mind, I'd like, personally, to go on thinking of him as my friend, John Buchan, a very great gentleman. They'll like him up there, we're going to like him down here. And if any of you Canadians has any doubt as to his diversified talents, wait till you see him casting a trout-fly across a likely pool."

STIMULATES CHURCHILL

Although he usually works far into the night, the war seems to have had a stimulating effect on Mr. Churchill.

He has always responded quickly to a demand for action, and his friends are saying that he now seems ten years younger than he did four or five months ago.

When the war is over there will be some good stories to tell of the effects of his electrifying vigor in various quarters of the Senior Service.

He is an exacting chief, generous in praise where it is deserved, but swift to punish what he considers to be any relaxation of vigilance.—News of the World.

HALF-YEAR ADVENTURE

Dr. Charles Wharton Stork, Pennsylvania professor, has had an exciting six months. On September 3, he was on the Athenia when she was sunk, being rescued after nine hours. He is a poet and published a poem about the disaster. Now a court has awarded him over $300,000 from the estate of his great-grandfather who died 66 years ago. Tragedy, literature, money are mingled in this half-year adventure.—Toronto Star.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

And, behold, one came and said unto him, Good Master, what good thing shall I do, that I may have eternal life? And he said unto him, Why callest thou me good? there is none good but one, that, is God: but if thou will enter into life, keep the commandments.

He saith unto him, Which? Jesus said, Thou shalt do no murder, Thou shalt not commit adultery, Thou shalt not steal, Thou shalt not bear false witness, Honour thy father and thy mother: and, Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself.

The young man saith unto him, All these things have I kept from my youth up: what lack I yet?

Jesus said unto him, If thou wilt be perfect, go and sell that thou hast, and give to the poor, and thou shalt have treasure in heaven: and come and follow me. But when the young man heard that saying, he went away sorrowful, for he had great possessions.—Matt. xix: 16-22.

A Bit of Nonsense

Blissful Ignorance

Wife: "Before we were married you told me that you were well off."

Husband: "Yes, I know, but I didn't know then just how well off I really was."

The Reason Why

"Do you ever get any apples off that tree in your garden?"

"No, not a single one."

"Then why not chop it down?"

"'Cos it's a pear tree, old son."

Start Right

"Tell me, please, how I should go about getting a start in the great game of business?"

Soldierly Smartness

Dan Molloy, in many respects a good soldier, had not the virtue of tidiness. Appearing on parade one morning with his boots uncleaned, the sergeant at once dropped on him.

"Private Molloy, fall out!" he roared. "Phwat dy'e mane by comin' here wid your boots in a mess loike that?"

Unsung Heroes Are Members Of Britain's Great Fishing Fleet

A spectacular view of part of Great Britain's huge fishing fleet, sometimes called Britain's food line of defence, coming into port after a trip to the fishing banks. This fleet has thus far borne the brunt of German aerial attacks in the North Sea. The trawlers have been bombed and machine gunned while they did their work. Now the British government has called 10,000 men from the fleet for duty as mine-sweepers. Many trawlers already are doing this dangerous work and many fishermen have lost their lives. But they are a hardy breed, unafraid of anything connected with the sea, and if mines must be swept, they will be there to do the job.

Mission Circle Marks 30th Anniversary

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 22 — (ENS).—An event which had been anticipated with enthusiam was the 30th anniversary celebration of St. Andrew's Young Ladies' Mission Circle, which took place amid an air of festivity on Tuesday evening.

Close to 300 guests were seated at long tables in the Sunday school parlors, which were gaily decorated with yellow and green streamers and balloons. The head table, presided over by the president, Miss Lillian Hay, was, like the others, decorated with green tapers and yellow daffodils and was centred with a three-layer birthday cake lighted with thirty green candles.

Founded Organization

Miss Hay welcomed the guests to the gathering, particularly the former members, and also proposed the toast to the King. The guest of honor, Mrs. G. A. Brown, Kingston, who founded the organization with a group of 27 girls, was guest speaker of the evening. In her informative address she traced the early developments of the society, stating that they had raised $50 during their first year. The department of Strangers was formed in 1911 to keep in touch with men and women who moved from place to place, and nine years later the Young Women's department was established. "We had little difficulty in getting the offices filled," declared Mrs. Brown, speaking of the organization of the group. "Our first work was to send a bale to a needy family in Northern Ontario, and the enthusiasm of these girls was reflected in the wonderful contributions of clothing they made for this."

"The World for Christ' was our slogan in those days and there were many who believed it was so. Yet to-day in many countries men's homes have been bombed and they have had to leave. Now we realize that there is nothing that will keep the missionary societies going except our faith. Our church is fighting with its back to the wall when in a country such as Germany, which is one of the greatest Protestant countries in the world, no person is allowed freedom of worship.

Proper Training

Mrs. Brown emphasized the importance of giving children proper religious training, and expressed great alarm at the smattering of training which they were now receiving by attending Sunday school for an hour a week. Most of them only attend until late in their teens, she said, and as a result are not getting the proper religious background and Biblical training. She strongly urged that religion should be taught in the schools.

Called on to propose a toast to the Church, one of the elders, J. F. MacGregor, said he believed that present world conditions were doing much to bring together Christianity and Judaism. Rev. B. Simpson Black, who responded to this, declared "The Church, like the home, is an unspeakably great institution and is one of the pillars of society. We are dealing with the one organization throughout the world which is divine as well as human. It is only the Church which can boast of a great Leader who never lost a battle."

A toast to the W.M.S. was proposed by Mrs. Robert McCulloch, the president of that organization, and Mrs. A. G. Thompson, president of the Peterborough Presbyterial of the W.M.S. responded by reviewing the progress of "the forces for good" in the past 19 centuries. A toast to the missionaries at home and abroad was proposed by Miss Hazel Atkinson and Mrs. Edison Wynn and Mrs. John Storie gave a brief resume of the early history of the Mission Circle. Other items on the program included vocal solos by Mrs. F. G. DeCarrol and Mrs. A. G. Watson.

Miss Ferne Longmuir of Toronto and Mr. Walter Burg of Detroit, Mich., were week-end visitors with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Longmuir and family.

Miss Debra Longmuir left Sunday for Detroit, Mich., to visit her sister, Mrs. B. B. Clark, Mr. Clark and family.

OBITUARIES

MRS. JOHN INGRAM.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 22 — (ENS)—Fuheral services for the late Mrs. John Ingram, 89, were conducted on Wednesday afternoon by Rev. M. E. R. Boudreau, D.D., from the home of Mr. Ernest Ingram, Seymour Township. A native of Seymour, Mrs. Ingram died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Frank E. Bowman, Detroit, Mich., on Saturday.

With the exception of the past two years, she had spent her entire life in this district, and for many years took an active part in the work of Burnbrae Church, of which she was a member.

Surviving her are three daughters, Mrs. F. E. Bowman, Detroit; Mrs. M. Harrison, Toronto; Mrs. John Barlow, Dunkirk, N.Y., and three sons: Edward of California and Archie and Ernest, both of Seymour.

ALISON LUMSDEN.

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 22—(ENS). — The funeral of the late Miss Alison Lumsden, aged 88 years, was held from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ben. McCoy, Bridge Street, Lakefield, on Monday afternoon.

Miss Lumsden was one of a family of ten children, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Lumsden, of Keene. She had made her home in Keene until June of last year, when she came to live with her niece, Mrs. McCoy, in whose home she died on Saturday.

She was a member of Knox Presbyterian Church, Keene, and also the W.M.S., but of late years her health prevented her from being a regular attendant.

The funeral service was conducted by Rev. J. M. Young of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Lakefield.

WILLIAM BRISTOW.

MILLBROOK, Feb. 22—(ENS). — The death of William Bristow which took place on Sunday, following an extended period of ill-health, removed a well-known citizen of Cavan Township, of which he had been a life-long resident.

Mr. Bristow, who was in his sixty-second year, was a son of the late Alexander Bristow, and his wife, Annie Lang, pioneer residents of Cavan. He was one of a family of thirteen children, of whom six sisters—Mrs. Norman Dunbar, Mrs. Louis LeBarr, Mrs. Edward Boyler, Mrs. Marvin Winslow, all of Peterborough; Mrs. E. Blue of North Bay, and Mrs. George Todd of Omemee, and one brother, Leslie Bristow, of Peterborough, still survive.

Mr. Bristow was a staunch Conservative in politics, and attended the Carmel United Church, to which he gave faithful attendance and support. Besides the relatives already mentioned, the other immediate survivors include the bereaved widow, whose maiden name was Martha J. McMahon, also a member of a pioneer family of the township; three daughters: Mrs. Victor Gilmour of Carmel, Mrs. Alma Pudsey of Cavan, Marjorie at home, and two sons: Leslie of Millbrook and Hilliard of Peterborough. Two daughters, Hazel (Mrs. Wilbert Lunn) and Phyllis, who died in infancy, were previous deceased.

The funeral, which was very largely attended, took place from the family homestead, Fourth Line, Cavan, on Tuesday at 2.30 p.m., the service being conducted by Rev. A. L. Sisco, B.D. The pall-bearers were three old neighbors, George Bonner, John Pritchard and W. H. Armstrong, from the vicinity of his home in earlier years; and three neighbors living near his late homestead, George Patterson, Charlie Gardiner and Malcolm Ward.

Floral tributes were many and beautiful, and the flower bearers were: Alvin Olan, Albert Olan and Norman Elmer. Interment was in the family burial-plot in St. Paul's Cemetery, Fourth Line, Cavan.

All yeast manufacture in South Africa has been placed under government control.

Trent River Ladies Finish Seventh Quilt

TRENT RIVER, Feb. 22—(ENS)—Members of the War Workers met Tuesday afternoon for quilting. The quilt was finished and ready for binding, making the seventh finished since the work began.

Finished pyjamas were brought in the same afternoon, and a quantity of yarn for socks was given out. A number of the members returned the same evening to the rooms to begin quilting on their eighth quilt with the ninth in the making. Another donation of thread was received. The regular meeting of the war service workers will be held Tuesday afternoon, February 27. Special business will be discussed.

Mr. and Mrs. James Longmuir of "Sunny Slope" Farm, are observing their forty-third wedding anniversary Friday, February 23.

Mr. and Mrs. Orville Watts have moved their household effects to Dummer, where they will take up residence.

Mr. and Mrs. M. T. Lean were Tuesday visitors at Peterborough.

Produce Better Hogs, Cheese Farmers Warned

TORONTO, Feb. 22—(CP).—Hon. P. M. Dewan, Ontario Agriculture Minister, in an address before the Ontario Good Roads Association, today warned farmers that if they hope to retain the present larger markets for bacon and cheese in Great Britain after the war, they must be particularly vigilant in producing and exporting highest quality produce.

"In wartime the farmer should do those things he has been doing in the past but make every effort to do them better," said Mr. Dewan. "He should emphasize and reasonably increase upon the production of those farm commodities for which there is and will be an enlarged demand in Great Britain. I am thinking of such articles as bacon, cheddar cheese and concentrated milk products."

The Agriculture Minister said that more and more Ontario farmers are appreciating the wisdom of using good seed of the recommended varieties. Much interest had also been shown by farmers in recent years with regard to testing of soils.

Dealing with livestock production, Mr. Dewan said some concern has been caused by the prevalence of swine disease in southwestern Ontario. The government has arranged to send a few "of our most expert veterinarians into this district immediately."

Room For More Sheep.

"We entered the war with a shortage of wool and it would appear that there is room for increased sheep production," said the Minister. The Ontario sheep population 35 years ago was 2,000,000 and it is now 850,000, and "sheep and wool furnish quick cash returns."

"No doubt one of the causes of sheep raisers going out of sheep has been the damage by dogs," he continued. "It is true that Ontario is credited with having the best dog legislation of any province in Canada. I refer to our dog tax and livestock protection act."

The act at first provided compensation for sheep losses only but was extended to include cattle. Mr. Deman said that recently the government has been requested to widen the application of the act to cover horses, hogs and poultry.

The Agriculture Minister told his audience that in recent years there has been a marked improvement in roadside weed cutting. He expressed his appreciation to highway officials and municipal officers for co-operation.

Fenella Farmer Lost His Home

ROSENEATH, Feb. 22—(ENS)—Fire caused by an overheated chimney destroyed the large farm home of Arthur Murphy, Fenella, about four miles southeast of Roseneath, on Wednesday.

Most of the contents of the downstair rooms were removed, but the fire had gained too great headway when discovered to allow removing the furniture from the upstairs rooms.

Dog's 'Evidence' Convicts In Liquor Case

REGINA, Feb. 22—(CP).—Royal Canadian Mounted Police dogs have been trained to uncover hidden liquor, it was testified in court yesterday as a dog's "evidence" was accepted for what is believed to be the first time by a Canadian court.

The dog was big and happy Black Lux and his "mouthpiece" was Constable E. Moore, who told how the dog uncovered some bottles, one containing liquor, in mangers at a barn on the farm of Chris. Hamann, in the Zehner district northeast of Regina.

Hamann, charged with having liquor in other than a dwelling, was convicted by Magistrate J. A. Fraser and fined $50 and costs.

Constable Moore, subjected to considerable questioning about the training of dogs, said he took the dog to the locality where liquor was believed to be hidden.

Before commanding the dog to make a search, he said, he let it smell a vial of liquor—or homebrew—depending upon which the dog was to seek.

The dog was allowed then to roam at will, sniffing here and there, until he uncovered the liquor, in this case found in mangers, said Constable Moore.

Death For Looting

Paris, Feb. 22 (AP)

TWO artillerymen, Rene Lillier and Paul German Roy, were condemned to death today by a military tribunal for robbing a villa. The sentence was imposed under a wartime law providing the extreme penalty for looting houses from which occupants have been evacuated.

A third gunner, Leon Jean Marie, who left barracks with the others but declared he refrained from taking part in the robbery, was sentenced to ten years at hard labor.

The loot in the robbery was 10,000 francs (about $230) worth of clothes, wine and linen from a villa at Bougival near Versailles.

Red Cross Group Busy On Quilts

HAVELOCK, Feb. 22—(ENS). — Thirty members of the Havelock-Belmont Red Cross Society assembled on Monday afternoon in the local work-room, to quilt, make quilt blocks, and label the finished articles.

The president Mrs A. McLauchlin, presided for the meeting, at which receipts during the past week were reported as follows: proceeds from cards party, $25; collection at motion picture, $2.80; donation, $1.

All the completed quilts, sweaters, socks, scarfs, etc., which the local branch now has on hand will be placed on display for the public at next Monday's meeting, prior to packing them for shipment. In addition to the display of handiwork, an afternoon tea will be served, and an admission of 10 cents charged.

The refreshment committee for the day was named as follows: Mrs. S. J. W. Clarke, Mrs. Wm. Copp, Mrs. H. Pollock, Mrs. R. F. Sovert, Mrs. R. J. McCutcheon, Mrs. T. P. Lancaster, Mrs. M. Poste, Mrs H. Davies, Miss M. Seeney, Miss E. Wright. Presentation of the certificates to the members of the recent home nursing class, will if possible, be arranged also for this afternoon.

Joint Meeting Is Held By Lakefield Groups

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 22—(ENS).—St. Andrew's Young People's Society entertained the members of the sister society of the Lakefield United church on Monday evening. Over fifty young people were present and joined in the devotional exercises, under the leadership of the vice-president of St. Andrew's, Miss Mary Blewett, assisted by Rev. J. M. Young.

The visiting society provided the program, which consisted of a humorous reading, "Ma and Her Cheque Book," by Jean Miller, and a solo "The Old Spinning Wheel," rendered by Mucreta Hull. Mrs. (Rev.) George Kelly led in several contests.

The remainder of the evening was pleasantly spent in games, with Mrs. C. Lee, Mrs. A. Rosborough and Misses Jean Clark and Phyllis Webdale in charge.

Dainty refreshments and the singing of the National Anthem brought the evening to a close.

Hastings Y.P.U. Plans Crokinole Party

HASTINGS, Feb. 22 — (ENS). — Orchestra music opened the Young People's meeting of Trinity United church, held on Monday evening, when twenty-eight were present.

The devotional period, conducted by Mrs. J. E. Glover, included a reading based on the Scripture, by Miss Helen Collins, and followed by prayer by Mrs. Cecil Oliver.

During the business session, plans were made to hold a crokinole party on Tuesday evening, March 5. Miss Ruby Fleming, the missionary convener, was in charge of the program. Mrs. H. Edwards gave a reading "Are You Doing Your Bit for the Empire"; Miss Ruth Lucas contributed a solo; Miss Iden Bonds gave a reading "Pray, Don't find Fault." A guitar solo by Learl Beavis was greatly enjoyed. Miss Jessie Lamb gave an outline of the 3rd chapter of the study book on "Hills of India". A solo "This is My Task," by Mr. Earl Darling, concluded the program.

Baden Powell 83

LONDON, Feb. 22.—(CP).— Lord Baden-Powell, founder of the Boy Scouts, is 83 years old to-day, and he finds old age "ripping."

In a message to the Scout movement, he added that he feels much the same as the late Duke of Cambridge when the latter, well over 80, observed:

"Because I'm a bit gone in the knees they think my brain is correspondingly weak. I'll show 'em."

OMEMEE HAWKS BEAT LOCK CO. EAGLES IN 1st PLAYOFF GAME

Penalties Hurt Local Crew In Lively Fray

Omemee Black Hawks defeated the local Lock Co. Eagles by an 8-3 count in Omemee last night in the first game of their three-in-five district league final playoffs. Second game will be Friday evening in Omemee and a third tilt may be in Peterborough next Monday.

Last night's struggle was an exciting, hard-fought one with the Hawks having an edge most of the route. They had a 3-2 lead in the first period and were in front 5-2 going into the third. Play was fast and rugged with fights threatening several times, and one major penalty handed out in the second period.

Parsons Stars.

F. Parsons starred for the winners, scoring four goals in a fine showing, with Tripp also effective, while the whole gang clicked in good style. Mortimer and Burke were probably the best for the losers, all the puckists working hard. Penalties hurt their cause considerably. Of the 13 penalties handed out, the Eagles drew eight.

The teams:

Eagles — Goal, King; defence, Prete and Cournyea; centre, Gilbert; wings, Burke and Watkins; alternates, Snarr, West, Pryde, Mortimer and White.

Hawks— Goal, Fisher; defence, Williamson and T. Parsons; centre, Tripp; wings, F. Parsons and Jamieson; alternates, Brooks, Ellis, Brockley and Deyell.

Referee— Lou LeBarr, Peterborough.

Summary:

First Period—
Eagles—Cournyea 8.00
Omemee—F. Parsons (Tripp) .. 9.30
Eagles—West (Snarr) 12.30
Omemee—Williamson (Jamieson) 16.00
Omemee—F. Parsons 19.00
Penalties—Cournyea (2), Mortimer, Williamson, Watkins.

Second Period—
Omemee—F. Parsons 8.00
Omemee—Brooks (Brockley) 19.45
Penalty—T. Parsons.

Third Period—
Eagles—Gilbert 1.00
Omemee—F. Parsons 3.00
Omemee—T. Parsons 5.00
Omemee—Brockley (Ellis, Brooks) 13.00
Penalties—F. Parsons, Burke (2), Cournyea (2), Brockley, Brooks.

Young's Point Wins

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 22.—(ENS). — Lakefield "Bullets" and Young's Point played an exhibtion game here in the rink last night, with the Young's Point team winning 12-8. Slow ice hindered both teams a great deal. The teams:

Young's Point— Goal, McNaughton; defence, Young, Godfrey; centre, Hockaday; wings, Bullock, Cummings; subs, Coons, Brooks, Blewett, Dunford.

Referee—Joe Blewett, Lakefield.

Badminton Pair Defeats World Champion

Grant Henry and Dr. Wright of Millbrook, members of the Peterborough Badminton Club, defeated the world's professional champion, George Goodwin of Montreal and his partner J. Purkis of Toronto in an exhibition men's doubles match here last night. Playing before 200 followers of the game in the Market Hall in several exhibitions, Goodwin demonstrated sparkling play. The Wright-Henry victory resulted from concentrated play by this pair against Goodwin's partner.

Flashing speed and exceptional ability, the pro champion was well worth watching. He took part in four matches against local badminton club members. While the Peterborough players gave a good account of themselves, they were clearly outclassed in all but the men's doubles. Following the matches, the visiting stars were entertained.

The standout performance of the evening was the men's doubles with Grant Henry and Dr. Wright defeating Goodwin and Purkis by scores of 18-15, 15-12 and 17-16, the four players working at top speed and with noteworthy form in the hard-fought contests. In the mixed doubles, Goodwin and Florence Adams defeated Mrs. P. Hall and Bill Brown in handy fashion, 15-2 and 15-2. Goodwin and Purkis staged a fast men's singles match with the former winning 15-3 and 15-5. In another men's singles, Goodwin defeated Grant Henry by scores of 15-2 and 15-2.

St. Kitts Clinch 2nd Hole, Edge Sailors 2-1

TORONTO, Feb. 22.—(CP)—Position of the four teams in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior "A" series was decided last night by St. Catharines' 2-1 victory over Port Colborne Sailors. The Saints clinched second place behind the defending champions, Toronto Goodyears. Sailors wound up third with Hamilton fourth, Niagara Falls fifth and Galt last.

In the opening round of the playoffs Friday Toronto will entertain to Port Colborne while Hamilton travels to St. Catharines.

The Ports-Saints final tussle last night proved a close-checking affair. Reynolds shot the Saints ahead in 10 seconds but five minutes later McKelvie equalized. The count remained level until halfway through the third period when Buell lashed home the winning goal.

Galt threatened to enter the winning column for the first time in 26 games in the game at Hamilton. The luckless tailenders led 3-2 at the end of the first period but finished on the short end of a 13-7 count. Barlow with five markers was leading marksman of the Hamilton puckmen. McLeod and Conick with two apiece, Walker, Tonn, Dinning, Robertson and Miocinovich were other scorers for the winners. Riley and Elmes got two each for Galt and Fox, Liscombe and Sarkesian one apiece.

The O.H.A. champs blanked the intercollegiate pucksters 4-0. Turney and O'Flaherty each netted a pair of tallies to hand Varsity its first defeat in 18 games this season More than 11,000 fans saw the game staged primarily to aid the Finnish relief fund.

"Y" Swimming Club Competes In Toronto

Gord Minty, Y.M.C.A. swimming director, is taking his team to Toronto Broadview Y.M.C.A. this Saturday night to take part in an open Ontario meet. The junior relay team of Jim Brown, Ray Routly, Don Pinch and Ralph Rogow, who showed up well against the Orillia lads last Saturday, will compete for the championship of Ontario in the 160 yard free style junior relay against teams from Toronto, Hamilton, Kitchener, St. Catharines and Windsor.

Besides the relay members, Warren Marshall and Gordon Wallace will enter their first races in open competition in the 40 yards free style for boys 14 and under.

Wallace Wins

In this week's handicap swim, the 100 yards free style, Gordon Wallace was the victor with Jim Brown only a stroke behind him. Ray Routly, who placed third only two fifths of a second behind Wallace and Brown, improved his time by over five seconds for the distance.

Complete results of the races were as follows:

First Semi-final—1, Wallace; 2, J. Brown; 3. A. Brown.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC PERDUE

Those young puck-playing pugilists, Oshawa Bees and the Colts, clash here on the morrow in a playoff joust. Which calls to mind that famous poem written anonymously away back on Feb. 21st, 1940, like this:

Coach Archie O'Weir said: "Bhoys, never fear
We'll lick those divvile of Oshawa Bees,
Ne'er let it be said a team I have led Didn't win their group title, puh-leeze!"

And went after those poor Oshawa souls;
They shure won that bout with never a doubt
By a pair o' black eyes and three goals!

Yeah, those scrappy junior "B" puckists resume hostilities at the Brock Avenoo at 8.30 tomorrow e'en, the fourth game of their group final series. Colts must win or fade from the playoff picture pronto. It will be a humdinger of a struggle and anyone who saw their last clash here will back us up all the way on that bet. Oshawa has two wins and the Colts one, so this is most important to the locals. And we rather like their chances on home ice, especially as the starry Peters may be missing from the Bees' lineup. 'It'll be redhot, tight hockey with fights as liable to break out as abuse at the British in a Berlin rag. Don't pass it up, folks.

* * * * * *

Generals And Petes

And another good game that should be worth seeing is down in Oshawa tonight at 8.30. An exhibition affair betwixt the junior "A" Generals —Memorial Cup champs—and the Petes. Twice the locals have tangled with the Dominion winners and twice the Generals have nudged out a win. The Quinte scribe says the Petes will never beat 'em till those fast-stepping boys have long white beards but we wouldn't faint with surprise if the speedy Petes took 'em tonight. It'll be a good scrap and a few folks from here will likely motor down to see some real hockey.

At the bump emporium on the Rue Brock this p.m., three Industrial Hockey League squabbles are listed. Brintons clash at 7.30 with the Packers, Mariners and Quakers mix it at 8.30, and Rays play Watercrafts at 9.30. If you're a puck gourmet, that middle game sound best to us as both clubs are right up there at the top of the heap and both have class in gobs. Westclox draws the bye in this triple-header. At this writing, we hadn't heard the result of the executive's decision on a couple of protests but it should be in elsewhere tonight. This loop winds up in another week and then the playoffs, semi-finals and finals, commence. The teams are playing pretty interesting hockey right now and well worth a look.

As for basketball here this week-end, there are three girls' games Friday eve in the Y.W.C.A., three school jousts tomorrow eve at P.C.I. and two men's games Saturday evening at the Y.M.C.A. It's like this tomorrow at the Y.W.: St. John's vs. "Y" Gym at seven, Aces vs. Westclox at eight, and Cobourg Grads (Ont. champs) vs. Orfuns at nine. At P.C.I. gym, three Fort Hope teams, senior boys, senior gals and junior boys, tackle local Garnet and Gray gangs in interscholastic fixtures. And Saturday night in the "Y", these City Loop tilts are on: Bees vs. C.G.E. at 7.15 and Zephyrs vs. Dominions at 8.15. A heavy cage week-end here.

Must have been 200 interested spectators spectating in the Market Hall last e'en as George Goodwin of Montreal, world's pro badminton champ, put on a lively exhibition of real ability to swat the birdies around. Goodwin won his title by trimming Bill Markham of N'Yawk after Markham rubbed out Jack Purcell. He is now sort of touring the province and will be in Belleville in a night or two. Grant Henry and Dr. Wright of Millbrook, local club members, defeated Goodwin and J. Purkis, of Toronto, 18-15, 15-12 and 17-16, in a swelegant men's doubles. Of course this classy pair poured the play into Purkis' court to cop the win. Two men's singles and a mixed doubles were also seen.

Cobourg Is One Up

Lindsay Midgets dropped the first game of their junior "C" group finals to Cobourg on Scugog ice last eve, 5 to 4. The Midgets were minus a couple of regular players and the improved Cobourgites earned the nod. Dunno whether or not it's a home-and-home series or maybe a two-in-three affair. One of the Lindsay lads had to give the game a pass owing to a leg injury and two more had the mumps. It is not only embarrassing but downright inconvenient when a mump gets aboard a hockey player at this time of year and multiplies. After all, one does not even get sympathy for mumps; folks somehow figure mumps a humorous matter!

A warmish February sun has played the dickens with ice on outdoor rinks down this way lately, and postponed minor loop puck matches are the order these days. Church League can't get going on its playoffs and we doubt if there'll be ice tonight. Ditto with the Southend League. However, there'll be plenty of cold weather yet for these circuits to clean up on, and our main worry is that the Petes will run out of ice in their playoff setup. Generally happens that way, when the best games roll around we have indifferent ice as winter and spring fight it out.

Up and Down Sports' Rialto: King Edward and Prince of Wales have a School Puck Loop playoff at 4.30 this aft in the Brock....Big Fritz Fraser (No. 3), husky defenceman of Oshawa Bees, can be stopped as Bob Strickland demonstrated last game; Bob really bashed him....Hockey is all through (except for juvenile) in Belleville for this winter now....Most of the scoring in the "C" game in Lindsay last twilight came in the first period....We have just learned that nothing came of the Industrial Loop's meeting last night to consider protests....Seems there weren't enough on hand, so the meeting was postponed till next Wednesday eve at eight in Duffus'....Local boxers have been hitting into tough luck lately trying to line up a good spot for training quarters; they should be drilling right now and stage a show in the spring....Petes are momentarily expecting word from Sec. Hewitt of a round-robin series for the locals, Port Colborne, Kitchener and the Collingwood-Owen Sound winner....As Kitchener is pretty much the senior "B" Waterloo team of last year, and Collingwood and Port Colborne were 1939 intermediate "A" finalists, it looks like the Petes' soft touches for the year are all over, eh? ....Omemee Hawks took an 8-3 win o'er Lock Co. Eagles last p.m. in the first of their three-in-five loop playoffs; next game is Friday in Omemee and then maybe here Monday....And that's that.

Peterboro' Rink In 4th Round Of Royal York

TORONTO, Feb. 22 — (CP). — Only four rinks remained unbeaten today among 124 quartets which entered the Ontario bonspiel Monday. All were members of Toronto curling clubs.

Skips in the charmed circle were D. P. J. Kelly of the Granite club, H. A. Dickson of High Park, and H. H. Chisholm and T. S. Graham of the Toronto Curling Club. Kelly, who won the North American Life and Seagram trophies as well as the Grand Aggregate last year, has posted seven straight victories, while Dickson, Chisholm and Graham have six each. They have yet to play second round games in the Selberling event.

Kelly's foursome scored three on the last end of overhaul Ken Miles' Toronto High Park four and win 10-9 in the Royal York third round last night. Earlier he nosed out I. A. Solomon's strong McIntyre rink 11-10 in the second round of the Selberling.

Seven other Toronto rinks were among the 16 surviving the Royal York third round along with fours skipped by R. P. Best of Peterborough, Peter Gilbert of Chatham, H. W. Walker of Chatsworth, A. R. Tarlton of Hamilton and W. H. Keller of Midland.

Double Winners

Gar Redden of London and Alex Hayes of Sarnia were double winners yesterday. Both piloted their rinks to second round victories in the North American Life and Seagram events.

Other Western Ontario skips to win second round games were A. E. Dunker of Kitchener in the North American Life, W. A. Watson of Sarnia in the Royal York and W. J. Wright of London. Winning skips in the Canada Dry first round were E. McIntyre of Guelph, R. J. Green of Agincourt and Charles Barber of Seaforth.

Only Northern Ontario rinks to survive the second rounds yesterday were I. A. Solomon's McIntyre four in the Birks-Ellis-Ryrie, W. J. Card of Chapleau in the North American Life and A. E. Stephenson of New Liskeard in the Seagram. R. L. McIntosh of North Bay, Davie Walker of Fort William and A. W. Lang of Timmins won first round games in the Canada Dry.

W. J. Drysdale of Kingston also won a first round Canada Dry match, defeating Dr. A. W. Irwin of Wingham 9-8.

BLACKOUT FLASH FATAL

LONDON—(CP).—When a bus driver was momentarily blinded by a flash from an electric torch in the blackout, he ran down and killed an elderly couple. Verdict—"accidental death."

PRO PUCK PERSONALITIES

REG HAMILTON
Toronto Maple Leafs

(By Central Press Canadian)

A roar from the crowd goes up at the Maple Leaf Gardens, Toronto, any time one of the home players scores — the same as in any other rink in the country — but there's a little extra something in the cheering when the goal comes from the stick of Reg Hamilton on such few occasions as he beats the opposing goalie, something he's done just over half a dozen times in his four-year career. Reg is a rarity in that almost his entire career has been spent in one place, Toronto. He played through the usual midget, bantam, etc., ranks until he reached Marlboro Juniors, whom he helped to a provincial tie eight years ago. Two years later he was with St. Michael's College and this time his efforts were further rewarded as the team went through to the Dominion championship. Spent his first pro season acquiring experience at Syracuse. And for the past season he's been a regular Leaf defenceman—as he is this season, although he has seen less action than usual because of the team's system of rotating six players at the two defence posts. Born at Toronto, he'll be 26 this April. Weighs around 190 and can use his weight—and elbows—effectively. He is of the defending defenceman school rather than that which favors rushing, and his scoring output, prior to this season totalled four goals, 18 assists, for 22 points. He's spent 129 minutes on penalty benches.

Bees And Colts Tangle Here In Playoff Tilt

Oshawa Bees will be here tomorrow (Friday) night to tangle with the local Colts in the fourth game of their three-in-five O.H.A. junior "B" group final series. The Bees have won two out of the three played to date, copping both home contests by losing to the young Petes here last week. The Weir-coached squad must win this tilt or drop out of further competition for this season. Site of the possible fifth game has not been decided upon definitely yet, but may be in the Motor City. The group winner next meets Kingston in the first round of provincial playdowns.

Friday night's fray should draw a big crowd of fans as these junior teams are serving up a rousing, fighting playoff series. They put on a dandy redhot number here last Friday with action piling on top of more action. They are well-matched and both inclined to rough it up and mix in fights. This feud will be at fever heat at the Brock tomorrow and a memorable playoff melee should ensue. The Colts are at full strength but the Bees may be minus Gar Peters, out with a shoulder injury.

NORWOOD AND TWEED CAPTURE TRENT VALLEY LEAGUE GAMES

Tweed Terriers Hand Madoc 10-4 Trimming

TWEED, Feb. 22 (ENS).—Snapping out of a three-game slump on Wednesday night, Tweed Terriers checked the Madoc team into the ice and hammered home a 10-4 trouncing. In the first period the Terriers grabbed a 3-2 lead. Madoc opened the scoring with Akey being the marksmen. The Terriers romped right back to tally two quick counters, with Elsbury taking a pass from Tummon for the first, and Wagar banging in a rebound from Orr. Akey tied the count. Wagar tallied his second goal of the evening on a three-way pass from Wagar and Elsbury. No penalties were handed out in this frame..

In the second, Heyworth tied it again. Wagar taking a pass from Courneyea scored. Elsbury went on a solo to bang in a drive past Martin for the fifth for the home team, and Wagar then took another three-way pass from Elsbury and Courneyea. Embury rapped in a long drive. This goal was disputed by the Terriers claiming an offside; however, the referees allowed the score to stand. Heyworth tallied the freak goal of the evening, shooting a high drive from the blue line, which hit the screen and dropped down on Reeves' back into the nets.

In the last period, the Terriers checked Madoc down and tallied four themselves. Keller in stopping a drive at the blue line received a hard drive in the face which sent him to the dressing-room for repairs. Wagar and Elsbury scored, and then Elsbury took a pass form Wagar and Courneyea to rap in the Terriers' ninth goal of the game. Courneyea, the flash of the right wing on the Terriers' line-up, and playmaker for Elsbury and Wagar, tall'ed the last goal of the period on a three-way pass from Wagar and Elsbury.

The linueps:

Madoc — Goal, Martin; defence, Embury, Hawthorne; centre, Keller; wings, Akey, Heyworth; subs., F Stewart, Gilman, Cooey, G Stewart, Kirby, Gilman.

Fate Of Red Sox All On Pitchers

SARASOTA, Fla., Feb. 22.—(AP)—Just how far Boston Red Sox get in the 1940 American League pennant chase, Manager Joe Cronin believes, depends entirely on the pitching staff.

As for the rest of the lineup, which will include young Dominic Dimaggio, the Red Sox boss and shortstop says it's "all set."

"With fellows like Jimmy Foxx, Bobby Doerr, Ted Williams, Jim Tabor, and Roger Cramer, we have plenty of powers," Cronin explained.

"Everybody said Bill Butland and Herbie Hash of Minneapolis were the best looking pitchers in the minors last year," the Boston pilot recalled, "and we've got them both. Lefty Grove appears able to go on forever, and we're counting on him again."

Norwood Midget Squad Loses In Playdowns

HAVELOCK, Feb. 22.—(ENS)—Norwood were eliminated from the Ontario Amateur Midget Association playdowns when Trenton copped a close 3-2 victory over them last night at the Norwood arena. The visitors took the round 10 to 9, the initial game of the home-and-home series having resulted in a 7-all tie.

Outplaying their opponents for the better part of the match, the homesters were clutchnig a 1-0 margin going into the final canto. After eight minutes in this session Lamorre tallied the tieing goal from a scramble, and then a penalty to Hamilton of Norwood for tripping spelled complete disaster for the locals. In the short space of those two minutes the visitors slipped home a pair of counters, Lamorre notching the second and giving Richards a pass for the third. On his return, Hamilton retaliated for another Norwood goal, but further efforts on their part were upset by the superb netminding of Anderson in the visitors' cage.

Trenton held a slight edge early in the initial stanza, Norwood strengthening towards the halfway point when Hamilton tallied unassisted. There were no penalties this session which was fast and wide-open. In the middle frame the visitors failed to get organized while Norwood was short-handed, Hubbel getting the nod for tripping Schensel. Johnson and Rosenplatt went off together for mixing it and a later penalty to Davis of Trenton gave the homesters the odd-man advantage. Several attempts were thwarted by Anderson. Norwood had the best of the play at the start of the third, and were bidding fair to increase their count when Lamoore turned tables by deadlocking the score. This apparently inspired the visitors to greater effort, and Hamilton's penalty further lended them to victory. The teams:

Trenton: Goal, Anderson; defense, Wiggins, Davis; centre, Filion; wings, Lamorre, Richards; alternates, Schensel, Langman, Allison, Buck, Rosenplatt.

Norwood: Goal, Parcells; defense, Jamieson, Hamilton; centre, Johnson; wings, Cole, Rogers; alternates, Pollock, Rusaw, Nelson, Scriver, Hubbel.

NORWOOD, Feb. 22—(ENS).—Unbeaten in the second half of the Trent Valley League schedule, the hustling Norwood Hornets chalked up their sixth straight victory with a 5-3 decision over the flying Batas from Frankford, in a fast, clean tussle last ight at Norwood arena.

Holding grimly to the top rung of the T.V.L. ladder, Alex Kempt's squad have dropped only one game in their last fifteen encounters. The leaders take a brief rest now before entering a crucial part of the remaining schedule. Their next game will be in Campbellford on Monday evening, and the closely contending Sunocos will be back in Norwood on Wednesday. These two tilts will have a decided bearing on the final T.V.L. standing.

Wide-open practically all the way, last night's tussle provided plenty of work for both goalies, Rogers of Frankford in particular was a mighty busy gent as he endeavored to protect his citadel from enemy thrusts. He and McMaster of the homesters robbed players of almost sure goals, on numerous occasions.

Holding an edge in the early part of the initial canto, Norwood kept up a sustained ganging attack until Richardson finally counted their opening goal at the eight minute mark. Their lead was short-lived however for Meyette combined with Reid to tally less than a minute later. Reid, Batas speedy centre, banged in a second.

The Batas forechecking style of hockey kept the Hornets thoroughly disorganized during the first half of the middle frame. The locals finally broke loose, however, and W. Rogers batted home a rebound from Brady's shot, for the tieing counter, with Rogers sprawled beside the cage. Less than a minute afterwards Hornets again took the lead. Hill notching this one with Rothwell assisting. W. Rogers was gated for tripping Guay, and Rothwell drew a penalty for boarding Reid just as this session ended.

Norwood held the fort until Rothwell returned in the final stanza, and then increased their margin when the latter combined with Hill for their fourth goal. Hill also made the play for a marker by Pep Rogers five minutes later. Reid and O'Leary went off together for roughing it and just as they returned, Pollard combined with Reid for Frankford's third and final counter. The visitors enjoyed the odd-man advantage in the last minute and a half of play, with O'Leary again parked in the cooler.

Outstanding for both teams of course were their respective goalies. Most of the locals turned in a good game, with Hill, Brady, Rothwell and Aboud being exceptionally good. For the losers, Reid, Stojan, Dore Pollard and Guay were most effective. The teams:

Referees: H. Finnegan, Frankford; R. Ennis, Norwood.

Charles (Chuck) Fenske, of Wisconsin, proves his right to succeed Glenn Cunningham as the outstanding miler of the United States, as he flies to a 4 minute 7.4 second triumph in the 29th Baxter mile at New York Athletic Club games in Madison Square Garden. He is shown leading the pack around the turn into the home stretch. Lou Zamperini, of California, is trailing him in second place, and Glenn Cunningham and Gene Venske, fight for third—with Gene getting it.

Riversides Whip Zion Hill 4-0

TWEED, Feb. 22 (ENS). — In the second game of the Centre Hastings League finals, Glen Ross Riversides trounced the Zion Hill Irish Terriers 4-0 on Tuesday night, before a packed house. The series now stands tied at one game each.

The game was fast and clean, with Referees Hulin and Wallace handing out only one penalty. Within the first five minutes, Armstrong was chased for a trip, and while playing a man short Glen Ross forced the play, and Gerry Fraser tallied the first counter. R. Pyear was responsible for the second goal at the close of the first period.

The Zionites were the aggressors throughout the second period, but were unable to beat Hagerman in the Glen Ross nets. The period featured close and heavy checking, with tempers flaring in spots.

G. Pyear put the Riversides three up in the opening of the third period, banging in a pass from Doug Martin, while H. Hagerman scored the final tally of the game with only six minutes left of play.

Martin Hagerman, the two Pyears and Fraser were stalwarts for the Riversides, while Dickey, Brough, and Simms were the standouts for the Zionites

Referees—Wallace and Hulin.

Aces Of Golfdom New Orleans Bound

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 22.—(AP)—Golfdom's stars converged on New Orleans today for the $10,000 open tournament, one of the richest on the wintercircuit. About 175 competitors are expected in the 72-hole event beginning tomorrow.

Byron Nelson, United States open champion, was among the many who turned out for practice rounds yesterday. He got a one-under-par 71. Tony Long of Inwood, Ill. got the low practice score of 70.

Toronto Rookies Do Scoring For Pittsburg

(By the Canadian Press)

SYRACUSE, Feb. 22. — Three rookies, property of Toronto Maple Leafs, can take a good share of the credit if Pittsburg Hornets reach the International-American Hockey League playoffs. And the Hornets look as though they'll make the grade.

The rookies are Billy Taylor, Don Metz and Hank Goldup, the former a member of Oshawa Generals' Memorial Cup champions last season and the latter two members of Toronto Goodyears, finalists in the Eastern Canada amateur playdowns.

Taylor, Metz and Goldup each scored a goal last night as Hornets tied Syracuse Stars 3-3 to keep their three point lead over the Stars in the western division lead. Meantime the western leaders, Indianapolis Capitals, bowed 4-2 to Philadelphia Ramblers in the only other game of the night.

Taylor and Goldup helped Metz on Pittsburg's first goal, Goldup got the second on a penalty shot and Taylor nabbed the third to even the score after Syracuse had taken a 3-2 lead on a pair of goals by Klein and one by Bennett.

Lude Wareing scored two goals for the Ramblers to lead them to their first victory of the season over the Capitals. Hugh Gustafson and Herb Foster netted the others with the Indianapolis goals going to Ronnie Hudson, the league's leading scorer, and Bill Thomson.

ROBBERS HAD TO STOOP

Robbing his employers, John Samson of Glasgow, Scotland, wanted to pretend he had been attacked and the money stolen, but the friend who was to hit him over the head was to small and Samson had to stoop down to receive the blow, according to witnesses at his trial.

Church At Emily Has Fine Year

EAST EMILY, Feb. 22 (ENS).—The annual vestry meeting of St. John's Anglican Church was held on Thursday evening. Rev. Mr. Johnson opened the meeting with prayer. Miss Helen Parker acted as vestry clerk.

The wardens appointed for the ensuing year are: Herbert Parker, people's warden, and Eric Blackwell rector's warden.

The reports of the different organizations were given, all showing a good balance in hand.

Moved by Mrs. H. Parker and seconded by Mrs. R. Dunlop, that Rev. Mr. Johnson write Mrs. W. Magee a letter of appreciation on behalf of the church for her services as organist. W. Magee was appointed to attend the Synod.

The auditors for the meeting were Mrs. R. Dunlop and Miss Mildred Magee.

Rev. Mr. Johnson in his remarks thanked the people for their co-operation in the past year, and also thanked the officers in the different activities of the church for their help.

The meeting was brought to a close with prayer.

W. A. Session.

The W.A. meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Walter Magee on Wednesday afternoon, with the president, Mrs. H. Parker, in the chair.

Following the opening exercises a quilt was quilted. Some Red Cross work was distributed. A dainty lunch was served by the hostess. It was decided that a special work meeting would be held the last of the month.

spending spree ahead of the election that will likely come in 1941."

Mr. Henry said he felt sorry for Premier Hepburn delivering the budget address because in an atmosphere of gloom over finances, the Premier was obviously unhappy. The budget with its $5,000,000 tax boost and its prophecy of a surplus, however, was supposed by the Premier to tell the House things wouldn't be as bad next year.

Loss Of Control?

But said Mr. Henry, every government speaker was challenging the opposition to say how expenditures could be cut. It was an admission of the government's loss of control over the spending machine it had begotten.

There was cross fire between Mr. Henry, Premier Hepburn and Provincial Secretary Harry Nixon over the number of men customarily employed on Ontario highways in election years. The exchange went back to 1923 before Mr. Henry resumed his main theme.

Mr. Henry said Mr. Hepburn was gradually getting back to the accounting principles followed by his predecessors in office. He now objected to federal grants disbursed through the province being included in the gross total of provincial expenditures.

Every year of the Hepburn administration had seen an increase in expenditure. Government members felt there was no room for retrenchment. New taxes were imposed annually in an effort to balance the budget.

It was a wonder that motor licence fees were not increased this year in order that they might be reduced next year when an election may be anticipated. It was a wonder the premier didn't reimpose an amusement tax and wipe it out next year.

Mr. Henry urged some government member to go into various government departments and find the totals paid in car allowances. The figures couldn't be obtained by an opposition member. This might answer Liberal criticism about motor car allowances to ministers in the former Conservative government.

Some Credit Due.

There was commendation due the Department of Municipal Affairs for aiding a municipal debt reduction, said Mr. Henry, but it hardly becomes the government to take credit for all municipal debt cuts when 85 per cent of total reduction was caused by the normal maturities of debentures.

Premier Hepburn asked if Mr. Henry would concede that many municipalities had been saved from bankruptcy by reason of the Provincial government assuming burdens formerly borne by the municipalities. Mr. Henry refused the concession.

Expenditures on highways were being reduced, said Mr. Henry, and why couldn't the other departments follow suit. Probably the truth was highways expenditures were being saved for election year.

There was reason for four lane highways in some places, said the former premier, but there was no justification for a four lane highway east of Woodstock nor near the site of an international bridge in Eastern Ontario. Highways Minister McQuesten was in the hands of a bunch of ambitious engineers.

"You appointed most of them," said Mr. McQuesten. "And I watched them, too," said Mr. Henry.

Health Minister Harold Kirby was "in the hands of a bunch of aggressive doctors who spend their nights as well as their days devising ways to spend more money," charged Mr. Henry.

More information should be given the public immediately concerning the projected treaty with the United States for the St. Lawrence Seaway, Mr. Henry urged.

"As far as we know the Premier confesses ignorance," he said.

Premier Hepburn said that Dr. T. H. Hogg, Hydro chairman, was negotiating for Ontario and that as far as he (Premier Hepburn) knew there was not even a tentative agreement. If there were, it would be before the cabinet for ratification. When Hydro engineers had completed their negotiations the cabinet would consider it.

Protection For The Farmer

Farmers have as much right to have their profits protected in war production as has industry, said Farquhar Oliver (U.F.O. South Grey South).

"I'm not prepared in the name of patriotism to see farmers go down lower and lower in the economic scales while industry sits behind double doors protected by the government," he said.

Mr. Oliver deplored the "disparity" between the prices of farm and manufactured goods, the margin was growing wider. Agriculture was compelled to meet the challenge of war time productions needs with no national organization to speak for it. On the Federal Bacon Board was a representative of the Packers, but no representative of Ontario's hog producers. The chairman came from the Saskatchewan wheat fields.

The Hepburn administration had done much for the farmers and he would vote for the budget, said Mr. Oliver. Not until the present government reduced service charges and granted rural services for two customers a mile, had Hydro power become generally available in rural Ontario.

Mr. Oliver complained of what he saw as a discrimination against farmers. The recently-applied eight per cent sales tax on domestically-consumed Hydro was a burden to farmers because on the farm much power was used for other than domestic purposes. In the cities the tax did not apply to industrial power, but the power the farmer used in his barn, for grain chopping and for other commercial purposes was taxed.

Ottawa To Blame

Hydro Commissioner W. L. Houck said the Commission had done everything humanly possible to have Ottawa lift the tax on power used on farms for other than domestic purposes but "we received no consideration at all." The average domestic light bill in the cities was less than $2 a month, but of 110,000 rural users, the power bill for more than 53,000 average more than $2 a month.

Mr. Houck said the commission had urged Ottawa to exempt from taxation any power in excess of $2 worth that might be used by a rural consumer.

Conscious of what the government had done for them, rural people would not cry "bandit" because the provincial subsidy to municipalities was being reduced half a mill, said Mr. Oliver. They thought that over a period of years the government had done well by them and now that difficult times were here, they were prepared to share the burden.

Attacks Eric Cross.

William J. Stewart (Cons. Toronto-Parkdale) censured Hon. Eric Cross, Minister of Municipal Affairs, for uncomplimentary references to Toronto. Toronto, said Mr. Stewart, desired to live as a good neighbor to the rest of Ontario and wanted nothing that wasn't rightfully its due.

The Ontario Liquor Control Board should be renamed the Liquor Sales Promotion Department, said Mr. Stewart. He urged an appeal be provided against the chief commissioner's rulings in respect to the issuance of beverage room authorities. Some judicial body should hear such appeals.

Speeding toward prorogation, the House cleared many bills through second readings and saw two of the most contentious measures of the session dropped by the government and referred to a select committee that is to investigate Ontario judicial procedures.

Through committee stage without debate, the measure to increase provincial taxes on corporation incomes had smooth sailing with the only changes being technical ones sponsored by the government. Third reading will be given the measure to-day.

Bills for abolishing grand juries and reducing the number of jurors in county court civil actions from 12 to six were dropped by Attorney-General Conant. Determined opposition had met both bills from Conservative Leader George Drew when they were originally called for second reading.

Mr. Conant while maintaining that the purpose behind the bills was good, assented to Col. Drew's proposal for committee scrutiny of them.

Canada's Effort

1914.

Details War Effort

Details of the government's work since last September were provided as Mr. Mackenzie King recounted how the British commonwealth air training plan was undertaken, an army division sent overseas, another put in training in Canada and two army co-operation air squadrons organized to work with the divisions.

Work on the home front was reviewed and he said the interests of the farmer and consumer were being guarded. The Prime Minister again emphasized the necessity of national unity which he said made possible the war effort. The two were inseparable.

Five other Liberal cabinet ministers spoke last night, and the Social Credit party made an appeal throught Premier Aberhart of Alberta and John Blackmore, leader of the federal Social Credit group. There were no outstanding Conservative or Co-operative Commonwealth Federation speeches.

Continuing his campaign in Western Ontario, Agriculture Minister Gardiner addressed audiences at Kincardine and Chesley and said he did not think Canada could produce enough hogs to fill the contract with Great Britain, calling for 5,600,000 pounds of Wiltshire sides (hams and bacon) weekly.

Bonus For Farmers

Mr. Gardiner answered criticism over importation of hogs from the United States. He said Canadian farmers can not meet Canada's allottment for Britain. The war comes first, and Canadians may have to consume American pork, so long as Canadian bacon is needed overseas.

Admitting it costs two cents a pound more to produce hogs and takes a month longer to finish them in summer time, when they will be most needed as supplies for fighting forces, the Agriculture Minister said the department will bonus Canadian farmers to that extent.

One reason for sending Canadian bacon to Britain in such quantities is a desire to hold the British market when the war is over. No fixed price has been set by the department for the farmer, because at present the fixed price would have to be less than the packers are now paying.

Had the Liberals been "time servers" and "office seekers" they would have found an excuse to stay in power, Hon. Norman McLarty, Minister of Labor ,said at the Simcoe North party nominating convention at Stayner.

Mr. McLarty said that if the Liberal government had been looking for an excuse to remain in office, "we would have done what the Conservative party did in the last war, overstayed our trusteeship."

The labor minister noted the unanimity with which Canada entered the war, because, he said, for a quarter of a century the prime minister or Justice Minister Lapointe had been cultivating Canadian unity.

"If anything more was needed to indicate unity it was the Quebec election of Oct. 25," said Mr. McLarty.

Crerar Steps In

Hon. T. A. Crerar, Minister of Mines, described as "base calumny" Conservative charges that the Liberal government was not wholehearted in Canada's war effort.

Addressing a meeting of the Peel county Liberal Association at Brampton, Mr. Crerar said that such charges "regardless whether they are made by responsible individuals, are interpreted by neutrals and by the enemy as a sign of weakness."

"I have heard charges that Mr. Mackenzie King is not wholehearted in this war," he said, "I have only this to say. I have never heard any baser calumny uttered in respect to any man in public life in Canada."

The minister said Canada was fighting for her existence and urged Canadians to co-operate "as never before" to ensure the defeat of Hitlerism.

From Edmonton over a national network broadcast, the Social Credit chiefs urged voters to nominate candidates who are independent of party machines. They said the 1935 Alberta election was won by Social Credit through such independent nominations.

Mr. Aberhart said Canadians could never hope to get results from either old-line parties, controlled indirectly by the money powers, and nothing could be expected from the C.C.F.

Hon. Jamees A. MacKinnon, minister without portfolio who is leading the Liberal campaign in Alberta, spoke from Edmonton over a provincial network and said the Dominion government acted efficiently and to the fullest extent in the conduct of the war.

MORE ABOUT—
Financial Ruin

nanced the first six months of the war, the finance minister pointed to four evidences of strength:—

1. Steadily growing subscriptions for national armament bonds;
2. An increase in savings bank deposits over withdrawals;
3. The low bank rate;
4. Maintenance of the gold reserve at almost the level at the start of the war despite heavy buying abroad.

The reserves of gold and foreign exchange have been maintained largely by the "inflow of capital which began in November, 1938, and has continued since September, 1939," Reynaud said.

Reynaud said an average of 8,000,000,000 francs (about $179,600,000) worth of armament bonds were sold during December and January compared to 2,200,000,000 francs (about $49,390,000) in September and 5,300,000,000 francs (about $118,985,000) in October.

on insistance of Great Britain and France.

Much Hinges On Talks

The German attitude toward Rumania and all southeastern Europe will depend on the outcome of Clodius' talks, these informed quarters predicted.

It was understood that a government decree banning the fuel which Germany needs for her machines of war had been issued—this in apparent contradiction to a recent oil export agreement with Germany.

The Rumanian ban was regarded in London as giving the Allies the edge in the competition for Rumanian oil.

Both Britain and France have pointedly informed Bucharest that they might be compelled to reconsider their guarantees of Rumania against attack if King Carol's regime favored Germany on oil.

Allied concern had been heightened by the fact British and French interests along with Netherlands and other foreign companies own 80 per cent. of the Rumanian oil industry and the Allies were confronted with the possibility that Rumania's new control board would levy against British and French production to fill Germany's needs.

An Important Item.

The importance of Rumanian oil to the German war machine is reported to have been stressed by German trade envoys in a declaration that increased shipments are "a matter of life and death" to the Reich and that Germany would be compelled "to seek other methods" if Rumania failed to fulfill her commitments.

Rumania is under agreement to ship about 30 per cent. of her 1940 production to Germany. Under the reported reorientation of the country's oil export policy, however, it was said that the necessity of building up Rumania's own reserves of oil against a possible wartime emergency impelled the ban on aviation gasoline.

Another factor which pleased the Allies was said to be the likelihood that Rumania, because of transport difficulties, would be unable to fulfill her 1940 commitments to Germany, as was the case in 1939.

Better equipment and more efficient pilots for commercial airplanes is being urged by the Government of Mexico.

Youth Is Hurt By A Falling Tree

Wadsworth, son of Frank Wadsworth of Monteagle Township, was cutting trees for Ernest Reeves, a neighbor, yesterday when the accident occurred, about five o'clock in the afternoon. Reeves' farm is about 15 miles northeast of Bancroft.

The falling tree caught Wadsworth across the chest and pinned him to the ground. He was cut loose and carried to the Reeves home, where he is being treated. Dr. S. S. Lumb of Bancroft, attending physician, said today there is only a slight hope for his recovery.

If you are feeling nerve-weary—troubled by little digestive upsets—now is the time to try adding the new Fleischmann's High-Vitamin Yeast to your daily diet.

Scientists say Fleischmann's High-Vitamin Yeast is so valuable in building people up because it gives you vitamins together with fresh yeast.

The vitamins are needed for steady nerves and vitality.

Only in Fleischmann's High-Vitamin Yeast can you get such an abundant supply of the 4 important vitamins, A, B_1, D and G, and all the vitamins of the amazing Vitamin B Complex.

Eat 2 cakes every day. See if it doesn't help your energy and resistance!

CITY COUNCIL STRIKES TAX RATE OF 33 MILLS

City Council Is Assuming Cost Of 12,000 Vacation Copies Going To Prospective Tourists

Of the 25,000 copies of the Examiner's 1940 Tourist Edition, now in preparation, the city council last night assumed the cost of 12,000, which amounts to $600.

The Ontario Government, through its tourist promotion office, has already agreed to undertake the mailing of 15,000 copies, a practical means of co-operation which guarantees actual delivery to people in the United States who forward enquiries about holiday districts, especially with good fishing resources, to the Government's offices in Toronto.

The council's motion by Alderman Dutton, seconded by Alderman Roy, was unanimously adopted.

H. L. Garner, general manager of the Examiner, and T. L. Ashton, advertising manager, attended last night's special meeting of the council, and explained the project of publishing the fourth annual edition of the now widely known "Mail-It-Away Edition" which the Examiner is producing from year to year as a means of making known and publicizing in an expanding field, chiefly south of the border, the summer attractions of the lakes and rivers and resorts in a wide area of Central Ontario.

Value Recognized

Mr. Garner told the council that the value of the Examiner's Tourist Edition is greatly appreciated by the tourist promotion branch of the Ontario Government. Their office recently agreed to bear the cost of mailing from Toronto 15,000 copies of the 1940 edition, and Mr. Garner suggested that the council might assume the cost of the actual production of that number at five cents a copy.

"The Government's office will send out copies of our Tourist Edition day by day as enquiries come to them from the United States," Mr. Garner said. "The prospect for an increased flow of tourists into Ontario this year was indicated to me when I was in Toronto a short time ago. About the middle of March last year they were receiving an average of 200 enquiries a day, and that number increased to around 800 and 900 at the peak of the season when people were planning their summer holidays.

"On the twelfth of February, just recently, the number of enquiries received by the Ontario Tourist Bureau was 216 from people who were asking for information about where they could spend their holidays up here, and especially where they could find good fishing."

Europe Shut Off

Mr. Garner said it was a safe estimate that in the near future the number of enquiries to the Bureau will be double those of last year. Europe was shut off by the war, and Americans were bound to turn to Canada for their vacations. The favorable exchange had increased the buying power of their funds by ten per cent in this country, and tourists were free to come and go as in other years.

"There is nothing better than this means of advertising," Mr. Garner said. "There is no waste. The copies of the Tourist Edition will reach enquirers before they leave their homes to come to Canada, and to come definitely in the direction of Peterborough. The Government is paying for the mailing of the 15,000 copies they are going to send out, and the council might pay for them at cost, or $750.

THE Finnish news agency reported today that the classes of 1894 and 1895 — men 44 to 46 years old—had been called up and ordered to report to military mobilization centres.

Masonic Picnic Set For Feb. 29

Plans are already being drawn up for Peterborough's Winter Masonic picnic, the annual event which is held about this time of year in the Y.M.C.A. The night chose this year is February 29 and G. H. Roper is acting as general chairman.

There will be the annual contests in volleyball, bowling, bridge, table tennis and billiards between the members of the three blue lodges and on top of this James Wharry is organizing a swimming and diving contest. Relay teams are also being organized in the swimming events.

All masons of the city will be welcome whether they are members of local lodges or not.

Car Overturns On Keene Road

ZION, Feb. 22 (ENS). — While driving to visit at her father's home, Mrs. Clifford Heale, Princess Street, Peterborough, had the misfortune to overturn her car on the Keene Road. The car skidded on the slippery road surface to the edge of the deep ditch and then overbalanced. Mrs. Heale was accompanied by her daughter Margaret and her niece Noreen Lee, and happily none were hurt. Other than the loss of the gas and anti-freeze, no apparent damage was done to the car.

Personals.

Mrs. Daniel Hayes spent last week in Peterborough with her daughter, Mrs. J. O'Dette and Mrs. J. Jones.

Mrs. Whitfield Robinson is visiting her sister, Mrs. F. Foote, Peterborough, for all of this week.

Mrs. J. McAdam and son Gordon visited friends in Monaghan on Sunday afternoon.

Friends of Mrs. G. Mason, who is a sister of Mrs. Enos Kent here, will regret to learn that she is in hospital with leg injuries, the result of an automobile accident near Port Hope last week. Mrs. Kent's mother, Mrs. T. Hutchinson, was also in the accident and suffered bruises and a severe shaking up.

CAMPBELLFORD

Careless Word Has Often Dire Results

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 22. — (ENS).—Member of St. John's Y. P.U. heard an interesting address on prayer which was delivered by Harold Twigg was a feature of the meeting this week. Mr. Twigg stressed the importance of Christian Fellowship and dealt particularly with the subject of tolerance among men. "A careless word dropped here or there can easily have far reaching effects," he said. He told the young people to refrain from finding fault with others who have the same aims as they have though they might be using a different approach to them. Miss Madeline Lisle was in charge of the program and she was assisted in the opening devotional period by Dorothy Loucks and Mrs. Archer. Other items included a vocal solo by Bill Bateson; recitation, May Murphy; instrumental, Helen Young and Ruby Cassan.

The meeting closed with the mizpah benediction.

Blyth Bridge Tender Accepted By City

The tender of R. A. Blyth, Toronto, in the amount of $8,298, for the construction of a footbridge across the river above the Quaker Oats Company's dam was recommended to the council last night in the report of the special committee of which Alderman Wilson was chairman.

Six bids were received by the committee, ranging up to more than $14,000.

The Blyth tender was recommended on condition that "he furnishes detailed plans and specifications satisfactory to this committee, with a bond guaranteeing completion of the work by him, and Workmen's Compensation Act coverage.

"And that he employ as much local labor as possible," Alderman Bradburn suggested.

Roseneath Ranks 2nd

ROSENEATH, Feb. 22—(ENS).—At the annual convention of the Ontario Fairs Association held in Toronto it was reported that Roseneath Fair ranks second in C class in Ontario.

Big Central Fund Suggested For War Services

Duplication of appeals by associations engaged in auxiliary service to the men of the Canadian army was mentioned by Alderman Dutton last night as a seeming defect which might be corrected by organization of one central fund from which the different units might receive the amounts subscribed for them.

"We have talked of a community chest before, but that is hardly practical for this year," Alderman Dutton said. "However, if the war continues there will no doubt be renewal of appeals to continue the work that has been begun by these associations. We had first the Red Cross Society's campaign, Canadian Army Huts, Canadian Legion War Services, Salvation Army and the Y.M.C.A. appeal is yet to be made.

The same men are engaged in these campaigns, or at least very largely the same in each drive, and I am inclined to think the different groups are not receiving as much money as they might if there was one organization making one appeal."

Alderman Dutton said that there was a danger of causing irritation by the repetition of appeals one after the other, whereas by one campaign subscriptions could be allotted to the separate associations and the work would be completed in a single drive. His proposal was left to the finance committee for consideration.

Seven Suggested As Candidate Of Liberal Party

Interest in the Liberal convention Saturday afternoon in Canadian Legion Hall has been accentuated during the last few days by intimations mentioning four or five prominent members of the party from whom the delegates will select a candidate.

Some of those whose names have been heard in the political gossip are E. L. Sackville, E. Bruce Fowler, Reeve W. A. Anderson of Otonabee, Reeve James Gifford of Ennismore, Col. John A. Dewart, R. M. Glover and T. J. Carley, K.C.

Reports indicate that the final choice is likely to be reduced to Col. Dewart and Mr. Glover.

Mr. Glover told the Examiner this afternoon that he would accept the nomination if he was chosen.

B.C. LEADER COMING

It is announced from local Conservative headquartres this morning that "Pat" Maitland, leader of the Conservative party in the British Columbia Legislature will be here to address a meeting in the interest of Gordon K. Fraser in the Legion Hall on the night of March 4th.

PROPOSES DINNER.

R. G. Kingan wrote the council last night proposing that a civic dinner be arranged in honor of Senator Duffus, "to show appreciation of his good qualities while he is living." The idea was left with the reception committee to be considered after March 26.

WANTED IN OSHAWA

Local police picked up a Peterborough member of the Oshawa Tank Regiment here Wednesday at the request of the military authorities. The local man was absent from his unit without leave and after being held here for a short time was put on the train for Oshawa.

A SOUVENIR.

A four-year-old red-haired girl had her first hair-cut today. Earl Mahood at Fowler's barber shop who sheared the locks had no trouble with the little lady, but when the hair was cut, she insisted on him gathering up the shorn tresses and they were placed carefully in a paper bag for the young lady to take home.

BALE OF SNOW.

Farmers who hope to cross Hunter Street Bridge with sleighs this week will find the going tough. The warm weather of the past few days has taken every bit of snow and ice off the bridge and it is almost as bare as in summer.

THIRTEEN BELOW ZERO

Official temperature in Bancroft at six o'clock this morning was 13 degrees below zero. Peterborough, 72 miles to the southwest, was 18 degrees warmer at the same hour. The temperature here was five degrees above, Weatherman A. O. Phillips reported.

TOPS OBJECTIVE.

Reports from Stirling to-day show that canvassers in the Canadian Legion War Services drive who were seeking to raise $200.00 turned in $239.35 two days after the drive started. At Norwood where the quota is $250.00, workers report that in less than three days more than half of the money was subscribed.

NOT HOLDING TAG DAY

The Salvation Army has decided against holding a tag day this year, and will concentrate all efforts on its present drive. Adjutant Buckley said today. He said that the decision had been made earlier in the campaign and that the application before the police commission for a tag day had been an oversight.

TWO POSTER PANELS.

Permission was granted by the council last night to E. L. Ruddy & Company to erect two poster panels on the lot west of Queen's Hotel on Simcoe street. It transpired that the reason of W. R. Turner and Sons in discontinuing the use of the lot last year as a free parking area was that there was too much abuse from some of the people who were allowed to park their cars there.

War Bulletins

PARIS—(AP).—The army high command's morning communique today said: East of the Moselle river an enemy raid was repulsed. Two German non-commissioned officers were taken prisoners by one of our patrols."

BERLIN — (AP). — The German high command's communique today said: "In the West, the air force scouted in increasing measure over eastern France. Despite enemy defence with pursuit planes, the German scouts suffered no losses. An attempt by enemy planes to fly into Germany over western front failed.

LONDON — (CP).— Police halted all traffic and mobilized ambulances as a precaution today while naval experts were called to deal with a mine which washed up on the beach of a southeast coast town 50 yards from stores and homes.

LUXEMBURG — (CP-Havas). — To meet any possible attempt at invasion, Luxembourg authorities have equipped all frontier bridges with armored steel gates which can be locked instantly to provide long delay for any attacker.

MADRID — (AP). — The fishing boat Milin arrived at Madrugada, on Spain's northwest coast, today with 23 survivors of the 4,760-ton Netherlands freighter Tara, which sank off Cape Finisterre, Spain, yesterday after being shelled.

Dispatches from La Coruna quoted the survivors as saying a lifeboat with 12 other members was missing.

(Amsterdam dispatches last night reported that the Tara's crew, numbered at 34 men, had been rescued.)

LONDON (CP)—Informed quarters said today there was "reason to believe" that units of the Royal Navy had recently been in the vicinity of Petsamo, Finnish Arctic coastal region held by Russian forces.

Token Estimates

LONDON (CP)—The army estimates for 1940 were issued today. Following the procedure for the war outlined Tuesday in a treasury memorandum, they consist of 15 "token" items of £100 each which parliament will be asked to approve.

The number of officers and men of the army establishment, exclusive of those serving in India and Burma, is stich "as His Majesty may deem necessary."

ATHENS, Greece (AP)—Compulsory air raid drills were ordered by police today for all inhabitants of the Athens district. They will start Saturday and continue daily for two weeks with two hours devoted to drilling each day.

Thousands of reservists are expected to be called for training this spring. King George has started inspecting army, navy and air corps units.

Diplomatic sources said they had no information, however, to bear out a dispatch to a Stockholm newspaper representing Soviet leaders as warning that interference by the Allies with Russian shipping would result in armed conflict.

SOMEWHERE IN FRANCE (CP-Havas)—Stephen Osusky, Czecho-Slovak minister in Paris and member of the Czecho-Slovak national committee, today visited the Czecho-Slovak army training camp in the south of France.

Want Insurance Lifted

LONDON.— (CP — Merchants are seeking to halt the compulsory one-fourth of one per cent monthly war risk insurance payments—at least until air raids begin.

All merchants and industriallsts are required to insure their stocks with the government. Lord Dudley Gordon, president-elect of the Federation of British Industries, has urged Sir Andrew Rae Duncan, president of the Board of Trade, to limit the size of the premium accumulation, noting that any credit balance accrues to the exchequer. He argued that unnecessary collection becomes disguised taxation and raises prices unduly.

HONG KONG.—(AP)—The Chinese reported today they had shelled and damaged four of six Japanese warships on the Yangtse river at Kukiang.

Other reports of successes against the Japanese, related by the Chinese Government's central news agency, included:

Recapture of Mentowkow, west of Peiping, with a small Japanese garrison nearly wiped out; further mutinies among the Japanese-controlled "reconstruction army" of Chinese, bringing to 3,000 the number going over to the Chinese side in Fukien province, and recapture of Tungshan Island, off the Fukien coast, with the surrender of 280 Japanese and "reconstruction" soldiers.

Man Convicted Of Assault

An admission on the part of a fifty-year-old Smith township man that although he earned $18 a week he only gave his wife $4 to keep the house and look after four children featured a case heard in camera in police court this morning when the husband was charged with assaulting the wife, occasioning actual bodly harm.

The wife's story was that the husband has been drinking heavily each week-end, that he locked her out of the house on occasions and that early last Sunday morning when she was sleeping on the kitchen floor he had struck her with his fist.

The husband's version was that he had only shaken the wife's shoulder because he was afraid she and the children would take cold sleeping on the floor.

In cross-examination by Crown Attorney McElderry the accused admitted that he had been drinking on the Friday and Saturday nights and that on Saturday he had bought two bottles of wine. He said that he used to give his wife $4 a week to keep the house, and lately instead of giving her any money he had bought the groceries himself.

Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., found that there had been common assault but intimated that if the husband would promise not to attack the wife again and to give her more money for household expenses he would allow him to go on suspended sentence.

He expressed his condemnation of the conduct of the husband in regard to the money allowed the wife, and set $7 as the amount that would have to be provided each week henceforth.

The accused reluctantly accepted the court's proposition and was allowed to go on suspended sentence.

Ratepayers Are Complimented For Way In Which Taxes Levied In 1939 Have Been Paid

The formality of striking the tax rate for this year was a mere anti-climax Wednesday night to the recent weeks of compiling the 1940 budget, the appropriation of tresury funds to be spent on municipal services.

The bylaw determining the rate, introduced by Alderman Cotton was simply "taken as read." The committees had done their work, and the members of the council virtually knew its context by heart.

The rate for Public School supporters is 33 mills as compared with 34.5 mills last year; and the rate for Catholic School supporters is 34.55 mills as against 36.07 mills last year.

Incidentally, the advantage of the distribution of part of the City Trust Commission's surplus as a credit in the general tax rate was 1.9 mills and not 1.29 mills as previously reported. It provided for a reduction of close to 2 mills.

Tribute To The Citizens

In introducing the bylaw, Alderman Cotton prefaced its first reading with a compliment, as chairman of the finance committee, to Peterborough's taxpayers.

"As the elected representatives of the people I think this council should put itself on record by expressing our appreciation of the way they have been paying their taxes," Alderman Cotton said. "I think we should make mention of the fact that they paid 91 per cent of their taxes last year. It is a great credit to the taxpayers, and the least we can do as their representatives is to say so. It means that they are doing their part to maintain the credit of this city at a high level. The prompt payment of taxes from year to year goes a long way, with the co-operation of our various spending departments, in reaching the position where we can lower the tax rate, and keep Peterborough's finances in a healthy condition."

"Appreciation of the taxpayers' co-operation," Alderman Dutton added.

Laborer Denies Striking Cow

Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., had an interesting point to decide today in a case in which Edward Pinch, Peterborough, charged Ralph Greenbank, a farmer in the Norwood district, with failure to pay him $21 in wages.

Pinch was represented by W. J. Arthur Fair and John A. Bradshaw appeared for Greenbank.

The fact that the wages were owing was admitted but the defendant alleged that Pinch had struck a valuable cow with a broom and broken its leg. As proof of that charge he stated that a stable broom on which were some cow hair and a quantity of blood had been found in the stable close to where the injured cow was.

Pinch swore that the cow had broken its leg accidentally by slipping in its stall. He denied having struck the animal and said that the blood on the broom could easily have gotten there from a cut on his finger.

Magistrate Langley, after hearing the argument of counsel, reserved judgment in the case until Saturday.

Cottesloe Y.P.U. Holds Social Evening

COTTESLOE, Feb. 22 (ENS)—The social evening of Cottesloe Y. P. U. was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gallagher with a record attendance. The usual worship service was in charge of the president. The topic was taken by Mrs. Howard Fatterson and a splendid reading was given by Miss Jones.

The social hour included two numerous readings by Stanley Miles and two by Joseph Gallagher. Also a reading by Mima Moore and violin selections by Walter Gallagher. Erwin Forsythe had charge of the contests and games. Lunch was served and an offering taken.

Next Monday evening the society will be guests of the Warsaw Y.P., and will take charge of the program.

Be 50 Years Wed Next Saturday

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew McKenzie, 544 Bolivar Street, will be fifty years married on Sunday. Alderman McCannan mentioned the anniversary to the council last night, and Mayor Hamilton was requested to send Mr. and Mrs. McKenzie a letter of congratulation.

Mr. McKenzie once told the Examiner that he had lived at Bailieboro as a youth. On the day of his marriage he came to Peterborough with his bride, and they have lived here ever since their arrival. Three years later Mr. McKenzie obtained work at the Canadian General Electric Company, remaining with the firm for forty-seven years until his superannuation. He has been a prominent member of Knox Church since it was established.

Social Evening Held By Peterboro Lodge

Eighty-five attended a gala social evening in the Masonic Temple on Tuesday evening when the Peterborough Lodge members were hosts.

William Hurrie and N. E. Crowe were responsible for arrangements and the whole affair was conducted smoothly and with a new entertainment stunt. This was a lucky ticket draw in which every person who attended won a prize, and all the prizes were quite practical and substantial. Euchre, whist, bridge and crokinole were enjoyed by the guests and members. The next social evening will be held on March 19.

Jewish Race Studied By Millbrook Y.P.U.

MILLBROOK, Feb. 22 (ENS). — The Christian Cultural Committee, Jean L. Burnham convener, had charge of the Young People's Union on Tuesday at 8 p.m., the learning of a new hymn, "Who is on the Lord's Side?" being the opening feature, together with a review of the hymn learned last week, "All things bright and beautiful."

A study of the Jewish race is being taken up, and the lesson covering the call of Abraham, the first Jew, was read in unison from the Book of Genesis, followed by a drill on the Books of the Bible. For the latter boys and girls took opposite sides, the latter winning 6-4.

Announcement was made that on Monday, February 26, the Y.P.U. will sponsor an open meeting when the play, "The Second Mile," will be presented under the auspices of the Missionary Department. On March 8, the young people will hold a pot luck supper. "The Quest of Truth" was the devotional theme, those assisting the leader being Dorothy Sisco, Leitha Edworthy and Jean Fisher. Following the benediction, a recreational period was enjoyed by all under the leadership of Bea McDowell.

Mission Band.

On Tuesday, after four o'clock, the Sunshine Mission Band, over 30 strong, met at the home of one of the leaders, Mary Burnham, with the other superintendent, Beatrice McDowell, assisting, when the opening worship period was followed by the study book, "Fhera of the Punjab," India being the theme for the current year.

The new leaders are doing good work with the boys and girls, and the young folk will hold a candy sale in March to increase their funds.

Number of books purchased 55. The Women's Institute donated 12 books and 12 books were donated by friends, making a total of 79 books placed on the shelves.

The board members expressed their appreciation for the books as well as the donations of money.

The following are the board of directors for 1940: Chairman, C. T. Maycock; council representative, Reeve R. Mallory; Mrs. P. Windover, Mrs. J. Black, Mrs. W. Potter, Mrs. G. Bowen, Mr. Ray Sykes, Dr. Cooper, Dr. C. C. Armstrong; secretary-treasurer, Miss Blanche Baker; librarian, Miss Blanche Baker; book buying committee, C. T. Maycock, chairman, with Mrs. G. Bowen, Mrs. P. Windsor and Blanche Armstrong assisting.

Rev. G. R. Duncan moved a vote of thanks to all the officers for their hearty co-operation and asked for more support from the public.

C. T. Maycock presided over the meeting.

The book buying committee is planning on purchasing a number of new books in the near future.

Mrs. Peter Jones entertained a number of ladies to a quilting party on Tuesday afternoon. A pretty quilt, the pattern of which was called "the trip around the world," was taken off and a social time enjoyed, after which the hostess served a bounteous supper.

Ontario Mayors Protest Action Of Premier Hepburn

Gathering in Toronto, Ontario, municipal heads sharply protested the action of Premier Hepburn in reducing the municipal subsidy by half a mill. Mayor John P. McCrimmon, of Paris, RIGHT, called the Hepburn action "a breach of faith." The meeting of the Ontario municipal heads was called by Mayor Stanley Lewis, of Ottawa, CENTRE, secretary of the Ontario Mayors' Association. Alderman J. A. Allen, LEFT, represented the Mayor of North Bay. It was indicated at the meeting that a protest delegation may visit Queen's Park.

Canadiens Start Last Ditch Stand Tonight

TORONTO, Feb. 22 — (CP). — Hampered by injuries, Montreal Canadiens start what amounts to a last-ditch stand tonight for a National Hockey League playoff spot as they seek to bring an end to the seven-game unbeaten streak of Chicago Black Hawks.

Leaving Montreal yesterday for Chicago, the Habitants had to leave behind their defenceman Doug Young and centreman Armand Mondou. Because of their desperate need for men goalie Willie Cude and Walter Buswell, also suffering from injuries were taken along although not in tip-top shape.

All four suffered their injuries in a two-game series last week-end with Toronto Maple Leafs.

After tonight's game with the Hawks the Habitants have to hurry home for a Saturday game against New York Rangers, leaving immediately after that contest for a return match with the Rangers at New York. They expect to leave all their injured men back in shape for the two games against the Manhattan team.

Two other games are on tonight's N.H.L. schedule with the Rangers and Americans meeting in an all-New York clash and the Leafs invading Detroit.

Twenty Entered At Santa Anita

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 22—(AP).—The sixth edition of the $50,000 added Santa Anita derby drew a brilliant field of three-year-olds and the propsct of rain and a muddy track today.

Turf experts reshuffled their cards as gloomy weather reports predicted a downpour before the colt and filly hopefuls parade to the post around 7:20 p.m. EST.

Eighteen colts and two fillies were named, but it appeared that several short of this field would try for the rich prize in the mile-and-one-eight features.

Prospect of leaden, dripping skies was a hard blow to hopes that the crowd would exceed the 50,000 record for the event.

Coupled in the betting booths were the entries of the Milky Way Farms and McCarthy, Los Angeles Attorney. Milk Way had its Gallahadion, expected to run regardless of track conditions, and either Tough Hombre or Chatted, the latter rated better in the mud than Tough Hombre. The Milky Way entry was expected to go postward the betting favorite. Jockey Basil James drew the mount on Gallahadion, and is the leading rider at Santa Anita this season.

CURLING

By HERB MARTIN

The little dip of cold weather that came this way yesterday enabled us to carry on two rounds of the Neill Trophy. Every one of the games scheduled was played and the boys were all out in good time.

There were many good games, many close and interesting to watch, but we believe the Sedgewick-Richmond tilt was tops, especially the playing of Jack Sedgewick. That beautiful wick shot of his in the tenth end to tie up the game was a dandy and then on the extra end he pulled another one just as sensational. Cecil Frost of Lindsay said one time about Sedgewick—"Truly from the hand of a master."

More games will be played tonight at 6.45 and 8.45.

Ray Best is still in there in the Toronto bonspiel, having won his game yesterday in the Royal York and also in the Sieberling.

The boys who went to Bobcaygeon bonspiel yesterday report a good time; they won their first two and then lost out in the final game.

The ladies' section had intended to hold a banquet last Monday afternoon proceeds to go in aid of the Red Cross Society, but mild weather and soft ice altered their plans. However, Mrs. O. DeGraw, president of the ladies' club, threw open her home on Hunter street west, and the ladies gathered there and played bridge all afternoon. We believe that the neat sum of $20.00 will be handed over to the society. The ladies are to be congratulated.

5,600,000 Pounds Of Bacon Wanted Weekly From Canada

Information about the activities of the Bacon Board, affording a broad view of the present basis of the war time export of bacon, should be of interest to many of the farmers in this district.

The Board and its advisory committee were appointed by the Federal Government on December 20 last to implement the terms of the agreement made with the United Kingdom for delivery to the British Ministry of Food of 5,600,000 pounds of bacon weekly, and such additional quantities as may be required.

The contract price is $20.18 per one hundred pounds, f.o.b. port of export for Grade A Wiltshires, and relative prices for B Grade and the various cuts as provided for in a schedule of prices included in the agreement.

The contract price is retroactive to include all bacon arriving in England from November 17, 1939, to October 31, 1940.

Early in December the British Ministry of Food, having completed its organization for supplies, urgently requested that the Board take over responsibility at the earliest possible time. The Bacon Board in response advised that they would assume control at the beginning of the week of January 20.

Activities of the Board.

The duties of the Board are, briefly, as follows: To ensure regular supplies of bacon as required; to arrange price differentials between grades so as to ensure maintenance of pre-war quality as specified by the agreement; to regulate marketing to the extent necessary to ensure that export requirement will be available; to store products in order to supplement the supply in seasons when current marketings are inadequate; to see that hog prices bear a fair relation to the agreed price for bacon, and to create a fund out of returns on exports during ensuing months from which to support hog and bacon prices later in the year (advances in the price of bacon to be reflected in the price paid for hogs), and to pay storage charges. It is the policy of the Government that apart from administration costs the project shall be self-supporting.

Price Payment Basis.

In order to meet the request of the British Ministry of Food to expedite matters, the Board on December 22 last advised the exporting packers that commencing with exports during the week of January 20 the following price schedule for bacon deliveries at seaboard would obtain for the grades required under the contract:

A1	$17.50	$17.70	$17.30
A2	17.10	17.30	16.90
A3	16.70	16.90	16.50
B1	17.10	17.30	16.90
B2	16.30	16.50	16.10
B3	15.50	16.70	15.30

The grade requirements are strictly in conformity, and the price structure in accordance with the hog grading policy of the Department of Agriculture, and the normal pre-war differentials obtaining in the United Kingdom.

It is recognized as a first essential that quality and payment on a grade basis must be maintained and safeguarded so that when the war is over, Canada will be more strongly than ever, entrenched in the British market. Prices paid for bacon seaboard are therefore, as noted, on a basis of weight, grade, and selection.

It was estimated that the schedule of graded prices as established would work out at an average price of $17.29, within each lot, however, paid for at a price as shown in the schedule in accordance with weight, grade, and selection. The figure set is an estimated average, subject to change. Since the price paid by the British Ministry is approximately $18.01 per hundred pounds of bacon, f.o.b. seaboard, a price of $17.29 leaves the Board approximately 72c per hundred pounds margin on present shipments. This margin will enable the Board to accumulate funds from which to advance the price of bacon and hogs later in the season, and to pay storage costs on bacon supplies held to augment the short hog runs of midsummer. Since the policy of the Board is to ensure that the price of bacon at seaboard shall be in fair relation to the price of hogs, advances decided upon for the various grades of bacon as based on an increase in the average price, should be reflected in the price paid for hogs.

Close check will be made of the actual cast, by packing plants across Canada, of all hogs purchased each week in relation to the price paid by the Board for bacon. These comparisons will enable the Board to determine whether hog prices are in line and will represent a basis for such action in regard to hog prices as may be found advisable.

Storage Practice.

Temporary policy in regard to storage has been decided upon, and the Board has instructed exporting packers to put away, until further notice, a weekly total of 500,000 pounds. With prospects for fairly substantial hog runs it was considered advisable to accumulate only moderate supplies at present, with the understanding that the decision would be subject to change week by week as the trend of marketings and production unfolded. In this regard, the Board has set up a statistical service to correlate information on hog production and related activities.

"Intelligent Effort"

Alderman Dutton said he regarded the Examiner's Tourist Edition as the most intelligent effort for the promotion of the tourist business that he had seen in a long time "as far as the Kawartha district is concerned."

"There have been many kinds of publicity before, but they were mostly piecemeal. This is definite and specific, and calls attention to the area we are interested in. I feel that any money we spend on this year's edition will be well spent. If ever we had an opportunity to exploit this district it is in this present year."

Alderman Bradburn, chairman of the manufacturers committee, said he agreed with the remarks of Alderman Dutton. "I think we should do more this year than last when we spent $400 through the Examiner, because we have every expectation that more tourists are going to come into this country."

Recalls Other Efforts

"This is one of the few questions that have come up in the council this year on which I feel competent to speak," said Alderman Roy. He recalled the promotional work carried on years ago by the Trent Waterways Development Association when as a special representative he visited the New York, Detroit and Cleveland motorboat shows, sharing the booths conducted by the Ontario government. He said he was entirely in favor of supporting to the fullest extent the work of attracting tourists his year.

"The exchange rates are going to be a tremendous inducement to Americans to come to Canada this year, and the distribution of advertising mediums like the Tourist Edition is of prime importance. With the help of the Ontario Tourist Bureau we will be reaching a preferred class of people. I can remember when the council used to grant $400 to the Trent Waterways Association as an advertisement at the different shows I have mentioned, but they don't compare in any way with this kind of advertising."

Alderman Gordon also supported the proposal, and spoke of the splendid work that was being done by the Dominion Tourist Bureau of which Leo Dolan is in charge at Ottawa. He said he had written Mr. Dolan suggesting to him "to advertise our district more."

Page Advertisement

Alderman Dutton proposed that the council pay for 12,000 copies of the Tourist Edition instead of the 15,000 suggested by Mr. Garner, and also that the city take a page advertisement costing $150 on the same terms as last year.

"I don't think it is hardly fair that Peterborough should assume the whole cost of 15,000 copies when there are other municipalities in the area that are just as much affected as we are," Alderman Dutton said.

Mr. Garner said that the council of Havelock had used a page in the last year edition, and he expected that the experience of that community would prompt their support again this year. An effort would also be made to obtain the support of other municipalities in the district who had their own attractions to offer tourists.

Bale Is Started By Millbrook WA

MILLBROOK, Feb. 22—(ENS).—The W.A. of St. Thomas' church held its February gathering on Tuesday at 8 p.m., at the home of the president, MOrs. C. M. Westmacott, the attendance being larger than usual, and interest and activitiese of a most encouraging nature.

The hostess led in the prayers, following the lesson read by Mrs. H. A. Attwooll, and the reports were called for, that of the treasurer, Mrs. J. E. Allen, mentioning a letter from Toronto laying the same allotment as in 1939 on the branch. For the Junior W.A., Miss Bella McCorvy, superintendent, reported members, a Valentine tea held February 14, with games and contests, and some of the senior W.A. present by special invitation for the tea hour.

The Dorcas secretary, Mrs. H. J. Russell, made report of material bought to begin work on the articles to be included in the annual bale, shipped to an Indian school in the west; also of a quilting to be held in the near future, the quilts, mothers' bags, etc., not shipped in the bale, being sent to the "Empty Stall" at th W.A. house, in Toronto. All such articles will be sent to northern missions in June, when the only boat of the year to reach these far distant points, will sail.

Some time was spent discussing the fact that this is the fiftieth year since the W.A. was organized in connection with St. Thomas' church, Millbrook, the first president having been the late Mrs. Archibald Wood; after her term of office expired, the late Mrs. William Cartwright Allen was elected chief executive officer, and at her decease, the presidency devolved upon Mrs. C. M. Westmacott, the present incumbent. So, at its golden anniversary, the society looks back upon faithful and efficient service rendered by but three devoted women who have filled the office of president in fifty years. January 1890 was the time of organization.

Mrs. Westmacott gave an account of the recent W.A. board meeting in Toronto, and Miss Rose Macnamara covered the chapter on the life of Bishop Azariah, of India, from the study book. A hymn, the benediction, and the National Anthem closed the meeting and the supper hostess. Mrs. L. M. Bonneville, served lunch during the social hour. Mrs. T. G. Harkness will be supper hostess for the March gathering.

Bonarlaw

Mr. Gerald Haslett of Toronto visited his father, Mr. Archie Haslett on Monday of this week. Mr. Haslett Senior suffered a severe stroke on Sunday morning. His many friends in this community wish him a speedy recovery.

The following members of the Argonauts Tuxis Square of St. Mark's Sunday School, Bonarlaw, attended the Boys' Work meeting at Marmora on Sunday afternoon: Carl Heath, Glynn Eastwood, Jack Prest, Jack Eastwood, Chester Baker Kennard Baker, Ray McLaren and J. F. Baker, Mentor. They were much impressed by the address given by Les Pickering of Belleville, member of the Boys' Parliament for South Hastings.

Knitted Wristlets For Soldiers

For many who find turning a sock heel rather difficult, and feel it would be only wise to leave this knitting task to their more efficient sisters, here are directions for knitting wristlets that are simple and easily followed:

Cast on 16 stitches on each of 3 needles. Knit 2 purl 2 for 6 inches. To make opening for thumb, knit 1 complete round on 3 needles, then turn and purl back over 3 needles. Repeat for 1½ inches. Then join work again and k 2 p 2 for 1½ inches. Cast off loosely.

Easy to Paint This Picture in Rich Colors on Glass

Colorful pictures on glass—what distinction they lend to your walls! And you can paint such pictures easily. Your design is printed on paper which you put under the glass, then you follow the design as you paint.

The "China Clipper" shown here is 9 by 12 inches in size, just right for framing. And to make a gorgeous colorful picture of it — to paint other lovely subjects such as old-fashioned flowers, tropical birds —you need only a few inexpensive materials.

Three small tubes of oil paints—red, blue and yellow — make any color you want. A touch of black household enamel darkens a color, a little white household enamel lightens it, and a simple color chart shows how to mix your paints.

Imagine how striking the "China Clipper" will look with the ocean a rich dark blue-green, the heavens sky blue, the ship a dark brown—and at the horizon a red-orange sunset glow.

For a colorful backing, which will show through unpainted parts of the glass, use metallic or bright-hued paper. Then frame the glass with unpainted side out. Now you have a picture you are proud to hang!

Our set, "Four Designs for Paintings on Glass," contains also "Moonlight in Venice," "Roses and Cottage Tulips," and "Tropical Birds" —each 9 by 12 inches. Includes a chart for mixing colors, tells what colors to use for each design, gives pointers on applying paints.

Send 15c in coins or stamps for our set of FOUR DESIGNS FOR PAINTING ON GLASS to Examiner, Home Service, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

IN FASHION'S NAVY

By ALICE ALDEN

ALL SHADES of blue are coming out of Paris but-navy, as usual, remains the leader for spring. A few women have yet to learn that this color may look as smart as black or brown; most of us have accepted it for seasons, along with our first sailors and fresh flower boutonnieres. The costume pictured, decidedly in the South American flavor, begins and ends in navy. A navy sombrero, pretty on dozens of heads, tops a sheer wool navy crepe dress with braid-trimmed bolero. Elasticized gabardine and kid make the step-ins with small opening at the toe. We need the warmth of such a suit under our topcoats, especially if our office duties require going in and out a great deal. Prints will serve their time come April.

Girl Guides To Observe Thinking Day

Today, February 22, is the annual "Thinking Day" of the Girl Guides, when more than 1,500,000 girls and young women throughout the world, including 62,000 in Canada, join hands in spirit in a vast international salute of friendship and co-operation.

At the eleven o'clock services in St. Andrew's Church on Sunday, February 24, there is to be a church parade headed by the Flagbearers and followed by Guides and Brownies of St. Andrew's and the Salvation Army, who will be joined, it is expected, by St. Andrew's Scouts and Cubs, in observance of the annual "Thinking Day."

Thinking Day will have a special significance this year for these girls of every race, class and creed, who are sincere in their desire for amity among nations, and, as the potential housewives and mothers and business women of tomorrow, they may be doing much toward keeping that ideal alive until it is ultimately achieved in practice.

During the last five months the world-wide association, which thirty years ago sprang from Lord Baden-Powell's Boy Scout movement in England, has found many local expressions of its aim of national service as well. In Poland the Polish Guides worked calmly and efficiently through air raids and machine-gun fire, bringing first aid to the stricken until the Nazi blitzkrieg triumphed, and they were all forced to flee. The Chief Guide of Poland, Mme. Malkowska, after many hardships, escaped to England, where she was recently presented with the Bronze Cross of Valor for her Guides by Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth.

For many years Guiding has been a part of the education of the majority of Finnish girls, and they, too, have been acquitting themselves bravely in the service of their country since the Russian attack began. In Canada and in England the Guides are assisting nationally organized war service agencies in their own communities.

We Noticed

....It pays to keep up your daintiness insurance. It's just as important to take those few precautions in steam-heat weather as when the mercury is soaring. In fact, when sweater season starts and you slip into woollens, daintiness is more of a problem than when you're wearing washables and lighter fabrics.

....Remember, no one is fresher than the dress she wears, no matter how many baths she has a day. And woollens, because they are so absorbent, pick up the slightest trace of odour—and how it clings and clings. A few moments in an over-heated room, a quick sprint for a bus, and there's an underarm emergency. To stay shower-fresh all day, you need to watch those anti-perspirant p's and q's every month in the year.

....First, pick the type of anti-perspirant that's suited to you. They come in different strengths to suit different perspiration make-ups. There's a colorless liquid, made by an old reliable firm, which is moderate in strength, and a ruby-colored liquid by the same firm for those who need to take extra precautions. Doctors tell us that checking perspiration is perfectly safe whe npores are gently closed at one spot, perspiration is simply re-routed to other surfaces where it will evaporate more readily.

WOMEN'S WORK AND INTERESTS

If Your Reputation Holds During Lent You Are Good

(By MARY MOORE)

To some lucky cooks Lent is a cheerful challenge to his or her resources; to others it is a minor ordeal. To all of us it means, "Get on your thinking cap."

(Privately I would like to whisper that a meal without meat should not mean with fish necessarily.)

The cold weather in the South with its ruinous frosting of vegetables that were to have come up North to us, has made the cost of vegetables nearly double, and that has made our plans for Lenten menus just a little more difficult.

One does not have to be my age to remember when the price of eggs used to be about 60 cents per dozen every February. Thank a well-organized egg industry for the comparatively low cost of eggs these latter winters.

We have been accustomed to using about 1½ eggs per person when making an omelette. The following recipe using 4 eggs will serve 4 to 6 people.

Baked Cheese Omelette

One and one-third cup soft bread crumbs, 2 cups grated cheddar cheese (mild is preferable), 4 eggs, 1 cup hot water, ½ teaspoon salt (1 to 2 tablespoons catsup are optional). Pour water over bread crumbs, and add salt, cheese and well beaten yolks. Mix well and fold in stiffly beaten whites. Pour into buttered baking dish large enough that it only half fills it, and bake at 375 deg Fahr. until fairly firm. Serve immediately in dish in which it is baked. For perfection such a souffle type of dish or indeed any omelette requires some type of sauce. To make this a truly epicurean supper dish serve it with

Mushroom Sauce

Three-quarters cup sliced mushrooms, ¼ cup butter, 1 tablespoon grated onion, ¼ cup flour 1 cup boiling water or if mushrooms are canned use mushroom stock or any mild vegetable stock, 1 cup rich milk, salt and pepper. Wash and slice mushrooms. Melt butter, add onion and sliced mushrooms and cook 3 minutes until limp, stirring. Sprinkle with flour and blend well, add mushroom stock or water and milk. Stir over medium heat until smooth and thick. Boil 2 minutes and serve.

Note.—A delicious creamed mushroom mix to serve on toast or patties may be made by increasing the mushrooms in above recipe to 1¼ cups and decreasing the liquid to 1 cup.

Italian Minestrone

To make the most of this dish serve it in a soup tureen so that your diners may come back for second or even third helpings as it is our idea to serve it as your main course.

One cup dried beans, 7 cups water, 1 tablespoon grated onion, 1 clove garlic, 1 sprig parsley, 1 stalk celery, ¼ cup cooking oil, ½ teaspoon salt, 1/3 teaspoon pepper 1 cup canned tomatoes, 1 cup finely shredded cabbage, ½ cup grated old cheese, 1 cup cooked macaroni (Parmesan would be used in Italy).

Soak beans overnight. Drain. Add water and simmer until nearly tender. Chop onions, garlic, parsley and celery. Cook together in olive or cooking oil until golden. Add seasonings and tomato pulp and coarsely chopped cabbage. Bring to boiling point. Combine with cooked beans. Add cooked macaroni. Simmer ¼ hour longer. Serve sprinkled with grated cheese. Another method is to make a paste of additional oil mixed with the required cheese, finely chopped garlic and parsley and to add these in teaspoon lumps to each bowl of soup as it is served.

Lima Bean and Corn Custard Pudding

One cup canned kernel corn, 1 cup canned or home-cooked lima beans, 2 well beaten eggs, 2 tablespoons melted butter, 1 tablespoon sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 cups milk. Beat eggs well, then mix with all remaining ingredients, and pour into buttered casserole. Stand dish in large dish containing warm water, and bake in oven of about 350 deg. Fahr. until firm—about 30 minutes. Do not allow to stay in oven after it is done or it will begin to separate.

Cheese and Rice Loaf

One cup boiled rice, 1 cup mashed potatoes, ¼ cup canned tomatoes, 1 tablespoon grated onion, 2 teaspoons salt, paprika, ½ cup or 1 cup grated cheese, horseradish sauce (see blow). Mix all ingredients well and shape into loaf in small greased loaf pan. Bake in oven of 375 deg. Fahr. for about 30 minutes or until golden and a little firm. Serve with

Horseradish Sauce

(You will note we have stressed sauces that have distinct flavor—take the tip and remember them to serve with vegetarian dishes that lack character—a good sauce will often save an otherwise neutral dish.)

One tablespoon butter, 1 tablespoon flour 1 cup, stock (vegetable, meat, or boiling water flavored with oxo cube), salt, pepper, 1 tablespoon horseradish. Melt butter, add flour, and stir until smooth. Add stock or water, bring it to boiling point and boil three or four minutes, stirring constantly. Add seasoning and horseradish and serve. Another excellent horseradish sauce is made by whipping ½ cup cream, and when stiff adding 3 to 5 tablespoons drained horseradish—perfect with hot roast beef.

Vegetable Croquettes
(With Hot Cheese Sauce)

Two cups potatoes riced or mashed, 1 cup cooked green peas, fresh or canned, 1 cup finely diced cooked carrots, fresh bread crumbs or sifted cracker crumbs and 1 beaten egg diluted with 2 teaspoons water, 2 teaspoons cream, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce. Drain vegetables of all water. Mix potatoes with a fork. Add salt and Worcestershire sauce, then the cream. Mix the vegetables together with a fork. Shape into croquets—balls or cones. Dip in beaten egg, then in crumbs. Drop in hot fat at 375 deg. Fahr. (or when a piece of bread browns in 40 seconds). Turn when brown on bottom. Drain on soft paper and serve hot with Cheese Sauce .....

Cheese Sauce

Two tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 cup milk, 1 teaspoon salt, paprika, ¾ cup grated mild cheese. Melt the butter, stir in the flour and seasonings and gradually the milk. When it thickens add the grated cheese, stirring constantly over low heat until cheese is melted and all is smooth. (This sauce is good served over vegetable croquettes as suggested above—also with cauliflower, potatoes, toast, macaroni, rice, etc.

NOTE: If you would like special methods of preparing other foods for Lent, please tell them the foods you prefer and I will publish them.

Girl In Her Teens Should Walk The Middle Road To Make The Best Impression On Boy Companions; She Should Appreciate Their Company, But Not Show Too Much That She Does.

DEAR MISS DIX—Will you please answer these questions: (1) How old should a girl be before she uses lipstick? (2) How old before she goes out on dates? (3) What is the age limit for boys? (4) Is it proper for a girl to sit out in a car talking to boys? (5) How late should a girl of 14 be out on school nights? On week-ends? (6) Is it proper to talk to a boy who goes to your school but to whom you have not been introduced? (7) Is it right to ask a boy to a party you are giving? (8) How can you give a good impression of yourself to a boy and not let it be obvious? (9) If a boy asks you for a good-night kiss and you don't know him very well, should you give it to him?—TWO ANXIOUS GIRLS.

ANSWER:

(1) There is no time limit on the use of lipstick. You can use it anywhere from the cradle to the grave, provided you put it on moderately and artistically. The reason so many people object to lipstick is because most girls plaster it on as if they were painting a barn door and make their mouths look like a cut of raw butcher's meat. If you are going to use cosmetics, for pity's sake learn how to do it.

(2) A girl of 14 is old enough to begin stepping out a little to school parties and going out with boys of her own age.

(3) Most boys are girl shy until they are 15 or 16.

(4) It depends on the time and the place. In the daytime and if the car is parked on the street or in some public place, there is no objection to a girl sitting in a car talking to a boy. But she can't do it at night without being gossiped about. When a boy brings you home at night, hop out of the car and go into the house.

(5) No girl should be out at all on school nights. She should be at home studying her lessons and going to bed by 10 o'clock. On week ends 12.30 is the latest she should be out. Young girls need their sleep.

(6) Yes, girls and boys who go to the same school do not need any formal introduction.

(7) Certainly it is proper to ask any boy you like to your party. A lot of any girl's popularity and success in society depends on her mother entertaining for her.

(8) You can show a boy you like him and enjoy being with him and appreciate the good times he gives you by listening to him talk with an interested expression, by paying him a tactful compliment now and then, and by appearing to have the time of your life when he takes you out. But you mustn't run after him by calling him up on the telephone and turning down other boys for him.

(9) Be very chary of your kisses and don't hand them out to every boy who asks for one. Boys make fun of girls and hold them cheap who make their lips a free lunch counter for every Tom, Dick and Harry. The harder a kiss is to get, the more a boy values it.

DEAR MISS DIX—I met a very nice fellow and we fell deeply in love with each other and after several months we were secretly married. He joined my church afterward on his own accord. During his instructions he found out our mistake in being married secretly and we promised each other not to say anything to any one about it until we were able to be married in the church. Unfortunately he met with an accident and I promised him on his deathbed to never tell of our marriage. He has been dead over a year now and it is still our secret, but it is constantly haunting me. Should I confess now, or continue to keep our secret? If I do tell, will I be forgiven for breaking my promise, and will it cast any darker shadows over my life than there are now? If I tell, it will be a shock to every one. So the question is should I, or should I not, confess and run the chance of people forgetting and forgiving while I am young and single?—WORRIED.

ANSWER:

A secret marriage is always a mistake because it is something that has to be explained and gives rise to gossip, but there is nothing criminal about it. Nothing to be really ashamed of. And so, provided you have your wedding certificate to prove that you were legally married to the young man, there is no reason why you should hesitate to make the matter public.

I advise you to do so at once because, for one thing, it will relieve your mind of the burden of keeping a secret about which you have become morbid, and because it will set you right with your friends, and any young man who comes a-courting you will know before hand that you are a widow and not a maid.

Of course, your acquaintances will talk about it for a day or two and then forget it, and there will be no question of your being forgiven because you have done nothing wrong. But if you are every going to tell, do it at once. The longer you wait, the harder it will be to tell it. It was a senseless and cruel thing in your husband to wrench that promise of secrecy from you on his dying bed, and you should not hesitate to break it.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I have been engaged to a girl for three years. Am very much in love with her and she seemed to be desperately in love with me. Lately she went away to visit her brother and every day she wrote telling me how much she needed me and wished for me, and right on the heels of this comes another letter telling me that she has fallen in love with some one else and is going to marry him. What should I do? I love this girl so much it has wrecked me. I can't see how she can change so quickly.—G. F. B.

ANSWER:

There is nothing you can do about it if the girl has discovered that she loves some one else better than she does you, except to bear it with what fortitude you can and congratulate yourself that she found the other man before marriage instead of afterward. It doesn't seem to me that you have lost much in missing getting a wife whose affections are so unstable.

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Friday, February 23

A RATHER conflicting state of affairs is the pressage based on the predominant planetary figures. While there will be much activity, with high-tension initiative and aggressive energies under fine impetus for constructive work, there are minor oppositions or small obstacles with which to cope. The prospects are good for success in major projects if keen mentality is exercised, and backed up by strategy and tact, rather than force.

Those whose birthday it is may be assured of a year of satisfactory progress in creative and new channels, with major projects moving under fine energies and a versatile mental impetus. There may be some delays, obstacles and oppositions, but in the long run there should be much accomplishment resulting from sagacious moves, rather than force.

A child born on this day may be excellently endowed with qualities, forces and faculties for success and a productive life. Its mental equipment is of a high order, ingenious and inventive, resourceful and "canny."

Cotton mills of India consumed over 1,600,000,000 pounds of raw cotton last year.

BORN

ROWE.—At Nicholls Hospital, February 22, to Mr. and Mrs. Sherman J. Rowe, 538 Chamberlain Street (nee Effie Goodrich), a daughter.

EVERETT.—On Thursday, February 22, at Nicholls Hospital, to Mr. and Mrs. Roy P. H. Everett, a daughter.

DIED

MORRISON Mrs. James.—At Lakefield, Ontario, Tuesday, February 20, Sarah Payne, wife of James Morrison, aged 76 years. Funeral from her late residence, Dean street, Thursday, February 22. Service at 2.30 p.m., with Rev. W. R. Walker officiating. Interment in Lakefield Cemetery.

IN MEMORIAM

DEYMAN. — In loving memory of Lewis H. Deyman, who entered into rest two years ago to-day.
God's finger touched him and he slipped away
From earth's dark shadows to a brighter day.
—Ever remembered by his loving wife, Sarah A. Deyman.

MAHOOD.—Memory's loving tribute to a dearly beloved father, Alexander Mahood, who passed away February 22, 1934.
Oh, how we miss you, dear father,
'Tis God alone can tell
We spend many a lonely hour
And shed many tears as well.
We long to see his dear sweet face,
And kiss his still cold brow.
But in our aching hearts we know
We have no father now.
Though father's smile is gone forever,
And his hands we cannot touch,
We shall never lose sweet memories
Of a father we loved so much.
—Lovingly remembered by daughter Mabel, and sons Wilmot and Bert.

CARD OF THANKS

Mrs. Margaret Harran wishes to thank the Sisters and Nurses of St. Joseph's Hospital for their kind attention during her recent illness.

"TELL BILL GOODBYE"

By Marie Blizard

CHAPTER FORTY-EIGHT

Fabienne heard the telephone ring and came out of a deep, peaceful sleep to hear Prunella's muffled voice in the other room.

She called: "Prunella! I'm awake and I'm starving!"

Prunella, with a broad smile on her face, opened the bedroom door. "Mah goodness, you still hungry, chile? After all that food you et las' night? I'll have you brekfuss in a minute."

"Run the tub first, Prunella."

"You ain't gonna git up, Miz Fabienne? Miz Ellen sez you is to stay abed this mawnin'. She had to go to the settlemen' house fo' a little while, but she's comin' home any minute."

"I can't stay in bed. I've got things to do. Get the porter and have him bring my trunk up here."

"You goin' away?" Prunella asked her smile disappearing into the cloud of her face.

Fabienne nodded. "Go along, Prunella. Bath first, trunk and then breakfast."

"All mawnin' the telephone's bin ringin' and people askin' for you, Miz Fabienne."

"I don't want to talk to anyone, Prunella."

"Doctor Mallory, he say you is to call him when you wakes up."

Fabienne's heart turned over with a bitter-sweet pain.

"He sez you kin git him at his office up to ha'pas' ten. He's operatin' at St. Joseph's hospital at 'leben o'clock. You best hurry, honey. It's night onto ten o'clock now."

"Prunella! Will you please do as I ask?"

"Yes, ma'am," she said sadly.

Fabienne bathed hastily, gulped her breakfast and began packing the trunk the porter brought into the living room, trying not to think, not to remember Bill's voice saying, "You see, it's this way, Fab—I'm in love with you."

She should have known it long ago, prevented it's ever happening.

It was not too late now, she thought, putting sweaters in a drawer in her trunk. She'd go away and Bill would soon forget her and turn back to Ellen.

Her throat was beginning to ache with the pressure of the pain in her heart. It would be better for her to have that pain than for Ellen, who was the best friend she ever had, the finest person she had ever known.

She heard a bell ringing again. "Prunella, if that's the doctor, tell him I'm still asleep. I don't want to talk to him."

"That ain't no telephone. That's the doorbell."

Fabienne looked about her wildly, seeking escape. If that was Bill—

She couldn't see him again!

It was Ellen, Ellen, dumb with surprise when she saw Fabienne kneeling before the trunk with her arms filled with clothes.

"I'm all well this morning, darling," Fabienne said brightly. "Will you ever forgive me for what I've done to you?"

"I thought we'd got that all settled last night. What are you going Fab? Where are you going?"

"Paris."

"Paris?" Ellen repeated, sitting down suddenly.

"Um hum." She put shoes in a drawer with her sweaters "It ought to be easy to get passage for tomorrow. The boats arn't crowded at this time of year."

"But, Fab—"

"Will you hand me that silk negligee, darling? I can roll some bottles up in it."

"Fab, what are you going to Paris for?"

Fabienne sat back on her heels. "A change, Ellen. Don't you think I need one? I've done enough harm around here."

"You haven't done any harm at all! Chris explained everything. You couldn't have done anything else."

"Lock what Bill had to do."

"That's all right with Bill, and what anybody else thinks of it makes no difference. He's going away soon, anyway. And even if he were not, he's big enough to get away with it."

"You think a lot of Bill, don't you, Ellen?"

"Of course."

Fabienne smiled at her. "He thinks a lot of you, too, Ellen. Don't ever forget that."

Ellen gave her a perplexed glance. She said, "Will you be gone long?"

"Some time."

"But you'll be coming back to . . . to me and to the settlement house?"

Fabienne shook her head and smiled at her brightly, with a hard smile. "No, Ellen, no more charity work for me. I'm fed up with being a humanitarian. There's nothing in it. Look where it landed me."

After a long minute, Ellen said: "I don't believe you, Fab. I know you too well."

"This is the real me you're seeing now. The other was a girl playing a game. Well, the game's finished, Ellen. You and I are of a different calibre. I'm a butterfly."

"That's not true."

"Oh, yes it is." Fabienne said, tossing her head. "You'll soon find out."

"What do you mean? This isn't like you, darling."

"But it is. The old Fabienne. I'm going to Paris, see mother and lots of my old friends, have a whirl and buy a trousseau and come back—"

"A trousseau? Ellen's eyes lighted up with pleasure and she got up and went to sit beside Fabienne on the floor.

Fabienne nodded and finished. "And come back and marry Nicky."

The light went out of Ellen's eyes. She was absolutely still as if she were cast in marble.

"Nicky hasn't proposed to me for a long time, but he's always wanted to marry me," Fabienne said gaily, and laughed a little uncertainly.

Ellen got up very slowly. In a toneless voice, she said, "I see."

"I haven't told him yet. I'm going to ring him in a little while and tell him. He'll still make a respectable woman of me. Don't you think so?"

Ellen did not turn from the window where she was looking out, seeing nothing. "Of course he will, Fab. Nicky'd never, never let you down." He voice caught in her throat.

Fabienne was hanging a dress on her trunk rack, while Ellen was speaking. She arranged its folds and then, quite suddenly, her eyes turned to Ellen's back as shocked realization spread over her face. She got up hurriedly and went to the window, turned Ellen to face her. "Ellen, you and Nicky are in love with each other?" Ellen dropped her eyes. "You are. Why was I so blind. It was because of YOU that Nicky went to work. You old beau-snatcher. Where are my cost and hat?"

Ellen ran after her, "Please, Fabienne. Let me explain."

"Explain." Fabienne cried joyously. "I haven't got any time for explanations. I've got a date with a dream. Would you mind unpacking that trunk? No. I'll be taking it to Colorado." She kissed Ellen hurriedly, gave her a great hug, and was gone.

She was breathless when she got to St. Joseph's Hospital and saw that it was six minutes to eleven.

A nurse at the desk asked her if she wished to see someone.

Fabienne nodded. "Yes But I can wait. I've been waiting a long time. I can wait a little longer. Do you know when Dr. Mallory will be down?"

"About an hour."

"Thanks." An hour wasn't long to stand at the gates of heaven.

Needed Home

ISTANBUL, Feb. 22—(AP) — Hundreds of Russian technical experts employed in Turkish industry for many years under a Turkish-Russian agreement were ordered by the Moscow government today to return to Russia immediately.

The action follows the gradual liquidation by Russia of its commercial organizations in Turkey.

The Turkish press recently has discussed the possibility of war this spring in the Near East, with Russia's Caucasian oil fields a possible centre of activity.

German technical experts employed here in national defence industries recently were sent home by Turkey, and the German-owned Krupp shipyards here were occupied by marines.

Turkey, non-belligerent ally of Great Britian and France, has been co-operating with the British and French Near Eastern armies in planning a defence of this vital region, the "back door" to Europe.

A New Seat

Toronto, Feb. 22 (CP)

FORMER Premier George S. Henry, who has a habit of roaming around the House conversing with friend and foe alike, last night sat in the Speaker's chair in the Ontario Legislature.

Speaker James Clark, recuperating from illness, found the day and night sessions a strain and wished to retire. So he sent Mr. Henry a note:

"Dear George:

"You have occupied just about every seat in the House. How would you like to fill mine for a while."

Mr. Henry took the only seat he had never sat in.

BEAT THEM TO IT

REPEATED leads of one particular suit may beat your contract. You want to keep the opponents from firing it at you How can you do it? Sometimes you have only one hope—lead the suit once yourself at the very first opportunity. This may mislead them, making them think you want to play the hand differently from what is your real intention They may steer away from that suit and instead serve to you the very dishes you most desire

Mrs. Lee Hazen in the South played this hand against two of the nation's outstanding masters in a match point duplicate. With no game in the deal, a set of one trick doubled would mean a top score for East-West, whereas making the doubled contract would mean an immense North-South top.

At once Mrs. Hazen saw she probably would wish to ruff a diamond, but that the opponents could foil her with three rounds of trumps She had to prevent that She won the lead of the heart 9 to the J with the A, went to the board with the diamond Q and led the spade 4 to the 2, 8 and K West decided from this that trumps had better not be returned; she expected South had solid diamonds

So West led to the heart Q, the K was taken, the club K, West playing the 5, and East then led to the diamond K, thinking West wanted to ruff Mrs. Hazen pounced on this eagerly, ruffed a club, led the diamond A, then the diamond 10, which she ruffed with the spade J after West discarded. She then lost a trick to the spade A but the last two tricks were hers with trumps, after losing only two tricks in trumps, two in hearts and one in clubs.

Proper Feeding Of Hogs Requires Study

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 22 (ENS)—Addressing close to one hundred farmers at a crop and swine meeting here L. M. Kerr, well-known Chatham district hog producer outlined some of the important factors of raising and feeding. Though the speaker dodged a question as to the best breed of hogs to raise he told farmers that the export market was calling for white hogs.

Mr. Kerr stressed the importance of proper feeding. "A small animal should be fed more frequently than a large one. When little pigs are weaned they should be fed four times a day for three weeks and then three times. After a hog reaches from 100 to 125 pounds feed it twice a day, but if you want to get it on the market sooner feed it three times."

Since most Ontario farmers raise their own feeds they usually stop buying mill feeds after the hogs reach fifty pounds. "At this weight he doesn't need as much concentrate. Wheat, barley and corn are fattening foods while shorts and wheat are milk producing. Wheat is a stronger food and puts more meat on the carcass," said Mr. Kerr pointing out that wheat was 80 per cent digestible whereas barley was 87 per cent but produces a better quality pork. It takes 4.1 pounds of grain per pound to put a 200-pound hog on the market according to the speaker who was of the opinion that the government figures were a little low.

Parasite Cause Trouble

Of parasites the speaker claimed that these cost the farmer more money than any other item on the farm. Though hogs may sometimes be crippled due to a lack of minerals or to a damp pen the parasite or stomach worm does the greatest damage to hogs. It passes its excretion into the stomach of the pig from where it is carried through its body into the blood vessels. It is believed that this poison accounts for a great deal of the rheumatism among pigs.

39 Types Of Soil

Speaking on "Soil Improvement" district agriculture representative Ian MacLeod of Brighton said there are thirty-nine different types of soil in Northumberland county alone and these represent a great difference in the type of plant food available. "Seven elements are definitely necessary for plant growth and of these the first three—carbon, hydro and oxygen are provided by the air and water; nitrogen, phosphorus and potash are most important; and calcium or lime is necessary to give hardiness and neutralize certain acid condition. "Iron, sulphur, magnesium and boron are the rarer elements. We don't have to worry about these since there is generally enough present in the soil. "Nitrogen is the element which produces growth in the plant and a lack of this causes a stunted, poor, weak plant with retarded maturity. Phosphorus strengthens the framework of grain and potash promotes root growth.

Mr. MacLeod cautioned farmers to remember that every time they harvested a crop they were taking with it much of the plant food in the earth. The most exhaustive system of farming is the type practised by farmers who sell everything they produce rather than use it for feed and thus put a certain amount back into the land in the form of manure. Barnyard manure supplies most of the humus or organic matter for farms in Ontario. Analyzing some of the different types of soil Mr. MacLeod pointed out that muck soil is high in organic matter and tests well in nitrogen, potash and lye.

This being a dairy county, Mr. MacLeod said that pasture crops should receive more attention. He recommended the planting of two bushels of rye per acre as a means of providing good fall pasture as well as for pasture for from ten to fourteen days in the spring. In conclusion Mr. MacLeod urged farmers to take part in the field crop competition being sponsored by the Seymour Agriculture Society and also declared that with 24 per cent of the land in this county not suitable for agriculture the farmers should take advantage of the free trees which can be obtained from the department on application.

India Joins Other Empire Units In Rallying To England's Side

Giving the direct lie to Chancellor Adolf Hitler and his cohorts who claim that the British Empire is disunited, this picture shows detachments of Indian troops in their camp in France. Several detachments of these troops are at present in France as a result of England's call to arms. In addition to these soldiers of the Empire many thousands more from Canada, Australia aud New Zealand have answered the call and are now on active duty in England and the Near East.

Varsity Education Capital Investment, State Shouldn't Pay For It, Says Acres

TORONTO, Feb. 22—(CP). — A university education is in the nature of a capital investment and the state shouldn't be expected to provide it for those whose parents can afford the cost, A. H. Acres (Con. Carleton) said yesterday in the Ontario Legislature.

"I think the universities are doing more harm than good and I'd cut their grants in two," said Mr. Acres. The state owed every boy and girl a primary education, but that was all.

The money spent on a university education was just as truly a capital investment as money put into a business or a farm, contended Mr. Acres. For bright students whose parents could not afford university costs, he advocated the establishment of a loan fund, with the graduate being given 20 years to pay back the fund.

"I've got a boy at university," said Mr. Acres. "I'd gladly pay another $100 fees to establish this principle. Why should the general public pay for the capital investment of a professional man."

Presbyterial Rally Is Held In Warkworth

WARKWORTH, Feb. 22—(ENS).—The basement of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church was prettily decorated in blue and gold streamers for the rally of the Eastern section of the Peterborough Y.P.S. Prsbyterial, which was held on Monday evening. Members were present from Campbellford, Brighton and Warkworth. The local president, Bob Carlow welcomed the guests and opened the meeting with a sing-song of familiar hymns and prayer by Rev. G. R. Duncan.

Mrs. Grills took charge of the worship period. The Brighton group had charge of the service, and Warkworth assisted, making a very fine program.

A program of songs, recitations, community singing was enjoyed and heartily encored, after which Rev. Simpson, Black, M.A., B.D., guest speaker, gave a very fine address to the young people, stressing the fact of greater loyalty to their homes, church, Sunday school and young peoples. A recreation period was enjoyed and at the close dainty refreshments served. This rally is a new adventure, but with the interest taken last night it will surely be a success. The closing prayer brought to a close a pleasant as well as educational meeting.

Millbrook Girls' Club Talks Picnic Dishes

MILLBROOK, Feb. 22—(ENS).—Mrs. E. J. Powell entertained the Junior Girls' Hostess Club on Saturday at 3 p.m., at her home, King street east, with the president, Martha Belch, in the chair and a most encouraging attendance.

The roll was answered with "A Theme or Color Scheme For a Party I Planned," and many suggestive and practical ideas were obtained. The intended visit of Miss I. Scott, field secretary from Toronto which was to have been in the near future was unavoidably postponed, and it was decided to have a demonstration at the annual Achievement Day on "Packing the Week-end Bag."

The leader, Mrs. W. H. Armstrong, then took charge, and led a discussion on "Party refreshments, their service, preparations for serving, suggestions for party menus, refreshments for an adult party, for a more elaborate and formal party, an informal hot supper snack, and suggestions for refreshments at an outdoor party." Picnic lunches were also taken up, corn roasts, and lastly outdoor courtesy at picnics, and other events.

The home assignment for the next meeting on Saturday, February 24, is to prepare a hot dish suitable for a simple type of evening party. Also with a definite theme or color to plan refreshments for a party scheme. Record books are to be brought up to date, and there will be an exchange of material for a reference file. Each girl brought sample sof cookies, and these were demonstrated, criticized and recipes exchanged.

The vote of thanks to the hostess was voiced by Ruby Fallis and Ethel Belch, and endorsed with a warm handclap.

Kicked By Horse

Mr. John R. Thompson sustained painful injuries on Saturday, when a horse which had been lamed, and to which he was giving some attention, suddenly kicked him, throwing him some distance in the barn, spraining one ankle, and also giving him a severe shaking up.

Fortunately no bones were broken, and Mr. Thompson escaped without any really serious results from the accident.

St. Andrew's Social

An enjoyable social gathering, sponsored by the Young People's Union of St. Andrew's Church, was held on Friday evening in the Sunday School hall, when the Young People's Society of Grace Presbyterian church were guests of the evening, over sixty being in attendance.

An opening sing-song, led by Bea McDowell, with Mary Burnham at the piano, was heartily entered into, a worship service following in charge of President B. B. Dawson, B. McDowell and Jean Fisher. An interesting and informative series of slides on "Across Canada" was a highlight of the evening's program, with Mr. Dawson covering the lecture material.

A concluding recreational period under Earl Edworthy, and the service of refreshments, brought a most successful gathering to a close.

Pickle Wooing

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22—(AP).—A bottle of pickles may be better than a box of candy for some young men to take their girl friends. In a report today to The Journal of Heredity, Dr. S. Davidenkoff of Russia declared he had found in some families an inherited inability to eat anything sweet. Pickles, black bread, sour potatoes, cranberries, and persimmons are delicacies to such people, he said.

KISS YOUR TIRED FEELING GOODBYE!

The baffling thing about low blood count is that you can weigh about as much as you ever did—even look healthy and strong, yet—you can feel as if you had lead in your legs, dopey, tired and pepless.

Low blood count means you haven't got enough red blood corpuscles. It is their vital job to carry life-giving oxygen from your lungs throughout your body. And just as it takes oxygen to explode gasoline in your car and make the power to turn the wheels, so you must have plenty of oxygen to explode the energy in your body and give you going power.

Get Dr. Williams Pink Pills today. They are world-famous for the help they give in increasing the number and strength of red corpuscles. Then with your blood count up, you'll feel like bounding up the stairs as if you were floating on air. Ask your druggist for Dr. Williams Pink Pills today.

RAF Plane Lost During Raid On Heligoland Warships; Nazis Renew Coastal Forays

Britons Wing Over Austrian Landscape From Bases On French Front; Home Batteries Clip Raider Off Shore

LONDON, Feb. 23—(CP). — The Air Ministry announced today that Royal Air Force planes which scouted Heligoland Bight Tuesday night and Wednesday morning bombed German warships and fought off enemy fighting planes.

The Berlin communique of Wednesday said that early this morning "enemy planes from the West and Northwest" flew over Heligoland Bight strategic waters off the northwest German coast, but mentioned nothing of results.

The Air Ministry that day announced a successful reconnaissance of Heligoland Bight by several R.A.F. planes.

Announcement of details of the Heligoland engagement followed an Air Ministry disclosure that R.A.F. planes, flying deep into German territory, last night made "successful reconnaissance flights" over Austria and Bohemia.

Ministry Statement

Elaborating on the Heligoland flight, the Air Ministry stated today:—

"As already announced Royal Air Force aircraft were active over Heligoland Bight during Tuesday night and the early hours of Wednesday.

"Warships observed near Heligoland (German North Sea naval fortress) were attacked with bombs. Anti-aircraft fire was encountered from ships and from shore batteries.

"One of our aircraft reports having been attacked by three enemy fighters without success and it is believed that one of the enemy fighters was forced down.

"No casualties or damage was suffered by any of our aircraft during the operation, but the homeward journey was made in very bad weather conditions which accounted for failure of one aircraft to return."

German planes resumed forays today after the shooting down of two German planes yesterday in raids on the British east coast. One plane was reported off Essex today and another off Norfolk.

Believed Shot Down.

Anti-aircraft guns greeted the first plane, which was reported, although without immediate confirmation, to have been shot down.

British fighter planes pursued the second.

A third German bomber flew over Sunderland on the coast of Durham so low that witnesses could discern the Swastika painted on it.

The Air Ministry gave no details of the R.A.F. flights over Austria and Bohemia beyond saying the planes took off from a British base in France. It was the second flight so deep into Germany to be announced since the war began.

LONDON, Feb. 23.—(CP)—Flying deep into German territory, Royal Air Force planes last night made "successful reconnaissance flights" over Austria and Bohemia, the air ministry announced today.

The ministry gave no details of the flight, the second excursion so deep into Germany to be announced since the war began.

The first, on New Year's Day, was called the "largest survey flight of the war." British planes from French bases at that time dropped propa-

Two Stores and Home Burned At Warkworth

Flames and smoke gushed from the store of W. C. Allan, (LEFT) when it caught ablaze in Warkworth Thursday after Mitchell's store alongside had been levelled by fire. Intense heat from the Allan building at the time this picture was taken hindered volunteers from stopping spread of the fire to Dixon's adjoining store. Allan's store burned to the ground with loss of more than $4,000, although Dixon's suffered only slight damage. At RIGHT is the chemical extinguisher truck of the Warkworth volunteer fire brigade whose members did heroic work in preventing a much more serious fire together with volunteers from Campbellford.

Soviets Leave Two Battalions Dead On Battlefield As Finns Refuse To Retreat

Defenders Take Booty North Of Lake Ladoga; Swede Hints Nation May Change Mind, Fascist Press Sees War Upon Every Side

HELSINKI, Feb. 23—(AP).—Two Red army battalions were dispersed with large numbers killed in one battle on the Karelian Isthmus and 800 Russians slain in another, the Finnish high command announced today.

The smashing of the two battalions was the result of the repulse of six Russian attacks between the Gulf of Finland and Muloa, westernmost sector of the Mannerheim line, the Finnish communique said.

The communique, reporting yesterdays action, said that between Lake Muola and Ayrapaanjaervi "the enemy attacked twice, leaving behind him each time as he withdrew about a battalion killed."

"An enemy force that attacked across Ayrapaanjaervi at Signiemi was repulsed and lost about 800 killed and about 100 prisoners," the communique continued.

Ayrapaanjaervi is a lake about 22 miles nearly due east of Viipuri (Viborg) and almost midway of the Isthmus.

More Booty Captured.

The Finns reported capturing "several new strong points" northeast of Lake Ladoga, along with "large quantities of war material," including 12 guns "and more than 50 machine guns and sub-machine guns, 10 field kitchens, tractors, automobiles and ammunition."

The Finns reported destroying six tanks here and 16 more in the isthmus fighting.

"Several enemy patrols were wiped out" in the Kuhmo sector farther north, the communique said.

Russian war planes raided Issalmi in the home area and killed 12 women and children, the communique said, and also dropped "a few parachute patrols which were either killed or taken prisoner."

Sweden May Change Mind.

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 23 — (CP-Havas).—Although Sweden finds it impossible to intervene in Finland in a military way, it retains full freedom to act differently if the situation changes, Commerce Minister J. F. Domoe, Conservative leader, said today.

Answering critics of the government's policy, he said it is doing its full duty and will continue to give as much aid to Finland as possible, despite its refusal to send direct military help.

Rome Sees War Everywhere.

ROME, Feb. 23—(AP).—Imminent extension of the war to new fronts was widely forecast in the Fascist press today.

The possibilities cited very nearly boxed the compass. They ranged from the Caucasus, where Russia has rich oil fields near the Turkish border, to the Balkans, Scandinavia, Finland and the Barents Sea, that body of Arctic water off Northern Russia, Finland and Scandinavia.

Il Piccolo used the headline: "Intensive war preparations in the east—the Allies are seeking a near battlefield." Il Popolo Di Roma said "London threatens the Kremlin with war." Il Messagero bannered, "London wants decisive action."

Sea War Has Cost 3,000 Lives Says Churchill

LONDON, Feb. 23.—(CP)—Winston Churchill, paying tribute to 760 veterans of the Battle of Montevideo, said Great Britain had lost nearly 3,000 men in the "hard and unrelenting" struggle at sea, and described the victory over the German battleship Graf Spee as "almost a relief."

He told them that naval auxiliary vessels now totalled about 1,700 and the number was increasing rapidly "until not only cargoes by which we live but the high purposes we have in hand are all brought safely into port."

"For one stroke that goes home, for one clutch that grips a raider there are many which miss their mark," Mr. Churchill said.

"For every success there are many disappointments and you must never forget that dangers that are seen are only a small part of those that are warded off by care and foresight and therefore pass unnoticed."

The rescue of the 299 British merchant seamen held aboard the German prison ship "under the nose of the enemy and amid the tangles of one-sided neutrality," Mr. Churchill said, proved that "the long arm of British seapower can be stretched out not only for foes but also for faithful friends."

"To Nelson's immortal signal that 'England expects that every man will do his duty' there may now be added last week's 'The navy is here,'" Mr. Churchill said—referring to the destroyer Cossack's raid on the Altmark.

"The admiralty and the fleet," he said, "are learning together of the special conditions of this hard and novel war."

Captain F. S. Bell of the Exeter, telling of his ship's co-operation with the Ajax, said: "Not one signal was exchanged between the flagship (the Ajax) and the Exter from the first time contact was made with the enemy to the time when the Exeter fell out of the action."

Sir William Coxen, Lord Mayor of London, toasting the men of the Exeter and Ajax, referred to Adolf Hitler's threat of a secret weapon and said, "There is one thing he cannot build—the boys of the bulldog breed, some of whom we honor today."

Timber Inquiry To Delay Prorogation

TORONTO, Feb. 23—(CP).—Ontario's Legislature will not prorogue until Saturday to permit the special committee probing administration of timber resources to hold a session and hear witnesses from the head of the Lakes area.

The House approved the budget 57 to 21 yesterday and in a night session voted $56,502,215 supply, finished its work on the estimates and cleared the way for prorogation. But if the House prorogued today, the timber investigating committee would die.

During the discussion on provincial police estimates last night Attorney-General Conant told the legislators that it was not the policy of the force to go into municipalities unless its aid is sought. It was not the responsibility of the province either to see local forces carried out their duties.

Moscow Reports 675th Fort Been Captured

MOSCOW, Feb. 23.—(AP).— The Red Army reported the capture of the capture of the 675th Mannerheim Line fortification to-day but failed to fulfill the expectation of its admirers by taking the Finnish city of Viipuri (Viborg) as a 22nd anniversary feat.

A Leningrad military command communique reported the capture of "21 defensive fortifications, including 15 iron and concrete artillery forts" on the Karelian Isthmus. This added to the 654 previously reported taken.

Lecturers in Moscow previously had expressed confidence the army's birthday celebration to-day would coincide with an announcement that the Mannerheim Line had been broken and Viipuri, key objective of 85 days of warfare, had fallen.

Farmer-Chemist Confesses Food-Poisoning

CORNWALL, Ont., Feb. 23.— (CP).—Gerald Duvall was committed for trial on an attempted murder charge to-day after Chief Constable William Bertrand of Cornwall township, testified the 26-year-old Newington amateur chemist admitted poisoning food and water in the home of Robert Young, Cornwall Centre farmer.

"I asked him if he intended to kill Young and he replied, "No, I only want to scare him," said the Chief Constable as he told of questioning Duvall.

Young discovered the water in a tea kettle had been tampered with after he returned from a dance early in the morning of Jan. 12. Later he became suspicious of some cheese and sugar and these along with a sample of the water were turned over to police. Analysis showed the presence of bichloride of mercury in the water, strychnine in the sugar and carbolic acid on the cheese.

In a statement by Duvall read in court, accused said he had met Young and a Miss Audrey Grant on a country road some time ago and that was the start of his animosity to the farmer who he had known for 11 years.

"It has been hell ever since," the statement added.

Finds Door Open.

Young said he returned to his home where he lives alone on Jan. 12, after attending a dance at which Duvall also had been present. He found the back door open, the front door unlocked and footprints in snow on the verandah. While preparing breakfast for himself and his father next morning he noticed a "greenish cloudiness" in the water in the tea kettle. He brought a sample to Cornwall for examination by a druggist, and later turned it over to Cornwall township police.

Next morning his attention was drawn to a piece of cheese. It was streaked with red, Young testified, and smelled of carbolic acid. When

Navy to Blockade Red Supplies From Murmansk

COPENHAGEN, Feb. 23—(AP).—British and French warships were reported by the newspaper Berlingske Tidende today to have extended their blockade to Arctic waters off the Russian port of Murmansk.

The newspaper said the ships were strung out for a considerable distance along the Arctic coast to prevent shipment of Russian supplies to Germany and to halt any possible attempt to deliver Russian submarines to the German navy.

Presence of Allied vessels in that far northern vicinity was reported yesterday.

Until now, it was reported that German merchant carriers had been maintaining steady connections with Murmansk, which is an ice-free port despite its Arctic location on Kola Bay.

Finns To Battle For Months Even In Retreat

HELSINKI, Feb. 23—(AP).—Even with a sudden smash through the Mannerheim Line, the Russian invaders of Finland would be forced to battle for every foot of Finnish soil, a military informant declared today.

As the Red Army went into its 23rd day of assaults on the Karelian Isthmus, the Finns confirmed that Soviet forces were attacking in the region of Kamara, a dozen miles southeast of Viipuri (Viborg), but reported the defensive lines eastward to Lake Ladoga were holding fast.

Already the Finns had acknowledged semi-officially that on the west, near the Gulf of Finland, Viipuri could be counted a definite part of the front lines.

All London Hails Ajax, Exeter Men; King Personally Decorates 23

By SAM ROBERTSON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

LONDON, Feb. 23 — (CP Cable). Old London opened her heart today to the naval heroes of the Exeter and Ajax who helped "pocket" the German pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee.

By hundreds of thousands the people turned out to cheer and shower confetti on 760 officers and men of the two cruisers as they paraded through streets tramped by naval heroes of yore, stood proudly for inspection by the Empire's Sailor King and then marched off to the ancient Guildhall for luncheon with the Lord Mayor and the City Corporation.

It was the first opportunity London had had for a mass demonstration since the war and the numbers who lined the route of the triumphal march and the pent-up enthusiasm they loosed went to make up scenes unparalleled since the Coronation.

From the moment that these newest of Britannia's long line of sea heroes swung away from grim old Waterloo Station to the stirring strains of "Hearts of Oak," played by the band of the Royal Marines, the people whooped up the tribute the sailors had so richly earned.

Shouts of "Well done, Navy" and "Hell Scuttler!" greeted these "Brave upon the Waves" just before the parade turned into the Horse Guards' Parade for the Royal inspection and investiture of the medals awarded to outstanding heroes.

A small knot of people led by a Cockney using a small Union Jack for a baton started singing "Rule Britannia." Thousands soon joined in.

New Sub Wave Now Loose In North Sea

PARIS, Feb. 23—(AP). — France's high command today reported a "new wave" of German submarines operating against Allied warships and merchant shipping in the North Sea.

Naval experts expressed the belief the force was composed of craft recently constructed and sent out as soon as crews could be assembled to man them.

French sources said the submarines appeared several days ago but the number and fighting power of the group remained to be determined.

Belief is generally held in naval circles that the German submarine fleet works in relays with one group in port for refitting while another is at sea.

Report Red Subs Cruising Petsamo Waters

LONDON, Feb. 23 — (CP). — The diplomatic correspondent of the Daily Telegraph said today that it is believed that Soviet submarines are cruising "in the vicinity of Petsamo" in far northern Finland. He said the reports were without confirmation in British naval circles.

British aid to the Finns has been increased "in the last few days," the correspondent said.

"In diplomatic circles last night there was the impression that events will move quickly in the Scandinavian situation.

"Since the Altmark incident the government has been considering the attitude of the Scandinavian neutrals towards Germany and Russia and aid to the Finns has been increased in the last few days. Informed observers are watching closely signs of Soviet-German co-operation in that quarter."

Stanley, McNaughton Weep In Canadian Gas 'Attack'

ALDERSHOT, Feb. 23 — (CP Cable). — War Secertary Oliver Stanley visited Aldershot Camp today to see the Canadian troops in training and became involved in a far too realistic demonstration of modern warfare which left the minister, as well as high officers of the Canadian forces, tearful but unharmed.

While Mr. Stanley was inspecting units demonstrating under battle conditions, a "gas" alarm was sounded. Quantities of tear gas had been accidentally released only 50 feet away. The War Minister, who had left his gas mask in his car, and a group of distinguished Canadian officers, who had temporarily discarded theirs, wept copiously.

Tears streamed down the faces of the Minister and the officers, inMcNaughton, commander of the Canadians, and Major-General H. D. G. Crerar, senior officer of military headquarters. But apart from this they suffered no ill effects.

"Dear me, it was quite realistic," Mr. Stanley.

Earlier the War Minister watched a Canadian platoon demonstrate with Bren guns. The Minister was impressed by the apparent ease with which the Canadians destroyed the targets.

He flung himself down on a ground sheet and began firing with great enthusiasm. He scored a bull's eye with the second round of fire but later gained only inners and "washes"—completely missing the target. Altogether he scored 15 out of a possible 35.

He had never handled a Bren before, but was in the artillery in the last war.

Mr. Stanley complimented the instructor on the efficiency of his pupils and added. "I hope most of them are better than I am."

The instructor grinned and assured the Minister; "I think you did very well. Thank you for the demonstration, sir."

Mr. Stanley added that he thought the Bren a "marvellous weapon and an enormous improvement on anything I saw in the last war."

Wilson Hedged At Protests On City-Bombing Last War

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23—(AP).—President Roosevelt's condemnation of aerial bombing of civilian populations, state department documents showed today, contrasts sharply with President Wilson's attitude during the last war.

Publication of the papers of Robert Lansing, secretary of state under Wilson, disclosed that the latter refused to make formal protests against bombings of Antwerp and London by German dirigibles.

The farthest he would go was to drop a hint to the United States ambassador in Berlin to tell a German official personally of the bad impression such bombings produced on public opinion.

Wilson's message to ambassador James Gerard in Berlin, said:

"I venture with not a little hesitation to make this suggestion to you in confidence, that you see some member of the government and say that nothing is making so unfavorable, not to say, fatal, an impression in this country as the dropping of bombs from airships upon cities elsewhere than upon fortifications, with no result except terror and the destruction of innocent lives."

The following year the British ambassador, Sir Cecil Spring Rice, complained to Lansing of the "indifference of the United States government to the zeppelin bombings of London.

Wilson commented to Lansing in a note:

Of course we understand that the British government cannot defend our people or our embassy against these air raids, but we also understand, as Sir Cecil does not when he is under great excitement, that it is none of our business to protest against these methods of 'warfare,' no matter what our opinion of them may be."

$12,000 Fire Wipes Out Two Stores

Outbreak Occurs In Rear Of Mitchell Building

WARKWORTH, Feb. 23—(ENS).—Workmen are busy here today digging about a mass of brick and stone which two days before formed two stores and a brick dwelling. The stores of Mitchell Brothers and H. C. Allan were levelled and a house occupied by Miss Bridget Morrison was conceded a total loss in a fire which caused more than $12,000 damage here Thursday afternoon. The fire, which originated in Mitchell's store, occurred at noon hour while the proprietors were out to lunch and its origin remains a mystery.

While not Warkworth's most serious fire within the past ten years, the blaze threatened for a time to wipe out an entire section of the street, but fortunately there was no wind and the dense clouds of black smoke spurred on by flames which licked high into the air did little damage to buildings outside of the three in its direct path. Residents believe if there had been a wind, nothing would have stopped the fire from levelling many more buildings on either side of the street.

Adding an ironic twist to the seriousness of the situation, a volunteer fireman was seen to climb a ladder and put the nozzle of a hose through a window of the burning Allan store. Presently, there were two sharp blasts that sounded like shot-gun shells exploding and the fireman lost no time in reaching the ground, where he could survey the situation at a safe distance. It was believed a stock of ammunition in Allan's store was the cause of several intermittent reports.

Two Trucks Arrived.

Accompanying the Peterborough Fire Department, was a demonstration truck which had been displaying its points to members of the Peterborough department when the call was received from Warkworth for help. However, on the arrival of both these trucks, volunteer firemen had succeeded in gaining control of the blaze but the demonstrator, intent on displaying a sample of his machine's work, went on to extinguish a section of the already burned Morrison residence—and quite effectively too.

West side of the road, opposite the fire, and on a lawn were piled high with groceries salvaged from the two burning stores—enough to bring tears to the eyes of native Germans who, since the war, are eating from ration cards. However, the larger part of the stock of both stores went up in smoke.

HOW TO OVERCOME ITCHING PILES

If you are annoyed with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not neglect the same or run the risk of an operation. Any itching, soreness or painful passage of stool, is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once. For this purpose get from McDermid & Jury and Bond's Drug Stores or any druggist, a package of Hemroid and use as directed. This formula, which is used internally, quickly relieves the itching and soreness and aids in healing the sore, tender spots. Hemroid is highly recommended, is easy to use and it seems the height of folly for anyone to risk an operation when a simple remedy, which is so pleasant to use may be had at such a reasonable cost. —(Advt.)

Action Is Dismissed

Mr. Justice Hope dismissed, with costs, an action brought by Earl Petrie of Otonabee Township against Mrs. Mary I. Petrie, widow of James Petrie, Otonabee Township farmer who was killed on Highway 7 last year, and who left no will. The case was the last to be heard at this week's session of the Supreme Court of Ontario.

Mr. Petrie's action was to declare that a mortgage of $2,000 which he had placed on his farm, had been in order to build a barn on his brother's farm. He claimed that the money had all been spent for that purpose, and asked the court to award him that amount from his brother's estate.

Mrs. Petrie disputed that the money had been used for such a purpose, and Mr. Justice Hope's judgment was that there was not evidence that the money raised by the mortgage on Earl Petrie's farm had been used for the construction of a barn on his brother's farm.

He also found that the claim, being against the estate of a deceased person, was not sufficiently corroborated and so dismissed the action with costs.

G. N. Gordon, K.C., appeared for Mrs. Petrie, the defendant; and W. Mrs. Petrie, the defendant; and W. plaintiff.

Manion To Boom Fuel Policy

Problems of fuel and hogs have been tossed into the election hopper to be ground in the mill of public controversy along with a dozen other campaign topics that keep cropping up as the wartime electoral fight gains momentum.

In normal times such discussions would tend to depart from the main issues but today they are all being linked with the chief concern of all parties—the conduct of war and the manner in which Canada is assisting in the conflict.

Conservative Leader Manion proposed a national fuel policy in a speech last night in Calgary, near the Turner Valley oil fields and Alberta coal deposits, which he said would encourage use of Canadian oil and coal. During wartime a fuel policy for Canada is very much more urgent than it is even in peacetime, he said.

The present Dominion government was accused of injuring the coal industry and the Conservative leader declared that his proposed national government would review tax and freight structures affecting the oil industry, which have been subject of some dispute. New sub-

Members To Furnish Own Identification

Kiwanians have from now until April 15 to wrack their brains for an original idea for an identification disc to wear at club luncheons.

The club has had large identifications discs of standard design for a number of years, but it's been many a day since a member has been seen wearing one. Today Bill Richardson, reporting for a committee of two set up to find a solution, ruled that each member will have to furnish his own disc, with three prizes being given for best results.

"We set the date at April 15 because we thought some members might not now before then just what to name as their occupation," he said, looking toward Gordon K. Fraser.

Wholesalers offered cheese to retailers at the following prices: New, large, 21c; triplets, 21½c; old, large, 23¾c; medium, 23¾c.

Toronto Fuels Up As Strike Ends

TORONTO, Feb. 23—(CP).—Coal delivery got under way "on the double" in Toronto today as dealers rushed to fill bins near-empty after a four-day delivery strike.

The deadlock ended yesterday when dealers and strikers came to an agreement in the office of Hon. Norman Hipel, Ontario Labor Minister, who acted as chief mediator in the tie-up. No announcement was made as to the terms of the agreement but Mr. Hipel said "all parties seemed happy."

The strikers' original demands included a closed shop. There was no indication if the issue was touched on in the agreement. It was believed however one clause called for an investigation of the coal industry soon.

Shortly after the deadlock was broken, heavy coal trucks rumbled through the streets to fill emergency orders in industries, institutions and private homes.

The newly-gazetted awards for services in "the gallant and successful action with the Admiral Graf Spee" included six Distinguished Service Orders and 17 Distinguished Service Crosses, and the officers and men in the parade who had won such decorations received them from the King.

As each of these men of oak stepped forward to receive his decoration and the warm handclasp of His Majesty, who wore the uniform of an admiral of the fleet, the crowd roared thunderous tribute.

But there was a hush which was even greater tribute when the black-clad widow of a marine who died aboard the Exeter with both arms shot off stood before the King to receive her departed hero's conspicuous gallantry medal. Marine W. A. Russell was awarded this posthumous decoration for refusing all save first aid and going about the decks cheering his comrades until he died of his wounds.

Then the parade re-formed to march off through Admiralty Arch as the statue of Lord Nelson looked down from its tall granite pedestal and swing away toward the Guildhall.

Everywhere cheers rolled like thunder and cheeky little tugs and other merchant craft coursing the Thames added to the din by whistling shrill salutes.

Many cheered the Exeter and Ajax men from ships almost as famous in their day as the victors over the Graf Spee—the "Seven Seas Spray" and Scott's "Discovery," now moored at a permanent berth in the Thames with H.M.S. Chrysanthemum and the Royal naval training ship H.M.S. President.

A party of sea scouts on board the Discovery had a perfect view by climbing to the lookout platform, and one, even more daring, went up the rope ladder to the main masthead.

Route Is Packed

The route through the city was packed long before the time for the march past. One enterprising group of spectators were disappointed. They clambered on a lorry which was apparently stuck in a jam just behind the crowd. A few minutes later police cleared a way for the lorry which sped off with its unwilling passengers aboard.

The triumphal return gave the capital a chance to crowd the streets and hail its heroes with the fanfare of bands.

Before the investiture the King, with the First Lord of the Admiralty Winston Churchill, Admiral of the Fleet Sir Dudley Pound, First Sea Lord, Rear-Admiral the Duke of Kent and Prime Minister Chamberlain inspected the 760 officers and men of the two warships.

After the investiture the Queen, who had watched from a window of the Admiralty, joined the King and stood at his side as he took the salute while the men marched past.

Watch For I.R.A. Bombs

Scotland Yard took extra precautions to prevent demonstrations by the outlawed Irish Republican Army during today's parade after two west end explosions injured about 12 persons last night.

The line of the parade wound from Waterloo station to the Guildhall for a lord mayor's reception and lunch.

Crowds Everywhere

Crowds jammed St. James's Park and Trafalgar Square where the statue of Britain's greatest naval hero, Lord Nelson, looked down. Showers of streamers and confetti were flung from windows on the marchers and on throngs packed so densely that many used periscopes to see over those in front.

Everywhere along the route came shouts of "'Ello 'Arry!" and "wotcher Tom!" as the tars, some grizzled seadogs and others just pink-complexioned boys, marched by.

The men marched in groups, each watch led by its own officers and petty officers.

Further awards for distinguished and gallant service in the River Plata battle were announced in the London Gazette today.

The awards are made to officers and men in each of the three British cruisers which engaged the Admiral Graf Spee. The first to be cited were the commanders of the ships—Captain Douglas H. Everett of the Ajax; Commander Douglas M. L. Meane of the Achilles and Commander Robert R. Graham of the Exeter—who received the Distinguished Service Order.

Some Praise.

Of them the Gazette said:

"As commanders of their ships, having done all they could during the long months of waiting to perfect their ships and ships' companies, so that they stood the test of battle when the day for action came, they heartened all by their readiness, example and encouragement."

Other officers who received the D.S.O. are Lieut. Ian Dudley Heath, Royal Marines of H.M.S. Ajax; Lieut. Richard Washbourn of the Achilles and Commander Charles E Sims of the Exeter.

The Distinguished Service Cross was awarded to Midshipman Archibald Cameron, of the Exeter, for his bravery—"throughout the action he showed the utmost coolness and resource. He never failed to make the best use of his gun crews."

"He showed no regard for his own safety in putting out fires on the upper deck near aircraft from which the petrol was leaking."

Another man to receive the Conspicuous Gallantry medal is Sergt. Samuel John Trimble, Royal Marines, severely wounded when the Achilles gun director tower was struck.

"He stood fast without flinching or complaint through the hour of action that followed, bearing his wounds with great fortitude," his citation said.

he placed a few grains of sugar on his tongue it tasted so strongly he suspected poison.

The cheese and sugar were turned over to police.

Young said he had known accused 11 years, but had not met him more than three times in the past two years.

Couldn't Dance

He went to a dance at Cornwall Centre to hear the music, but had not invited Miss Grant because a sore leg made it impossible for him to dance. Duvall told him he did not smoke or drink, but on this night he had had some liquor and beer and the heat in the hall made the liquor disagree with him.

"He came to the police office later and I told him I had received the results of the analysis," witness continued. "He asked me what they were and I told him. I said there was enough poison in the kettle and sugar to kill a man, and that everything pointed to him."

Chief Bertrand said he told Duvall he would have to find where the poison came from and would check all the drug stores.

"He said to me," the chief continued: 'You are a smart cop, Mr. Bertrand. I didn't tell you all the truth, but I told you some of it. I'll see you Thursday. Don't bother looking for it. I'll tell you Thursday I then asked him if he intended to kill Young and he replied: 'No, I only want to scare him'."

The chief said Duvall was anxious to know if there "would be a trial over this," and when told there would be, asked if "Audrey Grant will be mixed up in it." Then he wanted to know, "How long will I get?"

Got Poison From Minister

Duvall told him he got the poison from "a minister who had been up in Labrador," but refused to give the minister's name.

"He told me he was not sorry for himself, that he was all washed up, but that he felt sorry for his father and mother who would have to suffer," Chief Bertrand declared.

Chief Bertrand said he went to Newington and talked with Duvall's father. The latter told him his son had been interested in chemistry, and that he might have got the poison five years previously from a Rev. Mr. Whitmore.

The father also said Gerald had been given medical treatment for nerve trouble.

Chief Bertrand produced a statement said to have been made by Duvall. After lengthy argument of counsel, it was admitted as evidence. Duvall admitted in the statement that he had met Young and Miss Audrey Grant, Cornall Township, on a country road some time ago and that had been the start of the trouble. It had been "Hell ever since," Duvall's statemens said.

Chief Bertrand said he had interviewe Duvall five times before arresting him.

Charles W. Ewing of Toronto, an analytical chemist, told of examining the food exhibits.

Over Enough To Kill

One bottle contained a fluid in which there was four and one-tenth grains of mercury bichloride.

The minimum lethal dose is three grains, witness swore. The addition of the extra grain "would make the poison act that much faster.

"Death would result sooner," he said. The cheese contained 567-10 grains of carbolic acid. The amount would not be sufficient to kill a person, but might make him sick. The sugar contained four-tenths of one grain of strychnine. The minimum lethal dose, Ewing said, is one-quarter grain. He described in detail the procedure of analysis in each case.

Miss Audrey Grant said she had known Duvall a little more than a year and had often come to Cornwall with him to attend night classes at the vocational school. She also had known Young about a year. She recalled when she and Young met Duval on the road.

"He said it was supposed to go some place with him that evening and he had come to get me," she said. She denied having an engagement with him on the night in question. "I told him I did not want him to come any more a few nights after the incident on the road," witness related. She would not say she had been keeping company with Duvall.

Thoroid Moke told of seeing Duvall at the dance on Jan. 12 and of having a drink with him outside the hall. He said Duvall was not drunk.

Duvall was committed for trial at the conclusion of Moke's evidence and defence counsel E. S. Fennell said application for bail would be made to the counties judge.

Quebec Couple Go To Gallows

MONTREAL, Feb. 23 — (CP). — Achille Grondin and his wife, Marie Louise Cloutier, were hanged early today at the Montreal jail at Bordeaux for the murder in August, 1937, of the woman's first husband, Villemond Brochu.

A black flag atop the jail appeared at 7:01 a.m. EST to indicate the death of Grondin. Twenty three minutes later the flag was raised again, signalling the death of Mrs. Grondin.

Prison and police officials only witnessed the hanging, the press and public not being admitted. Grondin and his wife had lost their last hope of reprieve yesterday when it was announced from Ottawa that the Department of Justice would not interfere.

timber agents, and now he wants to remove a third."

The Minister also accused Mayor Cox of giving evidence based on "hearsay and rumor" and said witness had sought to make it appear "that there never was an honest official in the department."

Both Mr. Heenan and Mr. Johnson criticized Mr. Cox for the evidence given in a lengthy submission in which the Mayor claimed that timber companies have failed to live up to their contracts with the government and that the province had lost money through granting of unwarranted concessions to companies.

ganda leaflets over Vienna and Prague.

An airplane believed to be German was reported off the Eastern British coast early today. Royal Air Force fighter planes took off and later machine-gun fire was heard.

The 2,546-ton British steamship Gothic, which left port last night, returned within about two hours, having been attacked by enemy planes. The captain and second mate were wounded, the latter seriously, by machine-gun bullets.

Two German raiders were shot down when they invaded British waters yesterday. The 540-ton naval trawler Fifeshire was sunk with the probable loss of 21 men aboard by one of the raiders. Only one was known to have been saved.

They also set fire to the 1,524-ton Norwegian merchant steamship Akabahra off the English coast. A lifeboat stood by the ship until the flames were extinguished.

British fighter craft shot down one raider on a farm in southeastern Scotland and the other at sea off Northumberland.

Nine trawlers were attacked by the German flying blockades in what some called "vengeance raids" over the rescue of 299 British seamen prisoners by the destroyer Cossack from the German ship Altmark Friday night.

Day For Finland.

Early today the French Chamber of Deputies voted to hold a "national day of aid" for Finland, and last night Vice-Premier Camille Chautemps declared outside parliament that the French "will not fail" in their "duty" to the small Baltic country.

The Chamber did not set the date for the day of aid. While no indication was given of just what would be done, observers expected special efforts would be made to collect funds and useful objects for Finnish use.

"We can never testify enough to this heroic nation the fraternal sympathy of the people of France," Champetier de Ribes, undersecretary of state for foreign affairs, told the Chamber.

The Chamber's vote was taken to demonstrate that all French opinion is behind the French and British Government's action in sending aid to the Finns.

Naval sources announced that French convoys had escorted 2,000 ships with the loss of only three in the first five months of the war. The losses amounted to 12,390 tons.

Peterboro People Report Excellent Results From Using Syntona Medicine

Scores Tell How It Quickly Relieves Stomach Troubles, Backache, Rheumatic Pains, Nervousness and Sleeplessness.

"In the short time that I have been in town, many persons have come to to tell me how Syntona helped them after all other medicines failed," says the Syntona Man, who is now at Elliott's Drug Store, here. "Some of these experiences are remarkable indeed, but it is by no mean accidental, for Syntona is compounded from no less than twelve pure herbal ingredients that have long been known for their great value in treating ailments of the stomach, kidneys, liver and bowels, and their long train of painful and distressing symptoms. Syntona contains positively no drugs or harmful ingredients. It is pleasant to take and even after the first few days, the whole system seems to take on a new feeling of energy and vigor.

One lady called to say that she had been taking the medicine for only three days, but had already received the first real relief from gas, indigestion and constipation she had known in years.

"Another local man said that weak kidneys or bladder irritations had disturbed his sleep three or four times each night, but since taking Syntona he can sleep the whole night through without being disturbed. Others tell how it relieves backaches, rheumatic pains, neuritis and nervous conditions resulting from poor assimilation and elimination.

"Every word I say about Syntona is true. My files are full of certified reports from grateful men and women in this vicinity, and I am fully convinced that every person who feels rundown or suffers from complaints like I have described here, owes it to himself and family to give Syntona a trial.

"So I say to you, come in and see me at Elliott's Drug Store, 393 George Street, take home a week's or a month's treatment to try for yourself and let it prove to you that it is the best medicine you have ever had the good fortune to use."—(Advt.)

Fire Destroyed Beaudrie Home

BANCROFT, Feb. 23 (ENS). — The farm house of Joe Beaudrie, 16 miles east of here, was burned to the ground by fire caused by sparks on the roof at noon to-day. The loss was estimated at $2,500, and is partly covered by insurance. Few of the contents were saved. Flames broke out several times on the drive shed but were quickly extinguished by neighbors. The wood shed and its supply of wood was consumed with the house.

German Nation In Defeat Will Revolt

The belief that Germany would revolt under a marked display of undeniable defeat which would penetrate into the consciousness of the people so that no propaganda machine could keep it away from them, was expressed by Mrs. John Davidson, M.A., when she spoke Thursday evening in All Saints' Parish Hall under the auspices of the Women's Association.

Mrs. Davidson, who was introduced by Mrs. G. A. Wesley, vice-president of the Women's Association, answered the following questions in a concise manner that spoke of a wide knowledge of European events and history: How did a government such as exists in Germany come to pass; if that government is what we say it is, how does it maintain itself in power; what has it done to German people; will Germany be able to do anything about her situation?

The equalizing of Germany, she said, is one of the most appalling calamaties imaginable. The Germans are not allowed to criticise—criticism leads them to extreme peril. A country that has no critics is indeed a doomed country because it is only under the influence of stimulation that it is able to grow. People do not laugh any more in Germany. In China people live in abject squalor, a thing that would make most of us dour and ugly, and yet I do not know of a country were people laugh in a more abandoned manner.

When we look at the unbounded adventurism of the human mind, we are staggered by the fact that this is an age of hate and destruction—it is an amazing paradox that as we aspire upward than do we slip backward, Mrs. Davidson remarked. That inventiveness that has been in full sway is our undoing. Unless somehow hate and destruction are checked, then we have not actually accomplished anything.

Terrorism Abroad.

A wave of terrorism is abroad in Germany. It is a terrorism which inspires the people with the very deepest of fear, and it is then that they lose sight of the proportion of things; that the live in mortal peril of what is ahead; that they do not live, but merely exist. This continued hate and terrorism in Germany is causing a nervousness that is rapidly coming to its height — it is actually on the point of breaking, the speaker declared. No nation can go on thinking that one particular person or government is infallible. If there should be any break in the German morale there will come a cataclysmic collapse — like a balloon that has been pricked by the forward happenings of the world.

"I believe," Mrs. Davidson said in conclusion, "that in the midst of the turmoil in which we are living at the moment, there will eventually come a larger consciousness of responsibility. I do not believe that we will be able to think in as narrow terms after the war as we did before."

Canon W. P. Robertson thanked the speaker, whose husband is a son of the late Archdeacon J. C. Robertson, for many years rector of St. John's Church in this city. Mrs. Davidson, who was born in Latvia, Russia, has been lecturing for ten years, is a student of history, and speaks fluently in several languages.

Piano music was played prior to the largely attended lecture by Mrs. W. J. Rapsey.

Reds Attack Pope

MOSCOW, Feb. 23—(AP)—Godless, organ of the Soviet Russian Atheist League, declared today that Pope Pius is planning an anti-Soviet crusade with the participation of the United States, Great Britain, France, Belgium and the Netherlands.

The newspaper said the Pope "is fulfilling the will of British, French and American imperialists."

Godless said there are "hardly any" Roman Catholics in Finland but the Pope has sent money to the "White Finns" because they are a "weapon" against the U.S.S.R.

Child Enthroned As Ruler Of 3,000,000 Worshippers

On the roof of the world in mysterious Tibet sits a six-year-old boy, enthroned civil and religious ruler of 3,000,000 worshippers. Son of a humble herder, the lad is believed by his followers to be the reincarnation of the 13th Dalai Lama who died on December 17, 1933. Bearing the name Lingergh Lamu-tan-chu (Divine child), the boy is believed to have been born at the moment the old Dalai Lama died.

Fireman Floors Madman Slashing Crowd

NEW YORK, Feb. 23—(AP).—A 250-pound longshoreman terrified a crowded carload of subway riders yesterday when he struck and slashed with a razor-sharp baling hook until a fireman knocked him unconscious.

Police, who booked the man as John Schneider on a charge of attempted felonious assault, gave this version of the event:

As the train started over the Manhattan bridge from Brooklyn, Schneider suddenly began striking passengers with his fists.

Women and men ducked behind seats. As Schneider yanked the hook from his belt and began swinging it, they attempted to flee into other cars, but the end doors were locked.

A fireman, Harry Ahearne, tried to reason with Schneider, who lunged at him with the hook. Ahearne swung and Schneider dropped, then leaped to his feet and attempted to draw a knife. Ahearne, five inches shorter and fifty pounds lighter than the longshoreman, knocked him unconscious, and straddled his arms.

Meanwhile cries of the passengers had reached the motorman, who signalled for aid with whistle blasts. At the Canal Street station police arrested Schneider, and women passengers kissed Ahearne.

Although several were injured, none accepted medical treatment.

Otonabee Scholars Hold Valentine Party

ZION, Feb. 23 (ENS). A Valentine party was enjoyed by the pupils of S.S. No. 13, Otonabee, under the direction of Miss Madeline Charlton on Friday afternoon, February 16. Small brothers and sisters of the pupils, also the older ones who have just left school, were present. Sleigh-riding for the first part of the afternoon was followed by a Valentine program, games and contests. Refreshments concluded the children's jolly party.

PROVIDENCE, R.I., Feb. 23. —(AP).—A vacuum-cleaner whose prices seemed too good to be true aroused the suspicions of the East Providence police last night, and he was taken to the station for questioning. The salesman gave a Boston reference. Police checked and found the prices were as true as they were good. Before he left, the salesman sold several sweepers to the policemen.

Backing Impossible For War Moves In Peace Time Says Premier King

OTTAWA, Feb. 23.—(CP). — The Dominion Government "took every care to see that war, if it came, should find Canada as well prepared as any peace-loving country could be," Prime Minister Mackenzie King declared in the second of his campaign broadcasts.

Because of the Government's foresight, Canada's war effort started immediately on the outbreak of hostilities by assisting in the naval and air defence of Newfoundland, Labrador, the French islands in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, and the British and French West Indies.

Answering charges of unpreparedness voiced by Conservative Leader Manion, the Prime Minister said Wednesday that neither the government nor Dr. Manion ever had advocated preparedness for Canada's participation in a war in Europe.

Speaking over a national network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, Mr. Mackenzie King said Dr. Manion had named the issue in this election when he said the Government should be defeated because it was "responsible for our unpreparedness and our weak war effort."

"He has stated the issue as he sees it," the Prime Minister said. "It is the Government's war record. I am quite prepared to accept his challenge.

"To-day, Dr. Manion quite fails to distinguish between preparedness, in peace time, for national defence, and preparedness, in peace time, to send forces overseas. He knew the difference, however, when Parliamnt was in regular session in March, 1939. He knew the difference from March, 1939, to September, 1939, when Parliament met in war session. He knew the difference until an expeditionary force was already on its way overseas.

No Support Possible

"He kept silent in peace time because he knew, as everyone listening to me knows, that neither parliament nor the people would have supported expenditures, in peacetime, to prepare for active participation by Canada in a European war.

"It is perfectly true that we did not, in times of peace, budget for times of war. If we had, our measure would not have received the support of parliament. By preparedness in peace time, the present government always meant, and always said it meant, preparedness to meet the possibility of attacks upon Canada in the event of war.

"The government repeatedly told parliament that our peace time military expenditures were exclusively for the defence of Canada."

The prime minister outlined in detail the government's war effort and what had been accomplished in less than six months of hostilities. This included sending one division overseas, with another division in training, completion of plans for a huge British commonwealth air training plan in Canada; arming of more than 85,000 men for the three services and maintenance of a full share of the defence and convoy work on the Atlantic.

2nd Division to Go Over

Concerning the second division, the prime minister said: "Meanwhile the training of the second division is proceeding rapidly and the decision has been reached to dispatch it overseas at an appropriate time."

An army co-operation squadron of the Royal Canadian Air Force has completed its training in Canada and "it will very soon be joining the First Division overseas." A second air squadron to co-operate with the Second Division is in training.

Unlike the situation in 1914, Canada entered the present conflict with small but definite establishments of the Royal Canadian Navy and the Royal Canadian Air Force. The part played by the navy so far "has received the highest praise of the Allied powers," the Prime Minister said.

Today ther are 70,000 men under arms in the Canadian Active Service Force, 9,000 in the air force and 6,000 in the navy.

"These numbers will be increased by tens of thousands of young Canadians as the air training plan develops and men continue to be recruited for other services," the Prime Minister said.

On the economic front the Prime Minister discussed work of the War Supply Board which had let contracts amounting to $110,000,000 on a basis of no patronage or profiteering, the war time prices and trade board which is devoted to preventing undue rise in the cost of essentials, and organization of the agriculture department to adapt farming to war needs.

In this connection the Prime Minister said of the farmer: "We do not propose, if we can avoid it, that he should lose the fruit of his labors or find himself, in peace time, once again the victim of a depression which he did nothing to create."

The government had maintained national unity prior to and at the moment of the declaration of war, Mr. Mackenzie King said. "The war effort was made possible by the unity thus achieved. Never forget the two are inseparable," he added.

"This is the record which the leader of the Opposition says constitutes the issue in the present election. He appeals to you to defeat the government because of the inefficiency of its war effort.

"I maintain that, if ever a government was entitled to the continued confidence of the people because of the manner in which, at a time of war, it had administered a great national trust, the present government merits that confidence.

"At all events, it is for you to judge. It is your interests and your future that today are being weighed in the political balance.

"My colleagues and I am quite prepared to be judged on our record by the people of this country. Happily, it is to your judgment that we make our appeal. This election will determine the representation in the parliament of Canada for the next five years. It affords you a full and free opportunity to decide what is best for yourselves."

Mt. Pleasant WA Enjoys Pot Luck Dinner

MOUNT PLEASANT, Feb. 23 — (ENS).—Mrs. Harry Jamieson was hostess to the members of the Women's Association of the United church for a Pot Luck dinner held at her home on Wednesday at one p.m. The president, Mrs. Thomas Graham, presided, a number of the members offering sentence prayers.

The Scripture lesson was read by Mrs. Norman Fee and the devotional was given in a splendid paper by Mrs. E. Lawson, the members responding to the roll-call with a verse of scripture containing the name "Mary" Mother of Jesus.

During the business hour a number of quilt block were displayed for a quilt to be given the needy, and the president requested that members who had not already sent their block to leave it at her home by Monday, so that the quilt may be put together and made on Tuesday of next week at the home of Mrs. Norman Fee. Mrs. Fee was asked to purchase the lining and bat.

A letter of thanks was read from a bereaved member for a token of sympathy sent. Mrs. G. Shield gave a paper on W.A. activities. Mrs. N. Fee and Mrs. T. Brenton were in charge of the program: A solo, "He Loves Even Me," by Miss Chester Best; clipping "Tomorrow," by Mrs. Ira Lowe; Mrs. Lawson read a chapter from "Memories of Blinkbonnie," published in memory of the late Rev. William Allan; Mrs. Norman Fee, recitation, "That Old Sweetheart of Mine."

Mrs. Mark Shield, who is visiting in the community with her husband, from Grandview, Manitoba, spoke briefly to the meeting and by special request of the members sang the hymn—"Out of My Bondage, Sorrow and Night," with her daughter, Mrs. Lowes, as accompanist.

The meeting closed with the Mizpah benediction. Among those present were: Mesdames T. Graham, T. Jamieson, W. H. Lowes, G. Shield, I. Lowe, S. Blake, H. H. Lowes, M. Shield, N. Fee, H. Jamieson, Marjorie Lowes and Lois Jamieson.

Friends of Mrs. J. W. Thexton will be sorry to learn of her serious illness at her home here.

Depends On Finances

LONDON, Feb. 23—(CP)—Great Britain today announced a conditional decision to re-open the British pavilion at the New York World's Fair this year.

Answering a question in the House of Commons, R. S Hudson, secretary for the overseas trade department, said:

"Certain financial arrangements have been suggested by the fair authorities toward covering the cost, and, subject to a satisfactory settlement of outstanding details, it has been decided to re-open the pavilion."

Prosecutor, Ex-Police Head And Others Named In Huge Gambling Conspiracy

DETROIT, Feb. 23 — (AP). — Gambling conspiracy indictments against Prosecutor Duncan McRea of Wayne County and 18 other men set in motion today a police search for him and other defendants listed as "missing."

Long rumored to be aiming at "high places," Judge Homer Ferguson's one-man grand jury last night accused Prosecutor McCrea, Fred Frahm, former police superintendent, and four policemen of conspiring to operate a $1,000,000-a-year baseball pool.

The indictments climax six months of investigation into gambling and alleged police graft.

Only last month Frahm, accused of "neglect of duty," was dismissed by the new police commissioner, Frank Eaman, in one of a series of shakeup moves.

Since last fall Judge Ferguson has been examining suspected gamblers and underworld figures. Two detectives, involved in a "fixed" holdup, have served jail terms for contempt. A police official similarly was penalized.

In the baseball pool, Judge Ferguson said, Detroiters bought $1,000,000 in tickets a year. Conspiring in its operations, he charged, were McCrea, Frahm, Harry Colburn, chief investigator for McCrea; detective lieutenants Clyde Ranney and James Dooley and detectives James Bennett and John Mulligan.

A State Witness.

A newspaper reporter, Victor Berestord, was named a "conspirator" and was under $1,000 bond to appear as a state witness.

"This is only the starting gun of our investigation," said Special Prosecutor Chester P. O'Hara. "There is going to be a lot more."

In spedey arraignments last night before Judge Ferguson, Dooley and Ranny pleaded not guilty. Four others — Frank Piscopink, Milton Kamphenkel, Victor Doub, and Clifford South—stood silently and pleas of not guilty were entered for them. All four are private citizens.

Police squads were ordered out meanwhile to search for other defendants, and Chief of Detectives Paul Wencl remarked that the cases of Frahm and McCrea would be handled "the same as any other police case."

Plain Stupidity

The murderers of Russia appear to have developed to a high degree the faculty of doing stupid things. Asinine things.

Their bombing machines made another raid on Finland, but the men in charge missed their objective. They dropped 134 explosives or incendiary bombs on Pajala, and that town of 3,000 inhabitants is a full six miles inside the border of Sweden.

The reason why there were no deaths in this raid was that a brave girl stuck to her post in a telephone office and flashed warnings to the residents of what was coming. The weather was clear as could be at the time and the Russians in their damned bombing machines could see what they were doing. To say that it was just an error is putting up something which the Swedes will choke on if they try to swallow it.

There is a strong feeling in Sweden that is high time to come out openly and aid Finland. There are many Swedes who have crossed the border on their own account and who are now in the army with the Finns, although the Government of Sweden has decided to remain neutral and allow Finland to stand or fall according to her own ability to resist.

If there is any one thing well calculated to increase the desire of Sweden to go to the aid of Finland then that bombing of Pajala furnished it. So if the thick-headed Russians were bent on inviting more enemies they went about it the right way to get them.

Mr. Henry Makes a Speech

Hon. George S. Henry, former Premier of Ontario, and before that Minister of Highways for eight years, and now a private member of the Opposition, spoke in the Legislature. Spoke for almost two hours.

He was talking about what he termed extravagance, and of course he meant the extravagance of the Hepburn Government. Mr. Henry was inclined to blame engineers and doctors for the increasing costs of the Highways department and the Health department. Doctors he claimed were spending too much time wondering how they could send more people to hospitals when it would be quite possible to have them attended to at home. He believed there were many so-called mental cases which could be just as well cared for in their own homes.

Coming to the highways business the ex-Premier said he had experience with engineers, and entertained the belief that the Minister today was "in the hands of a group of ambitious engineers." Turning to his own experience he admitted he had found engineers always wanted the best and they were not too particular regarding the cost. We wish Mr. Henry had developed that idea more; it is something about which the people who pay the bills in the province—and that takes in all of us—would like to hear much.

Mr. Henry appeared to lack enthusiasm for some of the four-lane highways which are being constructed in the province now. They are great places to drive, but they serve only a limited area. At the moment we are thinking of the highway from Apsley to Bancroft. Ten miles of it was finished, but the other 15 miles is just a very poor road through the bush. Without doubt there are many similar places in the province which need completion of highways, and the building of four-lane paths on some of the much-travelled sections does not mean a thing to them.

Mr. Henry's speech was the sort which the Opposition ought to furnish; it was intelligently critical and the speaker had a deal of political experience from which to draw.

No Mennonites In Army

Magistrate F. M. Brown of Saskatoon had before him a young man of 23 years, and he asked if the accused had ever tried to enlist. Just what that might have to do with the outcome of the case we do not know, but the answer was that the young man was a Mennonite, and was forbidden by his religion from going to war. The magistrate expressed surprise that such should be the case.

It has been that way ever since the sect was founded by Menno Simons who lived from 1492 to 1599. The movement started in Friesland and afterward spread to Holland, North Germany, Alsace, and other sections. Immigration to United States started in 1683 and the Mennonites settled in Pennsylvania, afterward extending to Canada. In Ontario there are several communities where they are numerous, particularly in Waterloo and parts of Perth.

Mennonites refrain from war, punishment, administration of oaths, and a Mennonite would not become a magistrate if he were offered the opportunity. They have their own fixed idea regarding the education of their children, desiring them to have a reasonable amount of instruction but not enough to cause them to wish to leave the land. They are good farmers and seldom are they in financial difficulties. But they won't fight.

Norway Should Decide

Nations which are not directly engaged in war are having hard times. Norway announces that since the war started she has lost 49 vessels. Some of them have been torpedoed by German submarines; others have been sunk by coming in contact with mines. The mines are those which have been turned loose by Germany. Mine fields placed by the Allies have all been declared and their exact location is known to captains of vessels going to sea.

Norway cannot go on with that decrease in her shipping trade. It is ruinous and the country depends on her seagoing trade. That is one thing which made it appear so utterly stupid for that country to be objecting to Britain having gone into neutral waters to remove British prisoners from a German hell-ship. It also makes it difficult to understand why Norway would declare the Altmark had been searched for contraband and make no reference to the 300 prisoners on board.

Norway would be well advised to draw in as close as possible to the Allies and get the advantage of joining in the convoy system. Spending her time shivering and shaking for fear of what Germany may do is poor policy, because Germany has been doing her worst ever since the war started.

Where The Trouble Comes

Toronto has been troubled with a strike of coal handlers at a time of year when people feel it in a hurry. There are plenty of homes where it makes no difference because the coal for the winter was put in last fall and there is plenty on hand. The homes of people in less affluent circumstances are more readily affected. They do not have much on hand, and they put in small quantities as they have the money to pay for it. There are factories where supplies are short, and it is reported men have been laid off because the premises are cold.

When there is a strike of that kind one cannot but think back to the plan for helping people keep warm in cold countries. The people who dig the coal, the railways which carry it, the dealers and the men who distribute it—none of them had anything to do with supplying the coal in the first place. They only handle it and distribute it. If all that portion of the program could work with the ease and certainty of the creation of the coal in the first place there would be no trouble at all.

Tommy Farr Failed

Tommy Farr, the Welsh boxer who gave Joe Lewis quite a fight some months ago, is now 26 years of age. Plans have been made so that he will again fight Louis for a purse of $89,000.

Meantime Tommy Farr decided it would be his duty to enter the Royal Air Force, and that is what he did. But after being there for a short period he was given his release, and the matter was brought up in the British House of Commons. The feeling there was that if a man were good enough to stand up to Joe Louis he should be able to handle anything else which might come his way.

But the explanation was that the requirements of the Royal Air Force for Tommy Farr, airman, were greater than the requirements of the prize ring for Tommy Farr, pugilist.

And that must be correct. Tommy Farr in the air force would not be in a roped-off ring, and he would not be fighting with his fists and dancing about on his feet, and he would not hear a bell ring at the end of each three-minute period telling him to take a rest.

So there you have it. The best prize fighter in the country is not good enough for the Royal Air Force. Up there it is a battle of wits, skill and highly-developed training. A big fist and a strong arm do not win victories in the air.

Room For Improvement

Charles Cox, member of the Ontario Legislature from Port Arthur, was outspokenly critical of the manner in which the Ontario Lands and Forests Department does its work. His censure was not limited to any particular period. He did not like the way in which great tracts of land and cutting privileges were granted to large operators, and he was not taken at all with the supervision of our forest lands.

Mr. Cox was certain that in fifty years from now much of the land would be as barren as the Sahara Desert. And admittedly that is very barren. He was certain too that many of the forest fires were started by those who found it easier to go and get paid for fighting fires than doing anything else.

We are moved to doubt if any administration has yet tackled the forest problem in our province as efficiently as forests are handled in other lands. We have had so much timber land that the need of conserving it has not been forced in upon us. The result is we have become profligate in our treatment of forest reserves. For years we allowed a species of cutting which removed all parent trees from large areas, and in that way the natural process of reforestation was brought to a dead end. Within recent times there has been a change for the better, but we are a long way removed from the systems followed in European lands where forestry work has been reduced to a science.

It does not help at all to claim that this Government or that Government has been wasteful. We need a policy, a better one than we have ever had in order to conserve the property of the people, for Crown Lands fall in that classification. We do not believe that any Ontario government has yet brought our forest system up to the required standard.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Co-operation is helping a man do the thing he wants done the way he wants it done.

Man in Wales enlisted saying he was 56 years of age. It was all right until it was found he had a son of 45.

So far we have not heard one kick in Peterborough because the tax rate went down 1½ mills for the year.

One prisoner reports that the doctor on board the Altmark was a kind and considerate man. Yes, occasionally they do turn out that way.

The tomb of another Pharoah who reigned in 1080 B.C., has been found and inside are vessels of gold. The plundering of tombs seems to go on easily enough when there are no relatives about to raise a protest.

One report says that the Winchester Arms Co. is working on an order for 50,000,000 cartridges for Finland, and that looks like one of those bang up strokes of business.

We have become accustomed to secrecy, and it looks as though President Roosevelt was falling in line. He visited the Panama Canal zone "and then sailed for an unknown destination."

One Chatham merchant found his stock was moving out too fast. In fact $800 worth went in one night when the store was closed and he complained to the police about it.

John Barrymore, the actor, has agreed to pay up $7,500 arrears in alimony to his third wife. Having a string of ex-wives on the family pay roll is something the average man could not afford. Nor would he want to if he had even an ounce of secondary brains in his head.

London Daily Express says newspaper editors should have restored to them the right to decide what to print and what to leave out of their papers. There is good reason for the contention but then it is a fact that there always have been a great number of people who knew better how to run newspapers than the people who were actually doing it.

DOUBTFUL

(By A.R.K.)

¶ Some scientific men declare, we're hard and fast inside a snare, and we must change our way; in order that more folk may toil, and life and all it means won't spoil, we'll work five hours a day.

¶ If I was very smart I guess, I'd do my day's work in much less, I'd pause to hum no tune; I'd start at seven in the morn, at dinner time I'd hear the horn, and I would quit at noon.

¶ But all days don't work out the same, at times I'm muddled in the brain, I can't get nothing done; I have to scratch my head and try, and work's not done I don't know why, until the setting sun.

¶ Some time old friends come dropping in, at forty years ago begin, to talk of good old days; I cannot chase them from the room, in fact I fear they'll go too soon, they speak in pleasant ways.

¶ And other days it feels like spring, I ought to work like anything, but then I like to walk; I like to watch the water run, when snowbanks fall before the sun, with neighbors too I walk.

¶ And so I think and ponder too, how I would get my chores all through, at five hours I would stall; for I admit that there are days, when I and vigor part our ways—and I can't work at all.

Expects Giant German Assault In The Spring

THE Marquis of Lothian, British Ambassador to United States, when speaking before the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations, made extended reference to the trend of events which are most likely to unfold in Europe with the coming of Spring. From the verbatim report we quote:

SO FAR the war has been indecisive, though occasionally an encounter like the sea battle off Montevideo suddenly reveals the grim intensity of the struggle which is going on day and night, week after week, month after month, on and below and above the sea.

In our view everything today points to Germany attempting early this spring to gain a decision against England and France by a terrific attack by land, air and sea in which she will use every weapon in her armory. The reason we think this is not only the news we get but because by her own tradition it is the right thing for her to do. The object of war is to reach a decision and Germany cannot afford to wait. Moreover from the point of view of the National Socialist party and the militarists who support it, not only is there a chance of rapid decision this summer, but if the decision went in their favour it would give them the supreme prize, world empire. That chance may never come again. Nazi Germany is in a better position to win it today than she was in the last war. Then she had to fight a war on two fronts. Today she can concentrate almost every force she has in the West. A month ago, despite the Russo-German Pact, she cast a suspicious eye towards her rear. Today the resistance of the heroic Finns has shown up the weakness of the Russian army—and given her more freedom of action in the West. Again, in the last war she had no effective long distance air power. Today she has the most tremendous air force in the world and is daily adding to it.

Even in the last war the German General Staff made three desperate bids for world power. The first was the thrust against France through Belgium in 1914. The second was in 1917. Ludendorff had been warned by Bethmann-Hollweg and by the German Ambassador in Washington that introduce unlimited submarine warfare against all merchant vessels travelling to Great Britan and France would certainly bring in the United States against Germany. Ludendorff replied that he did not care, because if the submarine campaign was quickly successful, nothing that the United States could do would save England from defeat or Germany from taking her position. He very nearly succeeded. Not soon shall I forget the anxiety of the following months, when 800,000 tons of shipping were being sunk a month. If Germany had been able to continue sinkings at this rate for a year the Allies would have lost the war. As it was, the submarine was mastered by the autumn of 1917 by the convoy system, by the depth charge and by the destroyer patrols, in which your young sailors under Admiral Sims played so notable and effective a part. So far in this war Great Britain has only lost an average of slightly more than 102,000 tons per month, and neutrals have lost an average of about 75,000 tons per month.

IN 1917, Ludendorff failed. Yet he tried again in 1918. The moderate element in the German High Command wanted to stand on the defensive in the West, to reinforce it with the seasoned German troops which had just annihilated the Russian army, and then set to work to organize economically Eastern Europe and Southern Russia. They calculated that the Allies would then have to hurl themselves fruitlessly against the reinforced Hindenburg Line, and that when they were tired of losing life in this way, Germany would be able to force them to make a peace which would make her dominant in all Europe east of the Rhine as the price for evacuating Belgium and Northern France.

But Ludendorff, faithful to the Prussian military tradition, would have none of it. It was, for him, world empire or downfall. So he staked everything on victory through the gigantic offensive of March, 1918, hoping to drive the British into the sea and the French south of Paris before American aid on land could be effective. He failed, though again he only just failed. Then caught on the recoil by the masterly generalship of Marshall Foch using the seasoned veteran of France, Britain and the Dominions, and the indispensable aid of your own intrepid divisions, Germany went not to world power but to downfall. Today we hear exactly the same story. Dr. Goebbels said only a fortnight ago that the issue before Germany was world empire or downfall.

That is why the Allies think that National Socialist Germany and not Communist Russia is the centre of the struggle. And that is why we believe that, unless some unexpected change occurs, there will be a terrific attack on France, and on the bases of British naval and aerial power as soon as the weather improves, in the hope of winning world empire in a single decisive battle.

READY TO GO THE LIMIT

(Port Arthur News-Chronicle)

One thing at least can be said of Premier Hepburn. He shows every evidence of a sincere determination to go the limit towards winning the war.

• "Just Orn'ary Sort Of Trip"

THE SKIPPER of the little coasting motor barge inhaled his pint of beer and replied: "Oh, orn'ary sort o' trip, guv'nor!" Pint by pint, grunt by grunt, monosyllable by monosyllable, I extracted from him an idea of what this ordinary sort of trip had been like.

I could see his craft at a buoy opposite the Thameside tavern; she was less than 300 tons and had practically no free-board. Her wheel-house amidships, surmounted by a stumpy mast, resembled nothing so much as a conning-tower. I could imagine her on a night passage, navigation lights prudently dimmed, the surges sweeping clean across her deck; her silhouette when touched by the probing finger of a searchlight, to say nothing of the suspicious purr of her Diesel engine, might cause eyes strained by excessive peering through the blackout (I a winter night to jump to conclusions with resultant hasty and regrettable action.

He told me how the accolade from the searchlight was invariably followed by a game of question and answer from an interrogator hidden behind the light; war-time business of a confidential nature this and he was impressive in his reticence on this point. Usually the jumble of syllables tumbling down wind to him was drowned by the hideous racket of his engine and frequently he had to stop; even then the concerto of sea and wind made it difficult to hear. Sometimes uniformed authority boarded his craft and put him through a polite but searching cross-examination. The final question was usually the same: "Anything to report?" And I knew what his reply was: "No, guv-nor. Orn'ary sort o' trip." Then when authority told him to carry on, there would be the infernal racket of the engine once more as the barge scuttled thankfully onwards to the shelter of London River.

Ordinary sort of trip! Only these little waifs of the coastways know just how extraordinary their trips are these days. Sand, clay, coke, their cargoes are important but without glamour; no smart uniforms, no parcels of comforts, no days of riotous leave; none of the few-remaining compensations of war for them. Men of vast experience and little theory, they struggle by day with the intricacies of the International Code of Flag Signals, pondering long over the newly-installed flag-locker or the unfamiliar signal manual. By night they answer challenges in slow halting Morse on lamps still shinglingly new. No longer can they go their own way; they must now follow the routes laid down for them. Menaced from above and below, there is all the time the ceaseless peering up and down.

Heaven knows their trips were bad enough in peace time; in war time—. Ordinary sort of trip! In those simple words I sensed the spirit which actuates not only the little coasters but all those who go down to the sea under the Red Ensign and the shadows of war.—(Reproduced by courtesy of the Editor, Lloyd's List and Shipping Gazette).

• Robbing The Messenger Boys

(Letter in Toronto Star)

SIR,—The Big Brother Movement has for some time been giving careful consideration to the problem of the robbery of delivery boys. According to newspaper accounts most of the messenger boys are under 16 years of age, are employed by drug stores, and are usually held up at or around 9 p.m.

The Toronto Retail Merchants' association was instrumental in securing a 7 p.m. closing for grocers, fruiterers and butcher stores. This went into effect on Feb. 1 of this year. In all probability it will end most of the robberies in this field. However, there still remains the problem of late deliveries on Saturday nights.

Most important now is the need of protection for drug store delivery boys. With this in mind representatives of the Big Brother Movement have met with members of the Toronto Retail Druggists' Association to discuss ways and means of finding a solution to the difficulty. A representative of the Big Brother Movement has also conferred with the Toronto police department and has received assurance of its co-operation in the administration of existing protection laws and in the apprehension of those guilty of delivery-boy robberies. Our task of giving adequate protection to delivery boys is unfinished and is deserving of our attention.

The co-operation of the public is earnestly needed in the matter of night deliveries. By law, the druggist must make immediate delivery of drugs ordered, but can we not co-operate by ordering our ginger ale and cigarettes earlier—in this way giving protection to the boys who have to make deliveries?

In some cases a more rigid administration of the Children's Protection Act is needed. There are stores which will require boys under the age of 16 years to take orders after 10 p.m. We realize that as at present constituted the act makes only the parent responsible. We would like to raise the question: "Should it not also place responsibility upon the shoulders of the employer who hires the boy?" Provincial authorities might well consider this point, and also the advisability of lowering the hour to 8 p.m. Provision is also needed whereby youths 16, 17, 18 years of age would not be permitted to work after a certain hour. It is important to note that there is no law at present regulating the hours of employment for such lads engaged in messenger service.

Finally, may we appeal to the individual druggist. The boy who works for you at night may be badly in need of money to help out at home. However, he has two other needs. First, he must prepare for the future. He cannot get the most out of school if you work him until 10 p.m. or later. Secondly, he needs protection. Will you not safeguard him against "fake" order where he has to carry large quantities of "change"; seek the co-operation of your customers in matters of front-door deliveries, leaving porch lights on, ordering non-medicinal merchandise early, etc.? Also, would it not be well for you to consider hiring older boys for work after 8 p.m.?

KENNETH H. ROGERS,
General Secretary,
Big Brother Movement.

SWEDEN'S DANGER

SWEDEN would be a rich prize. She is the world's greatest exporter of iron ore. Swedish Lapland, above the Arctic Circle, is said to possess two billion tons of high-grade ore, much of it available through strip-mining.

Germany gets more than half of her iron-ore imports from Sweden. If that source were cut off, German arms factories would shrivel up.

Therein lies not only a danger to Sweden, but a safeguard. For if Germany were to throw a blitzkrieg didn't at Sweden, and the blitzkreig didn't take, the lifeline of the Reich's foundries would be smashed. Sweden has a substantial army, and would certainly get prompt help from England for the asking. Hitler, knowing all that, would presumably consult his astrologer twice before attack.—New York World-Telegram.

WANT BEST MEN

IN The Wingham Advance-Times is a timely reminder that the men elected at this time to Parliament will inevitably face trial and arduous duty and that it is up to the electorate to place "the best men" in office.

We are at what appears to be the start of a long war, a war that may tax our national strength in many ways. Many decisions will have to be made that in peace times would not. Surely in a time such as this, we, the voters, should take some responsibility by giving earnest consideration to the platforms that are presented and then on election day exercise our franchise in the manner we consider the most intelligent.

A FAMOUS VICTORY

Recollection of the great battles of the World War will show why the Allies are avoiding the offensive this time. The great attack of Passchendale began on July 31, 1917. The British, under Haig, pressed obstinately through the mud until November 6. They won a small strip of land, of no military value. The cost was 400,000 killed and wounded.—New York Post.

WORSE THAN WAR

LAST YEAR, according to Managing Director Cameron of the national safety council, 93,000 persons were accidentally killed in this country, 330,000 others were permanently disabled and 8,500,000 suffered temporary disabling injuries. Is it a fair inference that we Americans kill and maim about as many people by accident every year as Europe's warmad dictators do by deliberate intention? —New Orleans Times-Picayune.

AVIATION ARCHIVES

Rockefeller Center will house the most comprehensive aeronautical library in the world, the archives of the Institute of Aeronautical Sciences.

The collection will include more than 10,000 books, magazines and reports on the subject, an index of 2,000,000 references compiled by the WPA, 50,000 clippings and a history of aviation development in model form.—New York Post.

WATCHING THE WORLD

"British have to keep an eye on the Dalai Lama," a headline reads. Is there anybody occupying a public position or any situation in the whole world on which they do not need to keep an eye? The immense range of the responsibilities of the cabinet a London is not remembered as much as it should be by many of those who criticize so freely what it does or fails to do.—Edmonton Journal.

AND NO "DIVIDENDS"

A fact that the taxpayers of Alberta should keep in mind on the eve of a general election is the increase in taxation under the present experimental and extravagant administration. General taxes for the fiscal year 1938-39 amounted to $8,245,789. In the year before the "social crediters" took office the corresponding total was $4,956,900 or a difference of over three and a quarter million dollars.—Calgary Herald.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

Ye are the salt of the earth: but if the salt have lost his savour, wherewith shall it be salted? It is thenceforth good for nothing, but to be cast out, and to be trodden under foot of men. Ye are the light of the world. A city that is set on an hill cannot be hid. Neither do men light a candle, and put it under a bushel, but on a candlestick; and it giveth light unto all that are in the house. Let your light so shine before men, that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father which is in heaven....Not ever one that saith unto me, Lord, Lord, shall enter the kingdom of heaven; but he that doeth the will of my Father which is in heaven....

A Bit of Nonsense

Looking Ahead

The young evacuees had been photographed at school, and the teacher was trying to persuade them to buy copies to send home to their parents.

"Just think how nice it will be to look at the photograph when you are all grown up," she said. "You will say: 'There's Jennie, she's married'; or 'That's Stanley, he's a sailor'."

"And that's teacher, she's dead," said a small voice from the back of the classroom.

Helpful

Disturbed in his sleep by noises, a man jumped from his bed and opened the window. He heard a trolley-bus conductor using rather strong language about the blackout.

"What's wrong?" he shouted.

"Nothing much," replied the excited conductor. "I've only been trying to hook this pole on for about 10 minutes."

"Oh, exclaimed the sleepy one, "you want to try the main road. Buses don't dun down here."

THE VALUE OF WORK

MRS. GEORGE HAWES, of London, Ont., who has died in her 102nd year, was a firm believer in the value of work. In an interview given on her 100th birthday, she said she could see no reason why strong 'teen-aged girls and boys should do nothing but play on streets when they weren't in school. "I'd have them pick up chips, instead of making all that noise," she advised.

It has always seemed rather a tragedy of urban life that there are not sufficient opportunities for keeping boys and girls busy outside of school hours. We know there is considerable merit in the adage about all work and no play making Jack a dull boy. But this doesn't answer the question as to what all play and no work does for Jack and Jill.

Hard work and lots of it didn't do Mrs. Hawes any harm. It is doubtful if it has caused the trouble for other people that idleness has done. —Windsor Star.

DIRTY HANDS

MUD-SLINGING! We had almost written that one off our list of election phrases. But it still lives. The editor of The Wheatley Journal reminds us of its vitality.

If one is to judge from resolutions passed by various nominating conventions held throughout Ontario the past week, it would appear that the Legislature's resolution condemning the war effort of the Federal Government, is more than likely to prove a boomerang. It is rather a difficult matter for any person, whether a politician or not, to throw mud at another without having some of the grime stick to his own fingers.

Marmora Groups Draft Plans Of Indian Dinner

MARMORA, Feb. 23—(ENS)—The February meeting of the Women's Missionary Society was held on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Frank Sweet, with an attendance of nineteen. Rev. Dr. W. P. Fletcher led in prayer. The president, Mrs. Fletcher, conducted the business period. Miss Margaret Brown and Mrs. D. L. Curtis were appointed delegates to the Missionary Presbyterial meeting to be held in Belleville on March 15 and 16. It was decided that the W.M.S. and C.G.I.T. Girls hold an Indian melee supper in the Easter week. The worship service was then held, the theme for the year being "The Missionary Purpose of God," and the February theme was "Beginning from Jerusalem." Mrs. Gordon Davis gave a piano solo, and readings were contributed by Mrs. Fletcher, Marion Sweet and Miss Brown. The offertory prayer was madet by the president.

The study period was in charge of Mrs. H. A. Burwash and the subject of study was the chapter, "Christian Church in India," taken from "Moving Millions." Parts were read by Mrs. Curtis, Mrs. Jarvis, Mrs. Davis and Miss Brown. Mrs. Fletcher read part of a personal letter from friends in India, which was very interesting. The meeting closed with a hymn and prayer.

Rev. Dr. W. P. Fletcher attended the regular meeting of the Ministerial Association in Madoc on Monday. Mrs. Fletcher accompanied him and attended a meeting of the wives of the ministers of the district, which was held at the same time.

Cobourg Death Rate Highest In 6 Years

COBOURG, Ont., Feb. 23—(CP)—Cobourg was free of epidemics last year, but the death-rate was the highest since 1934, the annual report of Dr. W. E. Wilkins, local M.O.H., revealed to-day.

There were 61 marriages, 89 deaths and 71 births in a population of 5,798.

The report indicates that both the death-rate of 15.3 and birth-rate of 15.1 per thousand of population were at a higher peak than at any time since 1934.

CENTREVILLE, Feb. 23—(ENS)—Miss Ethel Belch was hostess to the Young People Society of the Presbyterian Church on Tuesday night. The president, Miss Vera Bradshaw, presided during the business period. Following community singing some items of business were considered. Mrs. Clifford Hall was appointed personal evangelism convener. Gwen Hutchison, worship convener, presided for the program.

The Scripture lesson was read by Mary Whittington, after which Rev. A. R. Gibson offered prayer. Arthur Breckenridge conducted the Scripture lesson contest and Grace Johnson led in prayer.

A special feature of the program was a debate: "Resolved, That the radio is a greater hindrance than a help to the church."

The affirmative was taken by Gerald Anderson and Murial Whittington, and the negative by Allie Berry and Dick Hutchison. The judges were Mrs. Clifford Hall, Iva Campbell, and Bob Larmer, who decided in favor of the affirmative.

Following hymn and benediction there was a recreation period conducted by Margaret Larmer and Marion Earle. Dainty lunch was served and the hostess thanked for her hospitality.

McLean's Speech Is Resented

TORONTO, Feb. 23—(CP).—The Canadian Chamber of Agriculture today stood prepared on the word of its president, H. H. Hannam, to "gladly meet and confer with the Canadian Chamber of Commerce or other business men's organization at any time as partners in support of policies for the welfare of Canada as a whole."

In an address before a joint banquet of the Ontario Whole Milk Producers' League and the Ontario Concentrated Milk Producers Association last night, Mr. Hannam took issue with a speech delivered before the Chamber of Commerce annual convention here last Monday by the Chamber president, J. S. McLean, Toronto businessman.

Mr. Hannam challenged a statement made by Mr. McLean that there is really no national organization which represents agriculture at large. Mr. McLean added that even if it were desired, therefore, to broaden the membership of the Chamber of Commerce to include agriculture on even terms with industry, the method of doing so would by no means be simple.

"How is the farmers' organization to maintain friendly relations with a businessman's organization which defies the most elementary rule of courteous recognition?" asked Mr. Hannam in his address.

"It is difficult to understand why the president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce would make a charge so disparaging to a Dominion-wide farmers' organization—the Canadian Chamber of Agriculture. We do not of course claim that all far morganizations in Canada are in it, but the great majority of them are. The organizations of eight provinces are affiliated directly and the ninth one indirectly."

Mr. Hannam said there were many statements in Mr. McLean's address in which the Chamber of Agriculture concurred. They included: Agriculture still is and for a long time seems destined to remain, Canada's basic industry.

Up To Finland

LONDON, Feb. 23 — (CP). — Prime Minister Chamberlain, questioned in the House of Commons regarding the status of British volunteers fighting for Finland, declined to say to-day whether such fighters would be pensioned if wounded.

The terms of service, he said, are arranged between the Finnish Aid Bureau and the Finnish Government, and the British Government is not concerned.

Member Of Canada's War Supply Board Was First To Fly In British Empire

J. A. McCurdy (LEFT), making in his home-made Silver Dart at the first flight in the British Empire Baddeck, N.S., on February 23, 1909.

By JAMES MONTAGNES
(Central Press Canadian Writer.)

OTTAWA, Feb. 23. — So short is the history of aviation that the first man to fly an airplane in the British Empire is still alive and to-day is a member of Canada's War Supply Board. He is John Alexander Douglas McCurdy, and to-day he will celebrate his first flight made 31 years ago at Baddeck, N.S. To-day he is assistant director of the aviation division of the War Supply Board, one of Canada's "dollar a year" men, a post for which he gave up his position as president of Montreal Air Industries, Ltd.

It was as a graduate of the School of Practical Science, University of Toronto, that young McCurdy went back to his native Baddeck, where he was born on August 2, 1886. Here he was asked by Dr. Graham Bell, inventor of the telephone, to join him in flying experiments. And it was from Baddeck that on February 23, 1909, Dr Bell cabled the London Times:

"First flight of a flying machine in Canada occurred here to-day when Mr. Douglas McCurdy, native of Baddeck, Nova Scotia, flew a distance of about one-half mile at an elevation of about 30 feet above the ice on Baddeck Bay in an aerodrome of his own design, named the Silver Dart."

Made History.

It was a great day in Canadian aviation history. The weather was good and the inhabitants of the little town of Baddeck, away off on the end of Nova Scotia, jutting out into the Atlantic Ocean, were on hand to see the flight which had been announced to take place the first good weather. Interest ran high, for never before had a flight been made even at this little place, which had seen more aviation experiments than any other part of the British Empire up to that time, since here were the headquarters of a group of four young men who have since made names in aviation history. Backed by Graham Bell, these four young men had done considerable experimenting. They were Glen H. Curtiss, Thomas Selfridge, the first man to die in an aerial accident, F. W. "Casey" Baldwin, and J. A. D. McCurdy, the youngest of the group.

As the Silver Dart, which had been completed some months before, glided along the ice of Baddeck Bay, it gradually rose under its own power. Behind the plane, then called an aerodrome, came a small army of skaters bent on following the plane to its landing. Young and old had come to the scene armed with skates to follow in the procession the adventures of this daring young pilot. Great was their joy when McCurdy rose, flew nearly half a mile, and came down again on the ice as gently as a bird.

The following day a wire to the Associated Press of New York told of more success. "McCurdy made a nice flight of four and a half miles at the rate of forty miles an hour, circumnavigating, or rather circumdroming Baddeck Bay at an elevation of between 40 and 50 feet in the air. At one point he crossed a tongue of land going over a tree in his way. At the lower end of the bay, finding himself too close to shore for a safe return, he came down on the ice. One of the wings was broken during the landing and a wheel was injured in skidding."

The actual records of those first flights and the texts of the telegrams sent by Dr. Bell are preserved at the Smithsonian Institution at Washington and in a bound copy of the records made by the Aerial Experimenters' Association, as the group called itself, in McCurdy's possession.

On March 8th the plane flew eight miles in the fast time for that day of 11 minutes and 15 seconds. Later the Silver Dart, with McCurdy, went to Pettawawa military camp to show government authorities the development of aviation, but because the field was mainly used for cavalry work, the flights were not successful.

Flight To Havana.

Early in 1911 McCurdy flew from Key West, Florida, to Havana, Cuba. United States destroyers were placed at ten-mile intervals on the route. Lack of gasoline forced him down ten miles off Havana but President Gomez of Cuba came out to meet him. The next flight on that route was made 17 years later by Charles Lindbergh in opening the air mail route between the United States and Cuba.

McCurdy made his next flight in Canada in August of 1911 when he entered a race with Charles F. Willard of California, between Hamilton and Toronto. McCurdy took the route over the lake while Willard that of the shore line. The young Canadian made the trip in 36 minutes, the fastest time made to that date between the two cities. The next day McCurdy wrecked his plane at the Toronto aviation field, but came out unhurt.

McCurdy with Baldwin and Curtiss formed the Curtiss Aeroplane and Motor Company, and while this organization has grown into one of the largest aid manufacturing plants in the world, the three early experimenters remained together. They pooled their early patents which later were sold to the United States and British governments.

When war broke out in 1914 McCurdy organized a training school for pilots near Toronto under government auspices, and here most of the early wartime pilots were trained, while Americans, interested in military aviation, came to train at this school as well. McCurdy also manufactured airplanes at Toronto under the name of the Curtiss Aeroplane and Motors Ltd., which work was later taken over by the Imperial Munitions Board.

Since 1918 McCurdy has continued in aviation, his companies manufacturing airplanes, assembling and overhauling engines and other aerial industrial business. Now a man of 33, he is not content to just reminisce about the early days of aviation in Canada, but since the outbreak of war has been active in assisting the government to organize the aircraft industry for wartime production.

Seymour Farmer Hurt In Runaway

TRENT RIVER, Feb. 23—(ENS).—While John Thompson and Albert Wood were at the farm of Emerson Glenn of West Seymour, Wednesday, for a load of hay, Mr. Thompson threw a blanket over the horses, and one horse, a Western, not being accustomed to a blanket, took fright and the team ran away. They bolted across a field and were stopped on reaching a fence corner, and afterwards caught and brought back to the barn yard. In unhitching, the horses again took fright and broke away, dashing through the gate, dragging Mr. Thompson behind. Mr. Thompson escaped serious injuries, but was severely bruised about the legs and one hand was hurt. After the injured man was free from the horses, the team continued running down the concession and out on to Highway 30, turning north. They were caught at Mr. George VanVolkenburg's gate by Mr. Reid, rural mail carrier.

Highway 30 is almost bare of snow while concession lines are difficult for car traffic owing to the depth of snow. Various modes of travelling are seen daily passing through—cars, sleigh, cutters and several wagons have been brought into use for heavy loads as the two bridges across the Trent are bare of snow.

Killing 3 Cattle On Highway Wrecks Car

TWEED, Feb. 23.—(ENS).— A car owned by Magistrate J. L. Floyd of Northbrook, was badly smashed up on Wednesday night, when the driver, Lorne Lloyd, was suddenly confronted on Highway 37 with a small herd of cattle. Unable to avoid striking the animals, he plowed into the midst of them, killing all three and damaging the car badly. Fortuntely, he was not injured himself. Mr. Lloyd was returning from Belleville about ten o'clock and as he reached the top of a knoll a mile east of Thomasburg, the cows faced him in the middle of the road. He had no time to apply his brakes and headed straight for them. The car was damaged to the extent of at least $500, when the hood, fenders, grille and the engine were all partly demolished.

The cattle were owned by Mr. Clarence Carleton, who informed Chief of Police J. Clair Hayes that they had apparently broken loose in the stable and wandered to the road through an open gate. Chief Hayes is further investigating the case.

QUAKERS CONTINUE ATOP INDUSTRIAL PUCK LOOP WITH 5-0 WIN

Watercraft Win As Packers, Brintons Draw

Industrial Loop standing:

Team	P	W	L	T
Quakers	6	5	1	0
Westclox	5	4	1	0
Marines	5	3	1	1
Watercraft	5	2	3	0
Packers	5	1	2	2
Brintons	5	0	3	2
Raybestos	5	0	4	1

In a trio of games at the Brock St. rink last night, the Watercrafts defeated Raybestos 5-3, Quakers copped a 5-0 win over the Marines, and Brintons and Packers played to a 1-1 draw. Play was lively before a fair-sized crowd of fans in each game.

Watercrafts had a 2-1 edge in the first period and made it 4-2 going into the third. Willshaw and Boulter each counted a pair for the winners as O'Connor got one. Maudsley notched two for the Rays and Lewis got the other marker. Play was fast and tight with the victors showing a little more speed to show a margin. It was clean throughout the tussle. The teams:

Four in Second

A big second period gave Quakers their 5-0 win, four goals coming in the middle go after a 1-0 margin in the first. Hill tallied three of the counters with Webb and Delpellaro getting one apiece. It was hard from the start, with play fast and fairly rugged and Snowball Watkins having a busy evening in Marines' net. He turned in a swell job against the fast-stepping Oatmen, especially in the third period which was scoreless. Marines kept trying right to the finish. The teams:

Both Brintons and Packers scored in the second period in a tight tie tilt, Deadey and Csumrik being the marksmen. Play shuttled back and forth evenly, and at times speedily, in a close-checking scrap. Coach Jim McMartin returned to the ice wars, seeing some service, and Jones of Brintons had to retire with a cut leg. It was a close contest all the way. The teams:

PRO PUCK PERSONALITIES

MAC COLVILLE

(By Central Press Canadian)

One of the many unique features of Lester Patrick's New York Rangers have been their brother acts. From the teams inception until not so many years ago the Cook brothers, Bill and Bun, were spearheads on their attack, and no sooner did they fade than up came the Colvilles, Neil and Mac, currently two important cogs in Rangers' attacking machinery. (And of course, there are the Patricks). Just as Bill Cook overshadowed Bun, so Neil Colville, one of the National league's outstanding players, overshadows Mac, but the chunky right wing is no slouch and is a vital part of the line centred by his brother, with Alex Shibicky on left wing. This trio is in its sixth year together, starting in 1934-35 with New York Rovers, moving to Philadelphia Ramblers the next year (with the odd N.H.L. game thrown in), and then becoming full-fledged Rangers in 1936-37, making this season No. 4 for the line. Before going to the Rovers Mac played for Edmonton Juniors, a team good enough to reach the Memorial Cup finals in 1934. Born at Edmonton 24 years ago last month and christened Matthew Lamont. Two seasons back he potted 14 goals, his best N.H.L. total, and figures for his so-far short career stand at 29 goals, 51 assists for 80 points, plus 60 minutes served in penalties.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC PERDUE

Whether the Bees will sting the Colts or the latter will trample on the Bees will be decided in the Brock St. arena this e'en. When Oshawa and the local pucksists mix it in the fourth game of their best-of-five junior "B" group finals. Colts gotta win, or else. That "else" means elimination, so ya know the Weir scrappers will be teeing off from the start. They've nothing to lose and everything to gain in this encounter, and hence will go all the way out in a desperate attempt to sew up the series. The Colts feel confident they can turn the trick on home ice, and we rather expect they will, too. They're just as fast and husky as the Motor Citizens and possibly possess more fight.

* * * * * *

Yeah, it's a case of two fine junior "B" squads tangling in an important melee, two clubs that have as much use for each other as the Russians and Finns. So it should be a hotcha number this eve here before a big pack of payees—and the fans will certainly get their dough's worth this time. It is possible that it'll be the last showing of the Colts this winter—and several will be too old for junior next season — but we have a hazy hunch the young Petes will stick around for a spell yet.

* * * * * *

The Folks Who Pay

Junior hockey slumped in fan interest locally several years ago and is just now beginning to pick up again. Well do we recall the crowded houses for the local junior lads in bitter battles with St. Mike's and Barrie, with excursions out of town, etc. In those days, the poor intermediate Petes played to vacant splotches of bleachers or slim crowds. The puck pendulum swung over and the intermediates corralled the cash customers whilst the juniors did their bookkeeping with red ink. The Petes are still popular here, but the junior Colts are beginning to win more and more local friends. And they'll likely have a big gang on deck for this evening's playoff.

* * * * * *

Regarding the basketball setup here this week-end—yep, we mentioned it before but it can stand a repeat—a trio of damsels' tilts are on tap tonight in the Y.W. First fray at seven is between St. John's and "Y" Gm, followed at eight by Quaker Aces and Westclox, with the big clash at nine betwixt Cobourg Grads (provincial champs) and the Peterborough Orfuns. A right tasty hoop dish. Also tonight in the P.C.I. gym, three Port Hope teams play the local Collegians, senior gals, senior boys and junior boys in school loop fixtures. Saturday p.m. in the Y.M., Bees meet C.G.E. at 7.15 and Zephyrs play Dominions at 8.15 in senior men's City Basketball League jousts.

* * * * * *

Locals Lose Shirts

Confuscius say: "Oshawa Generals no laundrymen but Petes lose shirt to them!" And now. The local intermediate "A" group winners meandered down the highway for an exhibition tilt with the junior "A" Generals (who are hunting another Dominion title) and returned home sucking the lemony flavor out of an 11-3 reverse. They can't do that to us! But they did. So we'll give up guessing that the locals will ever knock off the smart Oshawa all-stars this season, the Generals having now won three out of three exhibition games from 'em this year. And 11-3 is quite convincing. (Belleville papers, never mind copying.) The "A" juniors were in peak form—slipping down the rink like firemen on a greased pole—to rap home goal after goal from right in on Harding's doorstep. The Petes were away below form, showing a big letdown from their playoffs, and were minus two defencemen, Crowe and Ellis.

* * * * * *

However, allowing for two players being missing, and the local slump —possibly from staleness or just playoff reaction — the classy Generals looked better on the night's play by five or six goals. They fluked a few but waltzed right in on tricky passing plays repeatedly to give the local goalie no chance. Our defence wasn't at its best nor did all the forwards backcheck in their usual speedy style—so 'twas just a case of how many. At least, this is a good spot for the Petes to have a letdown, before the intermediate "A" playdowns commence. They actually looked like the Belleville Redmen, and worse than the Fliers, last p.m. And those husky, clever and very fast Generals looked like the Goodyears.

* * * * * *

Right Lively Action

In the Industrial League last twilight, a fairish crowd viewed three lively jousts at the Brock. Watercrafts pulled a neat 5-3 win o'er Raybestos, Quakers blanked Marines 5-0, and Brintons and Packers fought to a niffy 1-1 draw. So now a quick look-see at the loop standing shows Quakers on top with five wins in six starts. Westclox are next with four in five, while Marines have three nods and a tie in five. They're followed by Watercrafts, Packers, Brintons and Raybestos. One more week winds up the schedule, and then the merry playoff battle is on. Quakers have the next skating party in the rink, some night next week.

All through the week, the Church Loop has been listing games for All Saints' rink but having to cancel 'em when Old Sol kept gaining decisions over outdoor ice. The loop hopes to resume Monday on short notice and the 11 teams still in the chase will play steadily till cut to four. Letters are being sent to the 22 managers directing 'em how to judge the winner of the Ministerial Assoc. Cup. Each pilot nominates a player with the C.H.L. executive then making the choice. There'll be 50 points for playing ability and value to his team, 25 points for gentlemanly conduct and 25 for church activity.

Hither and Yawn: Congrats to Coach Crawford and his King Edward team upon winning the School Puck Loop title in a good series with Prince of Wales.... Jim Ellis' shoulder is on the mend and he may be ready for the playoffs.... Lock Co. Eagles play the Hawks in Omemee this eve....Dip Clapper, Hastings' gift to the N.H.L. Bruins, is expected to again make an all-star berth this year....Bud Weese of the City League rolled 910 at Duffus last p.m., and Mrs. Jim Esson of the ladies' circuit hit a 332 single in a 680 total....George Pace gets $3,000 or 35 p.c. of the gate for the world's bantamweight title fight with Lou Salica in Toronto on March 4th....Some Southend Loop playoff competition listed in tonight's paper....C.R.U. meets in Toronto tomorrow and may discuss grid rule changes....Dip & Buff plays Porcelain at 1.30 in C.G.E. shop hockey tomorrow aft in the Brock, Machine Shop "A" has a playoff tilt at 2.30 with Switchgears, and Drafting plays Dip & Buff at 3.30—if that latter team trims Porcelain—for the right to play Machine Shop "B" in a semi-final....Fliers will wonder how bad they are (after losing to the Petes here 11-1) when they read of the Generals' 11-3 win o'er the Petes.... Oshawa Bees seemed jittery last eve, feeling the Colts would lay for 'em here tonight... Mrs. Confuscius say her old man talk too much.

Ramblers Win 1-0

Southend Ramblers won a 1-0 girls' hockey exhibition at the Sacred Heart rink last night over Brinton Fliers. Only a few of the regular Brintons showed up, so two sides were chosen for the match. The only tally came in the first period. The teams:

Ramblers: Goal, J. Martell; defence, P. Low, J. Allen; centre, M. LaPlante; wings, P. McGarrity, M. Jones; sub, B. McAuliffe.

Brintons: Goal, C. Castle; defence, A. Leether, V. Lynch; centre, F. Dionne; wings, G. Ritchie, H. Stazicker.

1st Round Tilts To Liven Scottish Cup

LONDON, Feb. 23 — (CP Cabel). —First-round matches in the Scottish wartime cup competition are expected to inject new life into the United Kingdom soccer to-morrow. Home and away matches will be played in each round with goals to count.

A full round of matches is scheduled for the clubs making up the eight English regional groups with London and Southern teams opening the third week in the new South C and D competitons.

Glasgow Rangers, leaders in Scotland's West group, open the fight for th cup with a game at Alloa, one of the strongest elevens in the East. Falkirk, Eastern pacesetter, is at home to Hibernians of the same section, and Hearts, runners-up, are away to St. Johnstone, another East squad.

Thirty-one teams operating in the two Scottish regional groups will compete for the cup. Dunfermline drew a first-round bye.

Competition is very keen among teams battling for the leadership in several of the English divisions. In the West, Everton, Liverpool, and Stoke are tied with 15 points each, with the two Manchester elevens sharing fourth place, only one point behind.

Everton to Win?

Saturday's matches may result in a continuation of the deadlock. Everton is not likely to fail in a home match with New Brighton. Liverpool and Stoke play away from home, but should bag maximum points against Port Vale and Stockport County respectively.

Plymouth Argyle, Torquay United and Swindon Town are placed similarly in the south-west. A battle royal is in prospect at Plymouth, where the Argyle and Swindon clash and Torquay has a great opportunity to go out in front by defeating Swansea Town in South Wales.

Chesterfield and Sheffield United share first-place honors in the East Midlands. Preston North-End has a two-point margin over Bury in the North-west, while in the North-east Newcastle United is out in front by a wide margin. The championship of th Midland Division appears to rest between Wolverhampton Wanderers and West Bromwich Albion, with the Wolves one point in the lead to date.

A tilt between Arsenal and Millwall at White Hart Lane is the feature of South C games and in D section made up of Third Division teams, Queen's Park Rangers and Crystal Palace will put up a good fight at Shepherd's Bush.

CITY BOWLING NEWS

DUFFUS RECREATION ACADEMY

Mrs. James Esson of the Lucky Strike Ladies' League turned in a brilliant 332 single in a 680 count to feature Thursday's bowling at the Duffus' Academy. In the eight-team league of C.G.E. bowlers there were 16 heavy hitters led by "Lefty" Kearns and Jack Playford. Kearns bashed them around to the tune of 822 while Playford threw a mammoth 382 in 814. Good scores for the day included:

Queen's Park Rangers Group Champions

LONDON, Feb. 23—(CP-Cable)—Queen's Park Rangers became champions of south "B" English wartime soccer group today when Bournemouth was defeated 4-3 by Chelsea in a postponed match. The Rangers, with 26 points and a game to play, cannot be headed, but Bournemouth, now in second place two points in arrears, may be ousted by either Chelsea or Reading.

West Ham United made sure of finishing runner-up to Arsenal in South "A" by trouncing Clapton Orient 4-1. It was West Ham's concluding game of the competition in which the squad compiled 25 points. The Gunners, with a game to play, have bagged 28 points.

Curling Match

A Milwaukee rink—entered in the Ontario bonspiel in Toronto—today accepted a friendly challenge to curl against the Outboard a Marine knights of the besom and stane. The match was due to be held here today, and members of the local rink are C. B. Neal, Art Legon, E. E. Estlick and H. J. White.

OSHAWA GENERALS TRIM LOCALS IN EXHIBITION PUCK TUSSLE

Petes Off Form To Lose By 11-3 Score

Oshawa's junior "A" champions, the Generals, made it a clean sweep in exhibition games over the Petes this season when they hammered home an 11-3 victory last night in the Motor City. A small crowd saw a loose, one-sided tussle with the speedy homesters in top form to win in handy fashion.

The Petes, minus Crowe and Ellis on defence, turned in a poor display, showing a big letdown from their classy playoff form against Trenton Fliers. They played listless, draggy hockey from start to finish, failing to backcheck or open up to any extent. The score was 4-0 in the first period and 8-1 going into the third.

Playing very fast hockey, the smart Generals dished up some fine action to sweep in repeatedly on Harding and rap home in-close tallies. They fluked a few markers but looked considerably better than their intermediate rivals throughout the affair. It was a clean tilt with only two penalties drawn and few hard bodychecks shown all the way.

Spread Around

The Oshawa scoring was well spread around, with Knott, the McAtee brothers, Sawyer, Hellyer and Daniels all prominent for the victors in sniping. Eddolls was strong on defence and the goalie looked good. None of the Petes stood out in this encounter, though the locals' first line worked best going both ways and were robbed several times on almost-sure goals. Burton and J. Jopling worked hard too, and Harding kicked out a flock of tough one. But the teams as a whole looked stale and failed to click anywhere nearly up to its true form.

The teams:

Petes: Goal, Harding; defence, Burton and Gardner; centre, Kingdon; wings, Heal and Tompkins; alternates, F. Jopling, J. Jopling, Starr, Coughlin and Blewett.

Generals: Goal, McManus; defence, Ritchie and Daniels; centre, McAtee; wings, Sawyer and J. McAtee; alternates, Wilson, Knott, Hellyer, Hewson, Smith, Eddolls and Turner.

Referee—S. Morrison of Oshawa.

Norwood School Edges Out Tweed

TWEED, Feb .23 (ENS). — In a hard-fought game between the Norwood and Tweed High Schools in the first round of the O.H.H.S. the visitors gained a two-goal lead, winning 6-4. The play was wide open and hard, with Puffer the key man for the Norwood boys, while Porritt proved the best man for the home forces, playing the full 60 minutes.

In th efirst period Norwood jumped into a one-goal lead when Puffer broke through the defence to drive in a hard shot. The homesters tied it up on Porritt's shot. Puffer scored again. No penalties were handed out.

Tweed tied the count early in the first part of the second canto, with Trudeau banging i na three-way pass from Vance and Doyle, only to have Buck jump the count on a pass from Johnston. Porritt then took a pass from Bergeron to even it, and Courneyea on a long shot put the home forces one up on the play.

Showing the strain of the first two periods Tweed became disorganized in the last period, and remained scoreless while Norwood rapped in three counters. Puffer took a pass from Green, while Buck was on the receiving end of a pass from Puffer for another counter. Johnson took a pass from Green for the last goal of the game.

Porritt was chased to the bench in the last period when he tripped Puffer as he rushed in on Wagar, and broke up a sure goal. On the penalty shot awarded to the Norwood team, Wagar stopped a hard drive from Puffer.

Norwood — Goal, Bongard; defence, B. Puffer, D. Gardiner; forwards, L. Johnson, W. Buck, N. Green; subs., M. Nelson, W. Cole, E. Murris, H. Lemon, W. Lubb, L. Fife.

Referees—P. Geraldi, Tweed; Enniss, Norwood.

Tweed Separate School administered a trouncing to the Tweed Consolidated School by a score of 3-1 in their weekly engagement. Scorers for the Separate School were Clifford Rivers, Harold Fobert, and Cyril Trudeau. Ray Cornell scored the lone goal for the T.C.S.

The lineups:

Separate School — Goal, Fobert; defence, Trudeau and LaVallee; centre, Rashotte; wings, Marsh, Rivers; subs., Fobert, LaVallee, Gehan.

League Standing.

In the weekly standing of the East Hastings Rural League which has been released, the Plainfield team with 8 points have a four-point lead over the next three teams, which are tied in second place with four points each.

Following is the league standing:

Albions Shade Westwood 6-1; Trent Wins 8-0

HAVELOCK, Feb. 23.—(ENS)—The Havelock "Albions" finished in top place in the East Peterborough Rural League schedule by virtue of rather lopsided 6-1 win over Westwood, in the initial game of a double-header last night at Norwood arena. The second match saw the Trent River crew hand out a severe 8-0 lacing to Elgin.

The teams completed the regular schedule in the following order: Havelock, 9 points; Westwood, 7; Trent River, 6, and Elgin 2.

President Doug. Dart of Trent River announced that the playoffs would commence Monday evening, when the first and third place squads, and the second and fourth teams will engage in sudden-death tussles on a double-header bill. The resultant winners will play a two-game series, goal sto count on the round, to determine the E.P.R.L. champs for the current season. The first game of this round is scheduled for next Thursday evening with the concluding session the following Monday.

Westwood and Havelock began last night's encounter deadlocked for first place with seven points apiece. The Albions except on a few odd occasions, outplayed their opponents badly to chalk up a fairly easy win.

Brunton opened the scoring for the locals, after five minutes in the first period, with Hagerman and Pollock assisting. Brunton also accepted a pass from Pollock near the three-quarter way mark for the Albions' second counter.

Play was confined almost entirely to the Westwood zone at the start of the middle frame, Whitney led an attack into their territory and slipped Brunton a pass for the Albion's third goal. Successive penalties to Hoffman and Hagerman of Havelock gave Westwood a splendid chance, but they failed to enter the scoring column. Back to full strength Pollock split the Westwood defense on a solo effort to notch another goal, and E. Ellis slammed home another on a pass from F. Ellis just as the period ended.

In the final canto, Pollock combined with Brunton for Havelock's last goal, just two minutes after the opening whistle. Gill combined with Sargent for Westwood's only marker, while Havelock played shorthanded with Brunton in the hoosegow. Two further penalties to Hoffman and Green, both of the locals, failed to produce further goals for the losers.

Trent Whitewash

Aside from the terrific scoring splurge staged by the flying Trent Riverites in the initial stanza of their encounter with Elgin, these two squads were fairly evenly matched. Seven of the winner's eight counters were notched in the first period, when Preston in the Elgin goal appeared rather weak on some. He was replaced in the cage by Lobb at the start of the second, and from then on the teams battled on more even terms.

Hill turned in a nice game in the winner's cage to win his shut-out. Outstanding among Trent River's lineup were McLaughlin, Jamieson, Jim Brown, and Hamilton. For the Elgin squad, Lobb, Boyle, Edwards, Wilson, Metcalfe and Scott went best. The teams:

Trent River: Goal, Hill; defense, A. Brown, McLaughlin; centre, Chaplin; wings, Jamieson, Hamilton; alternates, J. Brown, G. Brown, Parcells, VanVolkenburg, E. Stevenson.

Elgin: Goal, E. Preston and Lobb; defense, Sheppard, Boyle; centre, Rusaw; wings, Edwards, Wilson; alternates, Murphy, G. Richardson, J. Richardson, J. Preston, Metcalfe, Cushman, Scott.

Referees—R. Richardson, Norwood; J. Hagerman, Havelock.

N.Y. Rangers Beaten In Overtime

By ROBERT CLARKE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

It may only be Art Ross' idea of a joke, of course, but there is a rumor that silver-thatched Lester Patrick is ready to offer a handsome reward to the man, woman or child able to discover the lost scoring punch of New York Rangers.

The records show Rangers are a far cry from the club that went 19 straight unbeaten games earlier in this National Hockey League season. In fact it is becoming more evident day by day that Ross' Boston Bruins likely will finish up on top of the standing with the Rangers in second place as was the case last season.

True that the Rangers presently are tied with the Bruins for top position, but the Bruins have three games in hand.

Beaten 2-0 by Detroit Red Wings a few nights ago, the Rangers suffered their second straight shutout when defeated 1-0 in overtime last night by New York Americans. It was also the third time in their last four games that Rangers have been blanked and left them with a February record of five losses, 3 victories and a draw in 9 games. In comparison the Bruins, idle last night, have won their last six straight games, losing to the Wings on January 28.

Tommy Anderson

Leafs Win 2-1

Meanwhile, as the Americans boosted their chances of making the sixth and last playoff spot with the victory of Tommy Anderson's goal in the extra session, Toronto Maple Leafs came out on top 2-1 over the Wings and Chicago Black Hawks pushed Canadiens farther away from a playoff spot by whipping the Montrealers 10-1.

While Anderson got the payoff goal, on a play with Hooley Smith soon after the start of overtime, the star of the game was the New York clubs was Goalie Earl Robertson of the Americans. His shutout was his fifth of the season and left him only one behind the leading Davie Kerr of Rangers in this respect.

Walter (Turk) Broda, of the Leafs, another netman, also was one of the night's standouts with a great game against the Wings. Broda allowed only a shot by Ebbie Goodfellow to elude him in the third period as the Leafs gained their victory on a score in the first period by Hank Goldup and another in the second by Red Heron. Lex Chisholm figured in Both goals.

Turk Broda

The success was important to the Leafs for it kept them five points ahead of the pressing Hawks, who are in fourth place with a game in hand over the Leafs. The Wings, in fifth place, have a similar margin over Americans with both teams having played the same number of games.

Cude Injured

The Hawks, with their 10 goals, equalled the season's high mark set only little more than a week ago by the Bruins against Detroit and also ran their unbeaten streak to eight straight games. The Hawks had some help though in that Canadiens' regular goalie, Willie Cude, had to leave the game because of a neck injury near the end of the second period with his place being taken by forward Charlie Sands. Cude and Sands each allowed five goals.

Pacing the Hawk scoring spree were Phil Hergesheimer and Johnny Chad, who each accounted for two goals and an assist. Bill Thoms and Les Cunningham also picked up three points apiece, with each getting a goal and two assists. Other Chicago goals went to Johnny Gottselig, Jack Portland, Mush March and Cully Dahlstrom while the single Montreal marker was scored by Louis Trudel.

Canadiens' officials announced after the game they had obtained permission from the Hawks to use Mike Karakas, goalie suspended recently by the Chicago club, for the remainder of the season. Karakas drew his suspension when he refused to play in the minors.

Last Night's Stars

(Canadian Press)

Earl Robertson and Tommy Anderson, Americans, former turned in his fifth shutout of the season and the latter supplied the overtime goal in a 1-0 victory over Rangers.

Walter (Turk) Broda, Toronto, allowed only Ebbie Goodfellow's shot to slip by as the Maple Leafs won 2-1 over Detroit on the strength of goals by Hank Goldup and Red Heron.

Johnny Chad and Phil Hergesheimer, Chicago, each picked up a pair of goals and an assist in a 10-1 victory over Canadiens.

TORONTO, Feb. 23. — (CP).— Prices on weighty steers and butchers eased down 15 cents on Monday on the cattle section of the Toronto livestock market and held steady for the remainder of the week. Other cattle held steady with the previous week's close. Lambs sold weaker toward the close of the present week. Calves were strong to 50 cents higher and hogs remained steady on live and dressed weight.

A holdover of 400 cattle from Tuesday was reduced to around 400 head by Wednesday's close. Weighty steers closed the week at from $7-$7.25 for good to choice, with the bulk selling from $7 down to $6.50. Butcher steers and heifers closed at $6-7.25. Butcher cows brought $3.75-$5.25 with canners and cutters selling at $3.25-$3.75. Bulls sold from $5.50 for bolognas up to $5.25 for good butchers. Fed calves closed at $7.50-$8.75. The few stockers offerer sold at $5.50-$6.50 per cwt. Good milkers and springers sold steady at $80-$90 each.

Calves opened strong to 50 cents higher and remained firm. Good to choice vealers sold at $11-$12 with common down to $7.

Most of the hogs offered sold on a dressed weight, rail grade basis, at $12 per cwt. Hogs sold on the liveweight basis brought $9 off-trucks.

Lambs Slip 50 Cents.

The lamb run included nearly 1,600 westerns. Lambs dropped 25 cents per cwt., with good westerns selling at $10, and becoming weaker toward the close.

Good local lambs sold at $10 at the beginning of the week and closed lower with one truck load selling at $9.90. Common to medium local lambs sold at $7-$9. Local sheep sold from $3-$6. Western lambs sold weaker at the close, one carload selling at $9.50, while two carloads remained unsold.

Weekly livestock summary:

sidies and tax remission for certain fuel industries were advocated.

Departing from his discussion of fuel, Dr. Manion again launched into an attack on the government for what he charged was unpreparedness for the war.

Murray In Perth.

John Murray, 42-year-old Stratford lawyer and former president of the Conservative Association in Perth riding, was named National Government candidate for the riding at an open National Government convention at Stratford.

Mr. Murray was given the nomination by acclamation. Thirty-four names were placed in nomination, among them F. S. Sanderson, Deputy Speaker of the last parliament, who already has been nominated by the Liberal party to seek re-election in Perth constituency.

At his home in St. Mary's, Ont., Mr. Sanderson said he was not at the meeting and knew nothing of his name being placed as a nominee. He said he had no plans to divert from his present position as Liberal candidate for the riding.

Last night also witnessed a notable event in the Liberal campaign—the first important speech of Justice Minister Lapointe who soon will tour the West. In a French language broadcast from Ottawa over a Quebec network, he said the present Cabinet was the truest form of National Government possible in Canada at present.

He said: "No government could be more of a National Government than the administration headed by Prime Minister Mackenzie King. I declare in all sincerity that Mr. Mackenzie King and my colleagues form a group of earnest workers and staunch patriots and that they are the best administrators I ever knew."

No Quebec Support?

Mr. Lapointe said he considered it his duty to stay in the present Cabinet, and referring to Conservative Leader Manion's proposal for a National Government, the Minister declared that such a government without any representation from Quebec could not be a National Government.

"If Dr. Manion wants Quebec to be represented, let him say who are the men he has in mind and the electors shall then be in a position to decide if they want us to be replaced by those 'best brains' who, in the first place, would have to be elected."

Mr. Lapointe said the Conservative leader charge the Government with political expediency and favoritism in war appointments and contracts. The minister quoted Major-General A. G. L. McNaughton, Commander of the First Division Overseas, as saying in London last January 31: "Political patronage or favoritism of any kind no longer exists. It has been eliminated by our minister, the Hon. Norman Rogers, and merit is the sole criterion for appointments and promotions."

Canadian Women's Part

Greatest contribution Canadian women could give toward winning the war would be to the best of their ability support candidates whom they knew to be carrying out what they thought to be right, Senator Cairine Wilson told the Hamilton Women's Liberal Association.

Urging women to strive to unite the people of the Dominion and to keep the peace, Senator Wilson advised them not to give their ear to "wild stories which often were too readily carried." Instead of being criticized for its lack of haste, the Government should be congratulated on its war effort because there was so little disturbance of the normal life of the country.

Senator Wilson did not think the government should be taken to task because military uniforms were not immediately available. If they had been prepared long in advance of needs, probably moths would have destroyed them, and in any event they would have been "scrapped" because changes were ordered.

Those who wish to assist the farmer in hog production and marketing would be well advised to get the true facts and stay with them, Hon. J. G. Gardiner, Minister of Agriculture said at Wingham. To do what some suggest wuold result in the Canadian market for hogs in the United Kingdom being sacrificed.

"I can not imagine any propaganda machine working anywhere during this war more consistently upon false information than those who are trying to pry a loop hole in the bacon agreement," said Mr. Gardiner. "More misstatements have had to be corrected about it since it was entered into than about anything else connected with the war effort."

Backs Bacon Board

He supported the organization of the bacon board and the bacon agreement. In answer to his critics who said the board was a tool of the packers, Mr. Gardiner said the board head, Hon. J. G. Taggart came from a Nova Scotia farm. He graduated from the Ontario Agriculture College at Guelph, had served as an agriculture representative in Ontario Agricultural College and held posts in Alberta and Saskatchewan.

Mr. Taggart was "a natural" for the post of Agricultural Minister in Saskatchewan and no better choice could be made than to have him as head of the bacon board.

M. A. MacPherson, former Saskatchewan attorney-general, made his second speech of his Maritime tour in Halifax, and hammered away with the Conservative charge that Canada was unprepared for war and that the fault lay with the present administration.

Discussion of parliament's sudden dissolution was revived by the Regina lawyer who said the government had violated by this act the very principles that Canadians were fighting for.

law the Red Army to form a wider front and manoeuvre infantry more readily than in the comparatively restricted confines of the isthmus.

They still would have no easy path, these observers said, for behind the Mannerheim Line's forts and trenches is a network of marshy lakes. The usual spring rains would make this area of great defensive value.

Northeast of Lake Ladoga, where the Russians tried to outflank the Mannerheim Line, a Red Army force was being isolated in a new "lost battalion" drama.

There, where the Soviet 18th Division was shattered by a process of attrition, one remaining group of Russians, described as about a battalion in strength, hung on valiently as the Finns drew the noose tighter.

Scandinavia Uneasy

Development of the blockade magnified uneasiness of Scandinavian nations over the future of their neutrality.

In view of the tension that resulted from British rescue of captive merchant seamen from the German ship Altmark in Norwegian waters last Friday night, there were apprehensions that any new naval clashes in northern waters would raise further knotty problems for the neutrals. There was no suggestion, however, that Allied vessels in the Arctic were in neutral waters.

The Stockholm newspaper Aftonbladet reported yesterday that the Russian Arctic navy had been prepared for the possibility of war and that Admiral Nikolai Kuznetsoff, naval affairs commissar, had flown to Murmansk to inspect it.

The Stockholm newspaper Dagens Nyheter voiced the hope that the Scandinavian foreign ministers, who are to confer in Copenhagen Saturday and Sunday, would agree on uniform rules for the treatment or belligerents' ships in territorial waters.

Leopold Macaulay (Cons., York South) asked why something wasn't done about "these vast gambling bastilles" near Toronto. Mr. Conant said he had sent police in once and two days later municipal officials protested.

"So what?" said Mr. Macaulay. "So what," came back the Minister, "I'm not going to do it any more."

Former Premier George S. Henry (Cons., York East) said one Attorney-General had been run out of office for saying he was no policeman. Evidently Mr. Conant took the same attitude.

Higher Teachers' Salaries

Only three Conservatives and 19 Liberal were in their seats when the House opened last night and in Committee of Supply dealt with the Educational Department estimates. Education Minister Simpson said provincial grants to primary schools were larger because of higher salaries for teachers.

French specialists were employed in Ontario Secondary schools who didn't understand the language, A. Belanger (Lib. Prescott) told the House. The educationists spoke Parisien French—the worst in the world. This resulted from too much teaching in French grammar and too little in oral French.

Before the vote to go into Committee of Supply, Premier Hepburn replied briefly to Conservative Leader George Drew who sought a 10 per cent. cut in the estimates. Col. Drew said Ontario's job was to reduce taxation on individuals and industry in order to make a maximum contribution in Canada's war effort.

Premier Hepburn said Col. Drew had not shown where estimates could be reduced. Never had there been more accuracy in budget forecasts and expenditures than in his term, but because of war conditions the Premier said he didn't feel so sure about the forecast for the next fiscal year.

Ontario is giving far more back to the municipalities than she took from them when she absorbed income taxes previously levelled municipally into provincial revenues, Premier Hepburn said.

Ontario's Real Job.

Ontario's job was to reduce taxation on individuals and industry in order that they might make a maximum contribution to Canada's war effort, said Col. Drew. Yet Ontario showed no sign of curtailing expenditures.

Gross country expenditures of Ontario had mounted from $70,263,983 in 1930 to $99,535,122 estimated for the next fiscal year, said Col. Drew.

"In 1930 there was an entirely different system of bookkeeping," said Premier Hepburn. "It didn't show gross-entries."

Col. Drew said the estimated expenditure per capita was $23.65 and the people weren't getting value for it.

"In December there were 290,000 people dependent on the province wholly or in part," observed Premier Hepburn. "They don't contribute."

"The very people to whom the premier refers get money for relief and whether they know it or not when they spend this money they are contributing taxes to the province," retorted Col. Drew.

With a gross provincial debt of $861,000,000 there was danger in increasing capital obligations, said Col. Drew. Ontario was approaching the billion-dollar debt mark. He urged "a really dramatic act of economy on the party of the government."

Premier Hepburn said Col. Drew had not put his finger on one spot where estimates could be reduced. He had talked a long while and said nothing. The Premier referred to unanticipated provincial expenditures, such as those for guarding Hydro plants since the outbreak of war. Col. Drew seemed to be lukewarm to this expenditure.

The Conservative leader said he was heartily in favor of it, but he though that it should be a federal cost and that after March 26 the province should take it up with the new government that would be at Ottawa.

Keeping Mum Now

"It is indefinite as to whether there will be a new government," said Premier Hepburn. "I'm not expressing my own views at this moment."

Preceding the budget debate, the House moved much legislation through committee stage, second and third readings. The bill increasing provincial taxes on corporation incomes was given final passage. The measure would seriously damage business and retard employment, Col. Drew predicted.

The House approved in committee stage a clause in the Statute Law Amendment Act requiring the approval of the Welfare Minister for the dismissal of any municipal relief administrator or his assistants. Liberals were unanimous for the change. Col. Drew opposed it, but one of his followers, George Dunbar (Con., Ottawa South) said it was high time something was done to prevent local politicians interfering in relief administration.

Col. Drew was at odds with another of his followers—this time Frank Spence (Con., Fort William) —when the leader opposed a government bill to permit export of peeled spruce pulpwood from lands held by railways and other corporations. Col. Drew said the House didn't have enough information. Mr. Spence said the pulpwood was going to waste and should be exported if no other market could be found. The bill carried on second reading.

A Mistaken Saving

During review of Health Department estimates, Dr. Harold Welsh (Con., Hastings East), said he thought the Government made a mistake in doing away with district health officers in Northern Ontario, though he conceded they were not needed in the older sections of the province.

Doctors in the Health Department were giving fine service, said Dr. Welsh. They were not extravagant and in any case the Treasury had a good watchdog in Chester Walters, controller of revenues.

Ontario Milk Control Board should be abolished, Leopold Macaulay (Cons., York South) said when Agriculture Department estimates were being considered. T. L. Kennedy (Cons., Peel) moved that the estimate of $49,925 for the board be reduced to $25,000, but the estimate stayed as it was.

Mr. Macaulay inquired what the salary was of William Newman, former Liberal member for Victoria, now employed in the Department of Agriculture. Agriculture Minister P. M. Dewan said it was $3,400, plus travelling expenses.

"He's in the Ontario Senate," said Mr. Macaulay. "That is where he is."

"That Senate isn't as large as it was a few years ago," interjected Provincial Secretary Harry Nixon.

"It is getting larger all the time," said Mr. Macaulay, recalling when Mr. Nixon had once waxed wrothy about former Conservative House members getting jobs in the Civil Service.

A. H. Acres (Cons., Carleton) said he had no objection to Mr. Newman having a job, but he thought he should pay his own travelling expenses as did district agricultural representatives.

Bancroft

Mr. F. A. Correel, manager of Canadian Department Stores, Belleville, also Mr. Walker of the clothing department and Mr. P. Cornell of radio and refrigerator department, were in town Tuesday on business.

Eldorado hockey team played a return game with Bancroft in town Monday night and the locals suffered a reverse by a score of 6-4.

The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Loney of Little Ireland passed away Monday afternoon.

Miss Mary Fitzgerald, of Maynooth, was in town on Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. Charles A. Pigden of Eldorado was in town on Monday and Tuesday.

Mrs. Ben. Spence received the sad news by telegram Monday morning of the death of her husband, who for the past few weeks had been a patient of Gravenhurst Hospital. The remains were brought by motor to his home in Bancroft.

The spring-like weather which Bancroft has been adapting itself to the last couple of days has made a decided slump in the snow. The roads are breaking up in town and getting bare in places. The Department of Highways have ploughed so close all winter that roads are in excellent condition on highway routes. Department men at present are busy opening culverts for spring freshets.

Mr. J. L. Churcher, Warden of Hastings County, motored to Toronto Tuesday morning to attend the good roads convention.

Mother, 3 Children Set Stowaway Record In Atlantic Trip On Italian Liner

NEW YORK, Feb. 23—(AP).—Ships officers discovered a mother who not only stowed away herself, but brought home her three small children as stowaways on the Italian liner Vulcania.

The mother, Mrs. Margaret Madden Alvarez, 36, born in Philadelphia, clutched her five-months old son, Carlos, as ship's officers questioned her yesterday after discovering the family a few hours before the Vulcania docked.

The other children, Margaret, three, and Maria, six, tugged at their mother's skirts.

Officials said all she would tell them was that she had left her husband and two of her children "somewhere in Spain." Investigation shbwed she had obtained a passport at Lisbon to board the ship.

"She confessed she passed all of the trip in Cabin 767 with the connivance of another passenger, Rosa Cienfuentes, who also had two children," the ship's report saida.

"She said she had slept on the floor of the cabin with her three children, and that they all ate food brought them by Maria."

She was permitted to leave the pier with her children after she said she had no money to pay the $450 passage fee.

Unemployed Hall Is Double Padlocked By Two Factions

Two Padlocks Placed On Door Of Hall

The Unemployed Workers' Hall at 464½ George Street was doubly locked this afternoon as a result, it was said, of a rift between the two groups, and to-night's social games have been called off.

It was stated that one group had locked the hall against the other, and by way of retaliation the latter group added a lock of their own.

Bacon Exporters Book Own Space

The policy of the Bacon Board in booking and shipping is to follow as closely as possible the normal practices.

Exporters are booking their own space, keeping the Board regularly and fully advised as to the amount of space required and the amount booked, four weeks ahead of shipment. This information is supplied by the Board to the Controller of Transportation and to the shipping companies so that in the event that space in sight is not sufficient steps may be taken immediately in co-operation with the Controller of Transporation and the shipping companies to secure the required accommodation.

Shipping companies will keep the Board informed as to the amount of space booked by each packing company concurrently. On the basis of this combined information, the Board will be in a position to regulate delivery to seaboard, to insure against over-delivery and under-delivery, and see that bacon arrivals coincide as closely as possible with the sailing dates. Up to the present the Board has been able to secure enough refrigerator space to accommodate shipments of bacon in excess of the contract volume. From September 1st to January 6th, the period elapsed since the outbreak of the war, the exports of Canadian bacon reached the high figure of 97,813,645 pounds, as compared with 60,262,678 pounds for the corresponding period of the previous year. This clearly reflects a substantial upturn to hog production and is definite proof of our ability to supply all the bacon that the United Kingdom may require of us.

Lakefield Fair Dates Set Back

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 23—(ENS). — Directors of the Lakefield Fair set back their dates for this year's fair to October 1 and 2, at a meeting held in the Town Hall last night. They are also inviting the Holstein Association of this county to hold their "Black and White Day" in conjunction with the fair.

Henry Coons presided at the meeting. F. C. Paterson, agricultural representative, spoke about a calf club project, and it was decided to sponsor this work, with achievement day to be a junior feature of the fair. A committee of the directors was formed to encourage boys to take part in this special work, and an effort will be made to enlist as many as possible in this club.

ABLE TO SIT UP

Archie Gates, genetal C.G.E. engineer, is sitting up in bed for the first time since illness overtook him a little while ago. He is recovering from a severe cold that bordered on pneumonia. Today at Kiwanis, fellow members hoped for his speedy recovery.

PINS PRESENTED

Three Kiwanians were presented with special lapel pins of gold at the club's luncheon meeting today in tribute to their perfect attendance record last year. The three were Secretary J. A. McKone, Bill Ovens, and Milf Hardill.

REPORTED MISSING

A young Harvey street married man is reported as missing from his home since noon on Wednesday. The police were informed late Thursday night that his wife had not seen him or heard from him since he left his home after dinner the day before.

BIG REWARD OFFERED

The city police department was informed this morning that a reward of $1,200, of which $1,000 will be paid by the Province of Ontario will be paid for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the hit-and-run motorist who recently struck and killed a woman in Toronto, carrying her body over a mile from the point of impact.

TWO DRUNK CHARGES

Two men, one a transient, the other a local product were charged in police court this morning with having been drunk Thursday, the former on Hunter street and the latter on George street. Both pleaded guilty and were fined $10 and costs or seven days in jail. After Chief Constable Newhall had informed the court that there was nothing flagrant in either case.

HE WAS REALLY TAGGED

A local business man discovered this week that Peterborough is not the only city in which motorists who park too long or in the wrong place get tickets. He was in Toronto the other day, left his car in a place reserved for the Royal Canadian Air Force and since then has received four summonses for traffic violations.

SHORT COURSE ENDS

The short course in agriculture and domestic science at Westwood ended this afternoon with a little social affair including refreshments. The usual banquet was omitted on account of the Lenten season. F. C. Paterson said the course was quite successful. The arrangements for the girls' course for which a house in the hamelt was obtained on the suggestion of Warden John McColl were exceptionally convenient and comfortable, and the girls accomplished even better results because of these conditions.

Pumper Made Warkworth In 55 Minutes

The Peterborough fire department's big pumper, manned by a crew of five men, raced to Warkworth behind Fire Chief George Gimblett in less than an hour yesterday afternoon in answer to an emergency call by that village as one of the worst fires in its history wiped out two stores and a dwelling on the main street.

The pumper, headed by the Fire Chief's car, left the fire station here at five minutes after one and arrived at the fire sharp at two o'clock only to find the blaze under control. Even had its help been needed it is doubtful whether the pumper could have been put into operation for it would have been nearly impossible to reach a water source, Chief Gimblett said. The river lies only about 200 or 300 feet west of the main street but the road leading to it was in no condition to permit passage by the huge truck.

After the speedy trip, firemen found they had only to watch the efforts of others in keeping the blaze under control. Not a single Peterborough fire hose was put into operation.

"It certainly was a hot place," the Chief said. "The heat broke every window in the Post Office and even a good many in buildings across the street.

Accompanying the Peterborough unit was a demonstration truck carrying chemical "dry snow" for smothering blazes.

Norwood Church Burns Note

NORWOOD, Feb. 23.— The congregation of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church held their annual meeting in the Sunday school room on Monday evening, Rev. D. K. Perrie opened the meeting and led in the devotional exercises.

Harry Godin was selected as chairman for the evening with A. A. Waddell as secretary. Reports of the various departments and organizations were heard and proved very encouraging. A distinct note of enthusiasm was shown for the future of the congregation.

The report of the Session was given by Rev. D. K. Perrie. Two infants were received by baptism during the year and the minister had officiated at five marriages. One member of the congregation was removed by death and the total membership of the church at the end of 1939 was 155.

The report of the Women's Missionary Society was read by Mrs. J. W. Rork, the Young Women's Auxiliary by Mrs. Percy Elliott, the Misison Band by Miss Ruth Wildman (in the absence of Mrs. A. A. Waddell), the Sunday school by Miss Margaret Leeper, Board of Managers by T. M. Lumsden and Ladies' Aid by Mrs. A. Goheen (in the absence of Mrs. Wm. Buchman) A brief report of the Young People's Society for the past year was given by Mrs. Wilbert Golloher.

An interesting feature of the meeting was the burning of a note following the Ladies' Aid report which was especially encouraging. The president, Mrs. Elliott, called upon the eldest member of the congregation, Mrs. I. N. Ackerman, to destroy the note.

The Board of Managers was reappointed in a unit for the coming year and Alfred Bongard was added to the list of ushers. Other officers were re-appointed. The selection of a Sunday school superintendent was left in the hands of the session.

Many items of general business were discussed and the meeting closed with prayer by Rev. Mr. Perrie. Lunch was then served by members of the Ladies' Aid.

Conservative Dance Held In Bailieboro

Friends of Gordon K. Fraser in the Bailieboro area staged a complimentary dance to introduce the Conservative candidate and his wife to the electors of that section of the riding in Fletcher's Hall, Bailieboro on Thursday night and there was an attendance that crowded the place to the doors.

Everett Wood was chairman for the evening and in an opening speech welcomed Mr. and Mrs. Fraser and announced that the affair would be conducted on a non-political basis and that there would be no political addresses. Mr. Fraser was called upon to speak and contented himself with expressing the pleasure of Mrs. Fraser and himself at having the opportunity of meeting so many of the people of the district. He avoided politics in the general remarks he addressed to the gathering.

Moving pictures of the scuttling of the Graf Spee and other shorts were shown. Music for dancing was supplied by Red Moncrief and his orchestra and the crowd had a very enjoyable evening.

Thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Fraser for their attendance were voiced by W. G. Waterman on behalf of the audience.

Springville Brothers In Arms

JOHN BROWN — ARCHIE BROWN

These two young sons of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brown of Springville were presented with wrist watches by their friends of the Springville and Fraserville communities at their parents' home last Saturday night. An address of congratulation and farewell and good wishes on behalf of the assembly of one hundred and fifty relatives and friends was read by Irvine McIntosh, and the presentations were made by Kenneth L. Moncrief and Harvey Clifford. Former members of the Prince of Wales Rangers, John and Archie Brown were not content to wait for local recruiting. Jack gave up his sergeant's stripes in his enlistment as a private, and has since then been offered the same non-commissioned rank to remain in Canada as a machine-gun instructor. In their determination to joint the first division of the new Canadian army the two brothers went to Toronto and passed the medical examinations for the Toronto Scottish battalion now in Westmount, Montreal. They were home on leave at the end of last week, and their friends took advantage of the occasion to pay them a tribute as young soldiers from the neighborhood. The young men are graduates of the Peterborough Collegiate Institute.

War Bulletins

PARIS — (AP) — France's first war "ace" was decorated today for having shot down four German planes.

Sergeant Edouard Sales won a citation and the Croix de Guerre. The official journal said his fourth victim fell in flamees after he had chased the Nazi plane 12 miles into German territory.

LONDON — (CP). — Sinking of an unidentified Norwegian ship yesterday by a German bomber was reported today. A British vessel is searching for the crew.

Also announced today was the sinking of the Netherlands vessel Alja, 381 tons, on Wednesday. No details were given.

BERNE—(AP)—Switzerland has sent Finland more than 1,000,000 Swiss francs (about $225,000) along with an important surgical and medica lmission, Chairman Henri Valloton of the Federal Council's foreign affairs committee reported today.

PROVIDENCE, R.I. — (AP). — Elizabeth Adams, a school teacher, today finished two months of greasing cars and checking batteries in an auto service station today preparatory to sailing for France to offer her servicees to the Allies.

She decided even before the war started, she said, that she would do nursing and other auxiliary work, and plunged into auto mechanics "so I won't have to sit in a broken-down ambulance or car waiting for help."

Nazi Airmen With Reds.

ROME—(CP-Havas). — German airmen are fighting with the Russian air force in Finland, the Giornale d'Italia reported last night in a dispatch from its special correspondent at Helsinki.

"During the last four days, Finnish pursuit ships have shot down 28 enemy craft," the dispatch said. "The pilots of several of the downed planes knew only one language, and it was not Russian."

KIRKENES, Norway —(AP). — Eighteen Russian bombing planes flew through a blinding snow yesterday to stage a four-hour raid on the Petsamo district. The raids started at 8 a.m. and continued until noon.

LONDON—(CP). — The British steamship Leo Dawson, 4,330 tons, was nearly three weeks overdue today and was presumed to have been lost with all hands. The size of her crew and her last port of call were not disclosed.

PARIS—(AP)—Soldiers and sailors can be married in France after they're dead, if a proposed measure now being considered by a Chamber of Deputies committee passes.

The bill is designed to legitimize children and enable widows to draw pensions. The law would stipulate that the men express their wish to marry before they die.

GROVE CITY, Pa. —(AP)— The Grove City Brass and Bronze Company announced it is making castings to fill an order for 4,000 rubber boots for horses in the Finnish army. Company officials said the boots, first of their kind ever made, are to protect the animals from a corrosive gas that collects on battlegrounds. The gas attacks the hooves, crippling the horses. The boots are 16 inches high, laced with rawhide.

German Propaganda

BRUSSELS —(AP)— Propaganda tracts attacking Great Britain and accusing Poland of the massacre of 56,000 German residents of Poland before the German army arrived were found today at various points near the French border. The tracts, in French, Italian and Polish, are thought to have been dropped by German planes.

LILLE, France—(AP)—A plot to obtain military intelligence from French and Belgian soldiers was reported today to have been frustrated by police raids.

The raids followed the arrest in Belgium, near the frontier, of a man and two women and discovery of a collection of gift packages destined for distribution to soldiers.

LISBON — (AP). — A British warship took 14 German passengers off the Portuguese liner Nyassa, homeward bound from Portuguese African colonies, her captain reported today on arriving at Madeira.

HONG KONG — (AP) — Domei, Japanese news agency, reports that "a number of casualties" resulted yesterday when massed Japanese planes bombed a house at Liuchow, eastern Kwangsi province, in which Chen Cheng, Pai Chung-Hsi, Chang Fa-Kuei and other Chinese general were in conference.

At the same time a Chinese at Chungking denied as "laughable ghost stories" a Japanese broadcast saying that two Chinese generals had been killed in an air raid at Maiping, Central Hupeh province, Feb. 10, and that another was missing and a fourth executed.

Wolf Run Down In Snowmobile

BEAVERTON, Feb. 23. — A new method of hunting was employed near here yesterday when John Hodgson, of Beaverton, pursued and killed a wolf in a snowmobile on ice of Lake Simcoe.

The wolf was good at dodging, kept out of the way of the propeller-driven snowmobile until the pace began to tire the animal, and it was run over.

Toronto Rink Defeats Ray Best 12-9

TORONTO, Feb. 23 (CP) — The long undefeated string chalked up by Dan Kelly's Toronto Granites was ended at 10 today by Percy Skitch's Lindsay quartet in a third-round Seiberling Trophy match at the Ontario bonspiel. Skitch won 9-7 after an extra end.

Kelly had become the only undefeated skip in the bonspiel last night with his 10-5 victory over Harvey Chisholm's previously unbeaten Toronto Curling Club stanemen in a Birks-Ellis-Ryrie quarter-final. Chisholm climbed back into a tie with Kelly today with a 12-9 win over Ray Best of Peterborough in another Seiberling third-round match. Each has won 10, while losing once, to lead contenders for the grand aggregate.

The two may meet again if they continue winning through to the finals for the Royal York Trophy—most coveted award at the bonspiel.

Bottle Is Thrown From Automobile

While Sergt. John Thompson and Constable Archie Menzies were on patrol in a police cruiser car early this morning they noticed a taxi cab pulling away from the home of an individual who they have reason to suppose might be engaging in the sale of liquor on an illegal basis.

Accordingly the police decided to give a little closer attention to the taxi and its occupants. Following the other vehicle along Park street they saw something hurtle from the door of the automobile and discovered that it was a small bottle that still contained a small quantity of what was apparently liquor, although the top had been removed from the container.

As a result they arrested the passenger and he was charged before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K. C. in police court this morning with illegal possession of liquor.

Defended by W. J. Arthur Fair he pleaded not guilty and was remanded until next Thursday for trial. Neither side was ready to go ahead with the case this morning.

OBITUARY

MRS. MARY RICHARDSON.

The death of Mrs. Mary Richardson, widow of William John Richardson, occurred at her residence at 483 McDonnel Street, on Thursday after a short illness.

Born in North Monaghan Township, she was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Wright, and had lived all her life in and about Peterborough. She was a member of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church.

Mr. Richardson died in 1898. Surviving are one son, William J. Richardson of Peterborough and two daughters, Mrs. W. M. Palmer of Hamilton and Mrs. W. E. Curry of Peterborough.

The funeral will be held on Saturday afternoon at 2 30 o'clock from the residence of her son, William J. Richardson, 483 McDonnel Street, Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church officiating. Interment will be at Little Lake Cemetery.

STANLEY JOSEPH DELORME

The funeral of Stanley Joseph Delorme who died Wednesday morning at St. Joseph's Hospital was held this morning from the Dufius' Funeral Parlors.

Mr. Delorme was a resident of Peterborough for twenty-two years. He came here from Montreal, and for more than twenty years was a faithful and respected employee of the De Laval Company. He was in his fifty-ninth year, and had been ill only a short time.

Mr. Delorme is survived by his wife who was Mary Louise Lagarde before her marriage, five daughters, Mrs. Harold Coulson, Mrs. Patrick Killen, Mrs. A. Parnell, Mrs. A. Fooley and Miss Rita Delorme and one son Arthur Delorme all of this city, and one sister in Montreal.

The pall bearers were four sons-in-law, P. Killen, A. Parnell, H. Coulson and Private A. Pooley, C.A.S.F., and A. Girard and W. Lanouette. Rev. Dr. J. V. Masterson was the celebrant of the requiem mass at St. Peter's Cathedral, and at its conclusion spoke of the late Mr. Delorme as a devout Catholic. Rev. Dr. Kelly recited the committal prayers at St. Peter's Cemetery.

Among those who attended the funeral was George A. Macdonald, shop superintendent of the De Laval Company.

WILLIAM JAMES CUNNINGTON

Death came this morning to William James Cunnington at his residence at 491 Bolivar street after an illness that lasted a considerable time. He was in his 76th year.

Born in Caledon, Ontario, he was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Cunnington and came to Peterborough five years ago after residing for a number of years in Toronto. Mr. Cunnington had been a farmer and was later a teamster and machinist.

His wife, formerly Annie Gannon, died in 1930. Mr. Cunnington is survived by two daughters, Mrs. A. R. Scriver of Peterborough and Mrs. F. K. Eavans of Toronto; and one son, Albert H. Cunnington of Burnady, B.C.; also four sisters, Misses Mary, Annie and Bertha Cunnington, and Mrs. G. Snyder, all of Toronto; and one brother, Thomas H. Cunnington of Brampton.

The remains will rest at the Nisbett Funeral Home, 347 Charlotte street this evening and will proceed by motor on Saturday to Toronto where a funeral service will be held on Monday afternoon at the Myers-Elliott Funeral Home, 715 Dovercourt Road. Interment will be at Park Lawn Cemetery.

EPIDEMIC OF MEASLES.

ST. CATHARINES, Ont. — (CP). —All Health Department branches mobilized to-day to combat a rapidly spreading measles epidemic which has quarantined more than 400 city children and seriously reduced the school attendance.

Salvation Army Lays Plans For Big Drive

Complete organization plans ... the Salvation Army drive for funds were arranged Thursday at a noon day luncheon held in the Empress Hotel. The campaign will get under way on March 11th and wind up on March 15th and everything is in readiness to the last detail so that every officer knows exactly where he is going and what he has to do.

C. A. Salmonsen, vice chairman of the campaign was in charge and voiced appreciation for the work which has been done so far by the executive officers. He outlined the needs of the Salvation Army, and also covered in detail all the points that he figured would be of interest to the various committees.

The campaign objective is set at $10,000 and there will be another dinner meeting at the Empress Hotel on March 8th, at which time a prominent speaker will give the campaign address and the drive will be launched. Further check-up meetings will be held on March 12th and 15th and at the latter date it is anticipated that the objective will have been reached.

Following are the officers: Mayor Hamilton, Hon. chairman; Adjutant Buckley, campaign director; R. C. Braund, general chairman; C. A. Salmonsen, vice-chairman; Lt. Col. R. T. E. Hicks-Lyne, treasurer.

Gordon S. Matthews, chairman advance gifts committee; Fred Johnston, chairman industrial division; Mrs. Wand, chairman, women's division; H. L. Garner, chairman publicity committee; Charles Lacheur, chairman, list committee.

Chairmen of the various business divisions are J. K. Hughes, J. H. Jamison, Harold R. Scott, John Troke, Stanley Elliott, Alex Donnelly, Bert McLeod, G. A. Gillespie, Dr. J. J. Craig, Leo W. Copp, and Morley B. Shaver.

London Traffic Speed 20 mph To Reduce Toll

LONDON, Feb. 23—(CP).—London has a "white" army to fight the menace of road deaths in the black-out—city traffic police who watch for offenders against the new after-dark speed limit of twenty miles an hour, established to reduce the mounting highway slaughter.

Patrol cars move through darkened streets at that speed and halt any motorist exceeding it. A red torch, held from the car window by a white-sleeved arm is the signal to stop and receive a "ticket." Maximum penalty for violation of the speed limit is £100 ($445). Bobbies in white coats patrol the streets on foot keeping similar watch.

The speed limit and a safety propaganda campaign with the slogan "Look Out in the Blackout" are part of the Government's effort to deal with the mounting death toll. Figures showing 1939 highway fatalities reached 8,270, an all-time high, led to clamor to action.

Safety officials, calculating road deaths are increasing at the rate of nearly 5,000 a year, blame the black-out for most of them. From the beginning of September, when lighting restrictions were imposed, until the end of December, 4,130 persons were killed in traffic accidents, compared with 2,491 for the same period of the previous year.

Total September fatalities were 1,130, but there was no breakdown of the total into daylight and black-out hours because no one then realized the seriousness of the situation. Blackout accidents took 564 lives in October, 674 in November and 395 in December.

No one anticipates complete solution of the problem because the nightly darkness, the main cause, must be maintained as a first-line protection against the larger danger of air attack. Also there must be traffic on the highways at all hours.

But authorities believe the speed limit, the safety campaign, the dim, modified street lighting permitted in December and the official mask for automobile headlights will help bring some reduction.

Troops Hot After Fakir Of Ipi

NEW DELHI, India, Feb. 23. — (CP). — Combat broke out on the troubled northwest frontier today as British military forces moved into that jagged land of ambuscade and adventure to clean out marauding tribesmen and perhaps to meet again their old and elusive foe, the Fakir of Ipi.

"Our casualties were light," said a military communique.

"The second of two columns encountered considerable opposition from tribesmen concealed in caves on either side of the Tangai Valley."

Aided by artillery and two companies of Gurkha Rifles (native troops); "we eventually seized the caves," it said.

The newest of nearly a century of campaigns to pacify the wild mountain men was linked here with rumors of possible Soviet Russian incursions through Afghanistan—and Great Britain intends to take no unnecessary chances.

In that region, Mehr Dil and two other native leaders under the influence of the Fakir are reported to have strongholds from which they can launch looting raids into the Bannu and Johat districts of north Waziristan.

A Russian Ally.

The Fakir of Ipi, a giant figure with beard and hair dyed red when he goes into battle, is a champion of Islam. Religion is his generally accepted motive, but the British often have suspected him of heeding Russian influences. He is a good man with a rifle, a daring horseman, and a clever arranger of traps.

In addition to the usual raids and ambushes, he is blamed for planting crude bombs on army parade grounds, connecting telephone circuits with electric power lines, and poisoning wells.

By 1937, the Fakir and his men had so aroused the authorities that 33,000 soldiers and a force of bombing planes were put on his trail. The Fakir set up headquarters in a bomb-proof cave but when the hideaway was attacked with machine-guns it was discovered the Fakir had stolen away.

Want Less Tobacco?

TORONTO, Feb. 23 — (CP). — Hon. P. M. Dewan, Minister of Agriculture, told a delegation of Ontario tobacco growers to-day he might be willing to consider an announcement or letter to Ontario tobacco growers cautioning them against increased acreage this year. He would take the matter up with the Cabinet. Personally, Mr. Dewan said, he was hesitant about acreage control legislation.

Anson Bombers Being Assembled In Canada

The first of a shipment of Avro Anson twin-enginer bombers to be used to train R.C.A.F. pilots have arrived at the De-Havilland Aircraft plant in Toronto. A continuous stream of Ansons will arrive in Canada until there are more than 1,600 of these fast bombers for use in the commonwealth air training scheme. Nine flat cars were required to bring the crated planes to siding for unloading in Toronto where they will be assembled.

Boy 6 Takes Throne on Top of World In Oriental Pomp Of 14th Lama

NEW DELHI, Feb. 23.—(CP-Reuters)—Behind the great gold and jewel-studded gates of the Potala—most famed of all Tibetan palaces—the six-year-old Ling-Ergh La-Mu-Tan-Chu was enthroned today as the 14th Dalai Lama, spiritual and temporal ruler of the country at the top of the world.

The child, selected by the portents of heaven and taken from the humble dwelling of a Chinese peasant in Kokonor was born, it is said, at the exact moment on Dec. 17, 1933, when the 13th Dalai Lama drew his last breath.

The youthful lord of all the Lamas was conducted in pomp from his summer place near Lisha to the gleaming Potala, a distance of a little more than three miles. He was borne in a palanquin by carriers dressed in green and wearing red hats adorned with white plumes.

The chair was carried in the centre of a procession half a mile long of Lamas and officials garbed in brilliant colors and mounted on silk-caparisoned ponies. Before it went servitors in green tunics and blue trousers carrying platters of food and the garments for the enthronement ceremony. After them came men bearing streamlining pennants to ward off the spirits of evil.

Parents Come Behind

They were followed by Lamas of the Monastery of Potala in gold-spangled dress and officials and ministers. Behind the curtain-closed litter of the new Dalai Lama rode the regent, the "Hutukhu" or living Buddha, together with parents and two brothers of the child, followed by a host of Lamas from all the monasteries of Tibet, monks, tribesmen and townsmen who fell in behind as the procession passed.

Together they all mounted the hill amid the beating of gongs, the clashing of cymbals, the sonorous blasting of the long horns, and the wafting of incense from hundreds of braziers, toward the Potala, shining on its rock foundation in sunbathed white.

There where the huge gates soon enclosed those favored with entry, the child schooled for this moment since he was discovered several years ago, bowed low at the threshold of the ceremonial hall and chanted his part in the liturgy consecrating his reign. His tiny shaved head almost lost in his rich red cloak, the boy duly ascended the glittering throne of those whose continuing spirit has been re-embodied in his person.

Place in World Politics

The elevation of the new Dalai Lama was not merely an act of interest and concern to the Lamas and the tribes who inhabit the highest plateau on earth. It also holds its place in the tangled pattern of world politics. Because the new Dalai Lama is Chinese rather than Tibetan-born, and because the regent is regarded as ardently pro-Chinese, the new regime is expected to draw closer to the Chinese government than any of its recent predecessors.

This new order of things was symbolized by the presence of General Wu Ching-Hsin, official representative of the Chungking government.

British influence in Tibet—important because of the land's contiguity to India—has been exercised since the expedition of Sir Francis Younghusband in 1904 when relations between the two countries were established. Britain was represented at the ceremony outside the gates of the Potata by B. J. Gould, British agent in Sikkim, an adjacent British protectorate. Mr. Gould was received by the new Dala Lama yesterday.

Radio Delinquents Spoil Tweed Record

TWEED, Feb. 23.—(ENS).— This village has been earning the reputation of "Tweed the good" according to Chief of Police J. Clair Hayes. During the past seven weeks no police court has been held, while an arrest has not been made since November 27.

"I guess the cold weather has kept people indoors and they have had other things to think about," the Chief commented. However, the speel was broken on Thursday afternoon, when Magistrate Lloyd sat on the bench to hear a number of minor cases, including those of radio delinquents who have not secured licenses.

Wandering Lad Found

Four-year-old Willie Tufts caused some anxiety when he disappeared from his home. He was gone for some hours before he was missed as it was thought he had accompanied several men on a wood-cutting expedition. He was finally located about two miles from home on the Fuller road. It appears that a kindly motorist had picked the little fellow up, leaving him in charge of a nearby neighbor. He had crossed several fields and a section of swamp after leaving his home.

BRIDGENORTH

Choir And Teachers Are Given Dinner

BRIDGENORTH, Feb. 23—(ENS)—The choir and the teachers and officers of the Sunday School were given a Valentine dinner recently by the Women's Association of the United Church. After the dinner everyone joined in community singing, and then spent the remainder of a very pleasant evening playing crokinole and Chinese checkers.

The newly organized Young People's Society held a Valentine social. First there was a devotional service led by Miss Joyce Trumpour; then there were contests and games under the direction of Miss Jean Trumpour. Sandwiches, cakes and ice cream were served.

A sleighing party was given by Ralph Jopling and some of his friends to about twenty young peoplete. After th esleigh ride they went to the home of his mother, Mrs. James Jopling, where refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Sidey with Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Sidey, visited Mr. William Buttar, Coldsprings, on Sunday.

We are pleased to see Mrs. R. Tedford out again after being confined to her home for several weeks through illness.

Miss Dorothy Wilkinson, Lindsay, visited several of her friends in the village on Sunday.

Five stitches were required to sew up a wound suffered by Ralph Heard when he received a bite near one eye from a police dog.

Mr. R. T. Pettersone spent several days in Hamilton this week.

Miss Olive Sidey has returned from visiting friends in Toronto and Welland.

70 Turks Die in Quakes Four Villages Razed

ISTANBUL, Feb. 23—(AP).—Four villages in the Kaisari region of Turkey were reported to-day to have been levelled by a series of continuing earth shocks with a loss of 70 lives and more than 50 persons injured.

Shocks were also felt at Ankara and Angana. The casualty toll was disclosed in an official announcement.

Eighteen quakes were felt in quick succession late yesterday in and around the town of Kaisari in Central Anatolia, Asiatic Turkey, and tremblors were reported continuing at noon to-day.

Tens of thousands of cattle were said to have perished in the devastation of the villages and in stampedes caused by the shocks.

Peasants became panic-stricken, fearing a repetition of the December disaster in which about 50,000 persons were killed by quakes, exposure and subsequent floods.

Many villagers in the Kaisari region were asleep when the quake wrecked their homes, pinning them in the debris.

Exceptional cold added to the plight of peasants who took refuge in open fields.

Liberal Chiefs Pick Haig In S. Hastings

TORONTO, Feb. 23—Bart G. Sullivan, secretary of the National Liberal Committee for Ontario, last night issued a statement supporting the nomination of MacLean Haig in Hastings South.

Reports had been received, he said, that Harry Cory, defeated by Haig at the convention Wednesday, was advertising a meeting in Belleville today, describing himself as "the only King Liberal in the field."

"Inasmuch as Cory pledged his support to the nominee of the convention previous to the ballot being taken, and MacLean Haig, the other nominee, secured a substantial majority, he was declared the official Liberal candidate for that riding, and in view of his previous pledge the claims of Mr. Cory to represent the Liberal party cannot be taken seriously," said Mr. Sullivan.

At the convention Cory charged that "the Liberal machine" influenced the delegates to vote for Haig. He said the "machine" wanted a "yes-man" so it would be able to dictate "how the patronage would be handed out."

NO INTERFERENCE.

MONTREAL, Feb. 23 — (CP). — Achille Grondin, graying Ste. Methode villager, and his wife, Marie Louise Cloutier, will die on the scaffold here tomorrow for the murder of the 40-year-old woman's first husband. Ottawa officers said there would be no intervention.

Bud Weese's 910 High Score In City League

"Bud" Weese gave the hardwood pins another vicious pasting at Duffus Alleys last night when the City League rolled their weekly games.

With Gordon's teaming up for a 3785 total to win a 3 to 1 victory over the Duffus entry Bud smacked them off for a 910 score. In the other games Lock Works made Grafton's stretch to break even on points while Joe Dean's Capitols bested C.G.E. 3 to 1. Jay's caught Grant's in the slump and won three of the points.

Skiing history was made last Saturday when almost 200 rabid skiing enthusiasts took the Junior Special to Bethany for the Junior Jamboree. However, we won't dwell on the subject here as it was pretty well covered in The Examiner Monday evening and has now taken its place among our most cherished skiing week-ends. We would, however, like to express our sincere appreciation to those who by their co-operation contributed so extensively to the success of the event.

This week-end will be taken up with the remaining Club Championship events, the program being as follows:Saturday, Feb. 24 at Nassau, starting at 2.00 p.m.—1, Senior jumping; 2, Junior jumping; 3, Student jumping; 4, Junior cross country; 5, Student cross country.

Transportation to Nassau for all juniors will be provided leaving the Empress Hotel at 1.30 p.m. Saturday. Suggest that everybody meet there and drive out from there so that no one will be left behind.

February 25 at Bethany, first event at 11.00 a.m.—1, Senior downhill; 2, Student downhill; 3, Senior slalom; 4, Student slalom.

Watch the local press for announcement concerning the bus to Bethany. Indefinite at time of writing.

Attention All Junior Members

We have it straight from the owners of the tow that from now on, the tow will be free to all Junior members between the hours of two and three o'clock on Saturday afternoons from now on. That's right, we said FREE—oh! to be a junior.

Tow operate Wednesday afternoons now with the same rates applying as on Saturday afternoons.

Results of the "Better Names Contest" should be available for the next issue. Believe me, we've got some dandies.

Those literary contributions we asked for from our readers are pouring in at a great rate, so fast in fact that we think we'll have to make up a volume of short stories and essays on skiing. It will read something like this: "Blank-Blank." Thinks everybody. We apparently over-estimated the talents of our club members so will continue to burden you with our own line of chatter while the rest of you stick to your skiing. It wasn't a very good idea anyway.

C.A.S.A. competitors cards are available from Ross Thompson and it would be a good idea for anyone figuring on entering outside competition next year to get one for the club championships. Cost is only 25c and they are vital for your rating in outside meets.

How about a class "C" and "D" downhill for all those fellows who are not quite good enough for the senior downhill? Provided there are enough interested, this could be run off this week-end and all you have to do is get together and ask for it.

The Chalet at Bethany seems to get smaller every week-end and more of the gang are having to eat their lunch on the wood pile. Some of the spectators in their enthusiasm (and we appreciate it) for skiing forget that it gets pretty cold eating outside but we feel sure that they will co-operate with us when we ask them not to go in the chalet except when they want to buy something. Thanks very much. ED.

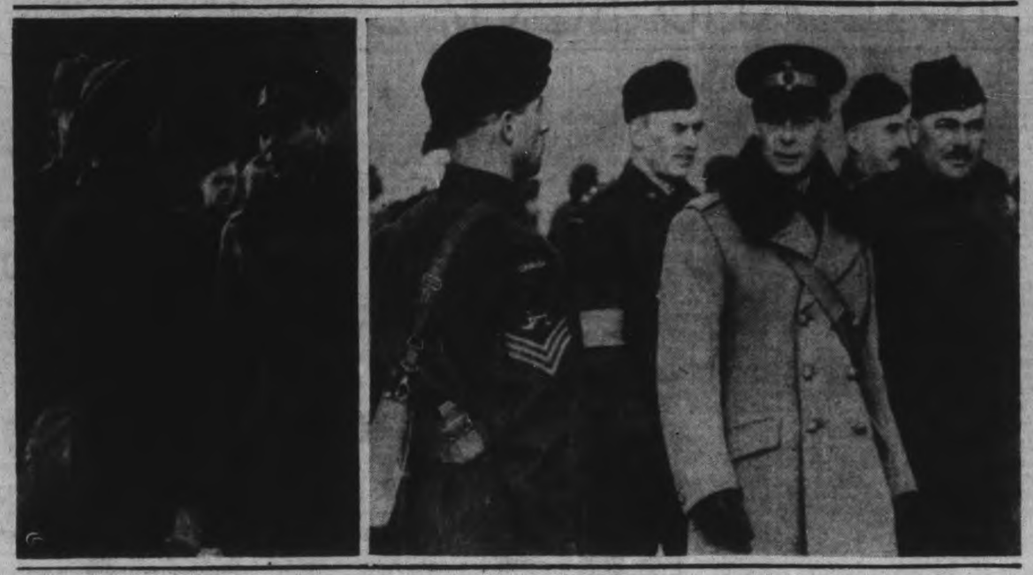
His Majesty Takes Keen Interest In Canadian Encampment In England



Paying his first visit to the camp of the Canadian troops now training in England, King George took a keen interest in every phase of the Canadians' camp. He spent several hours inspecting the troops, equipment and billets. His Majesty is shown, LEFT, chatting to a Canadian soldier during his inspection of the Dominion's troops. Accompanied by Major-General A. G. L. McNaughton, directly behind the King, His Majesty inspects the Canadian troops, RIGHT. This is one of the first pictures of Major-General McNaughton in regular battle dress.

McGill Opening Its Gym For "Assault"

MONTREAL, Feb. 23.—(CP).—McGill University's new gymnasium-armory will be opened for competition for the first time to-night when teams from McGill, University of Toronto, Queen's and Ontario Agricultural College will take part in the intercollegiate assault-at-arms.

With seven champions in their ranks, the Toronto competitors are favored to retain the title they have held the last four years. McGill, Queen's and O.A.C. each have one champion in their ranks.

Preliminary wrestling and boxing bouts are scheduled for to-night with finals in all events to be contested to-morrow night. The fencing competition, with Al Garcia of Toronto, on hand to defend his title, will be held to-morrow afternoon while the gymnastics will be staged to-morrow night.

W. Ramore of Toronto, 145-pound boxing champion last year, is back again this year but will fight in the 155-pound class. The only other boxing champion on the card is Tommy Hughes of McGill, defending the heavyweight crown.

Six wrestling champions will be seeking new titles. J. Carrere of O. A.C., 118 pounds, N. Mustard, Toronto, 125 pounds, and F. Dobson, Toronto, 135 pounds, will defend those titles, while the 155-pound champion, P. Malachowski, of Queen's, also is an entrant.

CURLING

By HERB MARTIN

We will hold our bonspiel to-morrow at the same old hour, 1.45 p.m. The price of admission will be the same and we hope to have a good crowd. The ice will be fast.

The Neill Trophy competition rolls merrily along. Fourteen games were played last night and fourteen more will be played this evening at 6.45 and 8.45.

The games were good and six were decided on the last rock. The Dr. Green-McWilliams; Giroux-Webster; White-Matthews; Erskine-J. Hamley; Braund-Pratten; and F. Green-Harvey games were the pick of the evening.

Looking over the draw the finals of the primary event might easily be an all "Green" affair. We qualify that statement with the word "might."

The ladies playing with irons at the Seigneory Club in Quebec lost their first game to Ottawa Rideau club by 2 shots.

Although Ray Best lost out in the Royal York yesterday, we have reason to believe he is still in the Sieberlin competition.

Royals Beat Eagles

In a Southend Hockey League playoff game last night at the Sacred Heart rink, Royals copped a 4-2 win over the Eagles. McGregor scored three and Anderson one for the winners, as Smith and Berardi counted for the other squad. Leether, McGregor, Anderson and Harris were the pick of the Royals; while Smith, Berardi, LaPlante and Shea all stood out for Eagles. It was a neat tilt all the way with the winners having a 1-0 edge in the first frame and leading 2-0 going into the third. The teams:

Royals: Goal, Leether; defence, Lawson, McGregor; centre, Anderson; wings, Close, Harris; subs, White, Darrell, Blaby, Cooper.

Referee—H. Collins.

King Edward took a 7-3 victory over Prince of Wales yesterday afternoon in the Brock St. rink to win the School Hockey League championship for 1940. It was the second of a home-and-home playoff series, the squads previously tying. A big crowd of school kids made a lot of noise in the lively tussle.

Play was pretty fair and good at times, open enough but marked by close checking the first two frames. The winners showed a bit more scoring punch, especially in the third to earn the nod. Play was held up for a time late in the game when Goalie Dorsett of Prince of Wales received an accidental cut on the face and had to retire in favor of Plunkett.

It was 1-0 in the first for the K.E. crew and 3-2 for Coach Crawford's crowd going into the third. The Wales' lads never quit trying throughout. Harris tallied in the first while Byers and Woodcock scored for King Edward in the hard-fought second. Maudsley counted both markers for the Princes in the middle chukker. In the up-and-down third stanza, Anderson and Close got one each for the winners and Harris twice bulged the hemp, while Maudsley got the Prince of Wales' goal. The teams:

Prince of Wales: Goal, Dorsett; defence, Maudsley and Beatty; centre, Pammett; wings, Hill and Murduff; subs, Plunkett, Darling and McDougall.

Referee, Max Williamson.

Outsider Wins Santa Anita Derby

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 23.—(AP).—California finally got a winner under the wire in one of its super-special horse races but interest turned to-day on the next stake offered at Santa Anita park—the $10,000 added San Antonio handicap, last major event before the running of the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap.

The $50,000 added Santa Anita Derby pot fel lto a long shot, Sweepida, in an upset yesterday that left the home state supporters happy—and a little dazed by it all.

The 3-year-old, bred by H. C. Hill on his modest ranch near Stockton, Calif., flashed a winner from wire to wire in the mile and one-eighth derby that netted the owner $43,850.

The big tote board at the finish line showed only $2,072 of the $176,424 wagered on the race was on the winner's nose. Sweepida paid $68.60 to win.

Kelly, Staneman Undefeated; Win 10 Straight

TORONTO, Feb. 23 — (CP). — Two days play remain in Ontario's annual bonspiel, but only one of 124 competing rinks has weathered the storm of the first four days of competition. D. P. J. Kelly and his Toronto Granite club rink boast the lone perfect record in the curling classic.

Kelly and his stanemen eliminated their only rivals with spotless records last night, when they turned back the threat of H. H. Chisholm's Toronto Curling Club quartet, 10-5. It was a quarter-final match in the Birks - Ellis - Ryrie event which brought the unbeaten fours together. Both previously had scored nine straight victories.

Other skips to lead their rinks into the semi-finals in this competition were Percy Skitch of Lindsay, C. R. Redfern of Toronto and Stan Sarjeant of Orillia.

Play for the Royal York trophy, most prized award at the bonspiel, reduced the field to eight. Winning skips were Kelly, Chisholm, P. Gilbert of Chatham, A. R. Tarlton of Hamilton, D. H. Storms of Toronto, W. H. Keller of Midland, O. T. Dudley of Toronto, and H. A. Dickson of Toronto.

Five Into Quarter Finals

Five quartets achieved quarter-final brackets in the Seiberling event. They were piloted by T. S. Graham of Toronto, G. Campbell of Hamilton, Dr. S. T. White of Orangeville, Andy Grant of Toronto and O. T. Dudley of Toronto.

Three rinks, skipped by Frank White of Bala, Col. W. O. Morris of Toronto, and A. E. Stephenson of New Liskeard, reached semi-final berths in the Seagram Trophy race. White defeated Dr. J. A. Mackenzie of Milwaukee, 10-7. Mackenzie was the only United States skip to reach quarter-finals in any event.

In the North American Life, two quarter-finals were played. Wining skips were Dr. C. L. Eaton and R. H. Howard of Toronto.

Junior Squads To Dish Up Hot Action Here

Plenty of hot action is anticipated tonight at the Brock St. rink when Oshawa Bees and the Peterborough Colts tangle in their O.H.A. junior "B" group playoff game. There is keen rivalry between these clubs and both play a rugged, bashing style of hockey. In their last clash in the Motor City, fights threatened throughout, one occurring in the third period and a free-for-all between the players breaking loose right after the final bell. The Colts are ready to battle the Bees here tonight and the husky Oshawa players won't back up, so a lot of action is likely.

This is the fourth game of their three-in-five group finals, the Bees having won two. It is up to the young Petes tonight to win or drop out of further competition. The Weir gang believe they can even up the series again here and force a fifth game. The winners will meet Kingston in the first round of the provincial playdowns. A big crowd is expected to view tonight's lively junior battle.

"SALADA" TEA

Kawartha Kids Klub To Entertain Mothers

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 23—(ENS).—Twelve members of the Kawartha Kids Klub, Lakefield, were present at the regular meeting held at the home of Bernice and Hazel Slater and answered the roll call with color schemes and themes for various type of parties. Many were the suggestions given for Valentine, Easter, birthday and St. Patrick parties.

Plans are being made for an afternoon tea on March 4 at the home of Miss Margaret Sanderson, to which the mothers of the members will be invited, also the Junior Institute and each member will also invite one other guest. This event will mark the closing of the project, "The Club Girl Entertains."

The girls were told the correct way to enter a restaurant while in the company of a gentleman and the proper etiquette when at the table.

Hilda Northey and Bernice Slater demonstrated the packing of a week-end bag. The girls also practiced writing invitations. Dainty refreshments were served by the hostesses assisted by Miss Edna Higgins.

SPRING HARMONY

By ALICE ALDEN

IT'S POSSIBLE to assemble a complete spring outfit on your lunch hour and be assured of everything in harmony from head to toe. A number of designers of hats, suits, gloves, bags and shoes simply got together on their colors and even styles to put out such chic ensembles as that shown today. A misty pink and bright yellow are two choices no lovelier than a clear red and vivid blue. The suit is three-piece in a fine herringbone weaves, the bag deep and divided, and the beret scalloped all over. High-cut shoes are a darker but blending tone, and gloves the simple slip-ons every woman likes for street and travel. A last bit of good news is that there's makeup toned for all of the colors featured.

Central School Association Executive Is Entertained

Members of the 1938-1939 executive of Central Home and School Association were hospitably entertained by Mrs. L. Callander at her new home on Cambridge street this week. The evening was in the form of a reunion, and was spent in games and music. Mrs. N. Stanger was pleasantly surprised when she was made the recipient of a beautiful purse in recognition of the worthwhile services she has at all times rendered to the Association. Mrs. Stanger has moved to another section of the city and is not now in the Central school area. Mrs. J. H. Quirt, the president in the 1938-39 class, gracefully made the presentation.

Dainty refreshments were served by the hostess.

Checks Are Chic

When it comes to smart sportswear for spring, look for checks. They're "musts" for chic. Their colorings are a change from the usual combinations, the general effect of many of the mixtures being on the dull side with tan or oxford predominant or wine combined with navy, etc.

The beauty of these check sports costumes is that they fit into both town and country life. Lightweight smooth woollens with medium size pattern and dull tones are good tailored town dress and suit types, while heavier weight ones and large patterns are smart in topcoats and jackets.

Just to show you how varied is the check group that emerges from early showings, consider the dress with matching jacket with youthful pique collar, the swagger back topcoat, the jacket suits with jackets brief or almost wristlength with big pockets, the jackets that go over solid colod skirts or dresses.

Milk Mends China

Milk will mend broken china so that you can use it every day and wash it. Tie the broken part with string and put it into cold milk, allow it to come slowly to the boil, and let it boil for two hours. Take it out and leave it to cool and set for twenty-four hours. Then untie the string and put the china into everyday use again. It is an especially satisfactory "mend" because washing the china in hot water tends to harden the joint still more.

Keeps Cheese Fresh

Cheese will keep fresh by the following method: Dissolve 1 tablespoonful of common salt in 1 pint of cold water. Take a clean square of white linen, dip it in the salt solution, and wrap the cheese in the damp cloth, taking care that the cheese is covered all over and that the air cannot penetrate. This will keep the cheese fresh for a month at least even if kept in a warm place. See that the cloth is always damp. When it dries, dip it in the solution again, wring out, and re-wrap the cheese.

Do You Know?

When damping clothes before ironing you will save time and distribute the water more evenly if you punch five or six holes in the cap of an ordinary screw-top sauce bottle. This makes a fine sprinkler.

Soft cheese is difficult to grate. Try putting it through the potato ricer when you need it for au gratins or biscuits, etc.

Dry celery leaves in a pan in the oven. Crumble and store in a covered glass jar until needed for flavoring dressings, soups and stews, and to combine with other salad herbs.

We Noticed

....Pretty Parisienne pouts are not to be blacked out if French fashion experts have anything to do with it.

....It's called "Night Red". There is no indication yet, however, whether or not it infringes the blackout regulations.

....They have won round number one against the morbid blue lights of the Paris blackout by producing a new lipstick that stays the same color no matter whether the wearer is in the dark or the bright lights.

Lifeless Hair Responds To Brushing

Dry, hard-to-manage, lifeless-looking hair will respond favorably to brushing, tonic treatments and hot oil shampoos.

Necessary equipment includes a good hairbrush with long, flexible bristles, a bottle of tonic for dry hair, olive oil, a wave-set preparation and a good shampoo.

At night, brush hair and scalp for two minutes. Part hair in sections, saturate a little cotton pad with the tonic and moisten every inch of scalp. Now rest elbows on a low table, place head in hands and manipulate scalp until the tonic is absorbed and scalp is quite dry. Brush again, and brush vigorously, using upward and outward strokes.

Afterward, moisten ends of hair slightly. Brush cushions of forefinger and thumb across a bit of the wave-set or dampen with brilliantine will keep the ends from having a dry and brittle apearance.

Repeat the treatment three nights a week for two months, brushing hair and scalp but omitting tonic the remaining four nights of each week.

Have or give yourself a hot oil shampoo not oftener than once every ten days. Simply massage warm olive oil into scalp, wrap a clean towel around your head and leave the oil on for at least two hours. Shampoo in the regular manner, brushing afterward and putting a drop of brilliantine or wave-set on ends before rolling them up to dry.

Must Be Yourself To Develop Personality

A really smart woman never is a carbon copy. She doesn't try to look or act like anyone except herself. She doesn't copy a movie star's coiffure unless it happens to be as becoming to her as to the movie star. She doesn't adapt the mannerisms of others. She doesn't change her accent every time she happens to spend more than three weeks in a different section of the country.

In other words, she is a person. And she would rather dramatize the person she is than try to imitate someone else.

If she is more-than-average in height, you never catch her wearing platform soles—no matter how much platform shoes are touted. If purplish makeup isn't flattering, she skips purplish makeup—regardless of who wears it or who says it is the newest thing.

Her Wardrobe

She is ever mindful of the background against which she lives, as well as of her own coloring, figure and type. If she is a business woman, there are more simple, suitable day dresses than frilly afternoon frocks in her wardrobe. If her home is informally furnished and its surroundings slightly rustic, she buys, for leisure hours, streamlined housecoats and smart lounging pajamas rather than trailing chiffon tea gowns or elaborately embroidered robes.

She never over-works the latest slang expression. She knows half a dozen synonyms for such words as swell, cute, amusing.

Her political, economic and social views are based on sounder reasons than "My husband things" or "John says."

Peterborough Men's Sketch Club has arranged its annual exhibit on the top floor of the Richard Hall store, and Thursday evening found a large number of visitors, many of whom have been following the progress of the amateur artists for several years. Under the rules of the society members most submit new work for each annual exhibition, and it has been interesting to note the improvement each year.

The exhibitors this year are: Adrian MacDonald, H. Steggles, J. E. R. Munro, C. S. Browne, Stan. Harris, Fred Ford, Joe Tattersall, Hugh Robertson, Jack Hamar, W. C. English, C. H. Saunders, A. B. Burrows, D. G. H. Melton and A. Kelly. Those exhibiting for the first time are Mr. Melton and Mr. English.

Adrian MacDonald formerly of the Normal School staff, but now in Toronto, maintains his connection with the Peterborough Club, and this year has a number of portraits. Mr. MacDonald was present for the opening of the exhibit.

There are no rules regarding the materials used, but most of the work is done in oils. As might be expected this district has been carefully covered by the artists in search of suitable and appealing subjects on which to work, and many of them are readily identified and appreciated on that account. There is also indication of travel farther afield toward the coast of Maine.

C. S. Browne, president of the Sketch Club received the guests last evening, and tea was served during the evening; Mrs. C. S. Browne being in charge of arrangements. The exhibit continue until the end of the week.

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Saturday, February 24

According to an impressive array of planetary aspects, this should be a lively and stirring day, even to the point of being devastating and disintegrating, unless there is much sagacity and judicious handling of sudden and imperative situations that may arise. Complete upheaval is possible in the launching of major projects, which have every promise of success. Elements of duplicity call for wisdom and tact rather than hasty speech or quarrels. Sign papers cautiously.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of revolutionary change and surprising success and satisfaction if they manage with tact, policy and restraint of ongue and pen. Bad temper and impetuosity make no headway, and carelessness with signatures may be hazardous. Duplicity menaces. But when such perils are wisely managed there should be good results and perhaps thrilling adventure and romance.

A child born on this day may have great capacity for success, being intuitive, original and creative in novel directions. But it may suffer from its own unguarded tongue ar temper.

WOMEN'S WORK AND INTERESTS

It's A Grimy Job But She Likes It

By MURIEL ADAMS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

OTTAWA, Feb. 23 — (CP). — Seventeen-year-old Eleanore Kipp, tall, blonde, and with a yen for mechanics and flying, is the first woman to roll up her sleeves and get to work as a mechanic in the engineering room of a Canadian airport, according to officials of the Canadian Flying Clubs' Association.

Now she is doing it every day out at Uplands Airport near here, getting her hands as grimy as any other mechanic, her clothes just as dirty and altogether having a whale of a time.

With four young men about her own age, Eleanore is serving her apprenticeship as an air engineer. She spends her time servicing engines, checking individual parts, patching framework and tuning up planes for the eight provisional pilot officers of the Royal Canadian Air Force and civilian pilots who are being trained at the Air Field by Flying School instructors.

With Eleanore, dancing comes next after messing around with airplane engines. And one other thing she is particularly fussy about is the "e" on the end of her first name, it's just one of those things, she explained.

Miss Kipp is the daughter of a well-known Ottawa newspaperman and her family used to live in Winnipeg. When she left school last October nothing interested her much except airplane. She found her way to Uplands, and joined forces with the engineer-aspiring mechanics. It means getting up early to drive the 20 miles or so to the airport on time, but ever since the first of the year she has been on the job.

So far there is no pay in it for her but in a few weeks she hopes to get on the payroll, and in another two years she will be able to apply for her engineer's licence. By that time also she hopes to be applying for a flying license too.

Dresses For Part.

At the field Eleanore sports black slacks, a black crew-neck sweater and heavy moccasins. She rolls her sleeves up in down-to-business fashion just as the other engine tinkerers do. "Most of the time I look pretty dirty," she said, wiping a grimy hand on a piece of waste. "But it doesn't matter to me as long as I have an engine to fiddle around with and the boys wouldn't care if I dressed like an Eskimo."

At first her youthful male colleagues looked a little disdainfully on a girl messing around engines. Now, however, they have become used to it. One of them termed her a "pretty good guy," which means she "belongs" out there at wind-swept Uplands.

"I take my turn with the others, splicing skis, tuning up engines, taking them apart and cleaning them, patching holes in the airplane frames, sweeping and keeping the shop clean, and al lsorts of odds and ends that turn up in a day's work," she said.

Eleanore's hands are her biggest worry. She's still pretty feminine and spends plenty of time getting her fingernails back into shape for special occasions.

Fashion's Newest Color Sensation

It's hot off the fire—fashion's big news in costume stimulants, no soft, gentle tone, but good hot pink. Flash it with dead black for the June-in-January mood. A leading hand stylist creates a polish in the same warm tone, to bring the tropics to your fingertips. Lipstick also comes to match, solving that color problem to perfection. You can really go to town on costume and cosmetic accents, when they are all in perfect accord.

DOROTHY DIX

Happiness In Marriage Depends As Much On The Type Of Job The Man Has, And If He Likes It, As It Does On His Personal Difficiencies.

When a girl is picking out a husband she rarely takes his occupation into consideration except to hope that is will bring in enough of the needful to provide her with silver fox furs; otherwise it does not seem to her to matter whether he is a butcher or baker or candlestick maker.

This casual view, however, of hubby's job seems to be mistake, for some learned psychologists, who have been delving into the subject, have discovered that the happiness of a married couple depends almost as much upon the man's occupation as it does upon whether he drinks or grouches or has a wandering foot.

This is important news, if true, and should make the girl contemplating matrimony ask the Boy Friend: "What do you do?" before she says "yes." Of course, all work is honorable, as the copybook says, and since wives have to eat and have beauty treatments, and it costs about as much to upkeep a baby as it does a yacht, women have naturally felt that the chief thing to consider about a husband's vocation was the size of the pay envelope it dragged down. The thing that counted was not how he made his money, but how much he made.

But the matter is not so simple as all that, for every wife finds to her surprise that when she married her husband she married his job as well, and that her happiness depends just as much upon her getting along amicably with it as it does her staying on good terms with him.

Hence it is well for every girl contemplating matrimony to consider carefully the advantages and the drawbacks of the occupation of the go-getter who is asking her to be his. And for her benefit I offer the following tips:

There is aviation, for instance. Few women can resist a uniform, and when one has wings on its sleeves even the most hard-boiled of them go ga-ga. The pilots of the sky have everything that captures the feminine fancy—courage, power, thrills, danger—but unless a girl has iron nerves herself and is no worrier she should never marry an aviator.

The law is a grand profession. Full of honors, carrying with it social prestige, often profitable, it seems a good bet, matrimonially speaking. The girl who marries a lawyer gets a husband of whom she can be proud and an educated and intelligent companion, but the hitch is that unless she lacks all of the natural curiosity of her sex she will work herself to death trying to worm out of him the saltry secrets about his clients that he will not tell her.

Doctors are also a preferred risk. Probably the most dangerous type of man is the physician, because, in addition to whatever attractions of person and intelligence he possesses, he adds a gentle, soothing, bedside manner that leads a girl to believe that if she married him he would spend his time holding her hand and listening to her tell her symptoms while he overflower with sympathy.

But, alas, life with a doctor is filled with unexpected tacks. There are, to begin with, the rich and flirtatious lady patients in pink silk and lace negligees and with fresh hair waves, whose chief amusement is playing at being invalids, and it takes a pretty practical and broad-minded wife to bear in mind that the said dames are her meal ticket. Also, the doctor is at the beck and call of every one, except his wife, and for her to give a dinner party is a sure sign he will be called in the midst of it to go to see old Mrs. Jones about her rheumatism, and before they can get their hats on to go to the movies Mrs. Smith will be sending in a hurry call about the baby's croup.

The preacher. A young preacher always seems to a girl the answer to a maiden's prayer for a husband. She feels he is superior to other men, sort of exclusive stock, you know. Free of all the usual masculine vices. He is not only in the white-collar class, but wears the collar that buttons behind. Seemingly he is the surest of all sure things. And he has a different technique from other men in courting. He talks to a woman about her soul instead of her body, and that is a novelty that makes a universal hit with the female sex.

But marriage with a preacher is only for women devoid of jealousy and meek enough to let the ladies of the congregation boss her. For all the unmarried sisters and the married who are bored with their husbands feel called upon to tell their sorrows to the preacher and ask his prayers. And the Ladies' Aid feel that they have a right to select the preacher's wife's clothes and rear her children. The business man is maybe not so glamorous as the professional man. A little short on poetry and making pretty speeches, but generally a good provider and likely to stick to his matrimonial bargains as he does to his financial ones.

Also, being used to balancing profit and loss in his business, he does the same with his wife's good qualities and bad ones. If she is a reasonably good housekeeper and a moderate nagger he feels that he has struck a pretty good average on his investment in a wedding ring. So there you are, girls, with men and their jobs. Take your choice.

DEAR MISS DIX — Since my mother's death I have lived with my aunt and given her $5 every week out of my salary. I don't earn much and that is little to pay her, but it helps. Now I want to get married to the grandest boy in the world, but I feel like a heel to leave my aunt without my board money, which she needs. My fiance says when we are married we can cut down on something and still give her the $5 a week, but I don't think this is fair to him. Is it?—DEB.

ANSWER:

Certainly it is. It is what any real man would want to do for the girl he loves. Be a good wife to him and you will be worth more than any $5 a week.

Grow in Soil or Water

Such a charming picture—this window with its array of philodendrons in bracket pots, its bowl of lovely Chinese sacred lilies growing in water. And these plants need little care.

The philodendron grows good-naturedly in a light or dark part of your room, in soil or in water. And another plant as suited to artistic arrangement as the philodendron—and even easier to raise—is the wandering jew. If growing it in water, place in a colored glass or pottery container, as the old root growth becomes unsightly.

To grow Chinese sacred lilies, place bulbs in a bowl filled with pebbles or fibre and add enough water to cover one-third of the bulbs. Keep in a dark spot until roots are an inch long, then bring into the light.

This time of the year you can expect blooms from lily bulbs in a few weeks, from lily-of-the-valley pips, too.

And there are so many other easy-to-raise plants with which you can create charming effects! Our 32-page booklet gives directions for growing vines, bulbs, ferns, foliage and flowering plants. Tells how to fertilize, repot, keep your indoor garden lovely and thriving. Also directions for window boxes.

Send 15c in coins or stamps for your copy of MAKING PLANTS AND FLOWERS GROW INDOORS to Examiner Home Service, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

WASHINGTON — (CP). — One quarter of all farms in the United States are now electrified according to a Rural Electrification Commission survey.

SIZES 12-20

Your teen age daughter will put her stamp of approval on this jumper dress. If she is learning to sew in school, she will want to make it herself, and you can help out by making a blouse or two. Wide shoulder straps are cut in one with the skirt and give a very flattering line to a young figure. Sheer wool or heavy rayon crepe are both practical and well suited to this style. Make one blouse of dotted swiss for special occasions, and another of sturdier cotton for every day school wear.

Style No. 3121 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20 years. Size 16 requires 2⅞ yard sof 39-inch material for the jumper; 2 yards for the long sleeved blouse.

IN MEMORIAM

TUCKER. — In loving memory of David Tucker, who passed away February 24, 1939.

Time takes away the edge of grief
But memory turns back every leaf.
—Ever remembered by his Wife and Family.

FOWLER.—In loving memory of my dear husband and our father, Archibald Fowler, who died February 23, 1937.

Oh, for the touch for a vanished hand,
A true sound of a voice that is still.
—Sadly missed by his Wife and two Sons.

CARD OF THANKS

Mrs. M. Elliott wishes to thank friends and neighbors for their kindness, expressions of sympathy, floral tributes and all those who helped in any way, especially in making the roads passable, during her recent sad bereavement.

ONE FALSE STEP

BY KATHRN BEMIS

SYNOPSIS.

Characters as you meet them:

JANIS SHELDON—Orphaned stenographer who has inherited $20,000 and is on her way to Hollywood to gain fame in pictures.

ROCK CONOVER—Guard in charge of prisoners on a transcontinental train, who is attracted to Janis.

YESTERDAY'S ACTION:

Janis is aboard a streamlined train on her way from St. Louis to Hollywood and discovers that her car is partly occupied by a group of prisoners being taken to San Quentin. Rock takes occasion to make her acquaintance and assures her that she has nothing to fear. He tells her he will meet her at breakfast in the morning.

CHAPTER II.

JANIS must have slept again, because when she next opened her eyes it was dawn. The sun was rising in a blaze of glory far to the east, and the train was scooting across the dry brown plains at nothing less than a hundred miles an hour.

Remembering her odd travelling companions with a shudder, Janis note dthat they, together with the guards, appeared to be still wrapped in slumber. Her intense fear of the preceding night now seemed ridiculous, also that she could have taken Rock Conover quite so seriously. Lying against a wrinkled pillow, his wavy black hair tousled, his rather narrow chin sunk on his chest, he was anything but magnetic.

She sighed impatiently, reminding herself of her plans for fame, which in no way included a man who guarded prisoners for a living. She stifled a yawn, grabbed her handbag and went quickly to the dressing room.

Soon she was freshly rouged and powdered, her neatly combed curls glinting fire in the morning light. She swung her slight little figure through to the diner in the rear, determined to ignore the breakfast date made by the overconfidence Mr. Conover. She told herself she would have nothing more to do with him. Before he was awake she'd be out of the diner and back in the observation car.

Breakfast Companion.

It was while she was digging a spoon into delicious grapefruit that she began to feel a little lonely for no reason she could name, unless it was that she had for company not more than half a dozen breakfast-minded passengers. She found herself abruptly pleased when Rock Conover, drew back the chair opposite her, proclaiming: "Well, here we are, right on schedule as ordered."

His smile was highly contagious, but she managed to steel herself against it. She began floundering around in her mind for something satirically contemptuous to utter, then was surprised to hear herself saying: "Good morning, Mr Conover. How are all the bad men today?"

His laugh was even more contagious than his smile. He quickly unfolded his napkin, laid it across his knees. "They're as bad as ever. I'm only taking time out for coffee and rolls. We'll have to talk fast."

He scribbled his order on a pad and a waiter took it away.

Janis' brows knitted. She laid down her spoon and gave swift appraisal to this strange man whose influence was nearly overcoming her discretion again.

"See what I'm driving at? I don't even know your name—and I must know everything about you."

"Really, Mr. Conover! You fairly take away my breath! Such terrific speed! I——"

"It isn't funny — I mean it! We're going to be — you might say, friends. But that's too formal, Miss—Miss-er——"

"Janis Sheldon," she was impelled to say, then added defiantly, "On the way to Hollywood."

"To make pictures — movie-struck?"

"I'd hardly call it that. But it would be fascinating work, wouldn't it?" she evaded.

"Forget it!" he advised firmly. "You've got looks, figure — all it takes, Miss Sheldon — but——" He hesitated.

"Are you always so concerned over the future of every one you meet, Mr. Conover?" She was deliberately sarcastic. This man needed to be put in his place, and she wouldn't hesitate to do it.

Rock Does Some Quizzing

A waiter placed coffee and rolls before the astonishingly frank young man. The instant they were alone, he said, "Why shouldn't I be concerned? You might make good in Hollywood — pass up a fellow like me. Being a guard's not so hot."

"You mean—you don't like it?"

"I should say not! I want to be a big shot—make real dough."

"You could work up to it, couldn't you? You could be a G-man."

"Takes too long. That's what you'll find in Hollywood. You'll spend all your cash, get discouraged —go home broke to mama."

"I—I have no parents to go to."

"Excuse the blunder. I was brought up in an orphanage—never knew my folks, so we've got a lot in common. But you're worse off than I thought. You need somebody like me to wise you up." His assurance somewhat nettled her.

"If you mean I need someone to keep me from squandering every cent I have, you're guessing wrong. I believe I know how to manage my affairs."

Rock Conover's eyes grew shrewd. "Of course, if you're well heeled financially, that's a break."

"I—I didn't say I was exactly that. But one has to have a little something to get along on in a strange city. I may be able to keep off relief." She laughed lightly.

Rock Conover turned his wrist, glanced at his watch. He took up his coffee cup, flung Janis a long speculative look over its rim as he drank. With studied nonchalance, he touched his napkin to his full red lips. Then he said: "Any heiress needs looking after in Hollywood. I've lived around there a long time, know the ropes. It's lucky you met me."

Rock Makes His Plans

The semblance of a doubt swept across Janis' face. "Yes, isn't it," came from her uncertainly. If he thought she was an heiress, so be it! And maybe inheriting twenty thousand did make her one. But she didn't propose to enlighten him or any other person as to the exact state of her finances. It didn't seem safe, somehow, although the unaccountable effect this man's personality had upon her contained so much that was throbbingly tender, momentous even, it couldn't be risky to make a confidant of him.

"I decided to know you the minute you got on this train," he continued swiftly. "There was something about you that—got me. It wasn't your good looks alone that did it. It was the way you carried yourself—as if you were somebody—a 'touch-me-not' manner I like in a girl."

Janis felt her face grow hot. The eyes she lifted to him were big and shining. There was a distinct hint of expectancy in them.

As if in answer to this, he said, "I'm on my way to San Quentin to resign. You'll see me in Hollywood within a few days." He neglected to explain he had already lost his job, that the first of the month would terminate it complete.

"You mean—you'll give up being a guard?"

"Sure. I've been fed up with it for a long time. Now—after meeting you—I'm more set than ever on getting out of the rut."

"But—you shouldn't give up a good job because——"

He leaned over the table, said low: "Guess you don't see what it would mean to me to know you better."

She lowered her dark silken lashes, tried to throw off the spell of the moment by glancing out the window. But she caught only a blurred impression of sweet clover by irrigation ditches, cottonwoods outlining arroyos, Buffalo grass, fence posts, swishing past, timed to the violent pounding of her heart.

Cunning Words

"Maybe you think I'm not on the level," he probed, with menace in intentness. "I guess what got me is something the sun does to your hair—making you more beautiful than any girl I've ever seen."

He straightened, put a hunk of butter on a roll, munched it with satisfaction.

Her seriously contemplative eyes rested on him for a long moment. The laugh she attempted caught in her throat. "You're very nice—I mean—you say nice things," she conceded quickly. "I like you—hope we'll be friends. But you see—I'm taking this trip as a—a deliberate part of a plan. I'll be so busy——"

"Tell me—is there another man?" he demanded sharply.

This impudence was startling, but she hastily assured him, "Oh, no—not that. There cant be any man in my life—for a very long time."

"That's what you think," it sounded like a prophecy.

He picked up her breakfast check with his own, laid them with a bill on the waiter's money tray and said grandiloquently, "Keep the change, George."

"Oh, please, Mr. Conover!" protested Janis. "This is Dutch!"

Forecasting Future

Rock Conover shoved back his chair and stood up. Spreading both palms on the table to steady himself, he bent his stocky frame to her, said meaningly, "From now on if I had my way, I'd always take care of things for you."

Then wheeling abruptly, he swung down the aisle and vanished through the vestibule.

Janis shoved aside the plate of grilled bacon, her appetite gone with her self-control. With the assistance of the waiter, she managed to get out of her chair.

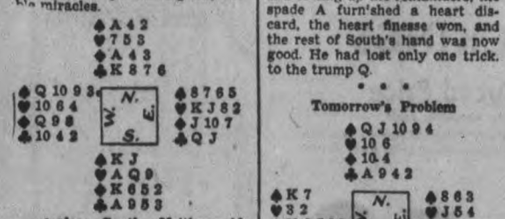
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER
By SHEPARD BARCLAY
"The Authority on Authorities"

IT MAY BE A BLESSING

WHAT MAY seem like a plague, in the form of an absurdly high contract into which your partner pushed you, may turn out to be a blessing in disguise. If you stick by your guns, you may find a lot of lucky breaks in the cards and also in the way your opponents choose to play them. The ultimate result may be a lot better score than you figured to get out of the deal without performing impossible miracles.



(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♦	Pass	4 ♦	Pass
5 ♣	Pass	6 ♦

Did anybody ever know of crazier bidding than North did on this deal? In the duplicate tournament where it arose, all experienced pairs got into 3-No Trumps and made four. This North was an auction player to whom contract bidding had been explained—the idea of getting as high as you can. And did he do it?

On examining the dummy, it looks as if two tricks may possibly be lost in each suit except spades. But West led the club 10 to the J and A. Next came the diamond A and K and one to the Q. West returned the spade 3 to the J. The spade K was cashed, club led to the K dropping the Q and setting up the remainders, the spade A furnished a heart discard, the heart finesse won, and the rest of South's hand was now good. He had lost only one trick, to the trump Q.

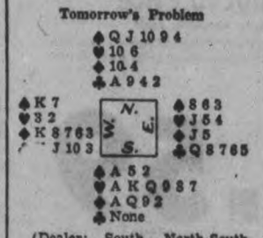
Tomorrow's Problem



(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

If West leads the club J here against South's 6-Hearts, how should declarer plan the play?

Norwegians, Swedes, Danes Alarmed Over Toll Of 50 Vessels, 600 Seamen

Norway's Press Suggests Cutting Exports To Germany By One Loading Each Time One Of Her Ships Torpedoed

COPENHAGEN, Feb. 24—(AP)—The Foreign Ministers of Denmark, Sweden and Norway jointly sought today means of halting the sinking of their ships, bombing of their towns and violation of their territorial waters, while still maintaining their neutrality.

The Foreign Ministers, Dr. Peter Munch of Denmark, Halvdan Koht of Norway, and Christian Gunther of Sweden, scheduled meetings this afternoon and Sunday.

Anxiety mounted in the Scandinavian countries as there problems faced their statesmen:

1.—Repeated sinkings of Norwegian, Swedish and Danish ships by submarine and mine action. The three countries already have lost more than fifty ships totalling about 160,000 tons with a loss of 600 lives.

2.—Settlement of the Altmark incident in which British warships seized 299 British seamen imprisoned on a Nazi ship close to Norway's shore.

3.—Bombing of the Swedish town of Pajala near the Finnish border. Sweden said Russian planes did the bombing; Russia has denied it.

Follows Peace Session

The conference of the three ministers is their second since last December 7 when they met at Oslo to consider means of negotiating peace in the Finnish-Russian war

Even as Koht left Oslo last night for the conference, the sinking of two more Norwegian ships and the setting fire to a third in the North Sea were reported.

Norwegian newspapers attacked unrestricted submarine warfare as the "purest piracy," and the Shipping Times asked whether it "would not be a fair situation if deliveries to Germany from Norway were reduced by one loading each time the Germans sink a Norwegian ship."

The Ministers were expected to seek some means of halting the sinkings and also to ask Great Britain to modify her blockade measures so neutral ships would not be forced through danger zones to control stations.

That Arctic Patrol.

Norway was concerned particularly with the ramifications of the Altmark case. Among these were reports indicating that Allied warships were patrolling the Arctic coast off Northern Norway, apparently with the intention of halting German shipments of high-grade iron ore from Kirkenes, Northern Norwegian port.

The British have criticized Norway for allowing German ships to traverse her territorial waters.

The Altmark, which ran aground when British naval units cornered her in Gjossingfiord, was refloated last night but there was no immediate indication when she would depart. Britain has asked that she be interned. Norway has demanded return of the prisoners taken from the Altmark. Authoritative sources indicated that the Norwegian government might ask that the incident be submitted to an arbitration board.

More Economy

Paris, Feb. 24 (AP)

THE FRENCH cabinet in its second session in three days considered a series of decrees providing for urgent economic measures.

An announcement following the meeting said the decrees would be submitted for final approval to the council of ministers — the cabinet meeting with President Albert Lebrun — probably next Wednesday.

Details of the decrees were not disclosed.

Today's session was attended by Daniel Serruys, high commissioner of national economy.

None Of Cabinet Will Join Union Says King

OTTAWA, Feb. 24—(CP).—A National or Union Government is almost certain to mean a weak or dictatorial government and it conceivably might mean both, Prime Minister Mackenzie King said in his third election broadcast from here.

Such a government would be weak because it leads to endless compromise and stifling of views, he said in a speech over the national network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation last night.

"Differences which now divide parties in parliament would be transferred from parliament to the Cabinet. What should be a clash of public principles might well become a clash of personal interests. Effective government would be crippled by compromise and paralyzed by inaction.

"On the other hand, such a government might easily follow the European pattern. There the merging of parties into one, the supression of minorities, the silencing of opposition have soon resulted in the abolition of representative institutions. That is the soil in which dictatorships grow and flourish."

The Prime Minister declared that Union Government also may be a mere subterfuge to bring together, under the guise of a combination of parties, men of divergent views whose main purpose is to take some course of action which they would not be prepared to champion openly.

Really Means Union.

When Conservative Leader Manion talks of National Government he really means Union Government, Mr. Mackenzie King stated. "Probably he doesn't like the name because it summons up from the past memories of many things he would like to forget. What, however, Dr. Manion is avowedly advocating is a government composed of men of different political parties and therefore of conflicting political opinions."

Speaking with the authority and support of the present Cabinet, Mr.

Roland Glover Unanimous Choice As Liberal Candidate For Riding Of Peterborough West

Roland M. Glover, former publisher of the Examiner, was nominated Liberal candidate at this afternoon's convention in the Canadian Legion Hall.

Two weeks ago in the same place J. J. Duffus was chosen to carry the government's standard in the campaign that is to be decided by the electors on March 26. Early in the following week Mr. Duffus was appointed a member of the Senate of Canada, an honor to himself and his constituency that left the Liberals in the position of having to retrace their preparations with the convention that has brought forward Mr. Glover as its nominee.

Others proposed were E. L. Sackville by H. G. Walker and Gilbert McIlmoyle.

Thomas J. Carley, K.C., was proposed by Reeve Wallace Shearer of Harvey and D. H. Webster of Lakefield.

Colonel John A. Dewart, M.C., was proposed by Dr. Ralph C. Honey as a business man, soldier and student of world affairs, and was seconded by Fred Fife of Otonabee.

Mr. Glover was proposed by Reeve W. A. Anderson of Otonabee and Dr. E. M. Crough.

A resolution of loyalty to the Right Honorable Mackenzie King, Prime Minister, and of his successful leadership of the Liberals of Canada during the last twenty years was proposed by Lieut.-Col. Gordon Hall and seconded by Colonel John Dewart.

The convention's congratulations to Senator Duffus on his elevation to the Upper Chamber of Canada's Parliament was moved by Mrs. C. R. Banks, president of the Women's Liberal Association, seconded by Clarence Laing, vice-president of the Young Liberals' Association.

Among those on the platform seated around Howard Quinn, president of the Federal Liberal Association were: Mrs. H. Webster, Mrs. (Dr.) C. M. Scott, Mrs. H. O'Keefe, Mrs. C. R. Banks, Mayor Hamilton, Ralph Standish, president of the Young Liberals Association, Colonel J. A. Dewart, M.C.; Reeve W. A. Anderson, F. D. Kerr, K.C., Dr. Donald Munro, Elmer Crough, Jacob Low

In opening the meeting, Mr. Quinn requested the capacity assembly of men and women to stand in memorial tribute to the men of the British Empire who sacrificed their lives in the last war and also those who were now giving their lives on land, on the sea and in the air. This mark of remembrance was especially inspired by the fact that the convention was meeting in the Canadian Legion Hall.

The auditorium was crowded to standing room with an overflow downstairs.

A resolution of regret on behalf of the Association in the death of Lord Tweedsmuir and of sympathy to Lady Tweedsmuir and the members of her family, moved by F. D. Kerr and Mayor Hamilton, was adopted by the audience standing in one minute of silence.

Choice of Mr. Glover as standard-bearer became unanimous when the three others proposed withdrew their names.

Accepts Nomination

Mr. Glover accepted the nomination by thanking the large assembly of men and women for the confidence they were placing in him, and in turn declaring his faith in the present government its thorough and prompt preparations for prosecuting Canada's war against Germany. He recalled the convention of two weeks ago whose work was undone by the appointment of J. J. Duffus to the Senate.

Mr. Glover congratulated Senator Duffus and wished him the best of health to enable him to continue his public service. It should be a matter of great satisfaction to the people in having two members of the Upper Chamber of Canada, "Senator Iva Campbell Fallis, whose ability I have always admired, and now Senator Duffus.

"I think it should be mentioned that they both began life on the farm, and that they are equipped by that experience to bring to the consideration of this country's affairs, a very valuable knowledge of farm problems and an interest in the welfare of our farmers, which I feel sure will always remain with them.

British Warbirds Pay Prague A Night Visit

LONDON, Feb. 24. —(CP)— The air ministry announced today that Royal Air Force planes flew over Prague last night—the second successive night that British fliers penetrated deep into Germany.

The Ministry's communique said the flights were "successfully completed."

It was the third such expedition the British have disclosed since the start of the war.

Starting from bases in France, British fliers flew Thursday night on reconnaissance over Austria and Bohemia. On the night of Jan. 12 they scattered propaganda leaflets on Vienna and Prague.

One Lands in Belgium.

One of the British planes failed to return, the communique said, and it was later learned the craft had landed in Belgium when the pilot lost his bearings.

A despatch from Brussels reported a damaged British plane came down in a beet field near Gembloux early to-day and its crew of six were arrested.

The communique declared:

"During last night extensive reconnaissance flight were carried out by the Royal Air Force over North-west Germany. One of our aircraft failed to return. It has been since ascertained that the pilot having lost his bearings has landed in Belgium."

The press association said R.A.F. planes also had flown over Kiel, Hamburg and Bremen, strategic ports along Germany's northwest coast.

Germany Victim Of Deception

MUNICH, Feb. 24—(AP via Radio)—Adolf Hitler addressed his followers tonight on the 20th anniversary of his proclamation of the Nazi Party's 25-point program.

"My German comrades," Hitler began, "20 years ago I appeared for the first time before the general public.

"That was the hardest and most dramatic decision of my life.

"If now again I stand among you that in itself is remarkable.

"When I appeared before you at that time I was not a pacifist; I was a soldier.

"Our nation at that time had collapsed in a way that was unparalleled in history.

"We were the victims of an enormous world deception, but we alone were not deceived. The others were also.

"They cheated the Arabs but incidentally they also cheated the Jews.

"In their own states the victorious nations didn't get what they expected.

"A new world was to be established, a new world of equality.

"It was to be a world in which there would be no harm. A world in which people would rule. Germany laid down its arms because of the 14 points."

Britain to Spend 445 Million For Canadian Supplies During First Year Of War

Premier Chamberlain Lauds Dominion Effort In Disclosing Startling Figures On Motherland's Huge Program Of Purchases

BIRMINGHAM, Feb. 24.—(C P Cable)—Prime Minister Chamberlain revealed today that the British government expects to spend more than £100,000,000 ($445,000,000) in Canada during the first 12 months of the war.

Mr. Chamberlain's speech to his constituents wound up a series by members of the war cabinet delivered in the last two months to inform the country and the Empire of the war's progress.

Speaking about the men, munitions and materials being received from various parts of the Empire, Mr. Chamberlain said:

"I should like to give you an idea of the scale on which they and we are working. We expect, for instance that in the first 12 months of war we shall be spending £100,000,000 in Canada alone.

"From Canada and Australia we have already purchased nearly 4,000,000 tons of wheat since the war began and I might add that we have contracted for 437,000 standards of soft wood from Canada and 350,000 fathoms of pit wood from Canada and Newfoundland."

Half Wool Exports

Mr. Chamberlain said that by arrangements with Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, Britain was purchasing half the normal wool exports of the whole world.

A number of times the Prime Minister paid special tribute to the part Canada is playing in the Allies' war effort. Before disclosing in impressive figures the extent of the Dominion's contribution to the material side, he singled out the Canadian troops in England for praise.

"In London we see every day members of Canadian contingents on leave from their headquarters and when we think that these men have travelled many thousands of miles, leaving behind their parents, their wives, even young children, to cast in their lot with us against the tyranny of the aggressor we must be profoundly impressed with the moral greatness of the cause which has inspired so intense a conviction of its righteousness."

Great Partnership.

One of the most remarkable developments of the war, said Mr. Chamberlain, has been the partnership between the Royal Air Force and the Navy. Together they patrol the seas, discover enemy haunts and repel bombers.

"Our plans for training expert pilots and crews at home and in Canada will give us tens of thousands of airmen who will in turn rival the splendid deeds of daring already standing credit to the Royal Air Force," he said.

Independence of the Poles and Czechs and proof that Germany "has once and for all abandoned the thesis that might is right" were summed up as basic war aims of the Allies by the Prime Minister. He said the Allies were fighting "to free ourselves from the barbarities of the middle ages and establish an order more in keeping with the fundamental principles of Christianity."

He gave Germany's war aims, in phrases which he attributed to Propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbels and Foreign Minister Joachim Von

Great Kiovisto Fort Area Has Fallen Finns Admit—Now Red Attack Base

HELSINKI, Feb. 24—(AP).—The Finnish high command announced today that the Russians now hold the fortified coastal area of Koivisto and have made it the starting point for new drives toward Viipuri (Viborg) and against strategic islands of Viipuri Bay.

The daily communique declared "the enemy's losses were heavy" in these attacks but did not say whether they were successful.

Until today the Finns had not admitted loss of the Koivisto r egion, which had been the western anchor of the Mannerheim fortress line across the strategic Karelian Isthmus.

2,350 Reds Slain.

The communique listed Russian dead of more than 2,350 in yesterday's fighting in addition to destruction of two detachments of unstated size.

To the East, almost in the centre of the Isthmus front, the high command said two Russian detachments "which had penetrated our positions were wholly annihilated" and at Salmenkaitä "the attacking enemy was hurled back and compelled to leave on the field more than 1,000 killed."

The Finns said "about 1,000" Russianas were killed on the Eastern front in one sector north-east of Lake Ladoga and 350 others in the Kuhmo sector, just below Finland's narrow waist.

Soviet Russian attacks on the Mannerheim Line were concentrated to-day in a half-dozen spearheads aimed at the shell-battered city of Viipuri (Viborg), their objective since the invasion of Finland began Nov. 30.

Non-combatants of Vipuri's normal 74,000 population have been removed, but the fury of the Russian drive, particularly since Feb. 1, indicates it remains a much-desired strategic centre.

PRIME MINISTER Chamberlain in his speech here today announced that £92,000,000 ($409,400,000) has been subscribed in national savings certificates and defence bonds in the 13 weeks since the war savings campaign was inaugurated.

There never was a time, he (Goebbels) continued, when Germany had such splendid prospects of achieving a dominating position in the world.

"We do not desire the destruction of any people. We are fighting to secure that the small nations of Europe shal lhenceforth live in security....But we do not want domination for ourselves, nor do we covet anyone else's territory....

"We are fighting for freedom of the individual conscience and for freedom in religion; we are fighting against persecution, wherever it may be found."

Vaunted Nazi Aim To Destroy Opponents Stark Contrast To Allies' Struggle

BIRMINGHAM, Feb. 24.—(CP Cable)—Prime Minister Chamberlain today contrasted the Allies' and Germany's war aims in a war progress report.

He said "their aims have been made clear to the world."

"In his preface to the German white book," the Prime Minister added, "Herr Von Ribbentrop declares Germany will not lay down her arms until she has reached her goal namely, the military destruction of her opponents.

In his speech of Jan. 19, Dr. Goebbels said that in Germany there is only one opinion about the English—to destroy them.

Shifts In Arctic and East Flank Moves On Reich?

By DON GILBERT
(Canadian Press Cable Editor.)

Events pointing to the creation of new fronts gathered momentum in the 25th week of the war between the Allied powers and Germany. In either the Far North or the Middle East, or both, it appeared the Allies might be preparing for a great flanking movement against the Reich and its sources of supply in Central Europe.

While the exploit of H.M.S. Cossack in liberating 300 British seamen from the German prison ship Altmark drew attention to Norway's neutrality difficulties, the appearance of British warships off Northern Scandinavia indicated Britain intends to stop Germany's use of the Norwegian coastline to run supplies down from Russian Arctic ports.

The possibility of friction with Russia over this development was linked with the growing proportions of Allied assistance to the Finns.

The view that Great Britian and France, and their allies, should throw in their lot with the Finns was aired with increasing frequency.

Swedish public clamor for aid to the Finns was so persistent that King Gustaf, declaring he could not take responsibility for his country becoming involved in the struggle between the great Powers, took the unusual step of publicly supporting the decision of his cabinet to reject a formal Finnish request for the assistance of Sweden.

Allied pressure on Germany's other flank in Southeastern Europe steadily increased. British warships carried contraband control operations almost to the Dardanelles and there was talk of Turkey, non-belligerent ally of Britain and France, allowing allied naval vessels to enter the Black Sea and halt German oil imports from Russia.

Cooling of relations between Turkey and Russia was emphasized when the Soviet government recall-

Stalin Just Hitler's Apprentice In Chamberlain's War Review

BIRMINGHAM, Feb. 24 — (CP-Havas).—Highlights of the address delivered here today by Prime Minister Chamberlain follow:

The speech that I am going to make to you this afternoon is the last of a series of addreses by members of the War Cabinet delivered over the last two months with the purpose of informing the country of the progress of the war.

This afternoon my mind goes back to the last occasion when I spoke in this hall. It was nearly a year ago, and it was just after Herr Hitler had proclaimed, in breach of his own solemn assurances, the annexation of Bohemia and Moravia to the Reich.

Czecho-Slovakia was followed by Poland in spite of warnings up to the last, and with the wicked and cruel attack on Poland the die was cast, the challenge was accepted and the acceptance of that challenge approved by the whole Empire.

Alas, the bad example soon spread. So easy did these conquests appear that the apprentice thought he could safely make a similar attempt on Finland.

And England's Fate?

Can you wonder that the small states who are near enough to Germany to be reached by her claws, and have not the numbers or weapons to resist her, are living in a perpetual nightmare of fear? And can you not wonder that there should be any in this island who doubt what would be our fate if we were unable to defend our lives and liberties with our strong right arm?

That system which had been built up by the efforts of civilized people, and which, with all its faults, represents a genuine and earnest endeavor to free ourselves from the barbarities of the Middle Ages and establish an order more in keeping with the fundamental principles of Christianity, is at stake, and only by the victory of the Allies can it be preserved.

So little do the Nazis reckon of neutral interests that neutral ships

No More Lonely Canadians If England Can Help It

ALDERSHOT, Feb. 24 — (CP Cable).—There will not be a lonely soldier in Canada's overseas army if the people back home, amply aided by Old Country folk, can help it.

Some time ago The Canadian Press found a young Canuck who had not received a letter since arriving in England with the First Contingent and he became known as the "loneliest man in Aldershot." A comrade revealed he had joined up against the wishes of his pacifist parents and family ties had been cut as a result.

After the story was published in Canada and the United Kingdom, hundreds of persons wrote cheery letters and sent parcels to newspapers for relay to the soldier. The youngster will not have to wait much longer for mail from Canada, for bags of it are now crossing the Atlantic.

But in the meantime he is not lonely any longer, for a couple of hundred letters and parcels have poured in on him since the story about the loneliest man in Aldershot appeared in print over here.

Among the gifts he is sharing with his barrack buddies are woollen pullovers, scarves, mittens, cigarettes and chocolates. A majority of correspondents enclosed stamps for a reply.

Messages of cheer came from all sorts of people of all ages. They offered him hospitality in their homes, sage advice and encouragement, and even a proposal of marriage in one case.

"I do not know what to say about it all," he commented. "I never thought people could show such interest in any one person. I'll certainly try to answer every letter although I may need the help of my pals."

He smiled and shook his head when asked: "How about the proposal of marriage?"

It came from a 19-year-old girl in Birmingham, who hoped her letter would make him the happiest man in camp. She closed with

Wolves Killing Many Deer In Haliburton

LINDSAY, Feb. 24. — (ENS) — Wolves in Snowden township are reported to be destroying deer at an alarming rate. One pack of some 13 have made their homes between the second and fifth concessions and are creating havoc in that area, a farmer of that district said. Farmers are organizing a wolf hunt.

"If a wolf hunt could be arranged and men took part who could walk on snowshoes and handle a rifle, there is not a shadow of doubt about their being able to bag several wolves," the farmer said.

Russell McCluney said he found a two-year-old doe recently killed by wolves with only part of the flank, the nose and throat eaten. Deer are numerous in this township but it is feared the present slaughter will whittle down their numbers seriously.

"Your loving friend," and a string of kisses.

"Let Dear Sir Neville Chamberlain be your example and try and try again to smile and be happy," wrote a mother of five in Coventry. "There is always someone somewhere willing to share our joys and sorrows, so keep your chin up Canuck."

A Lancashire lass, who confessed she was not married and thus was neither breaking laws nor hearts in writing a stranger, had this to say: "Under our apparent reserve and aloofness is a very real desire to be friendly and make you happy."

There was a letter from a private in the Imperial Army who addressed the lonely Canadian as buddy and another from a naval rating who signed off, "Your best pal in England."

Four letters came from one family in Tamworth, Staffordshire.

"Your's was a gallant deed to have joined up against your parents' wishes," a mother wrote. "Will you send me their address so I may write them."

Many scores of others merely sought to become his pen pals with the privilege of sending him an occasional parcel.

are no longer safe from their attack even when they are only sailing between neutral ports. Merchant vessels are sunk without warning, cargoes are destroyed, helpless crews are turned adrift to drown or perish of exposure, and the neutral country must not complain—though if, to save from a concentration camp 200 men illegally made prisoners, Britain commits a mere technical breach of neutrality, taking no neutral life and touching no neutral property, the Nazis vent themselves in hysterical exclamations of indignation.

We do not stand alone. During these six months of war our alliance with France has grown into a friendship and understanding so close that, as was observed after the last meeting of the Supreme War Council by M. Daladier, the two governments act and think as one.

"All France With Us"

As with the governments, so with the people. When on a recent visit to France, I had the opportunity of seeing something of that great and growing army of ours, which side by side with the magnificent soldiers of our French ally, keeps watch over the Western front.

This intimate understanding is one which must not be ended with the termination of the war, but must rather help us to work out the problems of the new Europe in an association in which we shall gladly welcome the collaboration of others.

There is another and growing source of strength to the Allied cause on which we can look with particular satisfaction and pride. Before the war it was a common belief in Germany that if this country should ever again become engaged in hostilities with her, she would not a second time enjoy the support which in 1914 she gained from the Dominions.

Well, Germany has again been gloriously disappointed; for from all parts of the Empire is coming not merely enthusiastic approval of our cause, but a steady stream of men, munitions and material which daily is adding new strength to our arms.

In London we see every day members of Canadian contingents on leave from their headquarters, and when we think that these men have travelled many thousands of miles, leaving behind their parents, wives and even young children, to cast in their lot with us against the tyranny of the aggressor, we must be profoundly impressed with the moral greatness of the cause which has inspired so intense a conviction of its righteousness.

I said just now that besides men we were receiving munitions and material from the Empire, and I the scale on which they and we are the scaleon which they and we are working. We expect, for instance, that in the first 12 months of the war we shall be spending over £100,000,000 in Canada alone.

Navy Guarantees Delivery.

And that leads me to the reflection that this tremendous advantage is ours to-day by virtue of one thing, namely, command of the sea by the Royal Navy.

In the patrol of the high seas or in such spectacular actions as the battle of the river Plata or that brilliant cutting out expedition that rang around the world last week when H. M. S. Cossack rescued some 300 British seamen from German brutality, our sailors have shown that for skill and seamanship, for doggedness and daring, they can bear comparison with the greatest sailors of the past.

Since the beginning of the war you may be surprised to know that some 50,000,000 tons of shipping have entered or cleared our ports. The convoy system which we started in the first month of the war has been so successful that out of 9,000 British, allied and neutral vessels which sailed in convoy, only two-tenths of one per cent have been lost.

Let usp ay our tribute to the reservists and volunteers of the fishing fleet who man these minesweepers for their dauntless courage and tenacity in carrying out their arduous task in the face of all the dangers that beset them of winter storms and the ruthlessness of the unscrupulous enemy.

ed all Russian technicians employed in Turkey. The Red fleet held manoeuvres in the Black Sea and defence measures were speeded in Baku on the Caspian.

Rumania, called upon by Britain to end her fence-sitting tactics while receiving Allied arms and money and the guarantee of armed help if she is invaded, banned the export of aviation gasoline to Germany and called up new army reserves.

In the West, Britain marked the approaching end of six months of conflict by shooting down several German raiding planes, sinking a few submarines, and welcoming home the heroes of the naval engagement in South American waters which saw the end of the pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee. German sea raiders succeeded, however, in sinking some 50,000 tons of merchant shipping, half of it belonging to the neutral Netherlands. H.M.S. Daring, one of the British destroyer fleet of some 200 units, was torpedoed with a loss of 157 lives.

Glancing back 25 years, the first phase of the Gallipoli campaign began on February 19, 1915, when the British and French warships bombarded forts at the Dardanelles. On the Western front the Allies attacked, while in the East, German troops penetrated Northern Poland from East Prussia.

Britain To Spend

Ribbentrop, as "destruction of this nation and domination of the world."

The next move, he said, is up to Germany.

"We have no reason to fear the result of this struggle, however long it may last," the Prime Minister declared.

Reiterating the "concrete terms" of British war aims, Mr. Chamberlain listed them as follows:

"First, independence of the Poles and Czechs must be secured. Secondly, we must have tangible evidence that will satisfy us that any pledges or assurances given will be fulfilled."

He said that "under the present German government there can be no security for the future. Its rulers have repeatedly shown that they cannot be trusted to keep their word either to foreign governments or to their own people.

"It is therefore for Germany to take the next step and to show us that she has once and for all abandoned the thesis that might is right."

France and Great Britain, Mr. Chamberlain declared, "are determined to insure security by continuance of the complete identity of purpose and policy which now unites us and which after the war will form the foundation on which international relations between our two countries are built."

Others Must Assist

However, he said, "France and Britain cannot and would not wish alone to settle the new Europe. Others must come in and help us above all to bring about disarmament which is the essential feature of lasting peace."

Ridding nations of their fear of abandoning the "power of defence," said the prime minister, "can only be a gradual process; it will probably take many years to achieve it, but once we have re-established confidence among nations in each other's good faith, we can make a beginning and each step forward will make easier the step that follows."

He held out the promise of economic aid for Germany after the war, saying, "re-establishment of confidence in Germany herself can do more than any other nation since she herself has done must to destroy it, and when she is ready to give reliable proofs of her good will, she will not find others lacking in the will to help her overcome the economic difficulties that will accompany a transition from war to peace.

"In that which I have put forward as our aims, there is nothing humiliating or oppressive for anyone."

He repeated, "The next step does not lie with us. We are resolved that freedom shall prevail, and it is because tyranny and intimidation have sought to prevail over freedom that we have entered the war.

"Until we are satisfied that freedom is safe, we shall continue to fight to the utmost of our strength and the strength of the whole empire."

Recalling that he spoke in this, his home city, nearly a year ago," just after Herr Hitler had proclaimed, in the breach of his own solemn assurances, the annexation of Bohemia and Moravia," Mr. Chamberlain asserted:—

"By that one act in March last year, Herr Hitler shattered forever any faith that remained in his pledged word and disclosed his ambition to dominate the world by force.

"That was a black moment for me, who had striven so hard to preserve peace and who had hoped against hope that if the German chancellor had broken the promises of his predecessors he would at any rate keep his own."

ernment of Canada, and to know that in matters directly affecting this constituency, and this city and county, I would have their sympathy and their support. I know that both of them would be glad to give me as the representative, all the help they could.

Ashburnham Neighbors

"I should like to say at this time that I am not forgetting the other men who have represented this constituency, E. A. Peck, K.C., who preceded Mr. Duffus. Mr. Peck was the Conservative member for some years. I like to remember that we were for years neighbors togethed in old Ashburnham, and not only Mr. Peck and myself but also our fathers, because they both lived in the old Scotch village in the early days of this community.

"The Hon. G. N. Gordon, who preceded Mr. Peck, had the distinction of winning this riding for the Liberal party at a time when its fortunes were at low ebb and who served this constituency exceedingly well. Then there was J. Hampden Burnham who displayed many fine qualities as a member of parliament, and with whom I have always had the friendliest relations.

"Going further back there was the Hon. J. R. Stratton, whom I remember with affection, because I was long and intimately associated with him in business. In fact, Mr. Stratton gave me my first and only job, and I know from our long relations that he was deeply interested in the development of this city and county. There was also the late R. R. Hall, who was a most energetic and able representative, the late James Kendry, and so on, back to James Stevenson, whom I mention because we were all recently saddened by the death of his son, Lieutenant Colonel Arthur Stevenson, who had been an exceedingly high type of citizen and is greatly missed.

Established Confidence

"I mention these men because I feel that it would be a great honor to be elected in succession to them. Nearly every one of them could have been called in his own day and generation, a Peterborough boy. They were born here and grew up here. They won the confidence of the people, and that confidence was shown in the trust the people placed in them, by electing them to represent them in the parliament of Canada. These recollections tend to make one realize the importance of an occasion like this, because it is a Peterborough tradition coming down through the years to this hour and this election, and it makes me hope that if I am elected as they were, that I shall try to give a good account of my stewardship.

"My whole life has been spent in this city, and if I may say so, I know that I have many friends who are both Conservatives and Liberals. I certainly know that now because of the many urgings I have received from them during these recent days to let my name go before this convention. It has been one of the reasons why I arrived at this decision, and although you can never predict the outcome of an election, the assurance of these friends has been a great encouragement to me. I sincerely hope that I shall have their support, as I know that I shall have yours.

Many County Friends

"Although I have lived in the city, I know a great many of the farmers of this riding and am happy to consider them my friends. I met them year after year during the time I was associated with The Peterborough Examiner, when our office was located on George street. These were not only personal relationships. As manager and publisher of The Examiner, I always felt that we had a responsibility to our farming community, the great industry of agriculture, and we always tried to give it the best support we could. Those days are gone, but I am hoping at this time that they will not be forgotten by the many hundreds of people I know in the country and whom I won't be able to see between now and election day.

"I hope that in coming before the people, I may be pardoned for referring to these things in which I was engaged. I want to mention them because they were an old responsibility, as the director of a daily newspaper, which I tried to fulfil. I should like to say further, Mr. Chairman, that for many years while I was at the head of The Examiner, the editor whom I appointed was an ardent Conservative. He was known to both Liberals and Conservatives as such, and while I did not interfere with his writings, I think that on my instructions of a fair deal to both parties, it was always adhered to, and with the staff of reporters doing their work we felt the wishes of its readers of all shades of politics had been met.

"I mention these things from the past that was not so long ago because in this position of trust in which you have just placed me, I must hope for the support of the majority of the electors, and on my own behalf in coming before them, I want to remind them that I always tried to consider their interests within the bounds of what was right and what was fair play.

King's Leadership

"Now, in regard to this election, we are all of one mind on a question which I don't consider to be an issue at all. We all want to win this war, to give the best assistance we can to the Mother land. I have every confidence in our Prime Minister, the Right Honorable Mackenzie King. I trust him especially because I consider him a great statesman and a great man, and that quality is shown by the fact that he has surrounded himself with some of the outstanding men of ability that Canada has to offer to its people, such men as the Hon. Ernest Lapointe, the Minister of Justice, who commands the respect of every Canadian who is not blinded by partisan opposition; such men as Colonel Ralston, the Minister of Finance, the Hon. Norman Rogers, Minister of National Defense, the Hon. C. D. Howe, Minister of Transport, and so on down the list. I consider that they have done exceedingly well in placing Canada on a military basis in so short a time.

"However, I shall not say anything further on this subject at present. If I am elected, I shall do the best I can to represent this riding, to represent the people as a whole, and to assist the government in carrying out the successful prosecution of the war.

Ontario Session Prorogues; Campaign On

TORONTO, Feb. 24. — (CP) — Fourth session of Ontario's 20th Legislature will be prorogued today and the 90 members moved into the federal election campaign they had so large a part in causing.

The House finished its business yesterday, but it had to meet today in order that the committee inquiring into administration of timber resources might finish hearing the evidence. Had the House prorogued yesterday, the committee would have died.

The Liberal government of Premier Mitchell Hepburn had a scanty legislative program. Some of it was dropped, some was modified and some passed without change. But it wasn't the legislative program but debate on Canada's war policy that put the Legislature into national and international news.

Liberals Ruling Too Long Manion Claims

EDMONTON, Feb. 24.—(CP)—A charge that the Liberal Government of Prime Minister Mackenzie King was interpreting criticisms of its actions as attacks on the country was left with Albertans today by Conservative Leader Manion.

"This simply proves that the King Government has been in power too long and they are confusing Canada with themselves," Dr. Manion told a near capacity crowd in a 1,500-seat theatre (Empire) here last night.

Answering a statement of Justice Minister Lapointe that "Mr. Manion and his henchmen that "Mr. Manion belittle our country," the Conservative leader asserted. "It would be an ill day for our country if its reputation is confused with the reputation of the King Government."

Dr. Manion left immediately after the meeting for Winnipeg where he

Phone Lines Cut Turkey To Hungary

BUDAPEST, Feb. 24 — (AP). — Telephone communication with Turkey, broken "somewhere in Turkey," Thursday, still had not been restored by mid-morning today.

Telegrams were received yesterday from Istanbul, however, and advices from there last night said that snow and high winds had made both telephone and telegraph communications spasmodic.

As the period of rupture in the telephone system lengthened, a fever of speculation seized southeastern Europeans.

The peak of excitement was reached in Athens and Belgrade where citizens gathered on street corners discussed rumors of "Turkey's general mobilization," only one of the many rumors sweeping southeastern Europe. There was, however, no confirmation of such reports in official quarters.

Advices from Turkey meanwhile told of even more troubles on top of recurring earthquakes and cold. Following torrential rains in southern Antolia, the River Seysan overflowed its banks, inundating large cotton areas and threatening to engulf a town.

Holland Carries Brunt Of Ship Losses for Week

LONDON, Feb. 24 — (CP). — Netherlands shipping suffered severely in the week ending February 23, German submarines and mines sinking more than 25,000 tons of that country's ships as against 16,006 tons lost by the British Merchant Marine. Norwegian losses also were heavy.

One German ship of 5,805 tons was scuttled and is listed as sunk in the following summary. Three other German vessels were captured by British warships before they could sink themselves and were brought to British ports.

The week's sinkings:

Nation'y	No. Ships	Ton'ge
Netherlands	5	25,520
British	3	16,008
Norwegian	5	11,561
German	1	5,805
Greek	1	4,917
Swedish	2	3,172
Spanish	1	2,140

Nazi Fliers Skirt Edge Of Paris

PARIS, Feb. 24.—(AP)—French military dispatches today reported five squadrons of German scouting war planes had penetrated deep into France, some reaching the outskirts of Paris.

British and French planes also carried out reconnaissance missions, the dispatches said.

The French took many photographs over Germany, the dispatches added, while British planes patrolled the North Sea. No encounters were reported.

This morning's French communique said only, "Nothing to report."

BERLIN, Feb. 24 —(AP)— The German communique today said: "In the west, the day passed quietly.

"French airplanes frequently flew over the German west border, but were forced to turn back by German anti-aircraft fire and pursuit planes.

"A number of planes entered France for reconnaissance at numerous places and encountered strong enemy anti-aircraft fire and defending pursuit planes. Nevertheless, our planes were able to carry out missions and return to home airports without losses."

Ontario Pays Architect $165,638 In Six Years

TORONTO, Feb. 24 — (CP) — W. L. Somerville, Hamilton architect, has been paid $165,638 by the Ontario Government since the present administration came into office in 1934, it was revealed to-day in questions answered in the Legislature Votes and Proceedings.

Among the fees paid were $126,804 for preparing the working drawings for the new Ontario Hospital near St. Thomas, $36,044 for work on the architectural restoration of Fort Henry at Kingston (50 per cent. being paid by the Dominion Government). Restoration of the Fort cost $831,865, divided equally between the Province and the Dominion.

Answer to another question said special features of the new Henley Bridge at St. Catharines, commemorating the Royal Visit, cost $49,704 (the Federal Government sharing it).

Last Minute News Flashes

TORONTO.—Dan Kelly's Toronto Granites today became the first rink ever to win the Ontario Bonspiel grand aggregate twice in succession when they defeated O. T. Dudley's Toronto Curling Club quartette 10-8 in the Royal York trophy semi-finals. With the final still to play, Kellys' stanemen have compiled 12 wins against two losses.

TORONTO, Feb. 24. — (CP) — The rules committee of the Canadian Rugby Union extended the zone of interference from three to five yards ahead of the scrimmage line at its annual meeting today, but made the alteration contingent upon book by the Western Interprovincial acceptance of the entire C.R.U. rule Union.

Storm Blankets South Ontario

TORONTO, Feb. 24 — (CP). — Heaviest fall of the year in some districts, a snowstorm struck Southern Ontario to-day blocking anew many roads with a fresh covering of from two to five inches. The general forecast was for colder weather to-night and to-morrow with scattered snowflurries.

Main highways and roads were kept open by huge motor-driven ploughs, but in the rural districts the fresh snow again gave call to the horse and cutter as the most popular means of transportation.

Meanwhile, hundreds of ski enthusiasts throughout the province prepared for what may be the last perfect week-end for the sport.

With the weather generally mild, western Ontario reported a snowfall of from three to five inches. The forecast called for sleet or rain before the thermometers take a downward course. Driving conditions in the Niagara peninsula were the worst in many days. The blizzard struck while remnants of a storm earlier this week were not yet removed from streets and highways. The three-inch snowfall covered icy ruts on roads and traffic was slowed down considerably.

All provincial snow-clearing crews in Western Ontario were ordered out in an effort to speed up the usual heavy weekend traffic. The highways department said little trouble was expected unless the weather turns stormy.

Between three and four inches of snow fell in Central Ontario. In Toronto, with the thermometer hovering at freezing point, downtown streets were wet and slushy. In the residential district, however, the snow did not melt and city crews and householders aided in clearing sidewalks and roadways.

Oshawa Curlers Capture Series

LINDSAY, Feb. 24.—Oshawa curlers won the Brew Carew Cup here last night in the second round, when Lindsay rinks failed to gain more than 10 point son Oshawa's majority of 25 in the first round at Oshawa recently. The game here tonight was the second round in the annual match between the Lindsay and Oshawa clubs, the latter club being entertained following the match.

Havelock Teacher Resigns Position

HAVELOCK, Feb. 24—(ENS).—Members of the Havelock public school board at a special meeting last night in the school building, moved acceptance of the resignation tendered by Miss M. L. Roche, a valued member of the teaching staff. Miss Roche, who has taught in the junior rooms here for the past four years, will conclude her duties on March 16th.

Chairman Bernard Smith was authorized to advertise for a new teacher, whose duties will commence immediately following the Easter holidays.

Present at the meeting were Chairman Smith and Trustees, D. Anderson, P. T. Greenley, G. Whitney, H. W. Roche, and J. Covert.

Greater Zone Of Interference Is Sought In Rules Of Canadian Rugby

TORONTO, Feb. 24 — (CP). — At stake in the annual meeting of the Canadian Rugby Union today was the national football final, which has become the greatest of outdoor Canadian sports attractions.

Joe Ryan, manager of Winnipeg's Dominion champion Blue Bombers, seeks a change in rules to allow a greater zone of interference. The Western Interprovincial Union allows a 10-yard interference zone, while the C.R.U. rules provide for no more than three yards of interference ahead of the scrimmage line. Ryan probably would settle for a five-yard zone.

Two years ago the C.R.U. shelved until 1940 the matter of whether the West should be allowed to continue sending a team to the national final after playing under a different set of rules all season, in violation of the National organization's constitution.

W. C. Foulds, chairman of the rules committee, said that the matter of a change hinges upon the question of whether a greater zone of interference would curtail too greatly the use of the lateral pass—"The essence of the Canadian game."

Biblical Thoughts For The Shut-Ins By Rev. E. R. James

WHAT DO YOU THINK OF BREAD?

Jesus answered the Devil, saying: It is written that man shall not live by bread alone but by every Word of God. St. Luke 4: 4.

The Lord Jesus chose twelve plain, everyday men that "they might be with Him." He was attracted to them and they to Him. They obeyed the call. They saw and heard and were fascinated by His gentleness, His patience and above all by His purity of character. They looked into His clear eyes and "beheld His glory." Then the thought entered into their minds. He of all men cannot suffer temptation; He is free from every suggestion of the flesh or the pride of life. The Devil himself cannot tempt Him with his wiles. So He, "Who knew what was in man," told them the story of His three great temptations in the wilderness. He was truly tempted and tested by the Devil, that evil personality whose mind is full of animosity towards God. We stand upon holy ground as we ponder upon Our Lord's temptations. Every generation finds fresh light in these simple words and receives encouragement to face their problems and difficulties.

Why did He go into the wilderness immediately after His baptism? To ponder upon the new revelation that came to Him in the river Jordan. The Father assures Him that He is His beloved Son. What did it mean? He is the Son of God, the Messiah, the Christ, the annointed of God, the expectation of His people. In the quietness of the wilderness He decides upon the principles of His ministry. That is why He gives a ready answer to every question and problem facing Him in the days of His ministry.

Both Evangelists place this temptation as the first. His mind has been full of His great mission and bodily hunger is forgotten. At the end He discovers He is hungry and starving.

"COMMAND THAT THIS STONE BE MADE BREAD." "If Thou be the Son of God" is the dominating thought. Yes. Truly He is a man, bone of our bone and flesh of our flesh. He is subject to hunger. There is an ancient promise: Thy bread and Thy water shall be assured Thee."

One thought stands out definitely for our mediation. The Devil implies that the Son of God should claim immunity from pain, hunger and suffering. He is the well beloved Son why then should the Father forsake Him and leave Him hungry and starving? You will remember how the Lord in His sermon on the Mount says: "What man of you, if his son ask for a loaf shall give him a stone?" Probably His thoughts go back to this first temptation. Our Lord refuses to turn the stone into bread; refuses to provide for Himself; to use His power for His own satisfaction. He refuses to doubt His Father's care of Him. He is sure the Father will provide the necessary strength for His work.

This is an age when men think of pain and suffering as the greatest of evils. We fear pain, sickness and suffering more than our fathers did. It is the popular ides that the man who is a faithful Christian should be free from pain, suffering and trouble.

When a sorrow comes into your life; when anxiety grips your mind, the tempter is at your elbow with the question: "Why does not the loving Father care more for you?" How often you have heard the expression of sympathy by neighbors who say they cannot understand why such troubles come to such a good man. It is a popular idea that the follower of Christ should expect and receive immunity and freedom from pain and suffering. Our Lord never promised this. "In the world ye shall have tribulations, but be of good cheer, I have overcome the world."

This Scripture is written for our admonition in righteousness. What do you think about bread? Is it your first and basic thought in life? A Canadian economist, a member of the advisory board of the Bank of England, offers his confession: "Christians have been in recent years all together too forgetful of the Christian doctrine that man cannot live by bread alone. Bread in the sense of the whole mass of material things of which it is the sign and symbol has been too much their sole pre-occupation." Such testimony encourages us in these dark days.

The writer met a barber a short time ago who had lost all his money in the financial crash ten years ago. With deep conviction the barber said: "Money is not everything." He had made the great discovery. Have you? This is the ancient Psalmist's opinion of prosperity: "The Lord gave them their desire, but sent leanness withal into their souls."

WHAT SHALL IT PROFIT A MAN IF HE GAIN THE WHOLE WORLD AND LOSE HIS OWN SOUL?

Highlights Of S.S. Lesson

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Feb. 25 is Matthew 24, 25, the Golden Text being Matthew 25:21, "Well done, good and faithful servant.")

STEWARDS in the kingdom is the subject of today's lesson. How, in other words, should we live and act during our lives so that we can be sure we are worthy to be classed among the righteous when the Lord comes again in glory.

You will remember that at the close of the last lesson Jesus wept over Jerusalem, prophesying its ruin and mourning that its people would not accept His message. In the beginning of today's lesson Jesus and His disciples went out of the temple, and in spite of all Jesus had told them of things to come, they wanted to show Him the various buildings and have Him admire them. Jesus reproved them, saying, "See ye not all these things? verily I say unto you, There shall not be left one stone upon another, that shall not be thrown down."

The disciples were curious about these sayings, and when He sat upon the Mount of Olives, from which He had a fine view of Jerusalem, they came to Him and asked Him privately, "Tell us, when shall these things be? and what shall be the sign of Thy coming, and of the end of the world?"

Jesus then told them of many things that would happen—famines, pestilences, wars. Many false prophets would appear, and many would believe these, but His true followers would not be deceived, but would go on steadfastly doing their duty and waiting until He, the Lord of All, should appear. We have not room here to repeat His prophecies and tell of all Jesus told these humble followers of His.

Tells Parables

To Jesus the disciples must have seemed like children, and He made His meaning clear to them by way of parables, which symbolized what He expected of them when He should have gone.

We must always be ready for the coming. He tells us in the parable of the ten virgins who were to go to the wedding feast. We are told that they must have been girl friends of the bride and were bidden to be present at the wedding feast. None knew when the bridegroom would come, so the virgins provided themselves with lamps. Five of the virgins—those who were wise—took oil in vessels for their lamps; but the foolish ones took no oil. All slept until the cry was made, "Behold, the bridegroom cometh; go ye out to meet him!" Then the virgins trimmed their lamps and the wise ones filled theirs with oil and lighted them; but the foolish tried to borrow oil from the others, but were told that they had only enough for themselves. Then the virgins hastened to the merchants to get oil, but when they returned the bridegroom had come, and the gates were locked against them. "Lord, open to us," they cried, but He said, "Verily, I say unto you, I know ye not." Watch, therefore, Jesus said, for ye know neither the day nor the hour wherein the Son of Man cometh.

Parable of Talents

The parable of the ten talents is then told. Talents were worth a great deal of money. This parable likened the kingdom of heaven to a man who traveled to a far country. Calling his servants he gave five talents to the first, two to the second, and one to the third, according to his ability. Then he went away. When he came back after a long time, the man who had been give five talents had five more, ten in all, for him; and likewise the man who had two talents had doubled them. But the man who had only had one talent, had buried it in the garden and now brought it, probably corroded and thus worth less. To the first two the master said, "Well done, good and faithful servant; thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will make thee ruler over many things: enter thou into the joy of thy lord." But as to him who had had but one talent and who had made nothing, he was cast into outer darkness.

In the day of judgment, "When the Son of Man shall come in His glory," He shall say to those on His right hand, "I was a-hungered, and ye gave Me meat; I was thirsty, and ye gave Me drink; I was a stranger, and ye took Me in; naked, and ye clothed Me; I was sick, and ye visited Me; I was in prison, and ye came unto Me." And they shall say, "Lord, when saw we Thee a-hungered, and fed Thee? or thirty, and gave Thee drink? When saw we Thee a stranger, and took Thee in? or naked, and clothed Thee? Or when saw we Thee sick, or in prison, and came unto Thee?"

And the King shall answer and say unto them, "Verily I say unto you, Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these My brethren, ye have done it unto Me."

We are the "Stewards in the kingdom." So should we live that we will have no fear of whatever may befall us, even the Day of Judgment.

Parish Attempts Settlement

CLEVELAND, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Lay leaders in the Holy Redeemer Catholic Church, under interdict for refusal to recognize a new pastor, Friday called a meeting "to try to settle the dispute in a peaceful manner."

Meanwhile Archbishop Joseph Schrembs announce dthe parishioners who prevented installation of the pastor must make "unqualified submission" to authority and fulfil four other conditions to be absolved of the interdict.

"We would like to have a meeting with the Archbishop to settle the dispute peacefully," said Tony Capasso, a church counciliman. "At the beginning all but three of the 1,300 families in the parish joined in the protest. They are cooling off now. They are faithful people."

Monsignor Floyd Begin, officials of the Cleveland diocese, orally invoked the interdict last Sunday at the height of a demonstration at the east side Italian-American church.

The interdict denies sacraments and sacramentals of the church to all parishioners above 14 years of age except when in danger of death. There are approximately 1,100 families in the parish.

In the formal interdict published today the archbishop declares those "responsible for resisting ecclesiastical authority" may be absolved from personal interdict on five conditions.

They must, 1. Present themselves to the prelate or his delegate; 2. Make "unqualified submission" in writing to ecclesiastical and civil authority, 3. Be "truly sorry for their sin and promise to repair as far as in them lies the scandal created by their action"; 4. Give information usually sought in a parish census, and 5. Receive in writing evidence of absolution and permission to confess their sins "and be fully restored to their rights as Catholics."

Trial Of Jesus Sermon Topic

Jesus at Pilate's judgment seat will be the title of a lenten address in St. Andrew's church on next Sunday night.

We might reverse the title if we chose and say "Pilate at Jesus' Judgment Seat" because Pilate has been judged by more people than Jesus. The judgment of Pilate has often been unfair. A good case could be made out in his favor. We have often derided his cowardice where we should have spoken of his courage. He really tried to set Jesus free by every means in his power. That power was limited by his past misdeeds it is true, but recognising that limitation we must admit that he put up a splendid fight to liberate one who he knew to be innocent of crime. Next to Jesus we say that Pilate came out of the conflict better than any other individual who was in the Practorium that day.

It is interesting to note Pilate's superstition, it comes out when the priests accuse Jesus of saying that he was the Son of God, and when his wife sent him the message that she believed that Jesus was a righteous man.

His appeal to compassion it is true showed his lack of judgment as regards the brutality of human nature. We are mightily moved by the picture "Ecce Koneo" but the mob was only angered by the helpless man. They had brought about his terrible scourging, and history shows that once brutal treatment has been begun, there is no drawing back.

KILLING A DOG

PITSBURG, Feb. 24 — (AP). — In a four-hour chase that had touches of the old "wild west" days, a scope of policemen and some 50 shouting civilians last night ran down and killed a dog, believed mad, which bit 18 persons.

More than 50 shots were fired at the animal by its pursuers.

As cries of "mad dog" were broadcast, citizens armed with any weapon at hand—ranging from baseball bats to shotguns—left their homes to join firemen and patrolmen racing after the fleet animal, which left women and children bitten and screaming in its path.

Eire's new campaign for the planting of more acres has caused the greatest demand for farm horses in many years.

To conserve domestic stocks of goods, government control is being extended over industry and agriculture in the Netherlands.

Stewards in the Kingdom — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON — By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Matthew 24, 25

When Jesus left the temple at Jerusalem, His disciples wanted to show Him the buildings, but He said, "See ye not all these things? Verily I say unto you, 'There shall not be left here one stone upon another that shall not be thrown down'."

Jesus sat upon the Mount of Olives and His disciples gathered around Him and asked Him concerning His second coming: "Tell us when shall these things be? And what shall be the sign of Thy coming and of the end of the world?" they asked Him.

Regarding the life they should lead before His coming, Jesus told them parables, one concerning the virgins, five wise and five foolish who were bidden to a wedding. The wise took oil for their lamps, but the foolish took no oil, and all slept.

When the bridegroom came, the wise virgins were ready with burning lamps, but the foolish ones went to buy oil, and while they were gone, the bridegroom came and the door was shut, and they were left outside.

Britain Argues Well

The British Foreign Office has rejected the protest of Washington regarding the seizure of German exports. The matter has been hanging fire for several weeks, during which time there have been a series of draft replies drawn and revised in order that the final answer might be a well-reasoned one. And it was.

The argument advanced is based on the general premise that Britain has the right of retaliation. That right is claimed because:

—Germany has violated the declaration of Paris (1856) by sinking Allied and neutral ships regardless of the nature, ownership or destination of their cargoes.

—Germany has repeatedly disregarded the nature of the submarine protocol under which as late as 1936 she undertook not to sink merchant ships without providing for their crews.

—Germany has violated the Eighth Hague Convention of 1907 which bound her not to lay mines without giving notice where they were laid.

Facing warfare of that kind, what are the Allies to do? Germany has disregarded all the rules of warfare at sea, so how can United States claim that Britain should abide by a code which the enemy has scrapped?

With considerable patience it seems to us Britain declares that her warfare is directed solely and only against German trade, and not against that of any neutral. She neither sinks nor mines vessels of countries which are not at war.

The British note goes as far as to express sympathy with the protest of United States that her trade is being affected, but how could it possibly be otherwise?

War is hell and there is no use trying to make it look any more pleasant. Germany will attack and sink any neutral vessel which is suspected of carrying cargo to Britain or France, and in that way Germany is actually attacking Britain through the neutrals.

United States has much to say about keeping out of the war. Herbert Hoover for instance seems obsessed with the idea that keeping out of the war is as sacred a piece of business as the Declaration of Independence. But United States is in the world if it is not in the war, and when the world is shaken by war United States cannot expect to go on its even way undisturbed. The States is receiving tremendous war orders, and Washington amended its Neutrality Law in order that such orders might be accepted. It is assuming much —far too much—to claim the country should enjoy the free and open ocean traffic of peace years and the profits of war orders at the same time.

It does seem that London has been very patient in framing its answer. The argument is sound; there is a disposition to speak carefully and wisely regarding the whole outlook. But back of it all there is a nicely formed answer to the protest from Washington and it is a plain—NO.

Hitler Started It

If the hundreds and thousands of Russian bombs which have been rained upon Finland had been whining their course to German homes and hospitals and schools it would be easier to believe there was justice in the world.

That's not merely a jaundiced expression of prejudice, but a plain fact. Figure it out and see.

There was no war between Russia and Finland before Hitler and von Ribbentrop made an alliance with Stalin and Molotoff at Moscow. The people of Finland may have been apprehensive because war had broken close at hand, in Poland, but there was neither cause nor reason to fear that the conflict was going to spread to their land.

It was not until Hitler drove through Poland and touched Stalin into action to come and take his share of the spoils that Moscow sent soldiers outside her own boundaries.

Hitler actually gave Stalin the shove-off into aggression, and that is so true and so easily proved that there's no use arguing about it.

If it had not been for Hitler going into a huddle with Stalin the people of Finland would probably be going about their business as usual today. The tragedy of the whole business is that grief and death and suffering has been visited upon Finland instead of on the man who was back of the whole scheme — Hitler.

Those Gaps In The Street

Our neighboring village of Warkworth had a bad enough fire in its business section, and the question at once suggests itself: Will the destroyed premises be rebuilt?

We can think of a number of towns and villages in various parts of our province which have those blank spaces, looking somewhat the same as the individual who has lost two or three teeth in front. The trouble in a good many places is to get them filled in again.

As a rule the business section of most of our towns and villages, and the same goes for many cities, was built a number of years ago when material and labor were cheaper than they are today. They could not be replaced for anything like the value at what they had been held. If new and equally adequate premises were erected the carrying costs would place quite a strain on the business occupying the places.

Warkworth will face that problem, and the solution does not appear to be in sight at the moment. Apparently with the equipment they had and with the help of Campbellford the fire fighters did well but those gaps in the street remain just the same. And that always leaves that hard-to-answer question: What are they going to do about it?

Peterborough West

An Examiner reader seeks information about the political history of Peterborough West. (1) Has there been any change made in the boundaries of this riding since Confederation, and (2) have the Liberals or Conservatives won the most contests.

With slight changes Peterborough West remains about the same as at the time of Confederation.

1867—Perry, C.	29
1872—J. Bertram, L.	40
1874—Bertram, L.	91
1878—G. Hilliard, C.	197
1884—Hilliard, C.	160
1887—J. Stevenson, C.	16
1891—Stevenson, C.	232
1896—J. Kendry, C.	313
1900—Kendry, C.	351
1904—R. R. Hall, L.	187
1908—J. R. Stratton, L.	333
1911—J. H. Burnham, C.	42
1917—Burnham, C.	3,418
1921—G. N. Gordon, L.	2,158
1925—E. A. Peck, C.	1,963
1926—Peck, C.	2,100
1930—Peck, C.	1,761
1935—J. J. Duffus, L.	1,685
—By-election:
1921—G. N. Gordon, L.	1,284

It is recorded in the Parliamentary Guide that although Mr. Bertram was elected at the general election of 1872 he never took his seat, as the returning officer returned Wm. Cluxton (Cons.) as elected, and he sat from March, 1873, to November 7, 1873. The House dissolved January 2, 1874.

So since Confederation in 18 elections and one by-election the record has been:

Conservatives	11
Liberals	7
Union Govt., 1917	1

E. A. Peck, K.C., held the riding for the Conservatives for the longest period of any one member, from 1925 to 1935.

As It Was On The Tenth

There was a clinic meeting in New York the other day, and doctors presented papers and discussed them. From one learned man there was something which looked like a warning to people to quit doctoring themselves. It was couched in nice language, but the meaning was plain. Just this:

"Always when it comes toward spring we find people who are ready to experiment with a series of old family treatments. Tradition dictates that the spring is the time when something is needed. High hope is the greatest ingredient in such treatment and people will undoubtedly do themselves more harm than good."

Possibly when a number of doctors are herded together in so great a city as New York they feel stronger than when they are spread about in their own bailiwicks. As a rule we get along fairly well with doctors and other people, but this man in New York stepped too far over the line. It does seem he stuck out his chin asking for it.

Spring and its coming was always regarded on the Tenth Concession as the time for home dosing. Sulphur and molasses, tonic and camphor bags. That's how we knew for sure that Spring was coming. The snow might be piled deep in the lane, and the time when the speckled hen would find a place to dust inside the drive shed door might be quite a piece off, but when the dosing started Spring was on the way, and it was coming with the speed and certainty of a Russian division headed for home from Finland.

We never asked many questions about it because at that time the juniors of the tribe were supposed to take a good deal for granted. The wisdom of the elders was the observed and recognized standard. It was something like eating what was set before you on the plate and asking no questions.

In a general way we were given to understand that during the winter months the system had become somewhat run down. How, where or when or to what extent we were never told. The sulphur and molasses and the home-made iron tonic were supposed to run it up again, and a person was supposed to reach top shape before the time of potato planting on the 24th of May. The duration of the treatment was indefinite, although there were some who held that sulphur and molasses should be taken until one could shake his socks over the kitchen range and see the sulphur sparkle when it hit the stove.

Then there was the little muslin bag filled with camphor which was tied with a string about the neck like an identification disc. People on the Tenth recognized the prevalence of germs, and that little bag of camphor was to fight 'em. True enough we cannot recall ever having seen a germ on the Tenth, but like as not they were there. Every boy and girl attending the red school a mile and a-quarter east of Lot 4 was camphorized in the Spring. There was something about camphor which was hard on germs. We all drank from the same tin cup chained to the school pump and that was probably a regular clearing house for germs; you'd probably get rid of some and pick up some others in exchange.

We'd like to tell that militant doctor in New York that on the Tenth we did a whole lot of self-doctoring. The doctor was eight miles away in the village and there was no telephone to call him. That's why we had to fortify our own systems, become aggressive regarding our run-down constitutions and assume an attitude of defiance toward germ life in general. The folk never waited for sickness to strike the first blow; when the calendar said it was near the first of April the fight was on.

That doctor in New York is probably very good in his way; possibly he has studied hard and learned much, but we are not inclined to sit still while he attacks the general principle of people doing their own doctoring. The open secrets of the Tenth are probably a closed book to him, and possibly he would scoff at sulphur and molasses and smile tolerantly about wearing a little bag of camphor strung around the neck. But as we recall it doctors' bills never did run up to much on the Tenth where people attended to their ailments before they had a chance to strike root and stay a while.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Report from London, Ont., tells of three being arrested for theft, and the sad part is that the ages are given as 18, 16 and 18.

PUZZLED

(By A.R.K.)

¶ Alfalfa worries much I fear, at times she acts a trifle queer, and it begins to show; her last year's boy's still on her hand, and she can't come to understand, just why he is so slow.

¶ Alfalfa now is twenty-four, of years to hope she has few more, at least that's what I have heard; and even if it's Leap Year now, she can't just figure when or how, to make him say the word.

¶ He steady as a lad can be, all that is plain enough to see, about three nights a week; nor is he flighty in his way, in fact I'd be inclined to say, that he ranks rather meek.

¶ You'd think her house was like his home, they sit there hour on hour alone, he soaks up heat and rest; Alfalfa gets a lunch for him, nor does she cut things small or thin, she stokes him with the best.

¶ He takes her here, he takes her there, they're seen together everywhere, he often brings her things; with him she looks in windows too, where he can get a splendid view — of large engagement rings.

¶ Alfalfa's puzzled that I know, because her little man is slow, so something must be done; he's clogged the line for others too, until he says just what he'll do—no other dudes will come.

He's Ready To Plead Guilty To Treason

WHEN a man writes something it goes on record where he can be held accountable for it afterward. It was so in the case of Oswald Garrison Villard, an American writer and somewhat of a pacifist in general outlook. He wrote one article on his return from Europe and the complaint was that he had sold out to the British. His reply to that is nicely worded and has within it a depth of human emotion. We quote:

"I am guilty of another crime—at least so I am told. I had thought there wasn't another in all the category of wrongdoing which could possibly be attributed to me of which I had not already been declared guilty by somebody. Now it appears that I have sold out to the British, that I have been taken into camp by them—all because I have been praised and flattered for having published in London a certain article that gave pleasure to large numbers of people. Some warm friends have told me that I have become "much too friendly" to the British and have asked what the reason is.

Well, here is my explanation. In the first place, I have been in Germany and seen the Nazis in their stronghold, and after that I am prepared to embrace the Patagonians. In the next place, having something that might be described as human sympathy and perhaps even understanding of people, I was profoundly moved by the bearing of the British masses when the war came. I was in England at the time. My emotions were stirred. Why should they not have been, and why should I not have expressed those emotions on leaving the country.

The words of mine that appealed to many persons were in praise of the plain people who are England. I said that there would always be with me hereafter "the quiet faces of those without uniforms, without titles, the plain people who carry on; who have nothing—yet if they have sons everything—to lose; who must pay and pay, for these are England—the England that must be made free of war, free of fear, free of injustice — for them after the war must be built the England that is to come, better and finer than ever before." If that spells surrendering to the powers that be in Great Britain, to the specially privileged, I must indeed plead guilty to having been taken into camp.

Of course I have not changed my pacifist position. Of course I have not taken back one word of the many criticisms that I have written in past decades about British imperialism. I said freely in England that this war was the result of a contest beween idiocy on one hand and insanity on the other; that I thought 40 per cent of the blame for it rested squarely upon the last three British Prime Ministers. But all that is now over the dam. Whether they wished it or not, and many of them did not wish it, the rulers of England have actually come to occupy a position where they are defending everything that is decent in the life of nations.

The faces of those quiet English people continue to come back to me; they are my chief concern. I feel akin to them since half of my ancestry is purely British. They have their caste system, their lords and ladies. They have not yet seen to it that full justice is done to Ireland. Still, these are the people whom I would do anything—short of war—to help preserve. If this be treason; if this means that I have been purchased by the friendliness of my treatment in England, please make the most of it.

THE "NIGH" HORSE

Those living on the farm can suit themselves about reading this paragraph, because it may not contain anything they do not already know. It so happened in Mitchell Tuesday a young farmer was asked what was meant by the terms "nigh" horse and "off" horse, in reference to a team at work on the plow. He answered immediately by saying that the "off" horse was the horse which traveled in the furrow which was being plowed, while the "nigh" horse was the one which was on the left. The "nigh" horse is the same as the "haw" horse, while the "off" horse on the right is the same as the "gee" side of the combination.

"It is also interesting to know where that term originated, too," said the young farmer. He explained that in the days when a team of oxen was used to do the plowing on the rough land, the farmer walked alongside the animal on the left, with his whip which reached over to the ox on the right side. Apparently in those days it was quite a job to keep the team going straight and the farmer would do a good deal of talking to the ox on the left side, or the one right beside him, the phrase finally coming down to "nigh." The one farthest away from him soon got to be known as the "off" one of the team. So there you are. If there are other versions, let's hear about them. —Stratford Beacon-Herald.

MAGINOT MEDAL

MR. BEVERLEY BAXTER, M.P., who has been on a speaking tour to R.A.F. units in France, has returned with a medal. He did not get it for oratory or any feat of arms, but because he visited one of the forts in the Maginot Line. It is the custom of the Fort Commandant to honor his guests by pinning on them the medal as a souvenir.

It carries the famous words "On ne passe pas!" in memory of Verdun. In fact, it is the boast of the French that "Sergeant Maginot" has given them 200 Verduns.

The medal is much sought after in France as the number of French civilians who have been granted the privilege of visiting the Line is very small.—London Sunday Times.

• Life As It Goes On In Germany

FOREIGNERS who have recently returned from Germany all agree that the German people are now almost completely cut off from news and views from the outside world, and have little or no means of forming a critical judgment of the conduct of the war and its rights and wrongs. People in more or less sheltered positions, such as heads of important business firms still indulge in the forbidden pastime of listening to foreign broadcasts, but the masses do not dare. The postal service is strictly controlled. Foreign newspapers are scarcely to be had except those in languages which few people can read. For a while the Swiss papers were the chief resource of the independent minded, but these are now taboo. A final blow to the entry of information from abroad has now been given by the restrictions imposed on cross-frontier traffic, and the cutting down of all long-distance passenger traffic on the railways in the interests of fuel and food transport.

"Mein Kampf" Revised

The new expurgated edition of "Mein Kampf," with the Fuehrer's great thoughts about Russia and Bolshevism carefully extracted, is now available. It has been published in a pocket edition suitable for distribution to soldiers at the front. This new soldiers' handbook is said by the German News Agency to be extremely popular with the troops. With this edition the sale of "Mein Kampf" is said to have passed 5,950,000.

Our Plutocrats At Play

The Angriff has recently made great play with hotel advertisements taken from English newspapers, reproduced under the headline "Mask of Plutocracy." It refers to the "complete lack of conscience and boundless lust for pleasure of the British ruling caste." These people are said to pay never less than 50s. a day for a bed-room, and to enjoy not only whisky and champaigne, but also morphia, heroin and opium. The Angriff is particularly shocked that hotels should mention that they have air-raid shelters, and begins its peroration thus: "In face of such shamelessness, publicly paraded in the English Press, every comment is superfluous and it is this corrupt caste which wants to shatter the German worker and his Socialism."

Murders By Police

Himmler, the Chief of the German Police, has announced that Victor Meyer, 30, of Berlin, and Max Gross, 22, of Munich, have been "shot for offering resistance"—the latest Nazi euphemism for murder out of hand by Himmler's police. This is not the first time that Himmler has announced summary shootings by his police, and it may safely be assumed that the number of such murders considerably exceeds the number of announcements.

Polish Labor

According to reports from Berlin to Danish newspapers, there are still 340,000 Polish "prisoners of war" in Germany. It is expected that another 100,000 Polish workers will be moved from Poland to work in labor camps. Several thousands of prisoners have been distributed among German farmers, while 6,000 are working in Berlin in the building industry or on the streets, engaged in jobs like shovelling snow. The placing of single Poles on the farms has resulted in some misunderstandings among those who do not understand the Nazi outlook. Out of sympathy with his Polish prisoner, who worked with him in the fields, one farmer permitted him to eat at the same table as his family. The farmer was arrested for this offence and sentenced to several months' imprisonment.—London Times.

SIGNIFICANT

THERE'S another good story going the rounds that Russell T. Kelley of Hamilton tells as a warning against continuous passing of the buck.

A farmer had an ox and a mule. One night the ox grew tired of pulling the plow after a long, hard day and informed the mule that it intended playing sick. The next morning, the ox moaned and groaned when the farmer appeared and the farmer fed it bran mash, bedded it down in soft straw and placed a blanket over it. Then the farmer harnessed the poor mule and made it pull the plow all day. That night the ox was elated.

"I'm going to pull the same stunt tomorrow," it told the mule. "There's no use working if you don't have to."

And so the next morning, the ox played up sick again and the farmer fed it bran mash, bedded it down nicely and blanketed it. This went on for several days with the poor old mule continuing to pull the heavy plow unaided. One night the ox became inquisitive.

"How's everything going?" it asked the mule.

"It's tough pulling," the mule replied.

"Did the farmer say anything about me today?" pursued the ox.

"No, he didn't say anything about you," answered the mule, "but he stopped and had a long talk with the butcher."—By Hank, in St. Thomas Times-Journal.

ODDITIES IN ENGLISH

WHEN the English tongue we speak, why is "break" not rimed "freak"? Will you tell me why it's true we say "sew," but likewise "few"? And the maker of a verse cannot rime his "horse" with "worse." "Beard" sound not the same as "heard"; "cord" is different from "word"; "cow" is cow, but "low" is low; "shoe" is never rimed with "foe."

Think of "hose" and "dose" and "lose"; and think of "goose" and yet of "choose." Think of "comb" and "tomb" and "bomb," "doll" and "roll," and "home" and "some." And since "pay" is rimed with "say," why not "paid" with "said," I pray? Think of "blood" and "food" and "good"; "mould" is not pronounced like "could." Wherefore "done," but "gone" and "lone"—is there any reason known?

To sum up all, it seems to me sounds and letters don't agree.—The Kalends.

Hard To Believe How Time Flies

FEBRUARY 24

1910 Norman Payne of Dummer township has both legs broken by a falling tree

T. E. Bradburn's bill to change the municipal act in regard to bonuses for industries is rejected in the Legislature.

Judge Huycke addresses the members of the Canadian club on "Ideals of the Law."

Zoe Kincaid, former Peterborough girl, has started a magazine in Japan.

Robert Henderson is informed that the charge against him in connection with the death of aged Norwood woman has been changed to murder.

1920 Judge Huycke is elected president of the Ontario County Judges' Association.

A dental clinic for returned soldiers has been opened at the local armouries.

The finance committee of the city council recommends salary increases for city officials.

The council has granted $1,000 to the G.W.V.A. to help finance the provincial convention here.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

Therefore whosoever heareth these sayings of mine, and doeth them, I will liken him unto a wise man, which built his house upon a rock; and the rain descended, and the floods came, and the winds blew, and beat upon that house; and it fell not: for it was founded upon a rock.

And every one that heareth these sayings of mine, and doeth them not, shall be likened unto a foolish man, which built his house upon the sand: and the rain descended, and the floods came, and the winds blew, and beat upon that house; and it fell: and great was the fall of it.

And it came to pass, when Jesus had ended these sayings, the people were astonished at his doctrine: for he taught them as one having authority, and not as the scribes.—Matt. v.

His Batman

The major was inspecting a cavalry squadron somewhere in Yorkshire. Riding down the ranks, he stopped in front of one recruit and said:

"Now, my lad, have that saddle and harness brighter in the morning." Turning to the sergeant-major, he said: "See to it, sergeant-major."

The next morning the saddle and harness were still dull, so the major said: "I thought I told you to clean them for today."

The recruit answered: "No, sir, you told the sergeant-major to see to it."

Didn't Have Time

The captain of the local fire brigade entered the Pig and Whistle and ordered a half-pint of beer. The landlady looked at him in astonishment, for she had never known him order less than a pint.

Doubting whether she had heard aright she said, "Did you say half a pint, captain?"

"Why, yes," replied the fireman, "I know it's unusual, but I haven't time for a pint. I'm on my way to a fire."

WILL U.S. BE TOO LATE?

IT WAS precisely a month ago today that President Roosevelt recommended a loan for Finland. The issue has dragged along in Congress, despite the strong preponderance of favorable sentiment shown by the Senate's vote. At the end of a month, a costly month for Finland, the House has still to act. There are millions of Americans who will hold their heads higher in the future if the House acts while there is still time for its decision to count, at least as a moral influence, in Finland's fight for freedom.—New York Times.

REALISTIC SWEDES

FED UP with the talk of Communist members about the Red paradise, the Swedish Metal Workers' Union at Varberg and the Trades Union Council at Mariestadt offered free tickets to Moscow to anyone who wanted them.

There was a condition attached to the offer—the tickets were one-way, and those who took them had to agree to leave at once and stay ten years.

No one applied.—Hamilton Spectator.

Maximum Heat Requires Proper Firing

There are right ways and wrong ways to fire a boiler or furnace, says the Canadian Institute of Plumbing and Heating. For instance, if thick black clouds of smoke rise from the fire pot when fuel is added, that smoke represents unburned fuel in the form of soot, and the amount wasted in this manner during the course of a winter can amount to a considerable sum.

Moreover, on its way to the chimney, the smoke leaves soot clinging to the boiler flues which will retard the efficiency of the heating system.

It is advisable, therefore, says the Institute, when adding fresh fuel, to first heap the live coals to the back or side of the fire pot, and add fresh fuel slantwise at the front or side opposite the live coal. The fresh fire then ignites from the top and the fire gradually works down through the fuel bed as it should. The gases of combustion pass over the hot fire bed where they are completely burned and not wasted up the chimney in the form of soot.

Holes in the fire feed door should remain open, ash pit doors closed, and check draft opening small or large depending on the weather.

Ash should be removed daily, as a glutted ash pit shuts off air needed for proper combustion and contributes to burned out grates.

If proper firing still does not remedy deficiencies in the heating system, the householder would be well advised to have the heating plant checked over by a reliable heating contractor, suggests the Institute. For instance, leaks in the smoke pipe or chimney will retard draft and prevent proper control of the pipes. A thorough inspection of the boiler for defects in the fire-box, draft mechanism and smoke pipes will ensure proper combustion of the fuel.

If the water circulation in a heating system is sluggish, and some radiators do not seem to heat properly, the flow of water may be speeded up by the use of an electric motor.

Many immediate worthwhile improvements can often be effected while the heating plant is in operation. On the other hand, if the present heating plant has outlived its usefulness, and a new plant is required, the heating engineer and householder will find it an advantage during these winter months to study particular heating problems and plan for the new installation in the spring. In recent years many improvements have been made in heating systems, and homes with older equipment may be greatly enhanced in comfort and value by the addition of a modern heating plant, suggests the Institute. Easy financing terms are available under the terms of the Home Improvement Plan, by loans on a reasonable basis from any branch bank

New Bathrooms Easy To Plan

How many bathrooms should there be in a house? For maximum convenience and comfort, the ideal home calls for a bathroom for each bedroom; and in practice it is much more satisfactory to have several compact inexpensive baths rather than a single large one.

When a house has more than one floor the convenience of a downstairs lavatory makes this addition almost a necessity. It may be simple, small room tucked away at the end of the hall or below a stairway or it may take the form of a delightful little powder room, if fancy dictates.

If planning a bathroom, the most convenient arrangement of fixtures in the available space must be taken into consideration. But the location of these fixtures in relation to the piping and necessary vents is also an important part of the plan. The type of fixtures best suited to each room must be considered—the materials to be used in the rooms themselves and the most desirable color schemes are points which must be considered in any bathroom plan. For suggestions on these points the home owner sould seek assistance from his architect who has complete data on materials, architectural effects and furnishings. A reliable master-plumber can supply detailed information about piping arrangements.

Shower Is Enjoyed By Entire Family

No plumbing fixture gives more satisfaction than a shower. Every member of the family enjoys its healthful invigorating effects—cool and refreshing in the summer, warm and pleasant in winter.

Showers are now made for every type of home and they need not be expensive. Nor is there any need to tear down wall plaster or tiling when they are installed, for certain inexpensive types can be connected to the wall above the bathtub in a few minutes by any qualified plumber.

Britain's First War Heroes Are Decorated

HAVELOCK, Feb. 24—(ENS).—A paper on "Canadianization" prepared by Mrs. C. McMillan and presented in her absence by Mrs. D. Anderson, proved of great interest to the members of the Belmont branch Women's Institute as they assembled for their February meeting, on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. H. L. Scott.

Also included on the program were "memory time" poems, "It Shows in the Light of Your Face," and "The Light in the Window," by Mrs. William Anderson; and a recitation entitled "The Stranger," by Mrs. Joseph Seabrook.

Plans to hold an oyster supper and Seth Parker program at a community social evening were discussed by the branch. Several members turned in socks which they have knitted for the Red Cross.

"Canadianization"

"The word Canadianization may bring to our minds," began Mrs. McMillan's talk, varied meanings. We might think of it as meaning a good citizen or we might think of Canadianization as referring to those people who have complied with government regulations and have been naturalized or made citizens of Canada.

"However I think all the ideas of Canadianization could be summed up in these words: friendliness, neighborliness, and kindness. There is so much that each one of us can do in our own community in these respects. Courtesy does not cost a thing and an act of friendliness, no matter how small, will gladden a lonely heart. The members of the Women's Institutes have an inspiring mission, in helping the country in which we have an honest pride, by helping strangers who enter their community. We should not be influenced in any degree by their social position, wealth or poverty. It is sufficient for us to remember to entertain strangers, for thereby some have entertained angels unawares.

"In regard to foreign population, we have so few as yet that they do not form a very large problem. However, if we consider the present refugee question, we can see that such a problem is not far distant. The sympathy of thinking people of this world was aroused last spring by the plight of the refugees from Czechoslovakia.

Three Ways of Action

"Action is called for in three ways. (1) We must insist that our government participate effectively in international organizations which have been set up to deal with the refugee problem. (2) We must be big enough and courageous enough to admit to Canada a fair share of the unfortunate people involved. We hear constantly that people must not be admitted to Canada, when we have several hundred thousand persons already on relief. I am convinced however that the admission of a certain number of selected refugees would lead to the establishment of new industries and increase employment. Canada's ratio of population to the square mile is second to the lowest of any country in the world, yet she is possessed of enormous wealth in natural resources and with a vigorous and enterprising people is surely able to assume the responsibility which can be defended on economic as well as humanitarian grounds.

"Before its dismemberment, Czechoslovakia had an area of three-quarters that of Ontario and supported a population of fifteen million. We have imported from what was formerly Austria and Czechoslovakia each year, goods to the value of several million dollars. Some at least of these goods can be made in Canada with the aid of these refugees. (3) As individuals we can contribute financially to the Canadian fund for refugees.

"Many of the refugee Czechoslovaks have settled on farms in Wentworth county, Ontario. They have bought the farms on which they live. Some brought their household possessions—those who escaped having them confiscated. One man said, 'I was just one jump ahead of Hitler all the way. When he came to the Sudetenland, we moved into Czechoslovakia, and when we found he was going to take that too, we got a plane and moved out before his army took control.'

A Happy People

"In their homes the piano is the most precious treasure. They love music and it is said the 'Czechs always sing.' They sing when they are happy and they sing when they are sad. They have songs for every occasion. Many of the women were graduates of law and music in their homeland. They do beautiful needlework and some have given demonstrations at the local Women's Institutes. They like books and many of them possess a complete set of Shakespeare in both English and German, as well as many of the other classics.

"So, enlightened self-interest will justify a generous attitude to the problem of the refugees. But, there is something involved beyond that. There is Christian charity and the fundamentals of humanity which unite in demanding an answer to Christ's challenge, 'I was a stranger and ye took me not in'."

At the conclusion of the meeting a delicious lunch was served by the hostess, assisted by her daughter, Miss Joan Scott.

NORWOOD

Mrs. Jack Stewart Is Hostess To W.A.

NORWOOD, Feb. 24.—The Women's Association of the United Church held their February meeting at the home of Mrs. Jack Stewart on Thursday afternoon. The president, Mrs. J. E. Brown, took the chair for the opening devotions and the hymn "O Safe Is The Rock" was sung.

Mrs. F. J. Stewart, as group convenor, took charge of the program, commencing with a prayer sent by Mrs. J. Nixon. Lesson Thoughts were read by Mrs. J. Brown and Mrs. H. Buck and the Scripture reading was given by Mrs. J. G. Keefer. Mrs. E. N. Munro gave a prayer and a reading on "Children in War Time" was given by Mrs. Gerald Baker. Miss Pauline Weir gave a paper on St. Valentine with parts taken by Mrs. K. Edmunds, Mrs. Baker, Mrs. John McConnell and Mrs. W. F. Elliott.

The hymn "All The Way" was sung and the meeting closed with the Mizpah benediction.

HEART ON RIGHT SIDE

Fighting R.A.F. Blanket Planes In Frigid Line

SOMEWHERE IN FRANCE, Feb. 24 — (CP), — Through territory which saw some of the fiercest fighting in the First Great War a procession of four camouflaged motor cars carried newspapermen on a visit to a fighter squadron of the Royal Air Force.

The flying field is on the outskirts of a village only four minutes' flying time from the German frontier. The newspapermen — an Empire Press Union party — found it blanketed with snow and with the temperature below freezing point.

Sleek Hawker Hurricane Fighters were scattered about the field. They were spaced apart so that if the enemy dropped bombs not more than one machine at a time would be hit. Engines were shrouded in blankets to ward off the bitter cold.

Operations headquarters at the field consisted of a tiny corrugated iron shed, half-embedded in the side of a small hill. Inside was an up-to-date telephone switchboard connecting with base headquarters and other air fields.

The squadron leader, a burly Ulsterman clad in a sheepskin windbreaker, sounded the field air raid alarm for our benefit. It roared like a vacuum cleaner going into action.

The squadron was billeted in a rough little house in the village a quarter of a mile away. Here we were taken upstairs to the tiny mess, where we warmed ourselves with drinks after a three-hour cross-country drive.

The airmen in the mess, most of them in their early 20's, included a tall, curly-haired New Zealander who accounted for the first German Dornier brought down in France. He encountered it on his 21st birthday, on November 8. The job done, he came back to the mess and announced casually: "The drinks are on me to-day, boys."

The prize trophy of the feat was the twisted barrel of a machine gun.

"That's a nice trophy you have there," I said to him, pointing to the machine gun barrel.

"Do you want to buy it?" he asked with a smile.

But he wouldn't really part with it for any amount of money.

Allied Air Chiefs

Another cross-country drive along snowy roads brought the press party headed by Major J. J. Astor, chairman of the Times Publishing Company, and president of the Empire Press Union, to the nerve centre of the Allied aerial war effort. It is situated in a modern building near a village. There we met the recently appointed air officer commanding the R.A.F. in France, Air Marshal Arthur S. Barratt.

He shares quarters with General Vuillemin, chief of the French Air Force, an arrangement typifying the close co-operation existing between the two Allies. General Vuillemin, suffering from a cold, was unable to meet the correspondents, but the Chief of Staff of the French air arm, General Mandigal, was there.

A huge log fire provided a cheery warm glow in the room and the newspapermen, chilled by their long drive, welcomed it.

Conversation turned to the relative showing of bombing and fighting planes in the air warfare to date. Air Marshal Barratt was asked if he thought the good showing British bombers had made against German fighters meant the day of the combat plane was over.

Without hesitation he said he didn't agree the fighter was "washed up." He attributed the comparative success of British bombers against German fighters to "packed" formation flying and the quality of R.A.F. manpower.

Quinte Seed Fair Set For Port Hope; E. A. Summers Sends Out Reminders

E. A. Summers, of Bowmanville, Durham's agricultural representative, is sending out reminders to farmers of the Quinte Seed Fair at Port Hope on March 14, 15 and 16. He is secretary, and is hoping for a large entry list and also a big attendance from this section of the district. The closing date for entries is March 6. Prize lists are available at F. C. Paterson's office.

Last year the Hatchery Approval Association of Ontario had an excellent exhibit of baby chicks at the Seed Fair, Napanee, and is planning to have a bigger and better show at Port Hope. On Saturday, March 16, all seed and chicks will be sold by auction.

The Field Husbandry and Chemistry Departments, O.A.C., Guelph, are planning to erect interesting exhibits dealing with variety tests and soil management. These should interest every farmer who is able to attend the Seed Fair.

On Friday afternoon, March 15, a farmers' meeting to be held in the Council Chamber will be addressed by Dr. E. S. Archibald, Director of Experimental Farms, Ottawa, and William Reek, Deputy-Minister of Agriculture. You cannot afford to miss these practical discussions.

Friday evening the annual banquet will be held in the United Church Sunday School Room. This banquet is for every farmer and those interested in the farmers' problems. Ladies are cordially invited.

DR. CAMSELL RE-ELECTED.

Prospective Home Owners Contemplating Building Under The National Housing Act

Re. municipal taxes paid by the Minister of Finance in accordance with Part III of the National Housing Act; the Order-in-Council reads as follows:

"No municipal taxes shall be paid by the Minister of Finance to a municipality in respect of any house, the construction of which is commenced after May 30, 1940.

"Applications for loans to construct houses under Part I of the National Housing Act may require from two weeks to two months to obtain final approval, depending upon location, plans, specifications and credit of the borrower and builder. Since no payment of taxes will be made by the Dominion in respect of any house, the construction of which is commenced after May 30th, 1940, prospective home owners should act at once in order to benefit by Government assistance.

"The Start of Construction means the laying of the footings and reasonably continuous construction thereafter."

LOCAL ORFUNS DEFEAT COBOURG GRADS IN GIRLS' CAGE GAME

"Y" Gym, Aces Win Tilts By Close Nods

Peterborough Orfuns outplayed and outscored the Cobourg girls' basketball squad in a sparkling exhibition game in the Y.W.C.A. gymnasium on Friday night, the local girls winning handily by 30 to 20, thanks to a whirlwind attack in the first half.

In the other two games, regularly scheduled Ladies' League fixtures, the Y Gym nosed out St. John's by the narrowest possible margin 15 to 14, and Quaker Aces won a closely fought battle from Westclox 16 to 13.

As a result the Y team strengthen their hold on second place while the Aces took the third slot and the St. John's girls dropped back into fourth.

The exhibition tilt between the Orfuns who are leading the local loop and the Cobourg girls' team was a clever exhibition. Orfuns put on the pressure in the first half and threatened to completely overwhelm the visitors. It was 26 to 8 in favor of the winners when the session ended, but the visitors fought back gallantly after the rest period and had the satisfaction of outscoring Orfuns 12 to 4, which was a remarkable comeback in view of the first period showing. Audrey Craig, Barbara Blade, and Ruth Thompson led the Orfun attack and divided all the scoring points, except one, the first-named setting the pace with thirteen points.

J. Young sparked the visitors' offensive tossing in four baskets in a neat exhibition.

Orfuns cashed in four fouls out of eight attempts, while the Cobourg girls also registered four times out of nine chances.

Orfuns (30) — M. Ferguson 1, B. Blade 9, A. Livingston, R. Thompson 7, A. Craig 13, D. Ackford, M. Hawthorne, M. Clarke.

Referee—Bob Dyer. Umpire—K. Dufton.

A Tight Tilt.

The Y Gym-St. John's game was a merry battle and it was anybody's until the final whistle. The Anglicans started off in great style and had a big edge on the play in the first half to lead 12 to 8 at the half, but the Y came through with a drive in the second section that gave them a win by one point. St. John's, who had dominated the play in the early stages bogged down after the rest period and scored only one basket in the second half. The win was a personal triumph for Ruth Dalliday, who registered 11 of her team's 15 points, and in the second session scored all seven points credited to the winners.

Agnes Bowler with seven points and Eva Clarke with five were top scorers for the losing St. John's. The winners only cashed in on one free shot out of eight, while St. John's registered two in the same number.

Y Gym (15) — Ruth Dalliday 11, I. Young, S. Florence, S. Mesley (2), B. DeMaio (2), B. Flynn, S. Zakos, B. Pomeroy, R. Sullivan, S. Zachs, F. Craig.

St. John's (14) — E. Clark 5, T. Laws, E. Foster 2, A. Bowler 7, E. Gynane, H. Harte-Maxwell, F. Gynane, E. Harte-Maxwell.

Referee—W. Thirnbeck. Umpire—J. Cooper.

Another close battle was seen in the Quaker Aces-Westclox game. The Aces outscored their opposition in both halves, leading 7 to 6 at the close of the tight first period and 16 to 13 at the finish, but the Westclox were always battling and the result was not certain until it was all over. In the first half Dorothy Weese set the pace for the winners by hanging up five points, while their ace scorer Helen Rutter came through with five in the second half to make sure of the win. A. Flynn was high scorer for the losers with six points, and shared with Dorothy Weese the top scoring honors of the game with seven. Both teams failed to use their free throw scoring chances, Quakers getting two out of five and the losers but three out of 11 free throws.

Quaker Aces — D. Lawless, J. Fowler 2, D. Weese 7, S. Alexander 2, V. Wood, E. Kirn, H. Rutter 5, M. Hooton, A. Grady, M. Duncan, M. Sullivan.

Westclox — A. Flynn 6, D. Dawson, B. Saunders, C. Metcalfe, M. Goldie, J. Hair, J. Crowe, D. Vivash, P. Wolstenholme, V. Britnell, M. McFadden.

Referee—Ken. Gillespie, Umpire—H. Smith.

WHO LAUGHS LAST . . .

LONDON—(CP).—"Last war I slipped through the British blockade, and I'll do it again," boasted a Norwegian skipper in New York. He sailed and was caught by the blockade of 1940. "I was beaten fair and square," he said. "You are much too good."

PRO PUCK PERSONALITIES

ART WIEBE
Chicago Black Hawks

(By Central Press Canadian)

One of the National League's great 'unknowns" is Art Wiebe, playing his sixth season on the defence for Chicago Black Hawks, and how many times have you seen his name in print? Art teams with brilliant Earl Seibert to form one of the circuit's best and most dependable rear-guards, and the play of the more dramatic and higher-scoring Earl takes the spotlight away from him. In addition to which he goes about his business in a methodical unspectacular manner that draws few penalties, but causes opposing forwards considerable trouble. He seldom gets hurt and is never mentioned in prospective trades—all in all, a most undramatic player; but they don't keep defencemen in the N.H.L. for as long as he's been around because of their winning smiles. Arthur Walter Ronald Wiebe is his full monicker, and he was born at Rosthern, Sask. He joined the Hawks after a couple of seasons with Kansas City of the American Association, and his first season with the Hawks was his best in a scoring way, as he went on rampage that netted two goals and one assist. That was until this season, and already he has bettered that mark and may even amass a half-dozen points before the season ends. Totals for his N.H.L. seasons stand at four goals, eight assists and only 106 minutes in penalties. Weighs around 190 pounds, shoots left.

Cobourg Juniors Defeat Lindsay

COBOURG, Feb. 24.—Chalking up their second straight group victory, the locals eliminated Lindsay from O.H.A. junior "C" competition here last night, winning 11-3. Maher, with five goals, was the leading sniper for the winners. Cobourg will now meet either Trenton or Lansdowne in the next round.

Lindsay—Goal, Bolderstone; defense, Elliot and Warrian; centre, Owen; wings, Brennan and Ellis. Subs: McDonald, Logan, Christie, Begley and Richards.

Cobourg—Goal, G. Cain; defense, Bambridge and McNama; centre, Bird; wings, Coogan and Maher. Subs: Johns, Winter, L. Cain, Cullen, Zealand, Atkinson.

Referee—W. Morrison, Oshawa.

Colts Lose Out To Oshawa Bees

Losing out 11-6 to Oshawa Bees here last night, the local Junior "B" Colts faded from the puck picture for this year, dropping the fourth game of their group finals. ABOVE is shown the squad—with J. Wade absent when the picture was taken—Back Row, LEFT to RIGHT: Coach A. Weir, D. Vitarelli, W. Beggs, S. Craig, W. Murphy (trainer), R. Parnell, A. Mason, N. Foster, R. Strickland, Manager Hap Wilgar; Front Row, LEFT to RIGHT: F. Agnes, T. MacDonald, D. Pammett, T. Cullen (mascot), C. Nichols, J. Rochetta, R. DeCarlo, C. Cournyea.

SPORTS—DAY BY DAY

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC PERDUE

Following up his recent suggestions re building up puck material of the district from kids to possibly pro performers—and he is one of the most diligent and tireless hockey promoter and builder-upper in this district—Alex Kempt suggests a six-team junior T.V.L. next year. And have the winner going into provincial playdowns. Such a six-club setup—on a par with O.H.A. junior "C" calibre—would guarantee 12 games aside from playoffs. As Alex says, you can't develop young puckists on four or five games a winter. It would provide plenty of hockey for young players about the district, some lively entertainment for fans and would produce later stars for intermediate T.V.L. clubs. With always the chance of a boy or two going a long way in the puck world.

* * * * * *

With the demise of the junior "B" Colts in group finals here last p.m., we can say goodbye to five players in O.H.A. company—unless these lads (all good players) make the intermediate Petes another year. The five who graduate via the over-age route are Sid Craig, Neis Foster, Dutch Pammett, Bill Beggs and Bob Strickland. Remaining young enough for junior competition at least one more winter are Bob Parnell, Julian Wade, Cec. Cournyea, Fred Agnew, Al Mason, Duce Vitarelli, Joe Rochetta, Cal Nichols, Rocky DeCarlo and Tom MacDonald. But the Weir-Wilgar squad will need re-inforcements from somewhere ere another campaign begins.

* * * * * *

Goodbye To The Colts

Well, that's that as far as our junior "B" Colts are concerned. We won't see 'em anymore this winter. Oshawa Bees took an 11-6 win here last eve to win the group playoffs, three games to one. Nearly a thousand fans saw a pretty fair tussle, especially the first two periods, but the Bees were too smart and earned the win clearly. They have a husky, fast and clever squad that should go a piece—though the Brantford "B" gang appear like the best titular bet. Anyway, the Colts showed lots of inside lining about the midriff but were a bit outclassed.

* * * * * *

It was a fast, wide-open tilt most of the route, a bit rugged but by no means dirty. Craig did manage to bump Goalie Phillipe a few times and Foster and McMullen tangled in a fist fight once—just to keep the Colts' fighting record intact—but play was pretty clean. It was 3-2 for the Weir-Wilgar gang (and both Coach Archie Weir and Manager Hap Wilgar rate a lot of credit for their work this winter) but the Bees had a 5-4 edge to end the middle heat and clinched it in the third. No less than four goals were counted for Oshawa when the Colts were short a man (in the sin box) and four more came on breakaways, but that's the game. The Bees had more puck brains between their ears than the Colts.

* * * * * *

He Stuffed His Ears

Tough luck, gang, you had a fair winter but just didn't make it out of your group—being up against a real classy outfit. Fraser wore batting in his ears the first frame so the Colts or fans couldn't insult him and get him sore—the big defenceman being effective but pretty touchy, and the Colts calling him a lot of nasty names! McMullen said, at the end of the second (and he's as Irish as his name sounds): "I guess I got the decision over that guy but I couldn't get my gloves off in time to really tag him!" All the Colts tried hard and the Bees clicked well, and we don't imagine any of the fans are kicking too much, as it was a pretty fair junior "B" joust. The Colts ended up about even financially, and we doubt if they really thought they could get by the Oshawa squad this year.

* * * * * *

No definite word has been received yet from Sec. Hewitt of the O.H.A. regarding the Petes' provincial playdowns, but he is working on the problem now. Hewitt sent word the other day that he expected the four group winners would agree to an intermediate "A" round-robin series, and that the Petes—owing to natural ice here—might get the first couple of games here. Maybe next Tuesday and Friday with Kitchener and Port Colborne the opposition. The other group hasn't declared a winner yet, Owen Sound tying one and winning one against Collingwood in a best-in-five serial. No Toronto team has entered intermediate playdowns, so it looks like a four-club round-robin series, and we should know Monday. The O.H.A. intermediate "A" winner may then play the N.O.H.A. victor, the all-Ontario champs then challenging the Quebec-Maritimes' winnah for the Eastern Canada title. Provided it isn't June by then!

* * * * * *

Lock Co. Eagles Here

Those gallant and unheralded Lock Co. Eagles won't stay down. They keep bobbing up again and again in playoffs, when not rated a chance of winning. No one figured they'd ever survive the district group semi-finals with Lindsay Battery, but they rubbed the Scugog squad right out. After taking a bad pasting in the first of the three-in-five finals with Omemee Black Hawks, the Eagles soared last p.m. to cop a neat 10-6 victory over the Hawks in their own territory and tie up the series. Third game will be here Monday e'en at 8.30 in the Brock St. arena, and hockey fans should take in this fray to see some hectic action and give the game Eagles support. Winner enters O.H.A. intermediate "B" playdowns.

* * * * * *

Let's see what happened in the basketball whirl here last gloaming. Down at the Y.W.C.A., the Orfuns took an exhibition gals' win over Cobourg Grads—and looked smart in doing it—by a 30-20 count. "Y" Gym barely eked out a 15-14 squeak o'er St. John's in a loop fixture, and Quaker Aces won by the skin of their teeth over Westclox, 16 to 13. Up at the Collegiate gym, P.C.I. made it a clean sweep over Port Hope in a trio of school cage contests. The local junior boys took a 23-7 verdict, the senior boys romped to a 61-5 smirk, and the senior lasses pulled out a 20-18 nod. Two men's City League games are listed for tonight at the Y.M.C.A., Bees meeting C.G.E. at 7.15 and Zephyrs playing Dominions at 8.15. They should be good battles.

Sauerkraut Kids Will Spend Hours Discussing And Planning A Play

By JACK CALDER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

TORONTO, Feb. 24. — (CP) — Hockey's highest-scoring forward line, the Sauerkraut Kids, came to Toronto today from their home at Kitchener, with the idea of putting Boston Bruins into undisputed possession of first place in the National League.

There is good reason to believe, too, that the Krauts can do it in this renewal of the Bruins' ancient rivalry with the third-place Maple Leafs. On Tuesday, they accounted for four goals as their club continued its headlong rush with a 5-0 victory over Toronto at Boston in one of the season's most magnificent power house displays.

Here is one of sport's most remarkable stories—that Milt Schmidt, Bobby Bauer and Woody Dumart should come from one community and excel as a unit in the fastest game of all. For human interest, it ranks beside the achievement of Lester Patrick in helping his sons, Lynn and Murray, to become stars with his New York Rangers.

Schmidt, Bauer and Dumart went home to Kitchener for a brief vacation after Tuesday's triumph and that hockey hive threw open its arms. Schmidt reported to his folks with the N.H.L. scoring championship almost in his grasp, while Dumart and Bauer are running third and fourth.

Bauer, who is 25 and the eldest and smallest, is the leader and chief conspirator of the three. They live, eat and go out together and when a decision is to be made Bauer's opinion is the one that counts.

"There's never a fight," he explains. "Sometimes we talk hockey for hours after a game, discussing this play and that, and deciding what we should do under similar circumstances another time. We'll quit a card game right in the middle when someone thinks of a play that might click on the ice."

Bauer is being boosted in Boston for the Lady Byng award, which goes annually to the N.H.L. player who best combines playing ability and sportsmanship. He can talk on any subject and he's about the best prospect for an eventual coaching job in the entire league.

He thinks quickly and speaks plausibly. For instance, Captain Red Horner of the Leafs remarked on the train the other night that the season seemed to be going quickly.

"Yes, it does," Bauer said. "I think that's because of the war. It used to be that we would turn to the sports pages first thing when the newspapers came and all we ever thought of was hockey. The game dragged a little. Now everyone has to think of the war and our minds are taken from hockey to a certain extent."

Eagles Even Series With Omemee

Lock Co. Eagles even up the district puck league three-in-five final series in Omemee last night by downing the Black Hawks 10-6 to make it a game apiece. The third tilt will be at the Brock Street rink on Monday night at 8.30. Last night saw the Eagles in good form checking the Hawks into the ice to earn the nod. It was 1-1 in the first frame and 6-3 for the Prete pack going into the third. Play was clean ad fairly fast with a lot of close checking and individual scoring.

While the whole squad showed to good advantage for the Peterborough bunch, Watson, Gilbert, Prete and King were probably the pick in a nifty showing. There were no standouts on the Omemee lineup, the O's playing indifferent hockey at times, due to the close checking. Both sides tolled harl for the victory but the second-period splurge gave the visitors a commanding margin and they earned the win by several goals. The teams:

Eagles, — Goal, King; defence, Pryde and Prete; centre, Gilbert; wings, Burton and Cournyea; alternates Watkins West Watson and Edmunds.

Hawks. — Goal Fisher; defence. Williamson and T. Parsons; centre Tripp; wings, Jamieson and F. Parsons; alternates, Brockley, Brooks, Ellis and Deyell.

Referee—L. LeBarr.

1939 Champs Are All Out Of 1940 'Spiel

TORONTO, Feb. 24 — (CP). — There were no defending champions among the finalists as the Ontario Bonspiel reached the closing stage today after a week of gruelling competition. Only quartet which might repeat a title-winning performance was Dan Kelly's Toronto Granite rink, 1939 Grand Aggregate winners.

Kelly's stanemen lost a Birks-Ellis-Ryrie semi-final last night, 8-11, to C. R. Redfern's Toronto Curling Club four, but their record of 11 wins and two defeats still led the possible Aggregate winners. A. R. Tarlton of Hamilton and O. T. Dudley of Toronto Curling Club were the only skips with a chance to overtake Kelly. Tarlton has compiled 10 victories against two losses and Dudley nine wins two defeats.

Gordon Campbell of Hamilton Thistles and Percy Skitch of Lindsay gained the finals of the Seiberling event last night. Campbell defeated Dudley 13-4, while his clubmate, Tarleton, lost to Skitch, 8-9.

Redfern will meet Stan. Sarjeant's Orillia quartet in the finals of the Birks-Ellis-Ryrie competition. Sarjeant doubled the score on C. F. Mason's Toronto Granties, winning 12-6 in the semi-finals.

The Seiberling and Birks-Ellis-Ryrie trophies are offered for winners of first round play in the Royal York event, while the losers fight it out for the North American Life and Seagram awards.

Four For Big Title

Four rinks remain in the hunt for the Royal York trophy, most coveted title at the crling classis. They are piloted by Tarlton, Kelly, Dudley and D. H. Storms of Toronto Granites. H. H. Chisholm, only previous Royal York winner in the quarter-finals, was eliminated by Storms 11-2. Chisholm won in 1929.

Alex Hayes of Sarnia, winner last year, failed to get past the first round Monday losing to Earl Wheler 5-13.

The North American Life final brings together two rinks from the Toronto High Park Curling Club skipped by Dr. C. L. Eaton and Harvey Sproul. Eaton advanced by nosing out R. H. Howard's Toronto Granites and Sproule edged Col. W. O. Morris of Toronto Curling Club 11-10.

Frank White's Bala stanemen and H. A. Heagle's Kingston rink meet in the Seagram final. White defeated Morris 12-11 and Heagle won from A. E. Stephenson of New Liskeard 10-7. Dubbed the "International rink" by other curlers. Stephenson's ring was composed of Robert Mews of Milwaukee, lead; J. C. Dempster of Toronto, second; Sam Armstrong of Stouffville, third, and Stephenson, skip.

Bert Kennedy and George Barber, clubmates at the Toronto Royal Canadian Curling Club, come together in the Canada Dry final. Kennedy scored an extra-end win over J. M. Rothschild of Toronto Curling Club, 13-12, and Barber eliminated an Oshawa rink led by F. R. Michael 14-13.

The Canada Dry trophy is put up for competition among rinks losing three times without winning more than once in any competition.

Goodyears Blank Port Colborne In 1st Playoff

(By the Canadian Press.)

Home clubs got away to a flying start last night in the first games of the best-of-five series to decide a finalist in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior "A" playdowns.

Toronto Goodyears defending champions and leaders at the end of the current schedule, blanked Port Colborne Sailors 3-0 at Toronto. Playing at home St. Catharines edged out Hamilton 5-4. Second games will be played on the defeated teams' rinks on Monday.

Sailors held Toronto scoreless during the first period. The game became peppery in the second, and George Imlach converted one of the few Toronto scoring opportunities in the early minutes. Ports attacked furiously in the third, but left an opening for Bobby Laurent to ram home a loose puck. The Sailors maintained the pressure after this setback, but failed to stop Shorty Robinson on a breakaway.

Pinder took advantage of a miscue by the Hamilton defence halfway through the first period, to put the Saints ahead. In the last two minutes, however, Miocinovic and McLeod rammed home a goal apiece to send the visitors in front.

Conick shot Hamilton into a two-goal lead at the three-quarter mark of the second period, but Mocha reduced the margin a few seconds later. Penalties hurt the Hamilton cause in the last chapter. Rudy Pilous tied the score while the visitors were shorthanded and shortly after a penalty gave the Saints a chance to slash home two markers by Rombough and Boyd With this margin to work on the winners dropped back to defensive play and Hamilton was quick to take advantage of the chance to bore in on the Saints' net Barlow brought Hamilton within one counter of a tie, but with less than a minute to play Saints managed to maintain their slim advantage to the end.

OSHAWA BEES ELIMINATE PETES IN JUNIOR "B" GROUP FINALS

Visitors Scored Six Markers In Final Period Of Game; Colts Took Lead In The First

The local Colts were turned out to pasture till next autumn last night at the Brock St. rink, losing to Oshawa Bees by an 11-6 score. It was the fourth game of their three-in-five O.H.A. Junior "B" group finals and sends the Motor City gang into provincial playdowns while eliminating the Peterborough boys. Nearly a thousand fans saw a lively wide-open contest.

Four Oshawa goals were scored when the Colts were a man short due to penalties, and four were scored by the Bees on breakaways with the local squad ganging up. The visitors earned the win on smart playing and it was a good, fast and fairly clean game throughout. Of the eight penalties handed out, four went to the young Petes. Foster and McMullen drew major penalties in the second for fighting.

There was not a great deal of good hockey shown, but both sides kept trying all the time, and the pace was plenty warm a good part of the tussle. The first two periods saw some close and very fair hockey with the Colts having a slight edge in the first to gain a 3-2 margin and the Bees having a bit of a margin in the second to make it 5-4 for them before the third started. Oshawa looked best in the third.

No Real Stars

The Colts' first line looked best the first two periods, but the second front line pressed in the third. There were no individual stars for the Weir squad over the whole route, from the goalie out. Wade, Craig and Rochetta probably had most chances in close and Beggs looked good on defence, with Courneyea kicking out several tough ones. Of th Bees, McMullen, Reid, Hewson and Brien were standouts, while all the gang turned in a good performance.

It was fast and even early in the first with Vitarelli rapping home Rochetta's pass after two minutes. McMullen got it back shortly on Jackson's pass when left uncovered in close. Wade came close and Courneyea robbed Reid as play swept up and down. Wade got credit for one when his shot at defence glanced in off Wilson. When Hinton was gated for interference, the Colts ganged up but without effect. All were back and play was fairly even when Reid scored from Hewson on a breakaway from the centre zone, the local defence playing too far up. Foster and Wilson were waved away for roughing it and Nichols made it 3-2 for the homesters in close, aided by Rochetta and Craig, just before the end.

Bees Go Ahead

A Wade-Pammett thrust came close to start the second, and when Vitarelli was penalized for tripping, the Oshawa crew ganged up hard to tally twice. Brien scored from Hewson though the play looked offside, the puck coming over the line by a foot without drawing a whistle. Right afterward, Hewson roared in close alone to sink a neat one. With Vitarelli back, the Colts pressed with five up and the second line nearly notched a couple. Craig finally tore in fast around defence to bang one home. Foster and McMullen drew majors for a first fight over a hard check and a Wade-Pammett try made Phillips hop. Fraser went off for holding and argued over it. The Colts pressed and Craig came close, but Hewson scored on a breakaway near the end. Fraser was back at the finish.

The pugilists returned to open the third, a period marked by lively action but poor hockey on the part of the locals. The Colts ganged up and Pammett nearly scored but a minute later McMullen rapped one home on Brien's corner passout to make it 6-4. Rochetta tallied in a close-in scramble but Craig drew a penalty for tripping—with Jackson going off with a charley-horse—and the visitors scored twice fast. Hewson's shot from the blue line glanced in off the post, and Brien got another in close on McMullen's pass. With Craig back, the Colts ganged up and had most of the play, a Craig-Rochetta thrust nearly counting, but Reid scored from Brien on a breakaway. Strickland got that back at close range, aided by Wade and Foster, as the Colts peppered Phillips. Courneyea went out to block McMullen on a breakaway and both were winded for a minute. Foster came close as play was hot but ragged with the Colts using five forwards and trying hard. Reid got another for the Bees on a corner passout from McMullen, and just two minutes before the close, Hewson tallied neatly on a breakaway to make it 11-6 at the finish.

The teams:

Bees: Goal, Phillips; defence, Fraser and Morris; centre, Hewson; wings, Reid and Hinton; alternates, Brien, Jackson, McMullen, Wilson and Barber.

Colts: Goal, Courneyea; defence, Vitarelli and Beggs; centre, Rochetta; wings, Craig and Parnell; alternates, Wade, Foster, Pammett, Nichols, Mason and Strickland.

Referee, Hap Day of Toronto.

Tweed Juvenile Leafs Wallop Bruins By 13 to 3

TWEED, Feb. 24—(ENS).—In the first game of the juvenile series at the local arena on Friday night the Leafs gained revenge for the recent beating at the hands of the Bruins by walloping them 13-4, in a wide open game.

In the first period the Leafs gained a 4-1 lead, on goals by Prout from Sills for the first tally for the Leafs, while the husky defenceman Lecack, tallied three timees unassisted. T. Ricers tallied the lone Bruin counter.

In the second period Baker, Bruin defenceman tallied twice at the opening. However the Leafs staged a terrific drive and tallied four with Price taking a pass from Sills for the fifth Leaf counter and Prout banging in two. The Bruins rallied and Baker tallied on a scramble.

In the last period the Leafs kept the Bruins off the score sheet, while rapping home three counter, with Prout scoring from Sills, Price counting unassisted, while Sills got the final counter. The teams:

Leafs: Goal, K. Jones; defence, B. Leveck, C. Cassidy; centre, Sills; wings, J. Price, V. Prout; subs, R. LaVallee, D. Rashotte, B. Sine.

Bruins: Goal, Johnston; defence, Baker, McCrea; centre, Gehan; wings, B. Thompson, T. Rivers; subs, L. Rivers, J. Courtney, C. Trudeau, M. Rivers, Fisher.

Rangers Whip Wings

The second game of the doubleheader saw the Rangers edge the Red Wings 3-2 in a closely fought and scrappy game. Gehan rapped in a pass from the corner to open the scoring for the Red Wings in the first period. However, Meraw took a pass from Courtney late in the period to rap in a hard drive to tie the count.

In the second period, the Rangers went one up when Donahue drove in a pass from Meraw.

The last period saw tempers mount, and Tufts and Meraw took major penalties for staging a fight. Rangers made the count 3-1 when Donahue banged in his second goal from Meraw. Staging a comeback in the dying minutes of the game, Baldwin soloed down the ice to tally

North Dummer Wins 5-2 In Warsaw Tilt

WARSAW, Feb. 24. — (ENS) — North Dummer secured a strangle hold on league honours Thursday night by trimming the speedy local school 5-2 in a spirited battle, the first of the playoffs.

The school had the better of the struggle for the first period and a half, mainly through their good backchecking. However the Stoney Lake lads uncorked a fast passing attack in the dying half to out-play and outscore the scholars. The losers managed to make it interesting for goalie Payne on several occasions.

Art Whetung, the northerner's hard working centre finally broke into the paying column after a scoreless season, netting three by himself and helping with another. Coppaway and Puffer each scored one, with Reg. Payne counting both for the school. Both teams played their usual clean, hard game and one of the season's best crowds was noisily in attendance.

School—Goal, E. Clements; defence, G. Cooper, Bernier; centre, G. Clements; wings, R. Payne, E. Payne; subs, G. Payne, L. Lonsberry, H. Dunsford.

N. Dummer—Goal, B. Payne; defence, Crowe and L. Whetung; centre, A. Whetung; wings, R. Whetung, Ramsay; subs, Coppaway, Puffer.

Referee, M. Lonsberry.

Al Davis Beaten By Lou Ambers

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Al Davis said today he is ready for a short course in the art of self defence, the decision being reached after 10 rounds of shadow boxing last night with Lou Ambers.

The Brooklyn toughie whose booming left hook had carried him through by professional bouts without defeat got a thorough going over by the lightweight champion in an overweight match. Ambers gave a marvelous exhibition of ring craft in taking the unanimous decision.

In the early rounds, Davis' stout left landed hard and often on Ambers' lantern jaw and lean body. Ambers weathered the storm, and in so doing, perfected a defence which in the last six rounds kept Davis befuddled and tied his left hand as effectively as if it were bound with baling wire. Ambers won going away. Ambers weighed 139, and Davis 146½.

NEWS for YOU ABOUT THE R.C.A.F. WIRELESS TRAINING SCHOOLS

Did you know that, to get into the R.C.A.F. Wireless Training Schools, you must have certain technical knowledge first? Read the paragraph below, it shows the present official requirements for Wireless and Electrical Mechanics.

"Should have sufficient knowledge of elementary electricity, magnetism and radio principles to manipulate intelligently wireless apparatus in common use. Be capable of sending and receiving Continental Code or International Morse at the rate of 18 words a minute. Be able to do hard or soft soldering."

Could YOU pass these tests? Save yourself from disappointment by preparing yourself for them first! Take advantage of this easy, sure way now offered you for the first time.

Radio College of Canada offers you a short, intensive training course—which can be taken in day or evening classes, or by home-study—designed to qualify you to pass the wireless trade test as required under Military Classification. The cost is moderate in price, and may be paid in easy instalments.

Why is it to your own advantage to take this course? Because you qualify yourself for entrance to a wonderfully interesting branch of the Service, for definite classification in a definite trade, at higher rates of pay, and receive preferential treatment on applying for admission. To date, not one of our graduates, applying to the R.C.A.F. with our recommendation, has been refused, except for physical disability.

If you are between 18 and 40, and have your High School Entrance, get full particulars of this new course WITHOUT DELAY! Tear out this coupon NOW, and mail it TODAY.

Describes Modern Develpoments In India

"Miracles of Modern India" was the subject of a talk given by Mrs. A. Logan at the February meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of Trinity United Church, who described some of the modern developments in the political and social changes in India during the last twenty-five years.

Mrs. G. S. Easton, first vice-president, was in the chair for the meeting, at which interesting reports of the Peterborough Presbyterial were presented by the delegates: Mrs. C. Hughes, Mrs. A. Legon and Ms. E. Whitely.

A devotional period, with "The Missionary Purpose of God" as its theme, was conducted by Mrs. Easton, and included the hymn, "Breathe on me, Breath of God"; the Scripture lesson read by Mrs. W. Stocker, prayer by Mrs. T. Brown and a beautiful solo, "Just For Today," sung by Mrs H. A. Mitchell, with Mrs. G. N. Moncrief at the piano.

Several announcements included the W.M.S. Thankoffering service to be held on Reid Street Hall on Tuesday afternoon, March 19, when Mr. F. W. Moffat will give his illustrated address on Palestine. Each member was asked to bring a friend to this meeting. The hymn, "O Day of Rest and Gladness," and the benediction concluded a fine program. Following the meeting, Mrs. N. Andrew and her committee served refreshments.

FASHIONS

Soft shirring and princess lines are combined to make the prettiest dress of the season.

You will want your first spring frock to be printed and charming. A matching bolero adds chic to this very useful dress with its heart-shaped neckline and slimming lines. The dress itself is easy enough for a beginer to make with the help of the instruction sheet that accompanies the pattern. A printed silk crepe with a dark ground will serve you well many times this spring.

Style No. 3185 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 36 requires 4 yards of 39 inch material for dress; 1½ yards for bolero.

Branch Notes

ST. LUKE'S BRANCH

St. Luke's meeting took the form of an educational night. Mr. Brock of the Brinton Carpet Co. was the guest of the evening. He showed and explained three reels of pictures covering every operation of carpet making.

The beautiful natural coloring made the pictures extremely interesting and easy to understand. A hearty vote of thanks was extended to Mr. Brock by Bo Pammett on behalf of the members. The singing of the National Anthem concluded that part of the program.

Afterwards a short play practice was held. The play will be produced in the Collegiate Auditorium and will be well worth seeing.

Please remember Sunday next is Corporate Communion. The regular meeting next week in in charge of Art Sayers.

ST. GEORGE'S BRANCH

The meeting Thursday evening opened with a hymn and prayers followed by a short business session.

H. Porter, in the absence of B. Anderson, the Literary convener, acted as chairman for the remainder of the evening. The members were divided into groups and each group given a news column to prepare. It proved to be a very interesting newspaper when they had finished. The latter part of the program was spent in answering, "What would you do" questions. The president closed the meeting.

ST. JOHN'S BRANCH

Last Wednesday evening was to have been the first of a three-lecture series of discussions on the problems encountered in matrimony, but owing to an unfortunate accident befalling the scheduled speaker, R. J. Bolton very kindly consented to give a short talk on Finland. Outlining the history of the Finnish race, and a bit about the geography of the country, he told of the difficulties that arose in establishing a nation, and of how they were almost incessantly fighting in wars. He pointed out that they were a very stubborn race, but very loyal, and strange as it might seem, only about two per cent of the total population of Finland was illiterate. During the course of his talk the speaker gave many humorous examples of the Finnish customs, such as marriages, bear-hunts, church services and the punishment that could be inflicted upon wives.

A vote of thanks was tendered Mr. Bolton by the president. Following the lecture, a short business meeting was held, after which games were played and the meeting was brought ot a close by the president.

ST. MARY'S BRANCH

The semi-weekly meeting of St. Mary's, Manvers, A.Y.P.A. was held on Wednesday evening at the Rectory. There were fifteen members present and five visitors.

Rev. Mr. Mason led in the opening prayers and the chair was taken by the president, Bob Reid. Two new members were initiated.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Henry Ward's Eighth Line, on Mach 6, and be in charge of Marjory Page and Ben Page.

A contest was conducted by Rev. and Mrs. Mason in form of a Quiz, "What's My Name," on missionaries. An article was read, "Hall of Heroes" by Rev. Mason. Later a spelling match was enjoyed for a short time and won by Robert Sisson.

A lovely luncheon was served before the guests departed.

Toronto Artists Present Fine Program Of Music

A program that was entirely musical was heard at a meeting of the Lyceum Club, Women't Art Association, Friday afternoon, when familiar and well-loved compositions and songs were presented before an enthusiastic audience by Harvard Reddick of Toronto, who was several years ago tenor soloist in St. Andrew's United Church, assisted by John Linn, his friend and accompanist, organist of Erskine United Church in Toronto.

The first of Mr. Reddicks' group of songs included the following arias by Handel, the great German composer who won enduring fame by his oratorios: "Love Sounds the Alarm"; "Love in Her Eyes Sits Playing," and the touching lament of Samson at the loss of his sight, known as "Total Eclipse" from the oratorio, "Samson." An intense picture of the unbounded grief of the sightless man was brought to the listeners as the clear tenor voice sang the dramatic words, "No sun, no moon, all dark, all dark amidst the blaze of noon—oh glorious light, no cheering ray to glad my eyes with welcome day."

Two songs by the great master of melody, Franz Schubert, "Ave Maria," with words by Sir Walter Scott, and the well-known "Serenade," and two English song, "The Clouds of Heaven" and a lilting, amusing number, "When I Think Upon the Maidens," by Michael Head, concluded Mr. Reddick's second group. His last songs included the familiar English air, "Drink to Me Only," and the colorful' "Ah! Moon of My Delight," from an English garden, with words by Omar Khayyam.

Mr. Linn, an accomplished pianist, played two groups, the first Gluck's "Dance of the Blessed Spirits," and "Gavotte" transcribed by Brahms; Debussy's "Clair de Lun" and Brahm's "Waltz in A Flat Major."

Mrs. Fred E. Hooper, president of the Women's Art Association, presented the artists.

An exhibit of Japanese prints by Mr. Robert McNairn will be given at the next studio program, to be held on March 29.

We Noticed

....A style that goes on season after season is the halter neckline. It has been a favorite in evening dresses for many years, but caused much comment when it was first borrowed from the bathing-suit styles.

....It has gone on and on, some seasons a dominant factor in evening dress collections, and others merely playing a very minor role.

....Just now it is prominent in resort collections, all the more newsworthy in contrast to the covered-up types that have been in such standing this winter.

Do You Know?

If you find the clothes too dry when you want to iron them, damp the covering of your ironing board instead of the clothes. The steam will rise as you apply the iron to the clothes and the damping will be quite even.

Jelly-glazed bananas go well with chops or roasts. Split bananas, lay them in a shallow pan, sprinkle with a little lemon juice and generously spread with tart jelly. Bake 15 minutes in a moderate oven, carefully transfer to the service platter.

Keep a newspaper handy under a chair pad or cushion to clap on an accidental spill. Leave it on a short time, and all is absorbed, dry and clean.

DOROTHY DIX

Mothers Should Remember That Nothing Will Do More to Make Daughter Rush to Her Prince Charming's Arms Than a Parent's Opposition to the Young Man.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I have a 17-year-old daughter who is a college student and who thinks that she is in love with a boy of 19. He is a nice, clean chap to whom I have no personal objection, but I consider my daughter entirely too young to have any sentimental affair, so I forbade the lad to come to the house and ordered my daughter never to see him or speak to him again. I find, however, that she has disobeyed me and has been meeting him on the sly and it fills me with alarm. What shall I do?—H. R. T.

Answer:

Why, I should advise you to get out a very wise old book called the Bible and read that chapter in it about your daughter's great-great-greatest grandmother. She was a lady named Eve and the very minute a particular fruit was forbidden her she went right after it with both hands, although previously she hadn't craved it at all.

Believe me, dear lady, human nature hasn't changed, and especially feminine human nature hasn't changed one iota in all the years since our first mother risked Paradise to get the one thing denied her. If you want to make anything irresistibly alluring to a woman, all you've got to do is to make it taboo. And if you want to interest a girl in a boy and make her think that she is in love with him and hurry up an ill-advised marriage, the quickest and surest way is to drive him away from your door and forbid your daughter ever to speak to him.

To begin with, such a course outrages the girl's sense of independence and rouses every drop of fighting blood in her. She resents being treated as a baby who can be ordered about and not permitted to use her own judgment and discretion, and at 17 a girl feels very wise and old and has a lot more self-confidence than she will have at 47. So she resents what she considers your tyranny and, no matter what she promises, determines to outwit you as a sop to her pride.

Then, when you forbid the girl to see the boy, you make her his champion. She is bound to become fiercely partisan and to deny to herself the faults and blemishes which you point out in him. So she builds up a false ideal of the youth and gives him a thousand charms that he does not possess in reality. And finally, as I have said, you make him forbidden fruit and therefore the girl is determined to have him at all costs. More marriages are made by opposition than all the scheming mothers in the world have ever contrived by subtlety.

The way to handle the situation is not by forbidding the girl to see the boy, but by giving her an overdose of his society. Don't shut the door in his face. Drag his in and let her have to spend hours upon hours entertaining him. Invite him to dinner and to lunch, have him always under foot, and they will quarrel within two weeks and be so bored with each other's society that they will never want to see each other again.

But, oh, Mother, Mother, do try to use a little common sense in handling yur daughter at this period of her life. Just face the fact that no girl of 17 in this day is going to sit at home and be perfectly happy with dear Mamma and Papa for her company. She is going to have beaux. She is going to have dates. She is going to think herself in love, and it is up to you whether she sees boys decently at home under your eye, and with your protection cast about her, or whether she meets boys on the street corners and at drug stores, and goes with youths you do not know to questionable places.

Any mother who will not let her daughters receive their company at home is responsible if the girls go wrong.

Dear Rorothy Dix—I am 30 years old and have been married about four months. At the time of our marriage my husband had steady employment and seemed fully able to provide a comfortable home for me. However, I kept on with my job and he immediately gave up his and has done virtually no work since. He is in perfect health, but seems content to stay at home and exist on the comparatively small wages that I earn. What shall I do?

ANSWER:

Turn the loafer out of your house immediately. Tell him that the one thing in the world that you will not do is to maintain a male parasite.

The lowest and meanest grafter in the world is an able-bodied man who will sit down and let a woman work and support him. This goes whether the man is a father, a husband or a son. Yet there are thousands upon thousands of women who, through their love or through their weakness, suffer themselves to be enslaved to the men who should be protecting them instead of imposing on them. And in every case the women commit a terrible wrong by aiding and abetting the men in their weakness. For even a lazy man would rather work than starve and if these shiftless men had no comfortable place to sleep, no three square meals a day, they would be forced into becoming decent, self-supporting, self-respecting people.

One of the problems of the business woman who would like to continue on with her job after marriage is the difficulty of helping a husband without ruining him. For undoubtedly it is true that when a wife can support herself, her husband only too often leaves her to do it, and sometimes, as in your case he leaves her to support him also. And, on the other hand, it is undoubtedly true that in many cases the knowledge that his wife is utterly helpless and dependent on him brings out all of the best that is in a man and develops his manhood.

But as you never can tell beforehand how a man will react to any situation, the only thing the life can do is to try him out. If he is willing to make a real partnership of their marriage and to pool their earnings so that they can get a better start in life, she is justified in going on with her work. But if she finds that he is lying down on his job and expecting her to be the bread-winner as well as the breadmaker, then she is wise if she quits work outside of the home and throws the whole responsibility upon his shoulders. And she is an idiot and worse if she lets any husky, strong, healthy man live upon her.

DOROTHY DIX.

Guest Artists at Madrigal Concert

GEORGE LAMBERT

NORMAN WILKS, M.C.

The annual Madrigal Choir concert on March 5 will be even more eagerly anticipated this year than others, for to Peterborough music lovers is to be given an opportunity to hear not only this fine choir, so well known to metropolitan centres, but two distinguished guest artists. They are Norman Wilks, M.C., Hon. R.C.M., brilliant English pianist whose recitals in a number of European countries have won him international fame, and George Lambert, distinguished Toronto baritone.

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Sunday, February 25

SUNDAY'S horoscope holds auguries that indicate this to be an excellent time for group work for the spiritual benefit and uplift of mankind. Institutional collaboration between civic and ecclesiastical forces should be of benefit under this spur to humane impulses and mystical vision. Write cautiously.

Those whose birthday it is may find their best forces and ambitions will gain fruit by co-operation with others of similar ideas and ideals. Business, hard work and sagacious insight in major opportunities should spell high success, especially if the handling of writings and documents has been wise.

A child born on this day may have many talents for success and high accomplishments, especially if it will direct its native intuitive or inspirational impressions into practical channels, in collaboration with others.

For Monday, February 26.

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is for some rather singular, perplexing and dubious situations. But these may bring progress, success and personal gratifications if cautiously and sagaciously manipulated. It will take shrewd insight and tact, especially with superiors or those having decisions to make.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year of rather curious or intriguing experiences, in which keen insight, vigilance and shrewdness may be required to circumvent certain strategies. Unique developments may demand forethought and finesse in handling superiors. Step cautionsly all the way.

A child born on this day may have a set of unusual qualities and talents, with curious slants which call for early understanding and proper direction. These may develop into highly constructive virtues.

Roseneath Girl Guest Of Honor

HASTINGS, Feb. 24.—(ENS). — Miss Ruth Morrow of Roseneath, who leaves next week for Peterborough to enter Nicholls Hospital as a nurse-in-training, was pleasantly surprised on Thursday evening when her relatives and a few friends met at the home of her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Beamish, for a social evening.

Program committee is Mrs. Fraser, Mrs. Tucker and Mrs. Milgate. Readings "Recipe for a Happy Day," by Mrs. A. Coffee; "A Good Housewife's Plea," Mrs. H. McAuley, and "It Shows in Your Face" by Mrs. R. Curtis followed.

A lunch of sandwiches, cookies and cake was served by the lunch committee Mrs. Tucker Mrs. F. Birney and Mrs. Johnson McKenzie.

Miss Olive Whitehead of Cobourg has returned home after visiting her parents Mr. and Mrs. George Whitehead.

Carnival Is Held For Red Crass

WARKWORTH, Feb. 24 (ENS)—An ice carnival was held Wednesday night in the Warkworth arena under the auspices of the Red Cross Society. There was a large crowd of spectators as well as a large number in costume.

The broom ball match between Morganston and Dartford was an attraction which was thoroughly enjoyed.

Music by N. Flindalls amplifiers added to the success of the carnival.

The many beautiful prizes were donated by the business men of the village.

Right Food for Dogs Wards Off Illness

Keep Your Pet Healthy, Happy

Solemn little rogue! Surely he's plotting some mischief! He fairly bounces with energy because his food is right.

His clever mistress began giving him meat, raw or cooked, at three weeks. Even young dogs need all kinds of meat—except pork. And fresh fish is good, too.

She's generous with butter, refreshing milk, buttermilk and clabber. She feeds him bread, rice macaroni and other starchy foods sparingly to avoid digestive and skin troubles. Vegetables—cooked and mashed or raw and ground—form only a small part of his meal.

Such a well-nourished dog puts up a much better fight against distemper than one that is improperly fed.

What are the symptoms of distemper? A rise in temperature affection of the eyes and nose, indications of stomach trouble, a loss of appetite, a general listlessness.

What to do for distemper, other ailments is told in our 32-page booklet by an authority on dogs. Gives directions for diet, grooming, training. Tells how to teach clever tricks.

Send 15c in coins or stamps for your copy of HOW TO CHOOSE AND CARE FOR YOUR DOG to Examiner, Home Service, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly your NAME ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

Percy W.I. Is Told About Cancer

WARKWORTH, Feb. 24 (ENS)—The February meeting of the Percy Women's Institute was held in the Council Chamber on Wednesday afternoon, with an attendance of over fifty members and ten visitors. In the absence of the president Mrs. William Shaw, first vice-president, was in the chair.

The meeting opened with the Institute Ode and all repeating the Lord's Prayer, after which the members honored the memory of the late Lord Tweedsmuir by silent prayer and singing one of his favorite hymns, "O God of Bethel."

After the usual business and reports from the Sunshine, Visiting, and Relief Committees, Dr. C. C. Armstrong, the guest speaker, gave an interesting as well as educational address on "Cancer."

Mrs. George Helson gave an interesting paper on the Institute Ode

Community singing of familiar songs and the beautiful hymn, "The Old Rugged Cross" were heartily sung. Mrs. Ezra Cornelius was the convener for the following program: Piano duet by Mrs. A. Maidens and daughter Beth; vocal duet, Misses Vera Plant and Lucille Palmateer.

A contest for the most attractive vegetable salad was won by Mrs. George Helson.

The roll call was answered by "Don'ts for Babies" and some helpful hints were given.

A vote of thanks was tendered the guest speaker, hostesses, program committee, and all who made the meeting so successful.

The meeting closed with the National anthem, after which lunch was served by the hostesses and their assistants.

Fraser Rally Is Held Young's Point

The National Conservative party was flatly opposed to conscription Gordon K. Fraser, the party's candidate in West Peterborough told a large audience at Young's Point Friday night as he opened his speaking campaign at a meeting in the Parish Hall.

While it was the opennig gun in the electoral battle, the gathering was more social than political. It was attended by many electors from the village and from Douro and Smith townships and there was dancing and moving pictures along with speeches which were brief. Rex Wilson's orchestra furnished the music for the lovers of the light fantastic.

In his short address Mr. Fraser warned his hearers that there were whispers being circulated that the Manion party was in favor of conscription and he told them emphatically that there was no truth in such stories. The National government party, he said, wanted a more vigorous Canadian war effort but on a voluntary basis.

Mr. Fraser said that it was not yet known who the Liberal candidate would be but whoever he was there was no quarrel with him as an individual. However he would have to be beaten as the representative of the King government, he said.

The candidate attacked the record of the King administration in regard to its agricultural policy, declaring that it had failed to do anything for the farmers since it had taken office.

Mr. Fraser assailed some of the arms contracts entered into by the King government, particularly the contract he said had been given to three Ottawa insurance brokers who had no plant and whose tender for practice bombs was one cent per unit lower than the lowest tender submitted by a legitimate manufacturing company.

Arthur Morris, president of the Young People's Club at Young Point was chairman of the meeting in place of Andrew Wilson kho is recovering from the effect of an accident. Mr. Morris made a brief address to the voters present, urging support for the national government and Gordon Fraser its candidate in this riding.

There were 250 people at the meeting.

Next week the Fraser campaign spreads out into Douro and Ennismore with meetings in the former township Tuesday night and at Ennismore on Friday night. During the following week in addition to several riding rallies there will be two large Fraser meetings in the Canadian Legion Hall with R. N. Maitland, Conservative leader in British Columbia the principal speaker on Monday, March 4 and John A. Marsh, member for West Hamilton, until the House dissolved, the speaker on Friday, March 8. Mr. Marsh, graduate of the Collegiate Institute will be guest speaker at the Kiwanis luncheon on the same day and will of course talk on a non-political subject on that occasion.

Massey Nominated

TORONTO, Feb. 24—(CP).—Denton Massey, Conservative member of Toronto Greenwood riding at dissolution of parliament last month, was named unanimously at a meeting last night to again contest the riding in the approaching Federal election.

Mr. Massey will be opposed by Thomas Reilly, Liberal, and B. E. Leavens, Co-operative Commonwealth Federation.

Celebrate Their Golden Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew McKenzie, 544 Bolivar Street, who are today marking their golden wedding anniversary. Mr. McKenzie was chief inspector at the Canadian General Electric plant here from 1914 until his retirement two years ago. Both are enjoying admirable health. Mr. McKenzie is 74 and his wife is two years his junior. He operates a car still and they frequently go for long drives in the country. (Examiner Staff Photo.)

Taught Sunday School For Quarter Of Century

Fifty-four boys of Andrew McKenzie's A.S.K. Class at Knox United church a quarter of a century ago left their work benches and marched off to serve in World War I. Seven of them never came back.

This story was recalled with feeling by Mr. and Mrs. McKenzie as they marked their golden wedding anniversary at their home at 544 Bolivar street. Both had taught Sunday School for a quarter of a century at Knox church.

Half a century of married life today liese behind this well-known Peterborough couple. They are marking the occasion quietly because Mrs. McKenzie's health will not permit her to entertain to any extent.

Retired Two Years Ago

Andrew McKenzie is one of the best known men ever to work at the Canadian General Electric plant. Two years ago when he retired from his important post as chief inspector, the men with whom he had been associated for 47 years tendered him a farewell banquet. The Kawartha Club has probably never been as crowded as it was that night, so many were anxious to do him honor. One of his proudest possessions is a testimonial, signed by fellow workers of long standing, to his service with the C.G.E. for 47 years.

It was on February 25, 1890, that Andrew McKenzie and Nettie Turner were married at Carleton Place. One of Mrs. McKenzie's wedding attendants, now Mrs. Elizabeth Dowdell, is still living. Both were natives of the district, Mr. McKenzie having been brought up in Almont township and Mrs. McKenzie in Carleton Place itself.

Pulled to Peterborough

Mr. McKenzie seemed to gravitate toward Peterborough. Shortly before his marriage he had worked in the old William Hamilton company here. Then on his honeymoon he brought his wife to this city. Later he worked for some time for the old Edison company here, but left to go to Montreal with the Royal Electric company.

It was when the Canadian General Electric company bought out the Royal Electric company that Mr. McKenzie learned that Peterborough just wouldn't stay out of his life. For the new company transferred him to the Peterborough plant and there he remained until he retired two years ago. From 1914 to his retirement he was chief inspector.

Mr. and Mrs. McKenzie are both members of Knox church and Mr. McKenzie is an elder there. They have one son living, Ian McKenzie, a member of the Peterborough Fire Department, and five grandchildren.

Silos Hurt Painting

PITSBURG, Feb. 24 — (AP). — Silos are hurting the business of painting farm pictures, Lila Hetzel, veteran artist complained to-day. The silos, she said, mean farmers must have more corn cutting machines. If they operate machines, farmers can't plant pumpkins between the rows of corn, and nobody, she says, will buy a harvest picture without a pumpkin in it.

ICE CUTTING THROUGH.

Ice cutting at Stoney Lake is practically completed, Roy Whetung of Crowe's Landing reports to-day. There was no trouble in getting plenty of thick, clear ice this winter, but the ice-cutters had to work in some decidedly cold weather.

NORMAL BROKEN INTO.

Some time Friday night the Normal School was broken into, apparently by juvenile invaders, who did an amount of irresponsible damage. Papers were strewn around and an apple in one of the desks had been bitten into and then hurled against the wall. It is not thought anything of importance was stolen. Police investigated the affair this morning after the caretaker reported that the school had been entered.

MOUTHORGAN CHAMPION

Ten members of the Examiner Harmonica Band have been extended an invitation to visit the Centre theatre next week to meet and hear the famous Paul Robinson, star of the stage and screen and recognized harmonica champion of the world. He will appear in person in a vaudeville act with a troupe of six.

THANKS A LOT.

This paper wishes to thank C. E. Ireson, eleven-year-old Billie Hayes, Western Avenue, Mrs. George Franks, Jackson Park Road, and S. H. Mitchell for kindly furnishing data in regard to a request for information concerning Peterborough's strong man, Daniel MacDonald.

JUDGMENT GIVEN.

In Police Court this morning, Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., gave judgment in favor of the complainant in the case in which Edward Pinch of Peterborough claimed $21 in wages from Ralph Greenbank, a dairy farmer near Norwood. Magistrate Langley heard the evidence in the case the other day and reserved judgment until this morning. W. J. Arthur Fair appeared for the complainant and Greenbank was defended by John A. Bradshaw.

Health Officer Is Discussed

Members of the Board of Health and the Board of Education discussed at a conference Friday afternoon their approach to the problem created by the death of Dr. A. W. McPherson, former medical officer for the Public Schools of the city, and by the enlistment of Dr. G. Murray Fraser, Medical Officer of Health, with the first Canadian division, now in England.

Alderman Dutton presided, with Mayor Hamilton and Alderman Ovens, associated with him in representing the Board of Health, and the members of the Board of Education present were D. G. H. Melton, G. W. Craw and H. G. Walker.

The Board of Health is considering the advisability of engaging Dr. L. A. Clark of Toronto as temporary Medical Officer of Health until the return of Dr. Fraser, and in the meantime the Board of Education has appointed Dr. Robert Nott as Health Officer of the Public Schools.

The meeting was only consultative in its scope, and Mr. Melton suggested that the present arrangement by the Board of Education should be retained to the end of the year, while the Board of Health was dealing with the question of appointing a qualified Medical Officer of Health to carry on the duties of that position during the absence of Dr. Fraser. The result of the discussion was the acceptance of that proposal, Mr. Melton stating that the members of the Board of Education could simply report to the other members of the Board the probabilities that were outlined.

If the Board of Health engages Dr. Clark it was suggested that there might be some co-operation between him and Dr. Nott, with a gradual clarifying of the combined health needs in the schools and the city generally. The question as to whether one Health Officer could perform the entire work alone was mentioned, and it was also said that possibility two doctors might be required. Alderman Dutton read the Board of Health's correspondence with Dr. Clark, but there has not yet been any definite engagement of him as M.O.H.

Marmora Tories Elect Officers

MARMORA, Feb. 24—(ENS).—An organization meeting of the Marmora National Conservative Association was held in the council chamber on Thursday evening.

The election of officers resulted as follows: Honorary president, Lieut. Percy Gray; president, N. Mumby; first vice-president, Robert Nayler; second vice-president, W. B. Wilde; secretary, Ralph Neal; treasurer, J. S. Jones.

Mr. George White, of Madoc, candidate in the coming election, gave a splendid talk on organization and election procedure.

Friend Paved Tate's Way To Edison Door

The recollections of railroading in the Peterborough-Lindsay district sixty years ago as recounted by Alfred O. Tate in his book, "Edison's Open Door" (Dutton) which the Examiner has been permitted to publish told of his youth in Peterborough where he was born in 1863 and of his first employment as despatcher in the Lindsay office of the Victoria Railway.

Another chapter quoted his memories of associates in those days, some of whom subsequently attained positions of prominence in the industrial life of this country. It seems that his Lindsay engagement continued for more than two years, and then in 1880, when he was seventeen years old, he returned to Peterborough to enter the office of the chief engineer of the Midland Railroad, Charles Blackwell, whose father, James Blackwell, had been the first general manager of the old pioneer Grand Trunk Railway.

Off To Virginia.

"A year later Mr. Blackwell went to Roanoke, Virginia, as mechanical superintendent of the Norfolk and Western Railroad, the Shenandoah Valley Railroad and the Roanoke Machine Works designed for locomotive and car building. Soon thereafter I received a letter from him asking if I would like to go to Virginia, and offering me a salary exactly three and one-half times greater than the one I then was earning.

Would I go? Would I! I did not wait to write my acceptance, I wired it."

Mr. Tate briefly describes conditions in the South in the early stages of its recovery from the ravages of the Civil War, and returns in another chapter to the element of chance that directs the lives and fortunes of men, which he had previously mentioned.

Elsewhere I have referred to the element of chance and the part it plays in shaping human affairs. Perhaps it may not be chance. Perhaps it represents a normal twist in the web of life which changes the direction of the thread, and which we, having been denied a preview of the pattern, designate as chance. But that thought savors too much of Fatalism and Predestination, assumptions with which I am not in sympathy, so I shall continue to pay tribute to that mysterious entity, the Element of Chance.

Edison's Brave Act.

If Edison in his early youth, when working as newsboy on a railroad running between Port Huron and Detroit, had not rescued an infant from the threat of an approaching train, the chances are that I never should have met him, nor would that infant in later years have become one of my stenographers. This significant incident occurred at Mount Clemens, an intermediate station on this railroad, where the child's father, J. U. Mackenzie, was the agent. In gratitude for this chivalrous deed Mackenzie taught Edison the art of telegraphy, and in later years went to Menlo Park, where Edison had established a laboratory destined to make the name of that hamlet famous throughout the world. Inspired by this environment, Mackenzie achieved invention and sold his device—I do not recall its nature—for the sum of ten thousand dollars, a considerable fortune in those days. To celebrate his triumph, he took his family on a trip to Scotland, where he was born, and on the return journey met a young Scotch engineer named King, who was on his way to Roanoke to enter the office of Charles Blackwell as a mechanical draughtsman. It was the beginning of a long and lasting friendship."

Mr. Tate recalls, incidentally, his introduction to General Beauregard, "the famous Confederate soldier, who at that time was President of the Louisiana Lottery, and whose merited reputation for integrity endowed this institution with prestige which attracted confidence and made it the most popular enterprise in the South." He also met Colonel Mowry, Colonel Mosby, commander of the famous squadron known as Mosby's Guerrillas; Robert L. Cutting, one of the incorporators of the original Edison Electric Illuminating Company, and other notables.

Meets Sam, Insull.

"My friend Charles G. Y. King left Roanoke in the autumn of 1882 for employment in a department of electrical engineering presided over by Edison himself. His friend Mackenzie procured this position for him....When it was arranged through the good offices of my friend King that I was to become assistant to Edison's private secretary, it was with mingled joy and regret that I said good-bye to my friends in old Virginia.

Although the contribution which I made towards its progress —

Morris Ackerman Will Support Canada In Drive to Counteract Adverse Publicity

E. A. Outram, assistant city clerk, received a letter yesterday from Morris Ackerman of Cleveland promising "fullest co-operation" in broadcasting assurance to prospective tourists that their summer holidays in Ontario will not be affected by this country's engagement in the war.

In a letter ten days ago, Mr. Outram wrote Mr. Ackerman both for information regarding American opinion, and also for assistance in dispelling doubts about the effects of Canada's preoccupation with the war. Mr. Ackerman replied within the last week he had attended the Cleveland sports and outdoor show which attracted 250,000 people who paid admissions. He spent considerable time in the Ontario Government's booth, and observed that nearly every person who visited it enquired whether there would be any restrictions on the usual free entry into Canada, and also whether they could look forward to normal holiday conditions.

Mr. Ackerman wrote that he would use his influence in his newspaper writing and also radio broadcasting to spread the information that holiday visitors need have no misgivings about their reception here this summer. Mr. Outram suggested that the various forms of advertising Ontario's "tourist business as usual" might be effectively supplemented by citizens writing to their relatives and friends in the United States advising them that they would be just as welcome as ever, and that they would also have the advantage of a favorable exchange rate for their money.

Unemployed Win Battle, Remove Padlock

Charles Lambert of the Peterborough Unemployed Workers Association, no longer the Peterborough Workers and Unemployed Association, informed the Examiner today that their headquarters in the building on the east side of George street nearly opposite Bethany Tabernacle, were re-opened yesterday afternoon, and everything was ready for their usual Friday night social.

It seems that one section of the association, more or less representing its employed members put a lock on the door in addition to the ordinary lock.

"The only person who has any authority to lock the place is our caretaker, who must have the proper keys in case of fire or water or something like that. There is nothing to be magnified about this little disagreement. The unemployed workers feel that this is essentially their association, but they will always welcome the interest and help of sympathetic workers. We are having a reorganization meeting on Tuesday night under the name of the Peterborough Unemployed Workers, and we hope to continue to be of service to the unemployed of this city."

Bell Ringers Give Concert

The Women's Association of George Street sponsored a concert by the Peterborough Hand Bell Ringers Friday night, and a large crowd was loud in its praises of this body of Salvation Army musicians The personnel, Mrs. R. C. Braund, Mrs. S. J. Richardson A.T.C.M., Mrs Mendell Braund, Ardyth Richardson, and Sheldon Richardson, with R. C. Braund interlocator, were introduced by H. G. Walker, and a varied interesting program was furnished by the expert bell ringers. The music was of a high order, with ballads, hymns and the masters rendered in a splendid and pleasing fashion, the audience showing appreciation of the delightfully refreshing and smartly-played numbers. Each ringer is an artist with the 36 bells used, and it is hoped this sextette will be heard again.

With the National Anthem, the program was commenced by R. C. Braund introducing the ringers.

Stories interspersed by Mr. Braund dealt with the Lupine bell at Lloyds of London, which is rung when ships are overdue and lost. Bells at Winchester and Southampton's clock tower and chimes. School bells also had a place among the "immortals" —the bells of Shandon—bells of the Bible—Tennyson's bells—the Inchcape Rock bell—the curfew bell of Gray's 'Elegy"——General Wolfe and his bell. Mr. Braund thought Eve must have been a bell-ringer. The great bell of Moscow, 196 tons in weight, largest bell in use in the Buddhist monastery in Canton, China—the great bell of Pekin, China — Big Ben of London—the bell in St. Mark's, Rome—New York Stock Exchange bell rung to open and close the business sessions—the bell in Port Royal, Jamaica, along with the torture rack, and the ship's clearance papers found in the shark's stomach, and now all in Kingston museum—all stories and information anent each bell was given by Mr. Braund in racy, chatty fashion, and enjoyed by his listeners.

The program included the follech"; bell duet, "The Church in lowing: Bell flourish, "Men of Harthe Wildwood" and "Carry Me Back to Old Virginny," Mrs. R. C. Braund and Mrs. S. J. Richardson; bell quartette, "Who is on the Lord's Side" and "Abide With Me," Mrs. R. C. Braund, Mrs. Richardson, Ardyth Richardson and Mrs. Mendel Braund; bell quintet, "Aunie Laurie"; vocal solo, Mrs. M. Braund; bell duet, "Onward Christian Soldiers" and "Sweet and Low"; vocal solo, Mrs. M. Braund; bell quartette, Rubinstein's Melody in F, and bell quintet, "Home Sweet Home."

Citizens Fail To Boost Vacation Lands

Recent comments published in the Examiner from C. S. Kingan, president of the Peterboro Fish and Game Protective Association, and Perry Alexander of Pine Forest Inn, B.C., and proprietor of Oak Orchard Lodge, were endorsed by Robert S. Holdaway of Bewdley this morning.

"It is really too bad that summer resort owners cannot or will not cooperate the way the people in other industries do," Mr. Holdaway said. "Even with our Northumberland-and-Durham Fish Association with just a small membership fee you would naturally expect that all the resort owners at Bewdley and around Rice Lake generally would take an active interest in our efforts. The Association has done things that have been a help to everybody, and you know if fishing failed us we would all lose a great deal of our revenue from tourists who come for the fishing.

Our committee at Bewdley needs the help of everybody in the district because we haven't a large section, but it has been our experience that quite a number of those who should be helping us seemed to have no interest in what we were trying to do. "Let the other fellow do it" was their attitude, and all they had to offer was criticism, and it was not constructive either.

The community is anxious enough for the tourist trade and the almighty dollar, but they won't turn out and help and boost." Mr. Holdaway salad, "If Mr. Kingan can do anything to stir up a new interest among the summer resort proprietors he should get their active support because we all need a steady flow of summer visitors to keep up the business of recent years."

Chops Off Thumb

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 24.—(ENS).— Mrs. Robert Stephens, Seymour Township, three miles east of here, sliced off her thumb while splitting kindling on Friday. The axe had just been sharpened by Mr. Stephens, who intended to take it out to the wood with him later in the day. The thumb was completely dismembered just above the first joint. Mrs. Stephens was later removed to the Campbellford Hospital, where she is being treated for shock.

Former Member Of Commons Passes In City

J. B. McColl, former Member of Parliament of Cobourg, died in hospital in Peterborough late Friday afternoon in his 80th year.

A barrister in Cobourg for 60 years, Mr. McColl was from 1900 to 1911 Member of Parliament at Ottawa for Northumberland West. He was a man of striking appearance with a mane of white hair that fell to his shoulders and was widely known from coast to coast. He had come to Peterborough to spend Christmas with his sister, Mrs. John F. Galvin, 588 Gilmour street, when he became ill and was taken to St. Joseph's hospital for treatment. He remained until his death yesterday. He was born in Murray township, Northumberland county.

The name, J. B. McColl, was a familiar one to many people in this district who had never known the individual; for one of the government's Trent Canal tugs used to be the J. B. McColl.

Mr. McColl went to Cobourg on his graduation from University and practised law there for the remainder of his life. He was active in municipal affairs, and was mayor of Cobourg. Monsignor W. J. McColl of Lindsay is a brother.

Mr. McColl is survived by two daughters, Jean and Mandie McColl of Peterborough; three sisters, Miss Eunice McColl and Mrs. Thomas Regan of Frankford, and Mrs. John Francis Galvin of Peterborough; and a brother, Monsignor W. J. McColl of Lindsay.

The funeral will be held on Monday morning at 8.45 o'clock from the residence of Mrs. J. F. Galvin, 558 Gilmour street, to St. Peter's Cathedral for Solemn High Mass of Requiem at 9 a.m.

Undressed Title Goes To Janice Logan

This "very serious" kudos was bestowed last night by the Art Students League upon the youthful newcomer to the screen, a Chicago Junior Leaguer.

The selection was announced at the league's annual ball after the entire student body had examined photographs of actresses, burlesquers, chorines and debutantes.

The league, weary of annual selections of the country's ten best-dressed women, selected these ten best undressed women—all screen actresses—in the order named:

Miss Logan, Marlene Dietrich, Dorothy Lamour, Ruth Terry, Zorina, Miriam Hopkins, Carole Landis, Shirley Ross, Ann Sheridan and Vivian Leigh.

Bathing girls were ruled out as being prettily undressed but not "distinctively so.'

The debutantes just didn't have it.

And the screen actresses did.

This was because, the League said, "undressing in motion pictures has become a fine art that can't be approached elsewhere."

Records Killing Of D'Arcy McGee

OTTAWA, Feb. 24. — (CP). — Nearly 73 years after officials gathered in the committee rooms of parliament to consider the death of Thomas D'Arcy McGee, the original record of the inquest into the assassination that shook the foundations of Canadian Confederation has been placed in the government archives.

It is a paper yellowed with the years, this document on which the coroner's jury returned in sprawling letters a quarter of an inch high the verdict of "murder at the hand of a person or persons unknown."

Crown Attorney Raoul Mercier located the document while thumbing through old records of his office. It told in gruesome detail how an assassin's bullet cut McGee to the ground on April 17, 1868, as the member of parliament for Montreal was in front of a Sparks street rooming house.

Shortly after the inquest P. J. Whelan was arrested, convicted of the murder, and executed.

The record of the inquest, 24 sheets of foolscap, was written in longhand by Coroner Edward Van Cortlandt. It still bears the seals attached when it was signed two days after the assassination of McGee, one of the Fathers of Confederation.

Evidence of Dr. Donald McGillivrary, one of the 13 witnesses, showed that the pistol from which the bullet was fired was held close to McGee's head. "The hair at the back of Mr. McGee's head was burned by gun powder," he told the inquest. "I traced the bullet from the spot where it entered Mr. McGee's neck, through the jugular vein and out the mouth."

The doctor told how he conducted the post mortem "11 or 12 hours after the bullet was fired." Aided by another physician, Dr. McGillivray said the examination was made in the attic of the rooming house. Other witnesses told of their movements about the time McGee was murdered. But their testimony was brief compared with the seven full sheets taken up with Dr. McGillivray's record.

Historians proclaimed McGee the "first martyr to Canadian Unity." A 32-yearlold Irish journalist, McGee settled in Montreal in 1857 and founded the newspaper, "The New Era" which survived little more than a year.

During 1866, the Irish extremists, or Fenians, in the United States attempted an invasion of Canada and McGee denounced them with merciless eloquence in his address. As a result he became a marked man.

King, Manion Warm Up 1st Round On National Government Issue

The chief Liberal and Conservative contenders for the Parliamentary crown finally have squared off on the National Government issue and battled through the first round of the political bout that probably will be a rough-and-tumble scrap before it is settled at the polls.

The election campaign began ponderously but this first full week of strenuous electioneering saw the Government launch a vigorous campaign and witnessed Conservative Leader Manion steadily press his efforts in the far West.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King and Dr. Manion both hit out on the National Government question in speeches last night as five other Liberal cabinet ministers and three prominent Conservatives added their voices to the growing campaign din.

The Liberal leader in his third National broadcast warned against what he said are dangers in a National or Union Government and made it celar that neither he nor his cabinet colleagues would enter such an administration which Dr. Manion proposes to form if he obtains a majority.

The advantages of an official opposition are important to a democratic parliament, the Prime Minister said, and the Liberals will constitute that opposition if defeated.

But if the Government is returned, he continued, a still larger number of outstanding men will be brought to the aid of the ministry in an advisory capacity. This was interpreted at Ottawa as indicating possibility that parliamentary under-secretaries would be appointed after the fashion of the British Parliament.

An Ominous Picture

Mr. Mackenzie King painted an ominous picture of a possibly spreading war and declared Canada's hope "lies in the gathering of our strength to meet the gathering of the storm."

Dr. Manion in an Edmonton speech argued that a one-party government could not avoid leaning to politics, favoritism and extravagant public works in constituencies, while a national government could. He pointed to the National Government in Great Britain as the best argument for a similar administration in this country which would have the duty of carrying out a whole-hearted war effort and laying plans for peace.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King and his cabinet had a political attitude that meant continuation in Canada's war effort of politics, favoritism and profiteering.

At the same meeting Senator W. A. Griesbach of Edmonton charged that the government's policy was one of "limited liability."

Hon. J. A. MacKinnon, minister without portfolio, gave another provincial network speech in Alberta.

Sole issue in the approaching Dominion election is the "war record" of the Mackenzie King government.

Revenue Minister Ilsley told a nomination meeting at Middleton, N. S.

There was no issue between the major parties as regards their answering determination to devote every effort toward victory for the Empire and her ally, France, he said. The question was which group—Liberal or Conservative—was regarded by the Canadian people as best-fitted for the job.

The meeting re-nominated Mr. Ilsley as Liberal candidate in Digby-Annapolis-Kings.

Mr. Ilsley defended the record of the Mackenzie King administration. A war budget was passed, the excess profits act was placed on the statutes and other necessary measures effected.

Want Election Over

Parliament had been dissolved suddenly, he said, because it was desirable that an election should be over and stability of government established before a probable spring offensive developed.

The "hasty" dissolution of parliament in January had the effect of arousing a "real demand for a National government in the broadest sense of that term," W. Allen Walsh, Conservative candidate in Mount Royal, said at Kingston.

"The reason advanced by the Prime Minister for the dismissal of Parliament carries no weight as far as the electorate are concerned," said Mr. Walsh.

He said the electorate felt as did members of parliament that "it was rather a sharp turn and a somewhat cold-blooded act to prevent the registration of public indignation against the government for their lack of energy in prosecuting the war."

"This action of the King government places a blot on parliamentary democratic institutions and undermines the very principles for which we are fighting," he added.

"One direct effect of the hasty action of the Prime Minister in dissolving parliament has been to unite the National Conservative party into a real fighting unit," Walsh said.

Only Wartime Regime

Hon. J. Earl Lawson, former Conservative minister of national revenue, appealed for the support of a national government which he maintained was the only government capable of administration during wartime.

In an address at Toronto broadcast over a national network, Mr. Lawson said a nation at war required a national government. He reiterated his charges that Prime Minister Mackenzie King had "scuttled" parliament so that he might gain at the polls another four years in office.

Mr. Lawson said he realized that most of his listeners during the day would be women and he said he wanted to give them an example of how women forgot all politics, religions, philosophies and creeds so they might unite their efforts in such organization work as the Red Cross. Their primary object, he said, exceeded all differencees of opinion or domestic controversies.

"No business in Canada is more important that the national business at any time," he said, "and particularly in times of war. Surely if women need national organization to obtain the best results from their war efforts, Canada needs a national government to best manage its business and administer its affairs."

"No Regard for Troops"

The Canadian government has had an absolute disregard for the soldier, sailors and airmen, Denton Massey Conservative member for Toronto Greenwood said in an address at Lindsay, Ont.

"If you want to know the shameful conditions at the outbreak of the war you don't want to listen to a political speaker delivering a partisan address," said Mr. Massey, "you should listen to the soldiers themselves.

"Prime Minister Mackenzie King says he has been in the shadow of war for two years and I say this is condemnation in view of the fact that our defences have been left almost untouched."

Mr. Massey said it would be 92 weeks before the first delivery of planes from Canadian factories would be made as a contribution of the Empire training scheme when he eastigated the King government for what he described as their refusal to accept the scheme in 1938.

The Prime Minster had said "No" to proposals that Canada provide some of her vast space to the Empire training scheme "away back on Dominion Day, 1938—I heard him."

Mr. Massey said that the Lindsay arsenal, with 20 men employed "is not doing much to keep Hitler out, despite the fact the ordnance officers have recommended long ago the establishment of pilot plants throughout the country."

Dealing with the Mackenzie King cabinet, Mr. Massey criticized the appointment of Hon. Norman Rogers to the defence portfolio. He said he was incapable of dealing with the problems of Labor Minister, a post Mr. Rogers held previously. He also criticized Agriculture Minister Gardiner as one "who doesn't know anything of Ontario mixed farming."

To The Limit

Limit of Canada's war effort, so far as the present government is concerned, "is just the limit of her resources and her strength," Finance Minister Ralston declared in a nomination speech at Summerside, P.E.I.

"I believe that Canada wants to put every ounce she can muster into this war and that in trying to estimate her capacity every true Canadian will approve the principle, not how little? but rather, how much?"

The minister warned his listeners they should "strangle on sight those twin offspring of wishful thinking which get in our way and hinder our effort"—the idea that the enemy is likely to collapse and that an early peace will be negotiated and the war will be short."

For the fiscal year starting April 1, 1940, the Finance Minister estimated Canada would spend $500,000,000 on her war effort. Already the estimate for the first year of war, ending next September 1, has been placed at $375,000,000—more than $1,000,000 a day.

Col. Ralston was given the Liberal nomination in Prince County.

Col. Ralston said the proposal of Conservative Leader Manion to select the best brains available for cabinet posts had "already been pretty well put into actual practice by the Prime Minister when he selected his present cabinet."

Any government that had advocated expenditures on war precated expenditures on war pre-Great Britain four years ago "would have been forced to relinquish office," Agriculture Minister Gardiner said at Sunderland, Ont.

Spend More for Defence

Mr. Gardiner said Liberal administrations had consistently spent more on preparedness than Conservative governments.

"In the last year before the King administration left office in 1930, $22,000,000 was spent on national defence," he said. "When we came back to power we found that Bennett in 1935 spent $13,750,000. They cut the expenditurees for defence of Canada—not for war—and Dr. Manion was a member of that government."

Hon. T. A. Crerar, Minister of Mines, charged in an address at Milton, Ont., that many of the difficulties in speeling up Canada's war effort could be directly attributed to the "collossal neglect of the nation's vital defences by the last Conservative government.

Over the period between 1930 and 1935 only a total of $100,000,000 was spent on the Canadian army, navy, air force and coast defences, he said.

The minister said purely destructive criticism of the Liberal government had strengthened Hitler's hand and weakened the position of Great Britain and France. He warned Canadians against "playing politics" and thus playing into the hands of the dictators.

Hon. Earl Rowe, former Ontario Conservative leader and member of the last parliament for Dufferin-Simcoe riding, was chosen as Conservative candidate for the riding at a nominating convention at Alliston.

Mr. Rowe charged in an address that the Mackenzie King administration had been lax in war preparation. The Liberal government had voted $188,000,000 two years ago for the defence of Canada and to date and "there has not been one revolver nor rifle manufactured with it."

"Our first contingent didn't even have suitable clothing to make the trip to England," said Mr. Rowe. "Why they even drilled in sweaters and shirt sleeves."

Refugee Clips Jeweller Out Of $12,000

TORONTO, Feb. 24 (CP)—Police revealed today that two men, one posing as a German refugee, swindled a prominent Toronto jeweller of $12,000 recently. The fraud was known only to police until Friday at the request of the jeweller who said he was ashamed at being "taken" so easily.

Police said the two men are believed to have left the city and are believed to have worked similar swindles in Montreal and New York. Federal United States police are co-operating with Toronto and Royal Canadian Mounted Police in an effort to trace the men.

The Toronto jeweller told police the man who approached him said he was a jeweller who had fled Germany with $60,000 in diamonds. The swindler said majority of the diamonds were in Paris but he gave the jeweller a bag of diamonds which he said he would sell for $12,000.

The Toronto jeweller had the diamonds appraised and was told by experts that he was getting a "great bargain." A few days later the swindler returned with another man, a deal was agreed on, and the following day during negotiations, an empty package was substituted for the one containing the diamonds, police said.

Laborite Beats Red, Fascist

LONDON, Feb. 24—(CP). — The Labor Party candidate, Arthur Hollins, won an overwhelming victory today in a three-cornered by-election fight in the Silvertown division of West Ham against a Communist and a Fascist.

Mr. Hollins was elected to parliament with 14,343 votes, against 966 for Harry Pollitt, former Secretary-General of the British Communist Party, and 151 for the candidate of the British Union (formerly the British Union of Fascists), Tom Moran.

The Communists and Fascists campaigned against the war and asked voters to show their desire for immediate cessation of hostilities by voting against the Labor Party candidate. The Labor nominee declared the war must be continued until the Hitler peril has been removed.

The seat was made vacant by the retirement of J. J. Jones, Labor. In accordance with the wartime political truce, the Conservative and Liberal parties did not run candidates in the by-election.

Both Pollitt and Moran forfeited their deposits of £150 ($667).

New Voters' Lists Increase 10 p.c.

OTTAWA, Feb. 24—(CP) Figures of the number of electors on the new voters' lists are pouring in from constituencies to the chief electoral office here and indicate a 10-per cent increase over the numbers listed in the 1935 election.

Jules Castonguay, chief electoral officer, said returns so far show a total of more than 6,500,000 voters on the lists as compared with 5,918,207 in the last election. This increase of approximately 600,000 has been over a period of only four years, four months.

The increase from the 1930 to 1935 elections, a period of five years and three months, was 761,236. The increase for the full five years from 1925 to 1930 was 545,335.

Pick Chamberlain As Best Dressed

LONDON, Feb. 24 — (CP). — Seventy-year-old Prime Minister Chamberlain has ousted handsome Dominion's Minister Anthony Eden from first place in the sartorial stakes, according to a group of men who influence style in tailoring here.

These anonymous experts met in conference and, according to reports named Mr. Chamberlain best dressed Englishman of today. Second place went to Sir Samuel Hoare, Lord Privy Seal. Mr. Eden declined to third place.

But the findings of this body of fashion arbiters did not receive unanimous support in tailor circles, and there were cries of "old school tie!" from supporters of the rival Savile row crowd and the Piccadilly gang.

Mr. Chamberlain, it seems, won his place by the conservative cut of his garments. Sir Samuel, whom many would place before the prime minister, was said to be clothes-conscious—"and the well-dressed Englishman should not disclose, either consciously or unconsciously, that he knows his clothes fit him well and suit him perfectly."

And Mr. Eden, it was hinted by this exclusive group, had simply gone out because the black felt hat to which his name is liked had become "too popular."

Alice Wants Divorce

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 24—(AP).—The tuneful romance of blues-singer Alice Faye and her radio-crooning husband, Tony Martin, has come to a discordant ending. Alice plans to get a divorce. Martin's work kept him constantly on the east coast and Alice's kept her in Hollywood and so their careers pulled them apart.

Quebec's New Premier Is Backing Move To Give Votes To Women In Province

QUEBEC, Feb. 24—(CP)—Premier Adelard Godbout said today a bill to grant Quebec women the vote in Provincial elections will be introduced in the Legislative Assembly probably in about three weeks. Women were promised the vote in the Throne speech read at the opening of the Legislature Tuesday.

"I shall probably sponsor the measure myself," the Premier told newspapermen. "I cannot say yet exactly when it will come up, but it probably will be in about three weeks."

Extension of the suffrage, promised by the Premier and his Liberal supporters last fall, will end a long fight by feminists of the province. The Provincial Lower House has rejected such a measure more than a dozen times.

The Throne speech, read by Lieutenant-Governor Fiset, disclosed government plans to grant women the vote because under modern conditions they "play an important part, and their co-operation has become indispensable in bringing about much needed social reforms."

460 Candidates Now In Field

TORONTO, Feb. 24—(CP).—With two weeks to go before the official nomination date a survey by The Canadian Press today showed 460 candidates in the field for the Canadian General Elections March 26. Nomination day is March 11.

Nominations conventions are proceeding at a fast pace after the lull between the outbreak of war last September and the dissolution of parliament Jan. 25. But it seemed evident today that the total in the lists when voting comes will be considerably short of the record number in he last Federal election. In 1935 there were 893 candidates contesting the 245 seats. The 1930 election had 531 candidates.

The Liberals today had 180 accredited candidates in the fight and the Conservatives 148. The Co-operative Commonwealth Federation has nominated 84 candidates and the 48 remaining aspirants are of many shades of political opinion, including New Democracy candidates, Communists, Independents and Labor.

For Ontario's 82 seats a total of 190 candidates are already entered—73 Liberals, 74 Conservatives, 23 C.C.F. and 20 others.

Six New Quakes Kill 200 Turks

ANKARA, Feb. 24 — (AP). — Six new earth shocks in Central Anatolia in Asiatic Turkey to-day caused widespread damage and increased a steadily mounting death told to nearly 200.

Hardest hit by the new quakes were the villages of Kulpak, Kizik and Sindernike, where scarcely a house was left standing.

Thousands have been left homeless by the series of tremors which, starting Wednesday, have virtually destroyed nine villages and badly damaged several others.

Terrified peasants spent the night in the debris-choked streets or the open fields, their suffering increased by bitterly cold weather.

Ankara felt three tremors yesterday. The Sivas area, devastated last December by earthquakes and floods which took more than 50,000 lives, also felt several minor earth shocks, but no casualties were reported.

Musician Admits Red Rose Murder

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Feb. 24—(AP). — Police listed the killing of a 17-year-old Texas girl at Los Angeles last December 26 as solved today with the arrest of John Reavis, 25, a musician.

Reavis, arrested yesterday, admitted he "flew into a rage" and stabbed Alice (Jerry) Burns to death, police said, but appeared puzzled when pressed for the motive.

"We were sitting in the car," Reavis told police, "and all of a sudden, for what reason I don't know, we both became terribly angry.

"We began struggling, left the car, and continued struggling in an empty lot. I seemed to be in a daze. The next thing I remember I had a knife in my hand." He admitted they had been drinking.

The girl's nude body was found in a lot, a crushed artificial rose under her head. The slaying was popularly termed the "red rose murder."

Germans Claim Prisoners In Surprise Raid

BERLIN, Feb. 24 — (AP). — The German high command's communique to-day said:

"On the Western Front, between the Mosel (Moselle) River and the Palatinate Forest lively activity before enemy trenches.

"In a successful patrol action in the region of Apach and an equally successful surprise assault on the enemy occupying a position in the Heydt Forest west of Merzig numerous prisoners were taken. No losses were suffered by our patrols.

"The air force undertook extensive reconnaissance flights over the North Sea, British Isles and Eastern France. Two German planes failed to return from a flight to England.

"Of three British planes which flew over German (Heligoland) Bight one, of the Vickers Wellington type, was shot down by one of our Messerschmitt machines."

Show Of Century

New York, Feb. 24 (AP)

A SHOW that comes once in a century starts tonight, to continue the rest of February.

It is five brilliant stars in the west, just after sunset, hanging in a long, staggered string above the place where the sun goes down. Two of them are brilliant enough to answer the description of the star of Bethlehem, and the others only a little less luminous.

The five are all the planets that are ever visible without telescopes. They are, in order upward from the sunset spot, Mercury, Jupiter, Venus, Saturn and Mars.

Marmora Team Drops Game To Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 24 (ENS)—In a wide open T.V.L. contest Campbellford copped an easy 10 to 4 decision from Marmora here last night. Despite a lop-sided score, both teams set a blazing pace throughout the game which was featured by end to end rushes and plenty of good combination on the part of the home crew who gave their smartest performance of the season. It was the last time Sunocos will meet Marmora and marked thier second win from the Mic Macs. The additional four points put the homesters at the head of the league along with Norwood Hornets, whom they will meet here next Monday.

It was superior combination tactics along with Turner's classy net-minding which gave locals the edge on the play. They stepped into the lead early in the first period and were never headed. Though Referees Cousins and Payne handed out thirteen penalties nearly all were for tripping and heavy body checking which was a feature of the game. Even in the final canto as tempers were flaring and the customers were doing plenty of agitating fro mthe sidelines there was little real rough stuff.

The Mic Macs didn't break into the score sheet till the second period when Wilkes was given the nod for high sticking and Reynolds and Gus Leonard combined to ring one on Turner. Reynolds fired from close range one of those tricky shots which slid between Turner's skates, and the success along with the cheering of a good many Marmora supporters spurred the visitors on to another ganging attack which lasted until the Sunocos were again at full strength.

It was Joe Kelly, one of the newest members of the local squad, who opened the scoring in the first frame. He tallied twice during the period on good combination plays with Hendy and Robinson. Leading sniper of the evening was Wib Blake, starry centre player, whose bullet-like shots have been a real threat to every net-minder in the league. He registered five times and collected two assists during the contest.

Twice during the initial frame he bulged the hemp on solo efforts carrying the puck from his own blue line on the first and taking the puck from a Marmora player at centre ice to carry through for the second, which was a perfectly aimed shot into the unguarded corner. At the eight-minute mark Hendy, who was back on the defence line for the entire game, slipped one past Callery after drawing him out of the net.

Following Reynolds' opener in the second the homesters tore in trying to stretch out their lead which they did when Hendy carried in from the blue line and lit the light to make the score six to one. Robinson, hard working Sunoco forward, got the nod for tripping and as the visitors turned on a power drive, Hendy was sent to the hoosegow for charging Smith at centre ice. Despite his protests that he was inside the blue line at the time the referee gave him a two-minute rest, and as Marmora pressed their advantage Turner was called upon to stop difficult shots which he did until O'Neill slipped one into the corner. Kerr was waved away for upsetting Hendy and the winners went in five men strong, while Callery used everything to stop the rubber which came at him from all sides.

The visitors were again at full strength when Robinson whipped Blake's rebound in, but Smith countered with a neat solo effort while Turner was unguarded and made the score 7 to 3 at the end of the period.

The homesters were down the ice when Johnston and Leonard tore in and though the shot appeared labelled Turner batted it into the corner, coming out of his net to get it. O'Neill was benched for high sticking, and with five forwards the locals tore in to score twice before the visitors were at full strength. Blake and Hendy combined on the first and Godden slipped the puck to Blake for the second. Robinson was waved away for hooking and Hendy and Smith trailed him into the penalty box for charging, but even with a one-man advantage the visiting crew re unable to get in a scoring position. Reynolds and Gus Leonard combined for the Mic Macs' final tally at the seven-minute mark, and though they fought gamely to cut down Sunoco's lead, they were no match for the flashy brand of hockey dished out by the home crew.

The summary:

First Period.

Campbellford, Kelly (Hendy).. 5.20
Campbellford, Hendy (Blake). 8.37
Campbellford, Blake 9.00
Campbellford, Kelly (Robinson) 9.30

Collegians Win Three Tilts

Peterborough Collegiate and Vocational School's junior boys' basketball squad, undefeated this season, added another victory to their imposing string Friday night when they defeated the Port Hope High School juniors 23 to 7. The Friday night triple-header in the local school gym was a clean sweep for the Peterborough students for the senior boys shellacked Port Hope Senior 61 to 5 and the Collegiate girls took the Port Hope lassies into camp in a close battle 20-18.

Sparked by Hall who tossed in three field baskets and registered on a free throw the P.C.V.S. junior boys were never seriously challenged. They outscored the visitors 10 to 3 in the first half and kept the same pace in the second chapter to ring up 13 points against 4. The Peterborough youngsters had too much speed and teamplay for the Port Hope outfit and their ball handling and accurate shooting enabled them to easily stay in front. Port Hope on the other hand were so closely checked that they were able to score only two baskets from the field. The losers tossed in three out of six free tries while Peterborough succeeded only once out of five.

Hall and Gillespie went especially well for the winners and got lots of help from their teammates while Smith and White got the visitors' only two field baskets.

P.C.V.S. (23)—Hall 7, Richardson 2, Gillespie 6, Gardner 2, Moorhead 2, Smith 2, Routley, Saunders, Rogow 2.

Port Hope High (7)—Bongard 1, White 2, Guy, Wheeler, Martyn, Hogson 1, Staples, Smith 2, Minaker 1, Trott.

Referee C. M. Krug, Umpire M. Bigelow.

A Field Day

P.C.V.S. senior boys had a field day at the expense of Port Hope High's senior squad, winning by 56 points in a game in which the visitors never had a chance. The speed, ball-handling and marksmanship of the winners made the affair a runaway from start to finish. In the first half P.C.V.S. kept pitching and ringing up baskets until the scorekeeper was the busiest individual on the floor and the halftime interval saw them in front 36 to 1, only a successful free throw by H. Snelgrove keeping the thing from being unanimous. The second half was almost as bad, the winners outscoring the visitors 25 to 5. Port Hope scored only one field basket which must be some kind of a record. Moorhead with 14 baskets and a successful free throw for 29 points and Bill Harle with 16 points led the P.C.V.'s attack while Brown scored the only basket for the Port Hopers.

P.C.V.S. (61)—Marshall 7, Moorhead 29, Taylor 5, McPherson 1, Harle 16, Johnston, Scott 3.

Port Hope High (5)—Brown 2, H. Snelgrove 1, Dayman 1, N. Snelgrove, Austin 1, George, Ward, Bongard, White, McCaw.

Referee—Dr. Worton. Umpire C. E. Eastman. Scorer, R. Rogow.

The girls' game was the best battle of the night and the Peterborough girls had to come from behind to win out. They were down 11 to 8 at the half but, led by Elfie Saunders who rattled in five smart baskets in the second chapter, they outscored their opposition 12 to 8 and thus grabbed off the honors 20 to 18.

The Port Hope girls put up a great battle and they lost simply because they could not find a way to stop Elfie Saunders who sparked the Peterborough team with 17 points in a notable display of scoring. Oddly enough only two Peterborough players figured in the scoring, Helen Beatty getting the other three points. Dot Dickinson was tops in point-getting for the losers, leading the attack with 7 points. Belle Stalter and Grace Branwood were close behind with 4 points each.

P.C.V.S. (20)—Betty Couper, Fran Merritt, Elfie Saunders, 17, Helen Beatty 3, Dorothy Bateson. Shirley Richardson, Jean Castle, Doris Glover, Agnes Richardson.

Port Hope High (18)—Dot Dickinson 7, Belle Stalter 4, Grace Branwood 4, Betty Cotter, Mark Kearn[illegible], Fern Hodgson, Mary [illegible] O'Connor, Ad. Smith, Caroline Stalter.

Referee—C. M. Krug, scorers, Barbara Richardson and Helen Brown.

CURLING

By HERB MARTIN

It is more than likely, by late Monday night, we will have reached the finals in the primary event of the Neill Trophy competition as far as the Consolation is concerned it will be well into the middle of the week before it is finished.

Another fourteen games were chalked up last night and on ice as fast as could be. The boys again excelling themselves by being out pretty well on time.

The draw for Monday night has not been made, but we will advise the skips as soon as it is handed in.

A game that had somewhat of an international flavor to it was played yesterday at the noon hour, when a rink from Milwaukee which by the way had been over here competing in the Toronto bonspiel was entertained by a rink from the Johnson Motor Company.

Milwaukee [illegible] Johnson Motors:
Stew[illegible] Clarence Neal
[illegible] E. Legon
[illegible]mersock Ernie Estlick
Skip.....10 Honey White
Mascot—Lorne Skip..... 5
Johnny Madden. Ardiel.. Advisor—

Just as a climax to a week of fine curling there will be a mixed game at 7.45 this evening. All are invited.

SOLDIER NAMES WANTED

The National Conservative Association desires to secure at once a complete list of Peterborough members of the Canadian Active Service Force, whether overseas or in Canada, along with their adresses. Friends of Peterborough soldiers who have this information are asked to communicate with the

as soon as possible, or telephone 9922.

"We Pledge Ourselves Not To Enforce Conscription"

HON. R. J. MANION.

There is a plain, explicit and unequivocal pledge from the leader of the National party and it gives the lie, flatly and bluntly to the friends of the King government who have been whispering all over the riding that "Manion is for conscription." It was a miserable appeal, made by men who must have known it was false but who did not care so long as there was a chance of it making votes for their cause.

The electors of West Peterborough should not be fooled by any such desperate tactics. Don't let any one tell you that Manion and his party favour conscription. The platform of the National party contains a straightforward pledge that conscription will not be resorted to.

Here is the recruiting section of the Manion manifesto:

"Through the dilatory and half-hearted methods of the King government recruiting has been discouraged. We pledge ourselves to encourage voluntary recruiting and to provide conditions in the army, navy and air force which will make them attractive to our young men. Thus we shall always have trained men, ready if necessary, to go overseas, either in new divisions or as reinforcements. WE PLEDGE OURSELVES NOT TO ENFORCE CONSCRIPTION."

There is the answer to the miserable campaign that is being waged, not only here, but all over Canada, to deceive the electors. Even that apostle of Canadian unity, the Right Hon. Ernest Lapointe, has not hesitated to go on the air and make the statement that opponents of the King government would welcome the failure of voluntary enlistment so that they might substitute conscription.

Even a political novice knows that that statesmanlike utterance was made for one purpose alone to prejudice the voters of Quebec against the National party and to set up the idea elsewhere that "Manion is for conscription."

The voters should show what they think of that miserable appeal. They have their chance on March 26.

A Nation at War Needs a National Government.

ONE FALSE STEP

BY KATHRN BEMIS

SYNOPSIS

Characters as you meet them:

JANIS SHELDON—Orphaned stenographer who has inherited $20,000 and is on her way to Hollywood to seek fame and greater fortune.

ROCK CONOVER — Guard in charge of a number of prisoners being transported to San Quentin.

YESTERDAY'S ACTION

Janis decides, after a night's sleep, that she should not bother with Rock and goes to the diner on the trans-continental train for her breakfast. There she is joined by Rock, who seems to have some strange influence over her. She tells him of her plans and he, in turn, says he aspires to greater things and is also going into pictures.

CHAPTER III

She began weaving dizzily rearward, tugging with all her might at a series of clumsy-moving doors on her way back to the observation car, conscious of a strange new exultation of being.

Her feet were like weightless wings and all the glamorous plans she had so painstakingly made for fulfilling her dreams now swung over her like so much cobweb—precariously dim and irrelevant and fragile.

She wondered if, actually, she would be foolish enough to toss away a possible thrilling career for love. She already knew that she could no more prevent herself from loving Rock Conover than she could will herself to stop breathing. Rock Conover was her man—and she had found him in the most astonishing manner.

When Janis reached the observation car she picked at random a magazine from a pile on a table and sank into the nearest unoccupied chair, utterly wrapped in the delightful torment of her heart.

She crossed her knees, revealing lovely lengths of beautifully curved silk hose above modish little green suede shoes, toward which more than one pair of eyes, both male and female, were magnetically drawn.

She opened the magazine and pretended to read about the latest geological discovery in far away Egypt, her ears still ringing with the sound of a certain voice which was precariously swaying her balance-wheel.

The train was slowing down now, pulling up to a station; but where she was or what famous sights could be seen in this place did not interest her. The magazine slipped unheeded from her lap to the floor as the train abruptly stopped.

A Stranger

"Have you finished with this?" asked a thin, nasal voice.

Janis glanced indifferently up at the man standing before her with the magazine in his hand. There was something about him that she did not like, she decided immediately. Perhaps it was his flashy black-and-white-checked suit.

"Yes, I've finished with it—you may have it," she told him coolly.

She rose, followed the line of passengers going outside for a ten-minute airing. The man tossed the magazine to the table and came up behind her.

Janis went down the car steps, hesitated an instant on the platform before the stucco station sprawling in the sunshine like a dazzling white pile of snow. She began walking briskly, regretted that she had no sun glasses while squinting and marveling at the funny-shape cacti and tumbleweed dotting the wide expanse of prairie. She was annoyed to discover the flashily dressed man beside her fitting his pace to her short quick strides.

He produced a package of cigarettes, offered conversationally, "Have one?"

"No, thank you, she said curtly. She had so much to think out—it was maddening to be interrupted like this.

"Not your brand perhaps?" His black eyes filled with something that made her cringe.

She did not deign to reply. She only flung her head high and tried to outdistance him. But he seemed well able to keep up with her swift pace.

Robbed!

They were soon quite apart from the crowd hanging around the station. Suddenly the man laid a firm hand on her arm, forced her to pause. "I'll take all you've got," he slammed out gruffly. "Hurry up with it."

Janis' face drained white, she tried to pull away, but he held her fast. "Money — you little fool! — don't yell or I'll drill you!"

She threw one swift terrified glance and started to pull the zipper on her handbag. Just then the conductor called, "All a-bo-ard!"

Janis felt the bag jerked from her fingers. The man bolted from her, ran swiftly to an automobile waiting by the station. He leaped inside and was driving away just as Janis gathered her wits and cried, "Thief! Thief! I've been robbed!"

Passengers came running up to her, everybody jabbering at once, plying her with questions. But the conductor and porters herded them back into the train that stood there like a humanly endowed robot of the road, impatient to be gone.

Janis returned to her train seat in a state of violent agitation. The conductor assured her that by this time station officials had telephoned the police, that everything possible would be done to apprehend the thief and her handbag.

She wondered how a man could need money badly enough to frighten a woman, even threaten her life to get it, then passed off the loss as so much experience and tried to forget the incident.

Rock Offers Protection

Luckily, she had tucked a few bills into one of her suitcases now safe in the overhead rack, but it was going to be akward to do without her compact. The thief might at least have left her that. Perhaps Rock Conover wouldn't think her worth looking at when he saw her exactly as nature made her. Her heart sank a little at this dire possibility, then suddenly, he was leaning over the back of her seat again.

"I wanted to rush to the rescue when I saw you were in trouble," he told her, "but I couldn't. Those guys we're looking after would make a clean getaway if we guards weren't eagle-eyed at stations."

"Naturally," agreed Janis. "Anyway, you probably couldn't have helped. The man was out of reach before I realized what had happened."

"A low-down trick, Janis. Mind if I call you Janis?"

She wouldn't have minded just then if he had gone even further, added an endearing term. His piercing brown eyes on hers filled her with a queer sense of belonging to a new, heady world of romance that perhaps should be expelled from the itinerary of a career-minded girl.

"Why—no. Call me anything you like," came from her a little doubtfully.

"O.K. Only don't forget—I'm Rock."

"If you insist—Rock.'"

"There's another thing I want to tell you." He spoke rapidly, keeping a wary eye on the ape-man he had left alone back in his seat. "There's a girl on this train you ought to know—Lucinda Hollenbeck. She lives in Hollywood, has worked in the movies—she can set you right with the big-shot directors."

Janis' eyes grew big. She blurted out: "A screen actress? That certainly would help!"

To Meet an Actress

Rock shrugged his broad shoulders. He erased his cynical smile before she glimpsed it. "Yeah—you'll like Lucinda—she's regular. Meet us in the diner at 7, will you—Beautiful?"

"Yes—gladly—and thank you," Janis sang out, her blue eyes dancing. "I'd love to meet Miss Hollenbeck."

"I thought so," he said succinctly, then wheeled back to his duties in the center of the car.

The porter came through now and Janis asked him to get down one of her suitcases. She found the little roll of bills tucked safely in a navy handbag which would decidedly clash with the green ensemble she was wearing. But this gave her slight concern now. She was bubbling with excitement. This Lucinda Hollenbeck might do things for her—through her she might get the right Hollywood contacts—if Lucinda took a fancy to her. At any rate, she would turn the faucet of her charm full on Miss Hollenbeck and hope for the best.

She succeeded in borrowing enough powder and rouge from the woman across the aisle to last throughout the trip. With this aggravating matter attended to, she thought she could settle down and enjoy herself. But the day dragged maddeningly.

At luncheon, time she went back to the bar and got a cheese sandwich and a coke, strung at too high a pitch over her coming dinner engagement to be properly responsive to hunger.

Life On a Train

She wandered through to the observation again and adroitly discouraged a couple of chatty salesmen bent on using her recent experience with an underworld character as conversational wedge. She discussed flood and famine and drought with a lady from Iowa, looked at magazine pictures, and, at Albuquerque, thankfully got off the train with other passengers to exercise in the dry hot air.

She examined wares of a group of blanketed Indians, who stoically tempted travelers' purse-strings with bright-colored baskets, beads, rugs and other fascinating handmade merchandise. She bought an odd-shaped red jug from a picturesque squaw, without knowing what use she would have for it, and resisted the desire to spend even a trifle for pretty beads she could really have worn.

She got back on the train wishing that she had been seasoned traveler enough to bring a change of costume. Already, her green linen frock was badly crumpled. "And here I am, about to meet some one who knows her way around—and I'm wearing a frumpy looking dress that may prejudice her against me!"

Each table in the diner that night held a wine-colored carnation in a slender silver vase, giving a gala air to that part of a train which can so easily, by its food odors, snowy linen and gleaming table service, by it solicitous waiters moving about with deft promptitude, excite an appetite to ecstatic heights.

But Janis, sitting across from Lucinda Hollenbeck, was suddenly filled with a sense of impending danger.

SALLY'S SALLIES

Love, it is said, makes the world go 'round, but sometimes it makes it go triangle as well!

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER
By SHEPARD BARCLAY
"The Authority on Authorities"

ALWAYS COUNT LOSERS

IT IS unpardonable for a declarer of experience to neglect counting the number of possible losers in the various suits, when playing a trump contract. Failure to go through that simple little preliminary can result in all sorts of mistakes of play and perhaps the defeat of a project which should be airtight against any effort of the opposition.

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
2♥	Pass	3♣	Pass
3♦	Pass	3♥	Pass
4♥

With that bad bidding, it is necessary to explain that North and South were using ace-showing responses to original two-bids, but even then it is pretty sad work. But the play was even sorrier.

West led the club J to the A. Had South counted, seeing only one possible spade loser, a diamond should have been discarded, but South tossed a spade, then led the diamond 10 to the J, Q and K. The club K was ruffed, diamond A played, then the diamond 2 ruffed by the heart 6 and overruffed by the J. The heart 4 to the A killed dummy's last trump. The spade A was cashed and a small spade led to the K of West, who returned the diamond 8 for East to ruff, setting the contract.

Had South discarded a diamond on the club A, then at once led spades, six would have been made if West took the first spade and seven if South played the A on a second spade in case West held up. Even if South used a low spade on a second round after one hold-up by West, he could not have lost more than one spade and two diamonds at the absolute outside.

Roseneath W.A. To Present Play

ROSENEATH, Feb. 24—(ENS).—Mrs. E. Braithwaite and Mrs. A. Nill were joint hostesses on Wednesday afternoon to United Church W. A. members and several visitors when the regular meeting of the society was held in the latter's home.

Mrs. E. Beech of the devotional committee presided over the opening exercises and the devotional period. The theme was Friendship and taking part in these exercises were Mrs. T. Carew, Mrs. W. Robins, Mrs. L. Sherwin, Mrs. Harold Hugh, Mrs. K. Hartford, Mrs. W. Mouncey, and Mrs M. Davey. Scripture lessons were read by Mrs. N. W. Sherwin and Miss Mary Braithwaite.

The president, Mrs. A. Nill, presided over the business session. The quilt committee reported two custom quilts quilted, with the prospect of two additional orders. It was decided to purchase books for a play and the following were named a committee in charge of this matter, Mrs. L. Tucker, Mrs. E. Braithwaite, Mrs. C. Sandercock, Mrs. W. Robins. Mrs. C. Grigg and Mrs. E. Beech.

Mrs. M. Davey, program convener, presided over a varied program. There were humorous readings by Miss Mary Braithwaite and Mrs. L. Tucker, Mrs. C. Grigg told the story of St. Valentine and Miss Fern Blodgett read an article illustrative of the crying need for volunteers in the service of the church, which was followed by a chorus, "Will You Be Eqlisted as a Volunteer," sung by the company. Mrs. M Davey conducted a quiz and Mrs. E. Beech arranged a picture contest.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses and a social hour was enjoyed. During the social hour the sales committee distributed goods for sewing, displayed articles for sale, resulting in several salese being made. Twenty-three were in attendance.

None Of Cabinet

Mackenzie King said that neither he nor his Cabinet colleagues would enter the National Government Dr. Manion proposes to form if his supporters win the election.

"If after an appeal has been made to the country on our war effort and our policies, we are not returned to power, those of us who are elected, together with our followers, will not betray our parliamentary duty, but will constitute His Majesty's loyal Opposition. I make that, simple and straightforward statement, so that there will be no mistake in the minds of either the people or of Dr. Manion concerning our position, and no recriminations later on because anyone was left in doubt."

Concerning the war effort, he said the government has no desire and has not exercised so-called patronage and this was true of the fighting forces as well as other branches of the war activity.

The Government will continue to bring into the service of the country the best men it can get and "it doesn't require a Union government to join together intelligence and patriotism."

Will Bring in Advisors.

"With the war and its problems growing in intensity and magnitude, I shall seek, if we are returned to power ,to bring to the aid of the Ministry, in my advisory capacity, a still larger number of men of outstanding ability and experience whose services in one way or another might be made available to the state and add strength to the administration of our policies."

(When the present government first took office it indicated consideration was being given to the adoption of a system of parliamentary under-secretaries such as exists in the British parliament but none was appointed).

The Liberal leader said the time to form a Union government is before, not after, a general election as was done in 1917 by Sir Robert Borden. Then the leaders of the opposed parties who joined together in the Union government stood side by side on political platforms and their policy was supported and attacked openly.

"The electorate was not asked to engage in a game of blind man's buff, in which the parties constituting the Union government, their leader, their policies, and even their candidates, were all unknown. Believe it or not, that is exactly the situation as we have it to-day.

"You are actually being invited by Dr. Manion to go from now on till March 26 up a blind alley, which he says leads to National government, and on that day, in some booth at the end of the dark road, to mark and deposit your ballot for a government that is not yet in being and may never come into existence."

The Prime Minister warned Canadians to prepare for the possibility that the war might spread with Asia as well as Europe aflame and the whole world engulfed "in the angry seas of battle."

"Let us not imagine that our land will inevitably escape the wrath that darkens lan dand sea or that our shores will be spared as the conflict grows and spreads. The great co-operative war effort which this government has planned is gaining every day in momentum. Our hope lies in the gathering of our strength to meet the gathering of the storm."

The Prime Minister said he did not intend to make promises in order to gain support. All administration developments would be worked out carefully.

"In this election," he said. "I do not intend, any more than I have done in previous elections, to make promise after promise for the sake of gaining political support."

will adress a public meeting tonight. Two speeches in his own riding Monday, in the afternoon at Kakabeka Falls and in the evening at Fort William, will conclude the western phase of the Conservative leader's speaking tour.

Senator W. A. Griesbach of Edmonton told last night's meeting that the first overseas division of the Canadian Active Service Force "wasn't equipped at all" and that Prime Minister Mackenzie King's statement the contingent left Canada fully clothed and fully equipped was an "outrageous misstatement of fact."

Relics Of Last War

The first division was given rifles that were relics of the last war and were not accurate even at short range, said Senator Griesbach declaring that was a result of the government's policy of a middle course policy of doing more than nothing but less than all, a policy of "limited liability."

Criticizing a reported statement of Agriculture Minister Gardiner that National Government is contrary to democracy, and associated with scandals, Dr. Manion said the United Kingdom's present National Government is the best possible argument for a national government in Canada.

Britain was the greatest and truest democracy in the world and no taint of scandal had ever soiled its pages.

A national government would have the duty of carrying out a wholehearted effort during the war and of laying plans for the post-war period and he contended a one-party government could not avoid politics, favoritism and extravagance whereas a National government could.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King has remained in power "more by astuteness than administrative ebility" Dr. Manion continued, but "his powers of astuteness were waning."

He declared the Liberal leader has repudiated his lifetime preanhings about his belief in the supremacy of parliament by scuttling Parliament and trying to get a snap decision from the people before they had a chance to learn the real facts of that government's "complete failure" in peace and war.

Ontario Session

The debate — the Premier and Conservative Leader George Drew teaming up to attack Prime Minister Mackenzie King and his conduct of the war—caused the first major House split in Ontario Liberal ranks since the party came to power in 1934.

From the session opening, in the throne speech debate, on matters of privilege, on matters of "urgent public importance," and for other reasons there was constant sniping at the federal government's war efforts. Premier Hepburn and Col. Drew shared honors for bitterness of attack.

The Hepburn Bombshell.

Then came January 19 and Morgan Baker (Lib., York North) with his defence of the Mackenzie King government. Other Liberals supported him. Surprised by this sign of apparently failing leadership, Premier Hepburn dramatically presented his condemnatory resolution. It received 44 votes. There were 10 against it—all Liberals. Before the vote the Premier announced that defeat of the motion would mean the government's resignation.

Now with the Federal campaign in full swing, Liberal after Liberal who voted for the resolution — including six Cabinet Ministers—have jumped into the campaign behind Federal Liberal candidates. Premier Hepburn is silent. Best political guess is that he will refrain from participation.

The pipe of peace the Premier and Col. Drew had smoked together as they criticized the Federal Government was stamped out when debate came on the measure that necessitated calling the Legislature weeks ahead of the usual time. The act to amend the Succession Duty Act passed on straight party division.

Col. Drew said the legislation closing the courts of appeals on the valuation of certain securities in estates, was as bad as anything in Hitlerian Germany. The government said it was necessary to guarantee to the province death duties rightfully due, but whose collection had been stopped by a supreme court injunction.

Second major Opposition onslaught came on the measure to extend municipal council terms to two years, providing an escape for any municipality that voted itself out of the bill's provisions. Original government intention had been to make the two-year term mandatory, but a storm of criticism modified the bill before its presentation.

Passes With No Division

A retroactive tax increase on corporation incomes, the added revenue being taken into budget estimates, was passed without division. The opposition failed to forestall the increase and then failed to have the government drop the retroactive feature.

Sitting after the house prorogues will be a committee to look into proposed reforms in Ontario's judicial procedure. The government referred to this committee bills designed to streamline court procedure by abolishing grand juries and by reducing petit juries in county court civil actions from 12 to six. Earlier in the session the government dropped a bill for unification of Ontario police forces in time of emergency or serious crime.

Pleasant surprise of the budget was the fact there were no new taxes. Only tax increase was that on corporations. The government considered reimposing a provincial amusement tax but dropped the idea. Not so pleasant about the budget however, was the $4,500,000 deficit on the current fiscal year and the dropping of the municipal subsidiy to one mill from 1½ mills.

In its final business session yesterday, the house heard Hon. Peter Heenan, Minister of Lands and Forests, accuse C. W. Cox (Lib. Port Arthur) former Ontario minister without portfolio, of perjury and attempted blackmail. The perjury was alleged to have occurred Thursday in Mr. Cox's evidence to the timber committee.

Wherever two or three would listen to him, Mr. Cox would promise his hearer "the greatest scandal since Confederation," charged Mr. Heen. He accused the member of getting documents from dead men's estates and then "going through the country attempting blackmail."

The house killed a bill, unacceptable to the government, but would have restored the right of a voluntary passenger in a motor car to sue the owner or operator of such car for damages suffered by reason of the gross negligence of the owner or operator.

Another bill that died, also unacceptable to the government, was one that would have provided an appeal to a Supreme Court judge for a workman dissatisfied with an award of the Workmen's Compensation Board.

Conant After Police

Lack of co-ordination among federal, provincial and municipal police forces was deplorable, said Attorney-General Conant, but public opinion apparently was not ready for co-ordinated control. Mr. Conant was referring to criticism Friday by Leopold Macaulay (Con., York South) because provincial police didn't clean up gambling dens in Toronto suburban areas.

A report from Commissioner William Stringer of the provincial police was read by Mr. Conant. It recalled a triple murder case in Hamilton in 1925 when Commissioner Stringer, then an inspector, went to Hamilton unasked to offer his aid.

"I reported to the chief constable who flew into a rage and advised me to return to Toronto and advise the attorney-general that the Hamilton police were capable of handling the matter themselves," Mr. Conant quoted Commissioner Stringer's report, adding the mystery was never solved.

Russians Expected To Use Islands For Sea Attacks

HELSINKI, Feb. 26 (AP)—The Finnish high command today acknowledged that Finland had surrendered to the invading Russians the strategic Islands of Koivisto, armed with great coastal batteries anchoring the western end of the Mannerheim line.

These islands, situated off the town of Koivisto, are 20 miles south of Viipuri, lying in the gulf of Finland near the entrance to Viipuri bay.

(Possession of the Islands presumably would give the Russians a new advantage in their drive in Viipuri, normally Finland's third city, by aiding an attack from the sea as well as from land).

Russian land forces already have driven on the Isthmus itself up a railway toward Viipuri as far as Kaislahti, 7½ miles due south of Viipuri, according to the Finns. The Russians apparently are cleaning up the area between the railway and the coast.

"On the Isthmus our troops have given up the Koivisto Islands," said today's daily army communique. "On Feb. 25 the enemy continued his attacks on the western part of the Isthmus.

The attacks were checked by fire from our artillery and infantry, and the enemy suffered heavy loss in men."

'Strike Quick' Tip For Nazis

ZURICH, Switzerland, Feb. 26—(CP-Havas).—If Germany permits the Allies to complete their preparations for attack, Germany will have lost the first great battle of the war before it is fought, Lieut.-General Horst Von Metzch, German military writer, warned today in the Nazi publication Deutsche Adelsblatt, copies of which reached here today.

"If the Western powers can marshal their armies to bring them to the strength necessary for an attack without being hindered by the German forces, then the entente can on that score already consider the first important battle—or rather the first western campaign—or this war as won," wrote the General.

He warned against excessive optimism on Germany's part, declaring the German-Soviet economic deal would begin to operate only in the more or less distant future, while before that Germany would have immense and difficult tasks to fulfil.

French, Germans Step Up Patrol Action

PARIS, Feb. 26 — (AP).—French and German troops, keeping close watch over each other with the approach of spring, have stepped up their patrol activities on the Western front.

A sharp German raid was reported repulsed yesterday in the Wissembourg Gap, which opens into France's Alsatian Plains along the Rhine. Both sides sent out scouting parties farther west in the Saar and Moselle Valleys.

This morning's French communique briefly noted "increased activity of contact units on various points of the front between the Moselle and the Saar."

Aerial observers kept pace with the land battle. Two German reconnaissance flights were reported yesterday deep over Eastern France, while French fliers brought back photographs of German lines.

128 British Ships Attacked While Unarmed

LONDON, Feb. 26. —(CP)— The government today charged 128 instances of attacks by German aircraft on "unarmed British merchant ships and fishing vessels" from the start of the war up to February 22.

Richard Butler, under-secretary for foreign affairs, gave this figure in answer to a question in the House of Commons as to whether such attacks were "a breach of Herr Hitler's undertaking to President Roosevelt that the German air force would not bomb civilians."

Mr. Butler said that the facts were "too well known" to require a statement.

All British merchant and fishing vessels in the North Sea now are being armed against aircraft.

There wa san echo of the Altmark case in a query concerning the extent of territorial waters along the peculiarly indented coast of Norway, to which Mr. Butler replied that they were the subject of much discussion and not finally determined.

He said, however, that the Norwegian government while not departing from her claim for a four-mile limit has informed the British government that for the purposes of this war it would not accept obligations of neutrality beyond three miles from the coast.

Guns Not the Same.

Replying to Emanuel Shinwell, Labor, who asked if there was any connection between "delay" in installing anti-aircraft guns on the trawlers in the North Sea and the sending of 100 such guns to Finland, Geoffrey Shakespeare, Parliamentary Secretary of the Admiralty, said:

"Defensive arming of trawlers and coasting vessels sailing in the North Sea is proceeding with all speed. The weapons supplied to Finland are not so suitable for anti-aircraft defence as those which are being fitted in our trawlers and coasting vessels."

Last Minute News Flashes

LONDON — (CP). — The Swedish freighter Santos, 3,840 tons, was reported to-day to have sunk in the North Sea. There were 12 survivors and 30 of her crew were missing. The cause of the sinking was not disclosed.

WASHINGTON — (AP). — The United States Secret Service added 45 agents soon after the outbreak of war, it was disclosed to-day, to "protect properly" President Roosevelt and his family.

MELBOURNE — (CP-Reuters)— The Australian Commonwealth will open lists for an £18,000,000 ($80,000,000) war loan on March 1, it was announced to-day. The loan as drafted by P. C. Spender, Acting Commonwealth Treasurer, will be subject to income tax and bear 3¾ per cent. interest on a long-term basis.

ROME — (AP). — An Italian trade delegation headed by Senator Armandeo Giannini, who is reported to have signed a new trade pact with Germany on Saturday, departed to-day for trade talks in Paris.

TORONTO — (CP). — Appelate Court at Osgoode Hall to-day confirmed conviction of Douglas Stewart, Secretary-Treasurer of the banned Communist newspaper, The Clarion, but reduced his sentence from two years less a day to six months definite in Ontario Reformatory plus an indefinite term not exceeding 18 months.

LONDON (CP)—Non-resident civilians were banned to-day from all of Northern Scotland where many important war indnstries are concentrated.

Over 400 Men In Unit Are Held Over 2 Days In Coastal Port Before Signal Given To Sail—Make New Canadian History

WITH THE ROYAL CANADIAN AIR FORCE IN THE SOUTH OF ENGLAND, Feb. 26—(CP Cable).—The men of the First Squadron of the R.C.A.F. in England completed the job of settling down in their headquarters at this Royal Air Force station this morning.

They arrived during the night by a special train direct from the harbor of the northwest coast port where they landed Sunday evening. They were up early working with zest after the comparative inactivity of the Atlantic voyage.

All the men were reported to be fit and well, looking forward to their first flight in "English air."

The location of the station is at present a military secret. But it can be said to be in pleasant countryside.

The quiet assurance of the commanding officer, Squadron-Leader W. D. Van Vliet—"What is expected of us we know we can do"—made an excellent impression in London air circles where it was described as the "right kind of reply to the loud Nazi boastings."

AN EASTERN CANADIAN PORT, Feb. 26—(CP).—Making history by their departure, the 110th Army Co-operation Squadron of the Royal Canadian Air Force left this port some hours after arrival from their training base and amid the chill winds that formed the tail end of a February gale.

Spirits were high as the young airmen—their average age is 24 years—marched aboard the ship that took them safely across the Atlantic to the United Kingdom where their arrival was announced yesterday.

They no sooner found a piano aboard their ship than the squadron song, "We've got a lovely war to win," rang through the boat.

The 110th waited almost two days in port amid the usual secrecy sur-

King Heads West Manion East 4 Weeks To Go

(By the Canadian Press.)

With the Dominion election just four weeks away, the government pointed its chief campaign into the west today and the Conservatives planned to concentrate on eastern Canada.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King was en route to Winnipeg where he will speak tomorrow night in his first public address of the campaign. It will be followed up by another speech in Prince Albert, Sask., Thursday before he returns to Ottawa. Justice Minister Lapointe then will tour the west as the leading government campaigner.

Bills Scoring War Get Soldier 2 Others Jailed

OTTAWA, Feb. 26—(CP)—Acting under the Defence of Canada Regulations, police detected and raided a suspected source of Communist anti-war propaganda within the sound of bells of the Peace Tower on Parliament Hill.

As a result three men are in custody charged with either printing or distributing or both literature forbidden by the regulations, in particular a pamphlet headed:

"Withdraw Canada from the war. "Speed the end of the slaughter. "Vote Communist. Vote for peace."

The men are: Harry Binder, Communist party organizer for Eastern Ontario and former parliamentary correspondent for the newspaper "Daily Clarion," once published in Toronto;

Pilot Finds Enemy's New Hideout; Beats Dozen Nazis Back Home

WITH THE FRENCH AIR FORCE AT THE FRONT, Feb. 26 — (CP-Havas).—The pilot threw down his ping pong bat—he was ahead, too, for the first time in days—and dashed off to dress for a grimmer game, played 34,000 feet above the earth with death keeping the score.

He returned a few hours later with a dozen German planes clinging murderously on his trial and a store of precious plates in his cameraman's machine.

It started with a report by a secret agent, back from the German side, said important movements of troops, material and even planes were going on. Indicating with his forefinger two spots on a headquarters map, he said: "It is here or here—certainly within a radius of six miles."

But where? The map guarded its secret well; the agent had told all he knew. Only planes could reveal the exact spot.

So on receipt of a coded order the pilot abandoned his ping pong game, rushed to his quarters, and reappeared ready for winter flight above the clouds. His cumbersome suit was threaded with electric wires to keep him warm at below-zero temperatures. His gloved hands spoke for him with clumsy gestures.

Half an hour later he was above his goal, 24,000 feet up. The cameraman set methodically about his business.

Some Pursuit.

As the plane wheeled for home, its task accomplished, tiny black spots appeared in the sky in the distance. The men counted. One—two—12 German fighters.

"Shall I dive or climb?" the pilot called to the chief observer. The observer shrugged. "It's up to you."

The plane climbed. Up, up—26,000, 28,000, 30,000 feet. The black dots grew. There were three machine guns in the plane—and the enemy had 36.

Thirty-four thousand feet now, and the pack was still gaining. But

U.S. Threat In 1915 To Seize Virgin Islands Forced Danes To Sell For 25 Million

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26 — (AP). — A threat of possible seizure by the United States won Danish consent to sale of the Virgin Islands in 1915, when it was feared that another Power—apparently Germany—might get them. The United States paid $25,000,000 for the islands.

The story of how the United States bought the 50 small islands, which President Wilson considered of strategic importance to the defence of the Panama Canal, was disclosed to-day by State Department publication of letters of Robert Lansing, wartime United States Secretary of State.

Denmark agreed to the transfer when Lansing said that he could conceive of circumstances under which the United States would seize the islands.

McNaugton O.C. Of Camp

ALDERSHOT, Feb. 26—(CP Cable).—Supervision of the administration of the entire Aldershot command was taken over today by Major-General A. G. L. McNaughton, general officer commanding the Canadian Active Service Force.

He will be in charge of the area for the next six days while Lieut.-General Charles Broad, general officer commanding the Aldershot command, is away on a short leave of absence.

In the Canadian camp today many regiments were filmed as they carried out a typical program of individual training. The films are being taken for the Canadian Government and will ultimately be deposited in the Canadian archives as a permanent record.

The folks back home also will have the opportunity of viewing some scenes showing what the boys are doing overseas.

Welles Calls On Mussolini; Hitler Next

ROME, Feb. 26 (AP)—Sumner Welles, President Roosevelt's special investigator of European problems, conferred for an hour and a quarter today with the Italian Foreign Minister, Count Galeazzo Ciano, and said they had "a very gratifying and helpful conversation."

Five minutes after Welles left the foreign office, Ciano went to report to Premier Mussolini on the discussion, Welles' first on a tour of the principal capitals of Europe.

Welles' presence in Rome continued to attract scant attention among Italians as a whole, most of whom were ignorant of it. The Fascist press yesterday published nothing about the arrival of the president's representative.

It was announced, meanwhile, that Pope Pius would receive Myron C. Taylor, President Roosevelt's personal emissary to the Vatican, tomorrow for presentation of his credentials.

Taylor and Welles disembarked at Naples yesterday from the liner Rex and came separately to Rome.

Sees Mussolini

Later Welles conferred with Premier Mussolini after a "long and cordial" chat in the morning with Mussolini's son-in-law and Foreign Minister, Count Ciano.

Welles is expected to go from here to Berlin, where he will be received by Adolf Hitler. There is a possibility he will visit Pope Pieus XII tomorrow.

Welles went to his conference with Mussolini accompanied by William Phillips, United States ambassador, and by Count Ciano's secretary, Marchese Blasco D'Aieta.

Welles made it clear upon his arrival yesterday that he would have nothing to say about his conferences.

Late afternoon paper today gave prominent display to the "length and cordiality" of the Ciano-Welles meeting.

L'Osservatore Romano, the Vatican newspaper, devoted most of its front page to a review of the relations between the Vatican and the United States.

American Fliers Get Tempting Montreal Offer

ROCHESTER, N.Y., Feb. 26 (AP)—Pilots at the Rochester Airport said today that a Montreal flying service has made lucrative offers of employment for instructing civilians to fly.

The Times-Union said "at least six regularly employed airmen at municipal airport are seriously considering the chance to make good money with no strings attached."

John Jenkins, operator of a flying service, said the offer was contained in letters from Montreal, with salaries ranging from $360 for primary instruction up to $500 a month for advanced instruction.

The pilots were told, the Times-Union added, that there would be no passport red tape for them to worry about, that their citizenship status will not be involved and they will not be in any way connected with the Canadian or British Army or Air Corps."

Says King Out To Split The Dominion

Conscription Issue Bait For Quebec Charges Manion

KAKABEKA FALLS, Ont., Feb. 26 (CP).—A direct charge against Prime Minister Mackenzie King and Justice Minister Lapointe of trying to "split this country down the middle on the whole conscription issue, as they have been dividing it for years," was made here today by Conservative Leader Manion.

While Mr. King and Mr. Lapointe talked continuously about Canadian unity, every speech they made tended toward disunity, he told a rural section of his home constituency here 18 miles west of Fort William.

"Both of them continuously claim that the National Government I propose is for the purpose of bringing about conscription but both of them know full well that I am as much opposed to conscription as they are," Dr. Manion asserted. He cited his own statements in the House of Commons and then read from Liberal declarations appearing in the press of Quebec Province in recent years.

Dr. Manion said he had made clear his opposition to conscription in the House last March 30, when both Liberal leaders were present. He had previously declared himself and during the present campaign had repeatedly taken the same position.

"However, to admit this would not suit the political purpose of Mr. King and Mr. Lapointe—the purpose of splitting this country down the middle on the whole conscription issue, as they have been dividing it for years," he continued.

Hitler As God's Chosen Instrument Bit Too Thick For American Press

NEW YORK, Feb. 26—(CP).—The week-end addresses of Prime Minister Chamberlain and Adolf Hitler were compared editorially today by New York's morning newspapers, to the detriment of the German Reichsfuehrer.

Remarking that Hitler "apparently feels it is now necessary to reply to Mr. Chamberlain whenever the latter speaks," the Times said he used the "hastily-thought-up occasion" for a bit of "extravagant self-commendation which has never been matched even in his own long experience in this field."

"If it is true in fact that Hitler does not like these speeches in which Mr. Chamberlain discusses British war aims, the instinct is a sound one," the Times added. "For Mr. Chamberlain, in his plodding, undramatic but none the less effective way, keeps hammering away at the one theme which is most obnoxious to the Hitler government. The theme that by changing this government the German people can avoid a repetition of the immense personal disasters of the last war, that they can achieve a prompt peace at any time, under leadership which gives evidence that it can be trusted."

The Herald Tribune said:

"Patient investigators report detecting, somewhere in the warm mass of Saturday's Munich oration, traces of colonial demands and something more about Central European Lebensraum and overthrowing British domination; they also glean the quaint fact that Herr Hitler believes in God and regards himself as His chosen instrument.

"And most of us will turn to the contrasting address of Mr. Chamberlain, delivered at Birmingham on the same day. It is possible to read Mr. Chamberlain; it is even posible to understand what he is saying, and even at those times when he is not saying very much.

A Wide Crusade.

Scandinavian States Pledged Anew To Middle-of-Road Neutrality

COPENHAGEN, Feb. 26—(AP).—Scandinavian neutrals sought to avoid becoming involved in war at a week-end conference by agreeing to "support each other mutually in their negotiations with belligerents."

The foreign ministers of Sweden, Denmark and Norway also expressed the hope the Finnish-Russian war could "be brought to a peaceful solution which preserves the full independence of Finland."

In another passage, apparently aimed at Germany's submarines warfare, a communique issued last night at the close of the conference said:

"The foreign ministers agreed to raise serious objections to, and endeavor to avert violation of, the principles of international law in the conduct of naval warfare, which inflicts considerable losses of human life and of economic value of neutral states, when they maintain their shipping in order to keep up their legitimate and necessary trade."

The conferees—Dr. Peter Munch of Denmark, Halvdan Koht of Norway, and Christian Gunther of Sweden—"agreed to maintain the inviolability of neutral territory in accordance with the rules of international law."

Welcome Peace Efforts

The Danish newspaper Nationaltidende, in commenting on the meeting, declared:—

"It may be of importance in the future that they are agreed about firmer lines for mutual action both after violations of neutrality, and about mutual efforts to get concessions for their trade by belligerents."

Expressing the conviction that the longer the war lasts the more difficult will be chances for peace because of greater "embitterment between nations,' 'the ministers' communique said they would welcome any endeavor to initiate negotiations for a "just and permanent peace."

Even as the two-day conference ended, Prime Minister Per Albin Hansson of Sweden broadcast from

Warship Takes Tweedsmuir Ashes Back To Homeland

LONDON, Feb. 26 (CP Cable) — The ashes of Lord Tweedsmuir arrived at a south coast port today in one of the naval vessels which had escorted the first squadron of the Royal Canadian Air Force across the Atlantic.

They will be taken later today to Elsfield Church, Oxfordshire, to remain there until a date for interment is arranged.

The ashes, contained in an urn, were brought ashore from the warship in the barge of the senior naval officer of the port.

When ashore the urn, covered with a Union Jack, was carried between two lines of naval ratings standing at attention with reversed arms, and placed on a train bound for London.

Among those present were Hon. Vincent Massey, Canadian High Commissioner in the United Kingdom, the senior naval officer of the port, and civic dignitaries.

Century Old Ceremony

AN EASTERN CANADIAN PORT, Feb. 26 (CP)—Naval ceremony more than a century old accompanied the placing of Lord Tweedsmuir's ashes aboard a British Warship for the voyage back to his native land.

The remains were piped aboard ship shortly after a train which bore them from Montreal drew into a terminal shed. Four bluejackets from the Royal Canadian Navy carried the urn containing the ashes up the gangplank.

It was placed on an ordinary naval stretcher draped with the Union Jack. Another Union Jack covered the Urn.

The bearers moved in a procession from the train to the gangplank, accompanied by a guard of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and Naval Officers. The shrill notes of the boatswains pipe sounded as they marched aboard.

They were received by the ship's chaplain who recited prayers in a brief ceremony on the quarter deck. As the service ended the Urn was locked up in the Captain's cabin.

Target For Russian Shells Viipuri Only a Ghost City

VIIPURI, Finland, Feb. 25 (Delayed)—(AP) — Ghosts walked the streets of Viipuri alone today.

No troops were to be seen. Women and children were gone from the bomb-and shell-wrecked city. There was no longer any reason to sound an alarm even when Soviet bombers came directly overhead.

There were only ghostlike sentries in the deserted metropolis that once was the home of 70,000 people but now is the goal of the Soviet Red army, less an 10 miles away to the south in its "grand offensive of February."

Sentries with rifles flung around their shoulders trudged between buildings without windows, buildings without roofs, buildings without floors, buildings with two or three walls off, buildings that are only charred shambles.

Only five of these gostly soldiers crossed my path during a two-hour walk through the centre of the city.

Two weeks ago several thousand persons still lived here and troops were quartered here.

Complete withdrawal began with the falling back of Finnish troops from their first into their second series of Mannerheim defences, which permitted Soviet artillery to move within easy shelling range of Viipuri.

Bombing planes and occasional long-range shells caused damage almost from the start of the war, but it was the concentrated attacks from Feb. 12 to Feb. 20 that touched nearly every buildings.

The castle Tyrgils Knutsson built in 1293 to found the town and the modern railway station are almost the only buildings of size which from the outside give no indication of damage.

The deserted and damaged city of Viipuri is not, however, an undefended one. The Russian advance now is challenged by the second series of defences and Finnish officers say those defences are far stronger than the first positions given up after weeks of fighting in which heavy losses were inflicted upon the Soviets.

US Neutral Trade Jumps 47 p.c.; U.K Suspects It

LONDON, Feb. 26 (CP) — The possibility that war supplies are reaching Germany through neutral nations prompted a series of questions for the government in the House of Commons today.

One source of concern was figures showing that exports from the United States to Great Britain and France rose only 10 per cent in the last four months of 1939 over the same period in 1938, while they increased 47 per cent to European neutrals.

Ronald Cross, minister of economic warfare, who told the House last month the contraband control net was being "drawn very tightly," was asked to what extent consessions letting neutrals import more than their own requirements was dulling the edge of the blockade.

With the House extending its weekly schedule from three to five meetings, the questions were expected to be answered today and tomorrow.

At the same time, informed sources said, Britain was about to complete a trade agreement with Norway and that the accord might include certain concessions for Norwegian ships under contraband control.

These sources said the understanding might cover an arrangement permitting "Navicerted" Norwegian cargoes—those given a passport by allied blockade officials before sailing—to complete their voy-

House Prorogues Quiet Ceremony

TORONTO, Feb. 26.—(CP)—Two special committees of the Ontario Legislature will sit between now and the time the House meets for its next session.

The fourth session of the 20th Assembly was wound up Saturday with a 20-minute sitting, at which a motion was passed enabling the committee inquiring into the administration of justice and the committee inquiring into administration of timber resources to continue their work.

Legislature members scattered to their ridings soon after the closing, most of them planning to take active parts in the federal election campaign. The part of Premier Hepburn in the Dominion battle remained uncertain, however.

The House was prorogued with little ceremony. Lieutenant-Governor Albert Matthews entered with two uniformed soldiers to read the speech from the throne, in which national unity was urged to further the Dominion's war effort. The speech asked that citizens accept cheerfully the economies necessitated by war.

Lion Safari

Pittsburg, Feb. 26 (AP)

RESIDENTS of the thickly-populated Millvale district sighed in relief today as a "lion hunting safari" of police and volunteers tracked down its quarry and found — a playful Great Dane.

For more than 16 hours weary searchers scoured the neighborhood after several terrified women told policemen they had seen "a lion."

One woman said she saw "it's big blond body, its big head and long tail with a tuft of fur at the end."

Others heard it "roar" and some saw it "slink across the highway."

aims as outlined by Prime Minister Chamberlain in his speech at Birmingham Saturday.

"We are assured of the Allied power to defeat the Fuehrer's crazed ambition to dominate the world," the Daily Telegraph said. "But the purpose of our crusade goes beyond the overthrow of his tyranny.

"No one who lives in a free country, as Mr. Chamberlain remarked, can doubt now what the war aims of the Allies are. His own full and vigorous restatement of them changed not a jot of what he and M. Daladier have said before."

The News Chronicle said:

"The Prime Minister did well to restate our main war aims in clear and concrete terms. From Munich (where Adolf Hitler spoke) came a very different speech. The world has not found the Fuehrer's latest utterance either confident or statesmanlike."

The Daily Herald said: "The Labor Party and the Daily Herald would welcome peace by negotiation. But this must be with German rulers whose word can be trusted." It said Hitler tried to cheer up the depressed German people by claiming to have enlisted "a new ally" on the Nazi side—Providence.

The Daily Mail said that if Hitler's speech was "the kind of talk (United States Undersecretary of State Sumner) Welles is going to hear in Berlin, he will have no difficulty in making up his mind quickly that the prospects for peace in Europe are still remote—a harsh lesson which we, too, must derive."

During Welles' visit, the editorial predicted, "German propaganda will work full power among the neutral nations and in this country to persuade the world that Germany is opening, and the Allies are barring, the road to peace."

Two destroyers moved out through the anti-submarine net which guards the harbor. The troopship moved along some distance astern, followed by two more destroyers and the grey hulk of a warship of the Royal Navy.

The 400-odd airmen who comprised the squadron—first unit the Dominion has contributed to the Empire and fighting services — boarded their ship two hours after their train pulled into a dimly-lighted waterfront shed from Ottawa where the men trained.

To prevent news of the movement from leaking out prematurely, airmen were prohibited from mailing postcards while aboard the troop train.

None among the crowds awaiting the arrival of a regular train at a nearby station knew the train carrying the airmen had been shunted from the station yards to a waterfront siding.

The men stepped from the train to a partially black-out platform. Officers had to use flashlights to read their roll-sheets as they called the squadron roll.

Before boarding the ship the squadron was inspected by Air Commodore L. S. Breadner, who bade them an official goodbye on behalf of the chief of the air staff, Air Vice-Marshal Croil. He reminded them that the badges they wore marked them as Canadians and members of the R.C.A.F.

"All of us will be following your record with interest and pride," he told them. Then(accompanied by officers of the eastern air command, he passed along the lines of grey-blue uniforms, stopping now and then to exchange a word with the men.

Except for the dimmed waterfront lights and the absence of crowds, the embarkation was like that of peacetime passengers. Each airman received a ticket assigning him to his quarters as he passed before an official at the gang plank.

For the journey across the sea Squadron Leader Wilbur Van Vliet of Winnipeg, officer commanding the unit, arranged to hold exercises and instructional periods in the lounge of the ship.

On Special Coach

Lord Tweedsmuir died in Montreal Feb. 11.

At Montral the urn was placed on board a special railway car. With the ashes travelled Lieut.-Commander Edson Sherwood, aide-de-camp, Revenue Minister Isley, Dr. E. H. Coleman, under-secretary of state, Premier Angus Macdonald of Nova Scotia who went to Ottawa for the funeral; and Rear-Admiral P. W. Nelles of the Royal Canadian Navy.

At this seaport the exigencies of war made impossible an elaborate farewell for a governor-general beloved by all Canadians. Turrets, guns, planes, and rough piles of overseas cargo formed the backdrop for this last act of drama in the Canadian history of this man—John Buchan.

As the small funeral procession reached the side of the cruiser, a bugle sounded the salute and a Royal Marine guard of honor, drawn up on the quarter deck, presented arms. The ship's chaplain led the carrying party across the deck, reciting the funeral ritual as he went.

The guard reversed arms, and stood with bowed heads while the ashes were placed on a table in the centre of the quarterdeck. The chaplain finished his service.

Four petty officers of the Royal Navy came forward and relieved the seamen of the Royal Canadian Navy. They picked up the stretcher bier, carried it in slow procession to the captain's cabin and there the ashes rested during the journey across the sea.

Says King Out

Want All Quebec.

"They want to get a solid political block from Quebec and they hope as well to influence certain sections of the country where conscription is unpopular and in these sections their whispering henchmen do their work for them.

"They have repudiated their pledges in the past and they are willing to do it again."

In support of that charge of repudiation, he read a statement by Mr. King reported in "the most fanatical Liberal paper in our country, Le Canada," of September 8, 1935, referring to war: "Mr Bennett has no right to commit the country before consulting the people by means of a plebiscite."

He quoted Mr. Lapointe, as reported in Le Soleil of Quebec, December 20, 1937, as saying at St. Flavien on Sunday, December 20: "We want to protect you against war; we are for sending no one to war." And again in Le Soleil of December 13, 1935, Mr. Lapointe was reported as saying at Limoilou: "Instead of going to war in a foreign country, we will remain here and defend Canada that we love."

During the Montreal-St. Henri by-election, Works Minister Cardin was reported by Le Canada as saying: "For the 10th time I am declaring that Canada will not participate in exterior wars.

"Mr. Mackenzie King himself has repeated it 10 times in the Canadian Parliament," Dr. Manion said. "He first made this statement in the face of the whole world. What do you want more?"

Pledges Forgotten.

Those quotations show the position taken by Mr. Lapointe and Mr. King in the Province of Quebec so far as war is concerned and they have lived up to none of those pledges.

"I now charge them with trying to deceive the people of Canada by pretending to be for Canadian unity while at the same time they are doing everything they can to stir up disunity between Quebec and the rest of Canada for petty political purposes.

"They apparently care nothing if they divide their country into warring factions merely to accomplish their political ends."

The Goosestep's High In Rome

Following the welding of the Rome-Berlin axis in 1936, the German goosestep became popular in the Italian army and as shown by this picture, taken in Rome this month, the goosestep is still in use in Italy. These troops, the personal bodyguard of Il Duce, were pictured stepping high as they passed Premier Mussolini on the occasion of the 12th anniversary of the founding of Mussolini's Musketeers.

Pilot Corkscrews From Norway; Rudder Cut By Nazi Bullets

LONDON, Feb. 26—(CP)—An official release today told how a Royal Air Force pilot had flown across the North Sea and landed safely in England after a fight with a German bomber which damaged his rudder so it could not be used.

The German plane was reported too badly damaged to take advantage of its crippled adversary. The pilot was not named, but the plane was said to have had a crew of three.

The crew of a Bristol-Blenheim bomber told how they outmanoeuvred five speedy German Messerschmitt pursuit planes over the North Sea Saturday and escaped into the clouds with valuable photographs of German naval bases. The Blenheim was hit six times but none of the crew was injured.

The British Air Ministry reported the incident in the following brief communique:

"Aircraft of the Royal Air Force yesterday carried out a reconnaissance flight over Heligoland Bight and Northwest Germany. One aircraft was attacked by five Messerschmitts. Having repulsed six separate attacks, our aircraft returned home safely."

Save Their Plane.

In the first instance the three men of the crew chose to risk their lives to bring the valuable craft down at its home base rather than jump to safety after a precarious three-hour flight had brought them back to England.

Though the pilot's name was not revealed, he was said to have been included in the last list of officers awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross.

The British plane was on reconnaissance patrol near the coast of Norway when it sighted and attacked a German Dornier flying boat cruising low above the ocean. The Dornier's bullets broke a hinge on one of the British plane's two rudders, throwing the plane out of control. The pilot was barely able to straighten it out a few feet above the water.

The British pilot headed for home, but was unable to make the plane fly straight. It vibrated violently from end to end and developed a corkscrew motion through the air.

The whole crew sat with parachutes and life-jackets adjusted, ready to bail out if the plane started a "death" dive.

After two hours of blind flying, the radio operator managed to establish a contact with his base and asked for the plane's position. When this was received, the men learned they were over the Irish Sea. They had overshot blacked-out Northern England without seeing it.

Given bearings, they found their way back to their east coast base, where anxious comrades were waiting with ambulance and fire-fighting equipment.

The plane appeared in the flare-lit sky with its tail gyrating wildly and slid down sidewise to the crab-like landing. Once on the ground, however, it straightened out and rolled to an easy stop.

Mechanics inspecting the plane afterwards found the tail end of the fuselage cracked two-thirds of the way across and almost ready to fall apart.

Father, Daughter Drown In Truck

TIMMINS, Ont., Feb. 26 — (CP). —Bodies of Joseph Raffaele of Timmins and his nine-year-old daughter were taken from the ice-bound waters of the Mattagami River near here, to-day, and police said they believed the two drowned yesterday when a truck in which the two were riding crashed through the ice.

The ice-covered truck also was taken from the river bottom to-day. Walter Willson, owner of a dance hall in front of which the drownings occurred, said he noticed a large hole in the ice yesterday, but thought it might have been made by boys while at play. Ice-cutting operations had been under way in the district the past three weeks, he said, and in some places the ice was thin.

Police endeavored to piece together more details of the drownings, but believe they occurred before noon yesterday.

FASHIONS

Here is the school girl's favorite, the classic shirtwaist style. It is designed especially in sub-deb sizes for that in-between age. The gored skirt is amply full for comfort. She will feel smartly dressed in either version, and will be appropriately garbed for school. We suggest making several of these frocks for her new spring wardrobe....one of the very papular striped cotton....the other a contrasting gingham plaid top and a plain skirt.

Style No. 3164 is designed for sizes 11, 13, 15 and 17 years. Size 15 requires 3¾ yards of 39-inch material for long sleeved dress; 1⅞ yards for short sleeved blouse; 2⅛ yards for skirt.

Keen Interest Shown In Red Shield Work

Keen interest and enthusiasm have been shown in the work which the Salvation Army Red Shield organization is doing among the Canadian troops here and overseas. A campaign is bein gorganized to raise $1,000,000 across Canada, of which $300,000 will be solicited in Toronto. Of the total three-fifths will be used in work at home and at the front. The balance will be for welfare work in Canada.

Since the group was organized in September, members of the local Auxiliary have made and sent to headquarters 405 garments under the direction of Mrs. N. Buckley. The purchase of wool to the value of $139.00 has been made possible through fees and donations from members and friends of the Auxiliary, and funds for wool have been further augmented by the recent Guide and Guard program at the Salvation Army.

The local branch of the Red Shield Auxiliary meets each Tuesday in the Temple, and individual members accomplish a great deal of work in their homes.

Assist In War Work

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 26 — (ENS).—The first of the series of meetings arranged by the Bemmerside Chapter, I.O.D.E., was held here Friday afternoon when nearly forty attended to assist the local branch in their work. It was the first meeting held since the rooms had been given a cheery coat of paint which it was announced had been donated by Miss K. Ferris. During the afternoon the visitors assisted members in sewing tags on field comforts such as socks and sweaters which previously were made by the Chapter. A considerable amount of wool was given out.

Mrs. W. H. Ashton very kindly offered her home for a tea; the date for this event was not decided. At the close of the afternoon meeting tea was served from tables gayly decorated with daffodils. Mrs. W. H. Ashton, honorary president of the I.O.D.E., and Mrs. Edna Bibby, president of the Rebekahs, presided at the tea table. When members returned for their regular meeting in the evening they were shown the twenty-five flashlights which are being sent to the soldiers now in England. A cash donation from the local branch of the Legion was acknowledged and Mrs. Ironside announced that the Chapter had almost enough material to fill all the ditty bags which would soon be forwarded.

Greece is increasing its shipments of tobacco to he United States.

Dainty Vanity Table You Can Easily Make

A Packing Case Is the Base

Yes, lovely as it looks now, this clever vanity table started as a packing case.

The three lace-edged organdy ruffles range from palest lavender to violet, the top ruffle's saucily looped up with fuchsia bows. Or imagine it all in snowy white, with bows a soft French blue! Charming, too, is a bedspread made in this three-ruffled style.

To make the table itself you just nail to the packing case a separate top of wood, cut according to our diagram.

Cover the top and make a skirt of sateen of the palest shade used in your ruffles. Then you're ready for the dainty outside cover of organdy.

For full, perky ruffles, cut them twice as long as the distance around front and sides. Make them of graded widths, the bottom ruffle about three times as wide as the top one. Easy by the use of double-snap tape to take skirt and ruffles off for laundering.

Complete step-by-step directions for making this dainty vanity table are given in our 32-page booklet. Also tells how to make many other lovely things for home and personal use, for gifts — among them sofa pillows, luncheon sets, bookrack table, knitting bag, sewing stand.

Send 15c in coins or stamps for your copy of HAND-MADE GIFT NOVELTIES to Examiner Home Service, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

Glamor Girl, Oomph Girl, Personality Girl and What-not Make Parents Throw Up Their Hands In Despair as Daughter Tries Vainly to Emulate Them.

It's for crying out loud! It does seem as if what with the war, and the depression and all, we have about all the trouble we can stand, but another affliction is lying in wait for us, just as we thought that the Glamor Girl and the Oomph Girl had gone the way of all flesh and that life was going to be worth living once more, the Personality Girl has arrived to torment us. Great grief!

Heaven knows that the Glamor Girl and the Oomph Girl have been hard enough to stand, and we have felt that we were punished for our sins beyond our deserts in not being able to open a newspaper or a magazine without being confronted with their deadpan pictures, and a detailed account of their clothes, and their dogs, and the night clubs they went to, and the men they were going to marry. But these sufferings were as nothing compared to what we are going to have to endure from the Personality Girl.

For, according to the way she is being press-agented, she is "vivacious and impetuous and temperamental and she glows. And if you don't tremble in fear and horror at that announcement, you are a better man than I am, Gunga Din, and the world's champion optimist.

Of course, what a few silly rich girls do is nothing to get panicky over if they keep their crimes to themselves. If they want to glamor oomph, let 'em. If they want to spend their money in buying publicity, leave 'em do it. Let them even exploit their personality if they get a kick out of doing it.

But the trouble is that their example is as contagious as the measles, and so the millions of girls who have spent the last three years trying to look glamorous and seductive and mysterious are now going to go into action and do things which will make our hair stand on end.

All the nice, quiet little girls we know will suddenly turn vivacious and begin to shriek at the top of their voices and jump around like monkeys on a stick. We will have impetuous young maidens smashing up bars, getting drunk and eloping on the spur of the moment with bounders they have only known five minutes, and pulling off crazy stunts that it will bankrupt their fathers trying to hush up.

Our temperamental daughters will be even more faddy and patronizing and unpleasant to live with than they are now, and when we think of a whole nation of girls trying to glow, we can only throw up our hands in despair and cry: God help us! We needn't think we will escape the personality racket. We will not. The American girl is the great original copycat and she would rather be dead than not to have the same hair-do, the same dress, the same hat, say the same things and act the same way as all the other girls do. And if it is the thing to be vivacious and impetuous and temperamental and glow, our Sallies and Mamies are going to be it, no matter whether nature made them that way or not.

Which, of course, is a pity because originality in people is their greatest charm, just as the something different is in nature or in works of art, and in trying to be somebody else instead of herself a girl throws away her own line of attractions and gets nothing in return. We see this illustrated every day. A big Amazonian woman, for instance, tries to act cute like a little dollbaby girl, but when she curls up on a sofa or swings her feet from the top of a table she looks like a performing elephant, whereas she would have filled all eyes if she had stuck to her own role of a stately goddess.

Quiet little girls cutting up and trying to be the life of the party; dull ones trying to wisecrack; old ones wearing debutante clothes, and so on and so forth. And it is because girls have this mania for making rubber stamps of themselves that causes us to be so despondent over this Personality Girl business.

For nothing is more depressing to see than a dear little Puritan trying to be a bold bad woman and gulping her cocktail down as if it were medicine, unless it is a quiet one trying to tell a funny story. And, anyway, we like our girls as they are, and we don't want them to try to change themselves into somebody else.

Free Boarding House for Relatives

Dear Miss Dix—What can we do about some relatives, who are much better off than we are, who apparently consider our house a free boarding house. Any evening from two to six people will walk in at mealtime. Often when we come home at night we will find them parked in front of our house waiting for me to come in and cook dinner for them. I have remonstrated with them about this, but they say: "Of course, we wouldn't take this liberty with you if we weren't kinfolks." I do my own housework and find the extra cooking a great burden. Besides, we can't afford it, as we have all we can do to support our own family. Many times we have to give up plans for the evening because after our uninvited guests have had a full meal they like to sit around and talk. What must we do about it?

DISCOURAGED

ANSWER:

Just have enough grit to defend yourself from these grafters. Tell them that you can't afford to feed them and if they want to eat at your house you will have to charge them for it. Being kin to you does not give them the privilege of eating you out of house and home. One woman who had the same experience that you are having told me that she solved the problem by never having anything but beans. Just beans for her uninvited guests. That stopped them from coming.

Opal O. James Is Bride Of Cecil P. Miles

A quiet wedding took place at the home of the bride's parents in Omemee on Thursday, February 22, when Miss Opal Olive Martha James, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard M. James, was united in marriage to Mr. Cecil Percy Elsworth Miles of Peterborough, son of Mrs. William Elmer Lillico and the late Allen Wesley Miles. Rev. E. W. Rowland officiated. Wedding music was played by Mrs. Rowland during the signing of the register.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a graceful frock of heavenly blue Discovery clothing and matching suede slippers. Her veil of pastel pink silk was held in place with a pink and blue wreath, and she carried pink carnations. Miss Cora James, sister of the bride, was her attendant, wearing a frock of dusty rose crepe, and carrying pink tulips and ferns. Mr. Everett Lillico was groomsman.

A wedding supper was served in the dining room, which was attractively decorated with pink and white streamers and wedding bells.

After a short motor trip, Mr. and Mrs. Miles will live on the groom's farm in Emily township.

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Tuesday, February 27

A DAY in which the spirit and stamina will be tested through oppositions and obstacles is the omen based upon the lunar and mutual aspects. There may be stubborn situations to be met with determination and resourcefulness. It is probable that the co-operation of employers or those in power may be counted on. But the front to cope with is subtle, deeprooted and crafty, and calls for strategem or tact, not impetuosity and force. Romance figures.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves confronted by a year of stubborn obstacles and subtle oppositions, which may be successfully maneuvered with tact and diplomacy rather than reckless and passionate reprisals. Employers and those of influence will be found willing to support industry, merit and fidelity. Patience and constructive programs are assured promotion and gain. In purely personal relations there may be a surprising not of romance.

A child born on this day may be energetic, skilful, resourceful and persistent, winning advancement or aid of superiors by its dependable qualities. But it may be subtle and at times passionate and jealous.

Chamberlain's Message

How far-reaching is war was made plain in the latest Chamberlain address. He made known that during the first year of the war the British government intends to spend £100,000,000 in Canada, and at present value of the pound that is about $450,000,000.

With evident and well justified pride the British Prime Minister referred to the presence of the Canadian troops in England. He sees them every day in London, and is "profoundly impressed with the moral greatness of the cause which has inspired so intense a conviction of its righteousness." And that is indeed stating the case nicely, seriously and with wholesome admiration.

One of the figures he used was impressive, and that had to do with the convoy system and the extent to which it is successful in making certain that ships continue to arrive in and depart from British ports." Since the beginning of the war some 50,000,000 tons of shipping have entered or cleared our ports. The convoy system has been so successful that out of 9,000 British, Allied and neutral vessels which sailed in convoy only two-tenths of one per cent. have been lost."

There is no boasting in such a statement; it is merely plain information regarding something which is of the utmost importance to the people of the Empire.

Made a Wise Choice

Liberals of Peterborough West had their candidate taken from them by elevation to the Senate, but they promptly secured another. They did well in selecting Roland M. Glover; in fact he is about the most formidable contestant the Liberals could have put in the field.

The city tried him as an alderman and found him highly acceptable. He was for years publisher of the Examiner, and although a Liberal he understood well enough the fairness of giving to all political parties equal treatment in the columns of a daily paper which was serving the city and district alone in its field.

Looking at the calendar it is found there is just one month for the Federal election campaign, including the day of voting on March 26. The organization work of both Liberal and Conservative parties is complete, and has been that way for some time. Peterborough West is fortunate in having two such candidates in the field as Gordon K. Fraser and Roland M. Glover.

It's Too Dangerous

A reader has forwarded to this office a clipping from a newspaper, the name of which we do not know. The clipping has to do with the opinion of a writer to the effect that things are not going well in Germany. We quote

"It is known that a strict system of food and clothing rationing has been in force for months, and the people are finding it difficult to secure enough to eat. In North Germany potatoes and rye bread and pork are what the people are using. Then there is scarcity of oil and gasoline to carry on military manoeuvres on a large scale. Germany is actually far weaker than the world has had reason to believe."

Of course there is much more, but if one were looking for the text that would be it. We don't think much of it, and we can see no particular good purpose being served by writing or thinking in that general direction.

There was never any secret made regarding food rationing in Germany, and one has to admire the manner in which the problem was handled. The system was announced without warning on a Sunday and was in effect when business opened on Monday, so there was no opportunity for a rush to the stores, and no chance for any person to lay in large stocks from which he could profit by selling to those who desired to purchase more than the cards allowed. Actually we see no indication of internal weakness in a system of rationing. Rather it is the part of wisdom, and it keeps the war right square in front of all the people all the time.

Germany may be short of oil and short of gasoline, and although that country has gone far in developing processes for securing substitutes the shortage may continue. That is why Germany presses hard upon Rumania for large supplies of oil. But here again the world has no definite knowledge regarding the supplies existing in Germany today. It would be positively dangerous to assume that shortage exists while the supply might be quite adequate for present needs.

Coming to the conclusion that there is serious and incurable weakness in Germany today is too much like taking an opiate; going to sleep when it is advisable to stay wide awake. We regard Germany as being a tremendously strong nation, with the great majority of the people solidly behind Hitler, and with those who do not agree with him in no position to do anything about it. If they have to pull in their belts on account of the restrictions of their purchasing cards they will do it. Don't let us fool ourselves by coming to the conclusion that something like a major calamity is hanging over Germany. That sort of thinking is undoubtedly the very thing which Berlin would approve. Nothing would serve Hitler better than to have the Allies convinced that Germany is weakening.

An Insult To Canadians

According to the Canadian Press count there were 479 candidates in the field at the end of last week. The number will be greater today and it will steadily increase. In 1935 there were 893 candidates for the 245 seats in the House of Commons, and in the 1930 contest there were 531. The Canadian Press count placed 180 Liberals nominated and 148 Conservatives; the C.C.F. has 84 already in the running. There are 48 candidates classed as New Democracy, Independents, Labor and Communists.

A candidate has a strange outlook who has the nerve to stand up in this country today and state he is a Communist. Formerly one would not take much objection to it, and the reason was that Communism had not been fully revealed. It was looked upon as something with which people in Russia were experimenting. We didn't think much of it but there was no reason to forbid the thing in this country.

Today it is all different. We have seen Communism in operation, and the think stinks clean across the Atlantic.

Stalin has taken off the cloak and the mask; whatever benevolence he had caused to appear on the surface has all been drained off. When we look at his attack on Finland we want no other explanation of his Communism, and it is barging in with malicious purpose for a candidate to bring Communism before the Canadian electorate as something which they should be asked to consider.

For a candidate to appear as a Communist is equivalent to asking Canadian voters to approve of the rape, the butchery and the torture of Finland.

And if Communist candidates insist on running and people insist on voting for them we can only wish they might be identified and then ridden out of the country on a rail.

A Time Of Testing

Harry Mueller of Toronto, an unregistered German alien, was sentenced to six years in Kingston penitentiary when he appeared in court at Brockville. He pleaded guilty to armed robbery of a bank in Toronto on November 30. We are satisfied Mueller is in the right place. When this country is at war an unregistered German who made it his business to go robbing banks or anything else was outrageously defiant. He not only went his way without registering as an alien, but he took it for granted it would be right enough to engage in crime when our country was at war.

There was for some time a slight confusion in names between this Mueller and another of the same name who appeared in court in Peterborough. The one here was Fidus Mueller and when asked for his registration papers he had none to show. He had been living in Kitchener and reports indicate he had registered there but had not kept his papers, believing he did not need them as he was born in Kitchener. Nor had he reported elsewhere to the authorities. He was finally sent to the concentration camp at Petawawa, and that too is the proper place for him.

As a rule we are inclined to be rather tolerant in this country, because our peace-time custom is that people can come and go as they wish, and we seldom ask them questions. We just take it for granted they are all right and bent on no mischief.

In war time it's different. We have not the least desire to bother foreigners who are accredited and who can be trusted to mind their own business. Of others we have a right to be suspicious to the point of insisting that we know all about them. It is a good time to sift our population and find out exactly what we have, and such of it which is found lacking should be shipped out when the war is over.

Natural Laws

Wolves attack deer and therefore wolves should be cleaned out. That argument has been advanced frequently, and possibly these columns have aided. We heard the matter discussed by several students of outdoor life, and the argument was that if it were not for the wolves we would have a poor lot of deer. It was recalled that in England years ago it was found that when deer were protected and made free from the battle with wolves they became as tame as cows. They were wild creatures no longer, neither were they vigorous or self reliant.

It was also contended that if the enemies of the fox were to disappear the fox would lose its cunning. The battle for existence is also going on in the water all the time. The larger fish prey upon the lesser ones.

More familiar is the dog chasing the cat, and cat hunting and devouring the bird and the bird in turn digging up the worms.

The system is there and it probably works for the best, but admittedly people do not like the wolves bringing down the deer.

Chance For Much Digging

A. D. Lavalle of 187 Perry Street is a keen and observant reader of newspapers. He forwarded a clipping to the Examiner dealing with recent excavations in Egypt. Dated from Paris it related:

"Professor Montet of the University of Strasbourg today reported excavation of the tomb of King Psusennes of the 21st Egyptian dynasty, believed to be the father-in-law of King Solomon."

Then it was that the Peterborough gentleman started to do a little thinking. So he wrote to the Examiner:

"According to 1st Kings, 11th chapter, and 3rd verse, it is recorded that Solomon had seven hundred wives, princesses and three hundred concubines. So now the man who found his father-in-law's grave can start looking for the graves of the other 699—or were all his wives sisters?"

It is well at times for newspapers to be made aware of the fact that they are read by critical and observant people.

NOTE AND COMMENT

There have been the required number of charges hurled in the Ontario Legislature, so it would be quite all right to bring it to a close now.

It's not well to become too chummy with new friends, for by the time you shrink back to normal they'll think you've turned frigid.

Boy of ten years at Chatham stole a truck and drove the thing until he wrecked it in the ditch. Too young to drive of course, but many an adult has would up the same way.

One speaker has declared that the lack of unity in Canada has reached the danger point. But there's one point where we are united—we'd all like to pay less taxes.

Warnings have been issued that bogus $2, $5 and $20 bills are in circulation in our district. We have a fair knowledge of what the two and five look like, but you better ask some person else about the twenty.

One claim has been made that a vegetarian diet makes a person slim, and the Owen Sound Sun-Times looked in the picture books and found that the hippopotamus and elephant are both vegetarians.

The voters' lists for Oxford riding will be printed and ready for distribution by the end of the month, and on the same date the workers in the committee rooms will also be ready to mark and check and to double mark and double check.

Young man climbed the fence at London Fair in 1934 to save the 25 cents admission. He sent in the quarter the other day, explaining he had been converted and wanted to make matters right. Smile if you wish, but this troubled old world could do with a good deal more of that sort of conversion.

TROUBLED

(By A.R.K.)

¶ My Neighbor G was bald and proud, he held his head above the crowd, and that's the honest truth; he felt important that I know, for I have watched him come and go, he always held aloof

¶ He did not like his barren dome, from which the bloom had up and flown, he felt it made him flat; when he pursued his daily chores, no matter what the heat indoors, he always wore his hat.

¶ He felt that youth would come again, and he would look like other men, if he had hair on top; he wrote some letters to a firm, got lots of pictures in return, he cuddled deep in thought.

¶ A wavy wig would be the thing, he'd look like dandelions in spring, it showed it in the books; it was the very thing he'd need, since his own hair had gone to seed, take ten years off his looks.

¶ A week or so he stayed away, then he come back just yesterday, and there's no doubt a change; I did not know my Neighbor G, although he stopped and spoke to me, I thought he looked so strange.

¶ He told me people passed him by, to speak to them he would not try, he's sort of lost his strut; he went away as bald could be, now has such hair it's plain to see—he ought to get it cut.

Looking Over Wide Range In Fields Of War

THE FAR NORTH and the near east continue to be points of special interest and there is serious speculation as to what may result from developments in both areas. Today Copenhagen papers give a good deal of attention to the British naval squadron reported to be in Arctic waters and which has as its main objective a blockade on trade between Germany and the northern Russian port of Murmansk. It is claimed that this trade has been proceeding regularly with the ships engaged in it making use of neutral Norwegian water to cover their voyages. Now it would seem that the British fleet plans to check up on these vessels as they leave or approach Murmansk. The suggestion is also advanced that the Royal Navy wants to block the sending out from Murmansk of Russian submarines to augment the German undersea forces. But while Russia is understood to have some 150 submarines it is unlikely that there are many of these on the Arctic coast, so the blockade feature is probably the more important. Another feature to which the British naval vessels will give attention will be an effort to check shipments of Swedish iron to Germany by way of Narvik, a route which is all the more important with the Gulf of Bothnia and the Baltic Sea tied up by unusual frosts. Still another purpose perhaps is to prevent shipment of German supplies to Russian forces in the north.

On The Black Sea

Thus the blockade on German trade is being steadily tightened. And this is proceeding not only in the far north. In the opposite corner of Europe Rumania is increasing its military preparations because of Germany's threats arising out of the Rumanian government's agreement with the Allies to ship only crude oil to Germany and also to limit its shipments. In addition it is also reported that the Allies plan now to institute on the Black Sea a contraband control, which will check shipments of Russian oil from Batum and by way of the Danube or perhaps Odessa to Germany. In ordinary times oil from this area for Germany is usually carried by way of the Dardanelles and the Straits of Gibraltar, but that route is already closed by the Allied navies. As for the Black Sea control, that could only be arranged with Turkish consent and cooperation but there are signs that that will not be impossible to obtain. Germany is already cut off from its main sources of oil supply in the western hemisphere.

Difficulties of the Neutrals

Not unnaturally there is grave tension in both these sections. In Scandinavia the reported activities of the British fleet, though quite in accord with international usage, are causing concern for the future of Scandinavian neutrality. The need for aid for Finland is also a factor which is disturbing them and much more than the Allied blockade measures and German attacks on shipping will be discussed when the Scandinavian foreign ministers meet in Copenhagen at the week-end. Mr. Churchill's summation a few days ago of the difficult position in which the smaller neutrals find themselves caused some caustic comment when it was made. But it is becoming more evident daily that the neutrals will face shortly the necessity of making a decision. At the moment they are suffering almost more than the combatants, except in Finland. A curious sidelight is the conference of the foreign ministers of Latvia, Lithuania and Estonia, which is to meet shortly in a position to control their nations it is interesting to speculate on what they have to confer about.

British Planes Have the Edge

Superiority as fighters of British bombing planes to German bombing planes is shown in figures released by the British Government, which reports that certainly 41 and perhaps 50 German bombers have been shot down along the coast of Great Britain without the loss of a single British plane. On the other hand British bombers, while they have suffered substantial losses in raids on Germany, have downed 20 German fighting planes. So the advantage is distinctly with the British air force.

FEW WORDS—MORE SENSE

EVERYBODY would be much better off if lawyers, drawing up legal documents, would eliminate 75 per cent of the words. That's not the radical, crack-pot recommendation of some disgruntled layman, who has received a summons. Instead the idea comes from Charles A. Beardsley, president of the American Bar Association.

Some legal documents do not make sense to anyone, not even to the lawyers who draft them. They include a lot of phrases and words that have accumulated an aura of tradition and have lost all meaning.—Guelph Mercury.

SLOT MACHINES

JUST what good was done by passing of an amendment to the Criminal Code making slot machines illegal is beyond our understanding. Up in Bracebridge the Regal Machine Service has agreed to pay a license fee to the town of $4,140 for the privilege of operating fifteen of these machines in that municipality. In Barrie the council decided to license mechanical devices for amusement and set the fee at $100. Rather a peculiar situation. The Dominion law says the machines are illegal and the municipality offers to let them operate on payment of a consideration, known as a license.—Acton Free Press.

• War Effort Is A Broad Question

EDITOR EXAMINER: Sir,—Now that the election campaign is under way I think it might be well if people thought carefully about the issues. We are told every day that the conduct of the war is the one thing which matters most, and with that I am inclined to be in agreement because if this war is not won then nothing much else matters.

That is the starting point, and from there I think we should go on and seriously think what it means to carry on a war to the point of success. War is something which is not won entirely by the efforts of the people at the front. I do not believe there will be any disposition to challenge the claim that Germany lost the last war because that nation collapsed internally. The people could no longer stand it. The resources of the country were not equal to maintaining the strain.

That is the place where I want to put the finger today. The people who have to stay at home have a good deal to do. They must support those who are in uniform. They must produce in order that the business of the country can supply their needs and also stand a fair chance of paying the high rate of taxation which our war effort is costing us today, and it will cost us more in the future.

So when we hear it said that the war is the only thing that matters in this election, or in anything else which we do, I hope we are going to get a broad enough view of what war means. It has to do with agriculture, with the raising of bacon and beef, with the manufacturers and all our places of employment. It has to do with those who are employed and with those who are unemployed.

I for one am going to do a lot of thinking and watching before it comes to the day when I shall have opportunity to go out and mark my ballot. I am going to look at the general policy of the government which has been in power and compare it with the general policy proposed by the opposing party. We are too apt to think in terms of good men in uniforms, of guns and shells and planes as alone representing our war effort. I think it is fair enough to suggest that behind all these visible things there must be the sustained effort of the people at home. We do not want internal weakness to cramp our efforts abroad as was the case in Germany toward the end of 1918. For the reasons I have given I am going to try and take as broad a possible view of the whole question because a war effort is the effort of the whole people no matter where they may be situated.

A. H. D.

• Emotionalism And War Effort

THERE is not much question about the fundamental personal sincerity regarding the Canadian war effort of practically all prominent members of all parties engaged in the federal election campaign. Without exception they want the Allies to win, and probably also without exception they want Canada to play the most effective part she is capable of playing in bringing about an Allied victory.

Their differences of opinion, consequently, are not of a primary but of a secondary nature. They are disagreeing, partly perhaps because of sincere conviction, partly because there must be something to argue about in an election campaign, about what the most effective war effort should be. Their method of expressing disagreement is already, unfortunately, degenerating from logical discussion to highly emotionalized declaiming. This is only to be expected, since it happens as every election campaign "gets up steam."

But in this campaign emotionalism without much logic carries with it a danger that does not exist in a peace-time campaign. With so many speakers shouting the need of a tremendous war effort, and some of them urging the sending of men overseas in much larger numbers, there is a serious danger that the whipped-up enthusiasm might result in modifications in Canada's effort that would be based mainly on emotion rather than mainly on intelligence.

There are two very important things to keep in mind in Canada at this stage of the war. One is that everything this Dominion does must be perfectly co-ordinated with everything the other Allies are doing. The other is that the dominions are the great source of reserve strength for the Allies if things go seriously wrong in Europe.

At the present time nobody knows what is going to happen in Europe. The fact has to be faced that it is conceivable, if not probable, that many of the war materials industries of Britain and France may be bombed out of existence. The extreme emergency requirements that may arise may not be for soldiers but for industrial support. If the situation develops in another way the requirement will be financial support.

As the wealthiest and the most highly developed industrially of the dominions, Canada would have much the most vital part to play in this exertion of reserve strength. If foolish steps, base on emotion rather than intelligence, are taken now, reserve strength may be so seriously dissipated that Canada will fail her allies if the extreme emergency ever arises.

This, then, is the danger of an election campaign which might lead many thousands of Canadians to believe that a spectacular war effort is the same thing as the most effective one. If enough Canadians started to demand a spectacular war effort they could probably force the government to give it to them, no matter what party secures power in the election. So long as emotionalism does not drive completely out of the Canadian mind the idea that the time may come when a man in Canada building aeroplanes or working on shells or raising hogs or exporting cheese or being hospitable to tourists may be worth many times as much to the Allies as if he were in France, the election oratory will probably do no great harm.—Kingston Whig-Standard.

• Taxation Has Power To Destroy

CANADIAN cities are in the preliminary stages of a development that may depopulate some of the more important ones, according to H. E. Manning, president of the Toronto Property Owners' Association, who gave his views recently before the Canadian Chamber of Commerce.

If Mr. Manning's opinion, the process by which unjustified taxation is imposed on landowners, with the idea that it can be passed along to tenants by means of increased rentals, is an untenable procedure that must convert many sections of cities into desert.

That this unfortunate process is now in full operation in Toronto is demonstrated in the circumstance that in 29 sales of downtown property in that city during the past four years not one sale realized more than 91 per cent of the assessed value. The aggregate of all the prices obtained was only 65.23 per cent of the total of the assessments.

One specific instance was given wherein a property near the corner of King and Yonge streets, after six year of vacancy characterized by persistent effort at sale or rental, was disposed of for $75,000 when the assessment stood at $193,000. Mr. Manning's conclusion is that land taxation is going to create deserts in established Canadian cities and he points to the frequency with which large buildings are being demolished to escape the taxation. The owners of the property are compelled to convert it into parking lots. In several square miles of city property in Toronto, about one and a quarter miles of frontage has been thus denuded of buildings because the owners could not realize sufficient revenue to pay the taxes.

In the area described, two short blocks pay more than one-fiftieth of all the taxes levied in a city 15 miles in width and more than 7 miles in depth from Lake Ontario. More than an eighth of all the land in the two blocks referred to has been driven out of normal commercial use by taxation.

The building industry, which in its heyday was one of the most prolific employers of labor, virtually has been ruined by this staggering increase in taxation, some of which is due, especially in the larger cities, to wholesale exemptions. In Toronto, for example, the sum of exemptions is practically $160,000,000, equal to Hamilton's total taxable assessment.

It is a widely-held opinion that if something were done to rationalize this taxation, building would again assume its former scope, an operation that would go a long way toward solving the unemployment problem. However, our legislators seem to be indifferent to this crisis. They are discussing many more or less abstract problems while the avalanche of dispossession descends on the community. — Woodstock Sentinel-Review.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

Blessed is the man that walketh not in the counsel of the ungodly, nor standeth in the way of sinners, nor sitteth in the seat of the scornful. But his delight is in the law of the Lord; and in his law doth he meditate day and night. And he shall be like a tree planted by the rivers of water, that bringeth forth his fruit in his season; and whatsoever he doeth shall prosper....

Blessed art thou, O Lord: teach me thy statutes....Open thou mine eyes, that I may behold wondrous things out of thy law....Give me understanding, and I shall keep thy law; yea, I shall observe it with my whole heart.—Ps. 1, 1-3; cix, 12, 18, 34.

To All The Electors Of Peterborough West:

As the Liberal candidate for this constituency it is a duty to give you my reasons why I believe your vote for me will be in the real national interest of Canada. This first message, therefore, will deal briefly with the most important question you have to decide — what government can most effectively prosecute the war.

¶ On Saturday afternoon, Colonel John A. Dewart, M.C., said that in his opinion, as a military officer, the accomplishment of the Dominion Government in placing Canada on an active war footing in the short time of a little more than five months was a wonderful thing.

¶ That was actually my own impression as an ordinary citizen, and I believe it is also the opinion of the great majority of Canadian people.

¶ And, it was that conviction, above all others, that so strongly appealed to me in my decision to become a candidate in support of the Government if I was nominated for that great responsibility.

¶ I had come to my own conclusion on this matter in much the same way as other citizens, business men, working men, farmers, from the information that has been coming to us in the press, the news of the contingents of our First Division sailing from Canada, landing safely in the Motherland, bringing to the British people the evidece that we were again lining up with them as in 1914-18.

¶ The pictures of our first squadron of Canadian Airmen as they were grouped ready to leave us! The reports of the Empire air program, and the fact that the Department of Transport had a series of complete landing fields ready across Canada for the first stage of training the new fliers. One could not help but feel that the Government was doing a thorough job of placing the resources of Canada at the disposal of the Empire.

¶ I have quoted Colonel Dewart because he is the ranking military officer in this district. And when a veteran of the Great War, like Colonel Dewart spends years aferwards, peace time years, in the study of military affairs, I believe his statements are worth attention. What he said in a few words was what was in my own mind, and personally, I would just as soon have his considered opinion as that of any other person I know of, including Hon. Dr. Manion.

¶ Just as I believe that we are unanimous in our hopes and in our will to win the war, I also believe the Government of which Mr. King is and has been the head has not only done everything that could be expected of a peaceful nation suddenly faced with a war task, but that they have done that work exceedingly well.

¶ In asking you, the men and women of this riding, for your votes I make this promise that if I am elected I will give the Government my fullest support in the prosecution of the war, in carrying on the gigantic effort that has already been so well begun.

Faithfully Yours,

R. M. (Rollie) GLOVER

ZEPHYRS AND BEES WIN HIGH-SCORING MEN'S CAGE CONTESTS

Continue Atop City Loop As Quakers 3rd

Zephysr and Bees continue to set the pace in the Senior City Basketball League as both teams chalked up high-scoring victories in Saturday night's double header at the Y.M.C.A.

The rampaging Bees outshot C.G.E. to score a 59-44 victory for their fifth straight triumph and Zephyrs after suffering their initial loss a week ago, overwhelmed Dominions 62-23. The winners both assured themselves a play-off berth despite the outcome of their remaining games, while Quakers have an edge on either Dominions or C.G.E. for the show position.

Jim Thorburn notched another 25 points to run his total to 110, far ahead of the field. The standing of the teams:

	W	L	F	A
Zephyrs	6	1	239	122
Bees	5	2	253	181
Quakers	3	3	181	150
C.G.E.	1	5	167	242
Dominions	1	5	137	239

Bees ran up another high score but had trouble keeping ahead of C.G.E. before they recorded a 59-44 win. The winners had a good margin most of the way to set up a 30-24 margin in the first half and then add another nine points in the final period. It was one of the best battles of the year from a spectator standpoint as C.G.E. had a good portion of the play, but couldn't quite match the high scoring play of the Bees. Both teams travelled at top speed and checking, despite the high scoring was fairly close as the Bees lost two players with goals and the Electrics one. Thorburn, McArthur, Rogow and Ascott stood out for the winners and Gemmel, Broadley and Dundas lead the winners.

Bees cashed in on xiven of their 10 free throws while C.G.E. also made seven of their 10 tries from the free throw line.

Bees (59)—Centre, Craig 10; forwards, McArthur 14, Thorburn 25; guards, Ascott 3, Rogow 4; subs, Whaley 3.

C.G.E. (43)—Centre, Galley 9; forwards, Holmes 8, Gemmel 9; guards, Broadley 4, Archibald 3; sub, Dundas 11.

Running Wild

The league leading Zephyrs ran wild in both halves to massacre Dominions 62-23 to strengthen their hold on first place. The winners held a 35-10 edge at the half after completely outplaying the losers and then coasted to an easy win. They had their strong passing attack hitting on all cylinders and while their fine passing plays usually their finep assing plays usually wound up under the basket. Dominions defense was shaky and they missed chance after chance in close to the basket, or they might have made it closer. Stewart, Dyer and Sedgewick sparked the fast-travelling winners while Currie, Marsh and Wolstenholme were outstanding for Dominions.

The winners counted only four for 16 free throws while Dominions scored but five or their 19, as both teams missed a good chance to pick up points.

The teams:

Dominions (23)—Centre, Weese 1; forwards, Csumrick, Currie 9; guards, March 7, Grose; subs, Hunter, Hummell 2, Wolstenholme 4.

Zephyrs (62)—Centre, Dyer 24; forwards, Stewart 20; Dougherty 6; guards, Sedgewick 3, West 3; subs, McIntyre 8.

Referee, Curly Krug.

Machine Shop Bees Beat Drafting 8-2

Machine Shop "B" coped an 8-2 C.G.E. Shop Loop puck win over Drafting on Saturday in the Brock St. rink. The winners ran up a 4-1 lead in the first and had it 6-1 to end the second. Murduff tallied three for the Bees, with Gordon getting two, and Collins, Barnes and Crowter one each. Dunfield and Condon bulged the hemp for the losers. Dunfield and Palmer stood out for the Drafting, with Murduff, Gordon and Mason best for the victors. The teams:

Drafting—Goal, Woods; defence, Palmer, Ellis; centre, Hough; wings, Rooke, Dunfield; subs, Rutherford, Lackey, Gordon, Edmundson.

Machine Shop "B"—Goal, Mason; defence, Smith, English; centre, Crowter; wings, Murduff, Gordon; subs, Collins, Young, Barnes, Kinmond.

Local Ski Club Championships Staged Over The Week-end

Nine club championship events were decided over the week-end at Nassau and Bethany, stamping grounds of the Peterborough Ski Club and some fine times resulted from the two days of competition. The driving snow-storm made jumping difficult on Saturday so much so that it was a case of blind jumping which cut down distances considerably in the Class "A" jump at Nassau. In the Student and Junior sections, the cross country runners found the new snow to their liking and there was keen competition among the large list of entries. The list of results with times and distances follow later.

Ideal weather conditions prevailed at Bethany yesterday, lately termed the Sun Valley of Ontario. Six inches of new powder snow made conditions perfect for the Senior downhill and slalom events which were run off in the morning and afternoon respectively. The crowd of skiers and spectators numbered close to four hundred from Peterborough, Toronto, Oshawa, Lindsay, Port Hope and various other centres.

Efficient Work

Officials are to be congratulated on the efficient manner in which they conducted the events. On Saturday the officials were as follows: Director of Competitions, Otto Laderach; starters, Bob White and Grahame Eastwood; judges, Karl Duffus, Jack Richardson; timekeeper, Ross Thompson. Yesterday, Bob Juby acted as starter while Ross Thompson was timekeeper and Miss Isobel Reid and Grahame Eastwood were recorders and kept various other details. Slalom course set by Ross Wilson of Toronto and Bob White of the Peterborough Club. Course was 1300 ft. long and left little to be desired from the competitors' standpoint.

Several events remain to be run off before the all-around champions for each section can be decided. Dates of these events will be announced through the Telemarker and the P.S.C. column in this paper.

The results:

Senior slalom, club championship —1, George Cook, time 86.6; 2, Eric Westbye, 92.8; 3, Andy Rutter, 94.6; 4, Karl Duffus, 102.2; 5, Jack Holland, 103.8. Twelve entries.

Senior downhill, club championship—1, Karl Duffus, time 46.6; 2, Eric Westbye, 48.4; 3, George Cook, 55.8; 4, Otto Laderach, 60.6; 5, Gerry Dawson, 64.4. Nine entries.

Combined downhill and slalom — 1, Eric Westbye, 94.8 pts.; 2, Karl Duffus, 93.2 pts.; 3, George Cook, 91.8 pts.

Senior jumping, club championship—1, Jack Holland 71-78 ft.; 2, Don Shiner, 69-69.5 ft.; 3, Otto Laderach, 53-59.5 ft.

Junior jumping, club championship—1, Bill Shadgett, 31-34 ft.; 2, Bob Currie, 31.5-31.5 ft.; 3, Jim Monahan, 25-26 ft.; 4, Jack Matthews, 28-27.5 ft.; 5, Sammy Gentles, 21-26.5 ft.

Student jumping, club championship—1, Gordon Matthews, Jr., 40-40 ft.; 2, Harold Matthews, 35.5-37 ft.; 3, K. Sproule, 38-43 ft.

Note: Jumpers judged on style as well as distance.

Junior cross country—1, J. Frank, 10:25; 2, Jim Monahan, 10:45; 3, Bill Shadgett, 11:12; 4, M. Metcalfe, 12:22; 5, Sammy Gentles, 12:39. Twelve entries.

Student cross country—1, Gordon Matthews, 20:38; 2, Harold Matthews 21:6; 3, K. Sproule, 22:8; 4, Max Graham, 23:40.

Junior girls' cross country — 1, Jean Metcalfe, 5:15; 2, Joan Ackerman, 5:30; 3, Patsy Martyn, 5:35; 4, Agnes Strickland, 5:55; 5, Nancy Ackerman, 6:20.

Weekend Stars

(By the Canadian Press.)

Bryan Hextall, Rangers, piled up three goals as Rangers walloped the Montreal Canadiens 2-0 and 6-2 during the week-end.

Ebbie, Goodfellow, Detroit, assisted in every Wings' goal in a 4-1 victory over Americans.

Gus Marker and Pete Langelle, Toronto, paced Maple Leafs to a 3-1 Saturday victory over Boston, with Marker getting two goals and an assist and Langelle a goal and two assists.

Johnny Gottselig, Chicago, scored twice as the Black Hawks ran their unbeaten string to nine with a 3-1 victory over Boston.

Switchgears Win Over Machinists

Switchgears of the C.G.E. Shop League took an 11-2 win over Machine Shop "A" in the Brock on Saturday. They had a 4-1 edge in the first frame and led 6-1 going into the third. Tompkins and Archibald paced the winners with three goals each as Leggitt got two, and Mackey, Mowry and Jobe one each. For the losers, Creighton had two, he and Langton going best. All the victors stood out in this fray. The teams:

Switchgears— Goal, Agnew; defence, Leggitt, Mowry; centre, Tompkins; wings, Archibald, Jobe; sub, Mackey.

Machine Shop "A"—Goal, Jones; defence, Pammett, Curtin; centre, Nichols; wings, Creighton, Langton; sub, Armour.

Referee—Tom Miller.

Port Colborne Here Tuesday

Word was received over the week-end here from Secretary W. A. Hewitt of the O.H.A. that four clubs would stage a round-robin series for the Ontario intermediate "A" championship. And the first game would be played this week in Peterborough. Port Colborne comes here tomorrow (Tuesday) night, with Kitchener maybe here on Friday. The round-robin is a single schedule, each club playing once in each of the other club's arena, top two then playing off for the O.H.A. title. The Collingwood-Owen Sound group winner has not been declared yet but should be known this week.

Considered a real "break" by the local hockey club, to obtain the first game at home, the Petes are determined to start off the series with a win and get a shot at a provincial championship. Despite the long trips involved, there will be no increase in prices at games here until possibly the final playoff between the top two teams—provided the Petes go that far. With such an important tilt here tomorrow night, a record crowd for the year is expected at 8:30 in the Brock arena.

Bowling At Duffus'

The Brinton mixed league took the bowling honors at Duffus' Alleys on Friday and Saturday nights when Leo Martyn counted 826 to top the men's scores and Miss B. Fitzgerald chalked up 640 to take first place in the ladies' section. Good scores were as follows:

Johnson Motors League: Eric Miller 760 (302), F. Collins 698 (305), G. Black 683, E. McKinstry 673, H. Messley 612, Miss D. Moscrop 581 (285), Miss G. Payne 541 and Miss D. McDowell 240 single.

Brinton Carpet Co. League: Leo Martyn 826, G. Dodson 780, D. Leether 739 (305), G. Caird 726, A. Bishop 693, J. Kitchen 675, J. Basciano 653, E. Hele 627, W. Firth 617, C. Corbett 613, T. Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEL PERDUE

Tonight at 8.30 in the Brock St. rink, Omemee Black Hawks tackle the Lock Co. Eagles in a district league playoff game. The third of their three-in-five finals, each club having copped a nod to date. It is the first time the Eagles have played in Peterborough this winter, the Lockmen staging all previous tussles in Lindsay or Omemee. Winner of the series goes into O.H.A. intermediate "B" playdowns, and the calibre of play dished up by such experienced puckists is high. They play a fast, bruising type of hockey—and the teams are well-matched. The Hawks won the first playoff handily on home ice, but the Eagles were soaring high last Friday in Omemee to win by four goals. They deserve a good crowd of fans this e'en.

* * * * * *

Eagles lineup—the club is coached by Ed Prete—last game was: Goal, King; defence, Pryde and Prete; centre, Gilbert; wings, Burke and Cournyea; alternates, Watkins, West, Watson and Edmunds. There may be an addition or two for tonight's number. The Omemee squad is: Goal, Fisher; defence, Williamson and T. Parsons; centre, Tripp; wings, F. Parsons and Jamieson; alternates, Brockley, Brooks, Ellis and Deyell. The referee will be Lou LeBarr. Ice is in swell shape and both squads will be really playing for keeps this time, so it should be a nifty puck battle.

Port Colborne Here

The Petes have received from Secretary Bill Hewitt of the O.H.A. word of their future hockey playoffs. It will be a four-club round-robin series—consisting of home and home games with each club—top two then having a two-in-three final playoff for the O.H.A. intermediate "A" championship. And a crack at the N.O.H.A. winner and maybe the Eastern Canada title. Port Colborne will definitely be here tomorrow (Tuesday) eve to start it off, and possibly Kitchener will play in Peterborough on Friday. The Collingwood-Owen Sound winner will not be known for a few more days.

* * * * * *

There was a meeting held—when news came—by the officers and players of the Petes' club to discuss trips, expenses, etc., connected with the round-robin series. Now, such places as Collingwood, Port Colborne and Kitchener (or Owen Sound possibly) are quite a distance from here, and trips entail heavy expenses for time off work, transportation, hotels, meals, etc. Yet the players and officials unanimously decided there would be no increase in prices at the Brock for the regular round-robin series. If necessary, prices may be boosted later in final playoffs—but not for the next few weeks. The boys felt the fans had supported them very well this winter in a just so-so schedule, and the customers deserved a break. Which was sound reasoning, and the fans will appreciate it.

Record Crowd Likely

And so the Port Colborne Incos start the O.H.A. playoff series here tomorrow e'en at 8.30 at the Rue Brock, and the walls should be bulging with redhot city and district rooters for that one, eh? We can't tell ya much about the Incos, except that they're rated a strong "A" club down in the Niagara peninsula, made up to a big extent of former senior "A" puckists or good boys who didn't make the senior "A" this season. No doubt they'll be plenty potent and this first win means a heck of a lot in the speedy Petes' drive for a provincial championship. We expect all the Petes, including Jim Ellis, will be back in action for the Buckland bunch, and a stream-lined hockey playoff is sure to be served up for the biggest crowd of the current season. Ought to be 2,000 or more on deck.

* * * * * *

Boasting a 10-2 exhibition win in Kitchener over Camp Borden's squad—which they dubbed an intermediate "A" team—Greenshirts feel they're the class of intermediate "A" playoffs this year. However, we might point out to 'em that the Camp Borden crew is of intermediate "B" calibre. Snipers for the Kitchener crew were Krueger, Grau, Simon, Bauer, Lang and Vrooman—and their other puckists included Bindernagel, Lederman, Smith, Hause and Clair. So 'twill be noted that the monickers on the Greenshirts have a strong resemblance to those of the Waterloo Tigers, whom the Petes met last semester in senior "B" playdowns. No doubt the Kitchener club is strong, too.

Some Church Hockey

Church hockey tonight at All Saints' rink: All Saints vs. Trinity at six in the first bantam final, George St. vs. All Saints at 7.15 in the junior semi-final, All Saints vs. George St. in a senior scheduled joust at 8.30. Tomorrow eve at seven it will be All Saints vs. Trinity in the second juvenile final. Teams playing tonight may all have to swing into action again Wednesday and Thursday as playing time has been cut down considerably due to the mild spell last week. However, the end is now in sight for the Church Puck Loop playoffs.

In the C.G.E. Shop Hockey League games Saturday aft at the Brock St. bump emporium, Porcelains won over the Dip & Buff bunch 3-1, Machine Shop Bees buzzed off with an 8-2 triumph over Drafting, and Switchgears swarmed through Machine Shop "A" for an 11-2 chuckle. Tompkins, Archibald and Leggitt led the way for the Switchgears; with Murduff and Gordon being the big noises for Machine Shop Bees; and Collins the leading sniper for the Porcelain crew. It's around playoff time now in this loop, but we dunno the exact setup yet.

Porcelains Win

Dip & Buff of the C.G.E. junior Shop Hockey League section lost out a 3-1 tilt to Porcelains on Saturday in the Brock Arena. Both sides scored in the second period but the winners finished stronger to bang the bootheel home twice in the third. Collins got two for Porcelains and O'Neill one as Weaver counted for the losers. Bone, Reid and Spooner went best for Dips and Buffs, while O'Neill, Clark and Collins shone for the winners. The teams:

Porcelains—Goal, Clark; defence, O'Neill, Giardino; centre, Collins; wings, Elliott, Dundas; subs, Daniels, Gracie.

Dip & Buff—Goal, Spooner; defence, Riel, Campbell; centre, Reid; wings, Bone, Weaver.

Referee—Tom Miller.

Training Camp Briefs

(By The Associated Press)

CLEARWATER, Fla., Feb. 26. — Dolph Camilli's ears should be burning out in California to-day. President Larry Macphail of the Brooklyn Dodgers didn't mince words in informing everybody within range (roughly a half-mile) that the chunky first baseman could stay on his ranch for ever before he would get a contarct for more than $15,000.

Rudy York at First.

LAKELAND, Fla. — Rudy York has a philosophical slant about his transfer by the Detroit Tigers from catching to first base. "You can't call the wrong pitch on first base," he said to-day. York and Hank Greenberg, who gave up first base and went to the outfield so Rudy could play regularly, are in camp early.

Must Hold Yanks Back.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. — Four consecutive world championships haven't dulled the enthusiasm of the New York Yankees. It was disclosed to-day, as the champs opened camp, that pitchers Vernon Gomez and Johnny Murphy had to be restrained officially to keep them from starting training last week. The club passed a rule that no player could work out before Manager Joe McCarthy arrived.

Too Bad for Reds.

TAMPA, Fla. — Lee Grissom, the southpaw pitcher the Cincinnati Reds traded to the Yankees, taunted his former teammates as he passed through here to his new headquarters.

"What a mistake the Reds made in trading me to the Yankees," he declared. "I'm going to be bearing down against Cincinnati every time I face them in an exhibition game. My arm feels great."

Remember When

Babe Ruth signed a three-year contract as player, assistant manager, and second vice-president of Boston Braves three years ago to-day after 15 seasons with the New York Yankees. The 41-year-old "King of Swat" returned to the city that hailed him as a great southpaw pitcher in 1914, but differences with the National League club's executive led to the Babe being given his unconditional release only four months later.

British Army Whips French

PARIS, Feb. 26.—(CP Cable)—After a lapse of nine years Britain and France have resumed rugby competition. The British army whipped the French army 36-3 in a one-sided contest yesterday.

The British soldiers won by six goals, two tries, to a penalty goal. Heavier in the scrum, the visiting forwards kept their backs constantly on the attack and the French players seemed overawed by the strength of the all-international British fifteen.

Wilfred Wooler, Cardiff star, scored three tries, H. J. Sayers, Lansdowne and Irish star, who, while Peter Cranmer, Moseley, W. E. N. Davies, Cardiff, and R. H. Guest, Waterloo, got one each. Six of the tries were converted by V. H. Jenkins, London Welsh fullback.

'Y' Swim Team Goes Good

Six members of the "Y" Junior Swimming Club competed in the open meet in Toronto on Saturday night and held dp well against the strong swimmers from Toronto and Hamilton.

In the Ontario championship 160 yds. free style relay, the team of Jim Brown, Ray Routly, Donald Pinch and Ralph Rogow finished their heat in third place less than a body length behind the strong teams from Broadview and Central Y.M.C.A.'s, Toronto in a time which would have given them third place in the final by more than two seconds.

Close Lead

Lead off man Jim Brown got away to a good start and increased his lead to a body length in the first 40 yds. over the other two teams. Swimming second, Routly, his first race in open competition, finished in the lead by a foot. Then, Pinch, swimming against two of the fastest sprinters in Toronto, dropped back about 10 feet and Ralph Rogow, the anchor man swam a real race to cut down the lead to less than a body length.

In the junior 40 yds. free style event, Jim Brown placed second in his heat and third in the semi-final while Warren Marshall and Gordon Wallace made a fine showing in the 14 and under events.

Next week, Gordon Minty, "Y" swimming director, will take his lads to Toronto for the city championships to be held at Central Y.M.C.A. Minty has also arranged meets at Orillia on March 16th and a four Y.M.C.A. meet at Toronto on March 30th with teams from Kitchener, Orillia, Peterborough and Central Y.M.C.A. taking part.

Western Canada Must Adopt Rules Or Cease Sending Teams East

TORONTO, Feb. 26 — (CP). — Western Canada football has been warned to adopt the rules of the Canadian Rugby Union by April 1 or surrender the right to send a team East for the National Senior final.

The C.R.U. decided at its annual meeting Saturday that the Western Interprovincial Union no longer may play under its own set of rules during the season and then send a team to compete in the Dominion playoff under the national organization's code. Two years ago the C.R.U. inserted a footnote in its constitution to enable the West to carry on under its own rules until 1940.

"Let's take a stand on this thing," Eastern delegates demanded at the annual.

The rules committee made a "concession" to the West by widening the zone of running interference from three yards to five, or half the width of the Western interference limit, but refused to let backs block behind the line or come ahead of the line to block. That is an essentional feature of the Western game of running intereference.

But W. C. Foulds, chairman of the committee, said the change to five yards would be conditional only upon acceptance of "all rules and regulations of the C.R.U." by the Western Interprovincial Union. If the West doesn't signify its willingness to adopt the C.R.U. code by April 1, the three-yard interference limit will prevail again.

Death of All-Canada Final

Joe Ryan, manager of the Dominion champion Winnipeg Blue Bombers, said the C.R.U.'s decision probably meant the death of the East-West playoff, for "our people are sold on the idea of broad running intereference, and I don't see how we could afford to give it up."

The rules committee stuck determinedly to the policy of an essentially Canadian game by giving a new lease on life to the old signal-barking method of calling plays. Now only three huddles will be allowed a team within a single quarter of a game. The quarterback will bark the signals from play formation the rest of the time.

Another rule change grants the team against which a touchdown is scored the option of kicking off or receiving. Formerly the team scored upon was forced to kick off.

Two players may be substituted twice within one period under another revision, fashioned as an attempt to reduce the practice of treating injured players on the field and to give coaches a chance to determine the extent of players' injuries before they are allowed to continue playing.

The West did score a point or two. One was the election of J. E. Bannerman of Calgary as president. Another was the stipulation that the 1940 East-West final, if one is played, will be staged at Varsity Stadium in Toronto or upon a neutral ground chosen by the C.R.U. executive if Varsity Stadium is not available.

Japan's birthrate is falling.

O'Connor Forces Detroit Boy To New Record

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—(CP). — Four indoor and eight meet records were established and new champions were crowned in fourteen of seventeen events of the United States Amateur Athletic Union indoor track and field meet at Madison Square Garden Saturday night.

Before a crowd of 15,000 Chuck Fenske sped to his sixth straight mile victiry and his first A.A.U. indoor title, turning in a 4:8.8 performance to finish eight yards in front of Gene Venzke.

Little Gregory Rice of South Bend, Ind., made a runaway of the three-mile race with the fastest time ever run indoors, 13 minutes 55.9 seconds, to crack a fifteen-year-old record set in 1925 by Willie Ritola.

Fenske in his triumph was aided by an accident to Glenn Cunningham. Coming down the straightaway to go into the final lap, the Kansan was giving Fenske a battle for the lead when he stumbled and fell. Cunningham got up and finished a game fourth, back of Lou Zamperini of Torrance, Cal.

O'Connor, Fritz Second.

Rice finished his great three-mile effort with almost a lap margin over Walter Mehl of Wisconsin. Don Lash, the Indiana State policeman, was a bad third.

Allan Tolmich of Detroit, skimmed over the 70-yard hurdles to nose out Larry O'Connor, University of Toronto star, in the record time of 8.4 seconds. Tolmich cut one-tenth of a second off the meet and indoor record for the event.

It was the second time in a week that Tolmich was forced to set a record to beat the Dominion sprint star. Last Saturday Tolmich set a national indoor record of 7.1 seconds for the sixty-yard hurdles.

O'Connor won the fourth heat of the trial heats in the time of 8.7 seconds and sprinted to victory in the second heat of the semi-finals, equalling the meet and indoor record with his time of 8.5 seconds.

In a major surprise, Charley Belcher of Atlanta, Ga., won the 600-yard run in a new meet record time of 1:11.6 Belcher finished three yards in front of Bill Fritz of Queen's University, who spurted past Johnny Quigley of Manhattan College in the stretch. Charley Beetham, defending champion, wound up fourth.

The Seton Hall College relay team bettered all previous indoor standards for the 880-yard relay, beating out N.Y.U. in the record time of 1 minute 32 seconds.

Following the hurdles race, Tolmich accepted an invitation extended him by George N. Duthie, director of sport, Canadian National Exhibition, to compete at the Exhibition on Athletic Day, Saturday, Aug. 31, when his chief opponent will be O'Connor.

BRUINS DROP TWO BY SCORE OF 3 TO 1 TO LEAFS AND HAWKS

Rangers Take Four-Point Lead By Trimming Canadiens Twice While Red Wings Defeat Amerks

By JACK CALDER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

Hockey's toughest assignment is the cruel National League double-header that sends a club into action at Toronto Saturday night and 500 miles away at Chicago Sunday.

Toronto Maple Leafs play wide-open, forceful hockey and Chicago Black Hawks skate like mad all over the ice to check their opponents dizzy. Ten times the feat of winning in two cities on consecutive nights has been attempted this season and no team has accomplished it yet.

Boston Bruins, tied with New York Rangers for first place when they started, tried the Toronto - Chicago suicide leap this past weekend and couldn't have done worse. The Maple Leafs whipped them 3-1 before 13,708 customers at Toronto Saturday. The Black Hawks beat them by the same score before a season's record crowd of 18,096 at Chicago last night, and the Bruins were left four points behind the roaring Rangers.

Gus Marker

Marker Started Scoring

Two 32-year-old wingmen struck the most telling blows in the Bruin disaster. Gus Marker fired Toronto's first two goals and Johnny Gottselig got Chicago's first two, while their team tied up the high-scoring Boston Sauerkraut Line of Milt Schmidt, Bobby Bauer and Woody Dumart.

Pete Langelle, who had helped Toronto's first two goals, was aided by Marker and Horner in completing the scoring. Flash Hollett scored for Boston.

The throng at Chicago saw the same kind of scoring parade. Gottselig sent the Hawks ahead in the sixth minute and Captain Dit Clapper of the Bruins tied the score late in the opening period. Gottselig shot his second goal early in the third and George Allen finished off the upset.

Nine Games Without Loss

Chicago has gone nine straight games without defeat, to cling five points behind the third place Leafs. Toronto is another seven points back of Boston.

The Rangers, who have played three games more than the Bruins, assumed their four-point lead by defeating the Canadiens twice, 2-0 at Montreal Saturday and 6-2 at New York last night.

Goalie Dave Kerr registered his seventh shutout of the campaign at Montreal, while Bryan Hextall and Alex Shibicky potted the goals in the second and third periods. It was the introduction of Mike Karakas, Chicago's property, to the Canadiens' goaltending job.

Cude Out Of Game

Karakas, replacing the injured Wilf Cude, had a harder night at New York. Hextall potted the first two Rangers goals before 12 minutes had passed and Shibicky made the score 3-0 in the 14th minute.

Cliff Goupille scored for the visitors late in the first period but the Ranger parade went right ahead in the second, Mac Colville and Babe Pratt scoring. Dutch Hiller wound up the Ranger total in the third and George Mantha got a meaningless Canadien goal in the last minute.

Despite the double defeat, the last-place Canadiens remained well in the fight for the six playoff positions. The Red Wings defeated New York Americans 4-1 at Detroit last night and the Canadiens were left five points back of the sixth-place Americans, who have played one more game than their Montreal rivals.

Captain Ebbie Goodfellow gained an assist on each of the Detroit goals, which were scored by Syd Howe, Connie Brown, Cecil Dillon and Alex Motter. Art Chapman sank the Americans' counter after three Detroit goals were in.

Hart Massey Is Again Cox Of Oxford Team

By JACK BRAYLEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

HENLEY-ON-THAMES, England, Feb. 26—(CP Cable).—Again risking their fortunes with an unorthodox Canadian cox, Oxford University is preparing for the wartime university boat race with Cambridge, to be rowed over a shortened course here March 2.

Last year with a boatload of veterans pulling long and powerful sweeps, and with 72-pound Hart Massey of Toronto pulling skillful ropes, the Dark Blues created such an impression in rehearsal that they were conceded an easy victory.

They were so confident that they gave Cambridge a favorable position after winning the toss and then prostrated their supporters by rowing at the tail of the procession.

A former student of Upper Canada College, son of High Commissioner Vincent Massey, Hart Massey was the lightest cox in the race's history. This year his bouncing seat will be weighed down by 134 pounds of Henry D. Hicks of Bridgetown, N.S., probably the heaviest cox in history. An average cox weighs 112 pounds.

Hart Massey had more brawn for bending his blades than his successor, whose charges are giving away 24 pounds to their rivals, the comparative totals being 1,464 to 1,440.

Oxford is hoping that history will repeat itself. The eights will be returning to the course where Oxford won the original boat race in 1829. But the course has been extended beyond the usual Royal Henley finish, making the route nearly two miles long.

This is far short, however, of the 4½ miles Thames course where the race is usually staged.

This year's duel will not count in the official records but will be listed as an exhibition race.

Beats World's Record By Over 16 Inches

There was considerable surprise at Madison Square Garden last week when Alfred Bolzis, Georgetown University athlete, a comparative "unknown," picked up the 16-pound shot and tossed it 53 feet 8½ inches for a new indoor world record. The previous record established by Jack Torrance was 53 feet 1½ inches.

Omemee Hawks To Play Lock Co. Here

An intermediate hockey playoff is slated for to-night (Monday) at 8.30 o'clock in the Brock Street Rink. It is between the local Lock Company Eagles and the Omemee Black Hawks, the third game of their three-in-five District Hockey League final series. Each team has won a game so far. The winner of this loop has a bye into O.H.A. Intermediate playdowns, and both are hard after it. This will be the first appearance in Peterborough this year of the Eagles, as the Preteled squad has been playing all along in Lindsay and Omemee.

The Eagles weren't given much chance in semi-finals against the Lindsay Battery, but surprised puck fans by eliminating the Scugog team. They were considered a second choice in the finals, especially when the Hawks won the first game handily, but the battling Lockmen came back to sew it up. They provide a fighting brand of hockey—as does Omemee—and these teams should dish up a fine battle here to-night. It deserves a good crowd of fans.

Dan Kelly Wins Premier Trophy Of Big 'Spiel

TORONTO, Feb. 26 (CP)—Presenting the Royal York trophy to Dan Kelly's crack Toronto Granite club rink Saturday night, George Stronach, chairman of the Ontario Bonspiel, called the quartet "one of the finest units ever developed in Ontario." Kelly's men defeated Douglas Storms' foursome 14-11 in an All-Granite final for the Bonspiel's most coveted award.

Kelly's record during the last two years indicated Stronach's statement was no exaggeration. Besides winning the Royal York event, the champions became the first rink ever to win the grand aggregate two years in succession, posting 13 victories against two defeats. Last year they lost their first match, then ran out an amazing string of 12 straight wins and won the North American Life and Seagram trophies.

Previously this year, the Granite four copped the Canada Life trophy for the Toronto city championship, the Thauburn Memorial at the Toronto High Park Curling club and the Goodrich trophy at Kitchener. The rink is composed of A. J. MacDonald, lead; F. E. Graham, second; H. W. Allan, vice-skip and Kelly, skip.

A Bad Seventh

After a disastrous seven, notched by Kelly on the sixth end, Storms' less experienced quartet rallied to give the winners a real battle for the trophy. They won the next four ends, scoring two, three, two and one squaring the match at 11-all.

Kelly won the 11th end with one, but the issue was still in doubt until the final shot of the 12th end. Kelly had placed two stones in and Storms, with last shot, had a chance to knock them both out. He just missed the narrow opening between two guards.

Gordon Campbell's Hamilton Thistles carried off the Seiberling trophy in the other final played Saturday night. Campbell defeated Percy Skitch's Lindsay stanemen 11-7. The game was tied seven-all going into the 11th end, but Campbell scored two on each of the last two ends.

Alex Hayes' Sarnia four, which won the Royal York last year in a final with Skitch's rink, was eliminated in the first round Monday.

St. Luke's 2 vs PFD No. 15, at S.O.E hall.

Only four results received so far. St. Luke's No. 2: 5, 14 vs St. Andrew's No. 11: 14, 10.

BESL No. 7: 5, 11 vs PFD No. 15: 10, 5.

Bonnerworth . .o. 13: 11. 4 vs Trinity No. 12: 7, 24.

Bonnerworth No. 13: 7, 11 vs St. Luke's No. 2: 11, 10.

The games are tightening up some and the leading teams are not having all their own way. So far No. 1 took all points from No. 7 and there is only one other team with whom they can do this too—No. 3. No. 2 has accomplished the same trick on one team so far, that being the lowly No. 3 but still has the chance to get all from Nos. 8, 9 and 4 may add Nos. 1, 6 and 13 victims of total points having taken all points from No. 7 and No. 12 to date. No. 5 have secured all points from No. 1 and No. 9 up to date and have the opportunity of adding Nos. 2, 8, 12 and 15 to the present list. No. 6 has No. 9 on their list at present and No. 7 and No. 8 to work on. No. 8 will have at least one double-header to their credit No. 12 and may be able to add No. 11 as well. No. 11 also has one double to date by trimming No. 9 and may add No. 10 to that score. No. 12 can show one double ticket as they beat their neighbors No. 11 as well as this they still have two teams to hold down No. 9 and 16. No. 14 hold all points from No. 3 and 16 and may add No. 6 to this list. Teams Nos. 9, 13, 15 and 16 still have the opportunity of making up some perfect scores but Nos. 3, 7 and 10 will have to be satisfied with dividing six points at the most.

Norwood HS Ties Tweed To Win Round

HAVELOCK, Feb. 26.—(ENS)—Quite a crowd of enthusiastic supporters were on hand at Norwood arena, Saturday evening, as Norwood High School's classy hockey outfit won the right to enter the C.O.S.S.A. semi-finals against Albert College of Belleville. Holding the aggressive Tweed scholars to a 2-2 deadlock, the local students took the round 9 to 7, having grabbed a 7-5 victory over the visitors in the initial encounter of this home-and-home series, last Thursday.

Norwood will meet Albert College in a two-game playoff this week, to determine the Bay of Quinte district champs, in the Central Ontario Secondary Schools Association.

A clean, fast session of hockey which was wide-open throughout, gave both goalies plenty of work. The visitors down two goals on the round, pressed from the very beginning of Saturday night's tussle and were successful in moving a notch closer when Bergeron tallied on a solo effort at the 13-minute mark of the initial stanza. This was the lone goal of the first period, in which Porritt of Tweed drew the only penalty for tripping Puffer, who was closing in fast for a shot on goal.

The play see-sawed in the middle frame until Puffer scored a neat goal unassisted at the halfway mark. Stickhandling through the Tweed crew, he rounded the visitor's net, drew their goalie out of position and slid in the rubber, to make the count 1-all. Three minutes later Puffer placed his team one ahead, when he tallied once more on a solo drive. Tweed tied the score shortly before the end of this session, when a rather lucky shot by Cournyea' from well out, was deflected into the homesters net as it glanced off a Norwood player's arm.

Going into the final period deadlocked at 2-2, both sides battled continuously but despite their concerted efforts failed to change the count, which left the local leading by 9 to 7 on the round. Luffman, starry forward for Tweed was injured during a collision and pile-up in the early minutes of this canto, and was forced out for the remainder of the game. Penalties were evenly divided this session, Johnson of Norwood getting the gate for hooking, while Doyle of Tweed went off later for tripping.

"Mickey" Puffer, Norwood's youthful defense star, paced his comrades to victory with his usual fine performance, and also collected both of their counters. Buck and Johnson were especially outstanding among the other members of the winner's lineup. For Tweed, Bergeron, Cournyea, Luffman, Doyle and Porritt were most effective.

The teams:

Tweed—Goal, Wagar; defense, Porritt, Chappelle; centre, Cournyea; wings, Langevin, Luffman; alternates, Doyle, Bergeron, Trudeau, Vance, Hayes, Connor.

Norwood—Goal, Bongard; defense, Puffer, Gardner; centre, Johnson; wings, Green, Buck; alternates, Fife, Morris, Lobb, Nelson, Lemon, Cole.

Referees—E. Ennis, Norwood; J. Sayers, Tweed.

Tweed Terriers Whip Madoc 9-3

TWEED, Feb. 26.—Riding high on the crest of a recent victory over the Madoc team in the T.V.L. the Tweed Terriers on Friday night invaded the enemy's lair and handed them their first defeat on their home ice for this season, to the tune of 9-3, before a wild mob of fans.

Sticking strictly to hockey the boys took a commanding lead which they did not relinquish to the scrappy Madoc team. In two consecutive games against the Madoc aggregation, the locals have tallied 19 goals to seven for the Madoc team.

Elsbury, and Marsh tallied twice for the Terriers, Courneyea three times, and Tummon and Leal one each for the locals.

Tweed—Goal, Reeves; defence, Tummon, Orr; centre, Courneyea; wings, Marsh and Elsbury; subs, Woodcock, Leal, Long, Arber and Porritt.

Madoc—Goal, Martin; defence, Embury and Hawthorne; centre, Kellar; wings, Owey and Hayworth; subs, F. Stewart, S. Stewart, Kirby, Yeoman.

Bombers Making Finn Army Fight Harder

MONTREAL, Feb. 26.—Sergei Wadenstjerna, a Finnish soldier, writes in a letter to his mother here that the war between Russia and Finland would not be so terrible were it not for the Russian aircraft.

"It is very nice to see in bright sunshine, silver birds flying high on the sky with black anti-aircraft shell smoke exploding around them," Sergei says in a letter to Mrs. N. I. Wadenstjerna.

"But war wouldn't be so terrible if it weren't for the aircraft," the letter says. "It is true that we have guns, but women and children can only run to the cellars and wait if airbombs are dropping."

Sergei, too little to fight when his father and grandfather were killed in 1919 fighting against Russia, tells his mother that his wife and daughter still are in Helsinki. He believes it is safer there because "the Bolsheviks are bombing and firing with machine guns more country places than town spots."

He describes scenes of carnage in which he says Russian soldiers are piled up "in walls of dead, three metres (about 10 feet) high — but still they come. This isn't war. It's mass killing. Yet if we don't kill them their own Ogpu troops would finish them."

Often on lonely night patrols he says he thinks about the old life. "The Bolsheviks have destroyed it —but now we can pay back for our fathers', grandfathers', uncles', and others' killings."

King Heads West

at Kakabeka Falls, Ont., near Fort William tonight and then returns to Central Ontario and the Maritimes.

So far Dr. Manion has waged an almost single-handed fight against the Liberals but several outstanding Conservatives shortly will start intensive campaigning and somewhat balance up the hustings duel.

R. L. Maitland, British Columbia Conservative leader, and Col. George Drew, Ontario chief, will make speaking tours and M. A. MacPherson of Regina will follow up his Maritime campaign with a trip through central Canada.

The party lost a good orator and a caustic critic of the government, however, when Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, Conservative leader in the Senate, announced he will not take part in the campaign.

During the week-end, Dr. Manion and Hon. Maurice Dupre, Solicitor-General in the Bennett government, carried the Conservative effort while three Cabinet Ministers spoke for the government.

Liberals Ready To Join.

The Conservative leader said a number of the best Liberals, most of them outside the government, are ready to join him in a National government. Only three or four in the present cabinet would qualify under his "best brains" criterion.

Dr. Manion again raised the question of how the government spent the $168,000,000 appropriated for defence since 1935 and apparently refused to accept the explanation offered by Postmaster General Power in a Kingston, Ont., speech a week ago.

Canadian voters have to choose in the current election campaign between "a party government for the party" and the Conservative aim of "all for all to win the war," Mr. Dupre said at Quebec.

Speaking in a broadcast over a provincial hook-up, Mr. Dupre said that the people want "not only appeals for national unity, but daily bread."

"When it comes to national unity, conduct of the war and unemployment, the King government has run aground miserably," he said.

Although Premier Mackenzie King had called general elections for March 26 apparently to bring about national unity, the real reason had been "to advance the affairs of his party," he said.

When the Bennett government was in power, the Liberal "accused us of being manufacturers of cannon fodder," he said. "To-day, Mr. Power (Postmaster-General) accuses us of not having spent enough."

315 Million Spent

Agriculture Minister Gardiner answered critics of the Dominion Government's war effort in a speech at a Liberal convention at Guelph which chose R. W. Gladstone, member of the last House, as the Liberal candidate in Wellington South.

The Minister of Agriculture declared that since the war started $315,000,000 has been expended and by the end of the first year of the war half a billion dollars will have been spent in prosecuting the war "side by side with Britain and France."

He said: "This year we ask you to spend $500,000,000 in the first year of the war. Then I ask you, do you think we are going fast enough?"

Answering the charge that Canada was not properly prepared for the war, Mr. Gardiner said the only way that Canada could have been more ready was by larger expenditures during the years preceding 1939.

Hon. W. D. Euler, Minister of Trade and Commerce, said at Waterloo, Ont., that if the Dominion administration is returned at the election March 26 the Federal Government will introduce a scheme for unemployment insurance. The convention named Mr. Euler to contest Waterloo North for the seventh straight time.

"Each province has the power to enact unemployment insurance legislation, but none of them have seen fit to do so," Mr. Euler said. "We of the Federal Government however, believe it is a national problem and intended to put through a bill at the last session. But, as you all know, it was too short."

Recalling that the last Conservative Government did bring in an unemployment insurance measure, the minister said it "did not hold water from a legal stanpoint because the matter is under the jurisdiction of each province." The government had hopes, he said, of obtaining the consent of the provinces to pass the proposed measure.

Hopes Conscription Out.

Mr. Euler expressed hope that conscription never would become an issue in a Canadian election as in the First Great War, and declared that "under the Mackenzie King administration, there never will be conscription in the country."

Canada is "perhaps the only country in the world that has a transportation system adequate for war requirements, Transport Minister Howe said at Moncton.

The Minister said the railways are an example of Canada's fundamental preparedness for war. Before the war, a survey was made to determine what improvements were required to handle traffic at war levels.

The survey indicated that additional rolling stock was needed by both transcontinental railways. One of the first orders placed by the War Purchasing Board was one for $25,000,000 worth of locomotives and freight cars for both railroads.

Mr. Howe said the policies of the present Government played an important part in the present ability of the railways to meet war requirements. In the Maritimes, the introduction of a system of centralized traffic control for the Canadian National Railways will increase the capacity of one line by 50 per cent. "which should meet requirements for the duration of the war."

A survey made before the outbreak of the war showed that without further development the harbors were capabel of caring for all the traffic the railways could deliver to them.

Hong Kong Is Rapidly Becoming the "Gibraltar" of the Orient

The nose of a well-sandbagged piece of coast defence artillery is pointed into the sky, TOP LEFT, at the British naval base in Hong Kong, which is fast becoming the "Gibraltar" of the East. Although the main theatre of war between Germany and the Allies has been on Europe's west front, Britain has not been asleep in the Orient, where Japan is rapidly expanding. The Hong Kong fortifications are rapidly being strengthened by the addition of the latest implements of war and by reinforcements of men. An air view of the boom that stretches across the main shipping channel at the British naval base is shown, TOP RIGHT. This boom would efficiently trap any enemy submarine that might attempt an attack on the harbor. A modern machine gun unit is shown in action during manoeuvres at the British stronghold, BOTTOM LEFT, while British troops are shown on a route march, BOTTOM RIGHT.

Louis Binder, Harry's brother, a private in the Royal Canadian Engineers;

Arthur Roy Saunders, an employee of the insurance department of the Federal government.

Harry Binder is 26 years old and married, a resident of Ottawa. He is charged with distributing literature contrary to section 39A of the Defence of Canadian Regulations.

Louis Binder is unmarried and 21 years old. He was in uniform when arrested and is said to have been on a 12-hour leave from his unit. He is charged with printing and distributing.

Saunders, in whose apartment a multigraphing machine and type from which copies of the pamphlet had apparently been printed were found, is 26 years old and married.

3 Police Forces In Raid.

Ottawa city, Ontario Provincial and Royal Canadian Mounted Police took part in the investigation leading to the arrests. One of the men was seen buying a multigraphing machine and traced to Saunders' apartment.

Louis Binder was seen entering the apartment and leaving shortly afterwards in a taxi-cab with a suitcase. He was stopped and the suitcase was found to contain some 5,000 copies of the pamphlet. As police entered the apartment Saunders and a woman were found hiding parts of the multigraphing machine in a baby carriage.

They also found type used in printing the pamphlet and type on the machine for stickers carrying such slogans as "End the war. Vote Communist," "Repeal the War Measures Act," "Mark You Ballot—Peace, against Grafters."

The pamphlet was similar in its general tone to one headed "Save Canada From Catastrophe" which has already been widely distributed by the Communist party.

It was related definitely to the present election campaign and appealed to voters to vote for Communist candidates and in constituencies where there were no Communist candidates to write the word "peace" on the ballots.

"Do not believe the lying war propaganda against the Soviet Union," it said, "the Imperialists inevitably seek to transform the inter-Imperialist war into a war against the one country where capitalism has been overthrown, where Socialism has been built, where exploiters are no more."

It said the Finns assisted their Imperialist masters by opening up a second front and threatening Leningrad, the centre of one-fourth of Soviet Russia's industry.

Stockholm a warning that Swedes do not overlook the chance of being forced "to guard her (Sweden's) vital interests, freedom and independence with weapons in hand."

Hansson reiterated the Government's determination to remain neutral in the Russo-Finnish conflict, but said that help for Finland is increasing in new forms in accordance with Sweden's non-intervention policy.

The Stockholm Aftonbladet asserted Hansson's home was being kept under 24-hour police guard as a result of threatening anonymous letters which were believed to be from enthusiasts for direct military intervention in Finland.

Gunther, the Swedish Foreign Minister, interviewed here, said the Foreign Ministers' conference had not discussed the bombing of the Swedish town of Pajala on the Finnish border last week. Swedes have declared the bombing the work of Russian bombing planes, but the Russians have denied it.

Danish newspapers printed reports from Finland that two captured Russian pilots had admitted participating in the bombing when they lost their way.

Norway continued attempts to settle her dispute with Britain over the Altmark case by offering to arbitrate the matter, if a solution could not be reached through direct negotiation.

Contraband Control Seizes Mail

A British tar is shown holding a mailbag destined for Germany which was seized from the American liner S.S. Manhattan by the British contraband control at Gibraltar. All mail consigned to Germany is confiscated. The German government recently ruled that any neutral ship permitting itself to be taken to a British station for examination becomes fair game for Nazi U-boats. Technically this makes it open season on the Manhattan.

Down In Belgium Lost R.A.F. Crew Fire Ship

GEMBLOUX, Belgian, Feb. 26 — (CP) — Six British aviators who made a forced landing near here during Friday night and promptly set fire to their Wellington bomber, believing themselves in Germany, had a pleasant surprise when they learned they were on Belgian soil.

The plane, one of those in the Royal Air Force formation which flew deep into German territory on reconnaissance assignment, lost its way while returning to its base and ran out of fuel.

To complicate matters, the craft's landing gear failed to work, and the bomber finally came down in a rough, muddy field, bumping along for nearly 100 yards before it came to a stop.

The men leaped out and set the torch to the plane, using their parachutes as kindling to encourage the fire. Before the flames had had time to consume the ship, a party of Belgian gendarmes arrived on the scene and began extinguishing the blaze with mud.

When the fliers were told where they were, they immediately set to work helping to put out the fire. Part of the covering fabric was burned, but otherwise the bomber escaped serious damage.

Inside the plane Belgian authorities found a cargo of pamphlets written in German and signed by Prime Minister Chamberlain.

2 More Ships Lost.

The new losses to British merchant shipping were disclosed yesterday—the 4,544 ton freighter Jevington Court, sunk by a mine in the North Sea, and the 4,500-ton steamship British Endeavour, sunk in the Atlantic.

It was announced, meanwhile, that the Norwegian government had replied to a series of questions by the British government, defending Norway's action in dealing with the German prison ship Altmark from which a British destroyer rescued 299 captive merchant seamen in Norwegian territorial waters Feb. 16.

Great Britain had charged that in letting German naval vessels traverse her waters to escape the blockade, Norway was taking position not consistent with her neutrality.

Coinciding with an air ministry report of British reconnaissaice flights over Heligoland Bight and Northwest Germany Saturday night —the third Royal Air Force expedition over Germany on successive nights—the first squadron of Canadian airmen ever to arrive from overseas as a unit landed at an unspecified port.

The unit is the 110th Army Co-operation Squadron of the Royal Canadian Air Force totalling 414 airmen and 15 men from the Medical, Dental and Pay Corps.

A plant for building freight cars will be constructed in Siberia.

Canada's Sailors Children Get 25c A Day

OTTAWA, Feb. 26—(CP).—The scale of allowances payable to Royal Canadian Navy personnel dependents was announced last night in the Canadian Gazette.

Heretofore, allowances for dependents of commissioned ranks of the Navy were not payable. Henceforth, an officer's wife will be entitled to $1 a day, $1.25 if she has one child, $1.50 if she has two children, $1.75 if she has three children, and $2 if she has four or more children.

Wife of a naval rating is entitled to 75 cents a day, $1 if there is one child, $1.25 if there are two children, $1.50 if there are three children, and $1.75 for four or more children.

Allowances for motherless children begin at $1 a day for an officer's child and 75 cents for a rating's child, increasing 25 cents a day for each additional child until the limit of four, which rate is $1.75 for officers and $1.50 for ratings.

All allowances, as in the other forces, are contingent upon a pay assignment to the dependents from the pay of the officer or rating. The pay assignment must be at least fifteen days pay in the case of a wife or five days' pays for each motherless child.

City Council Could Have Done Better Tuggey Declares

Clean Seed Is First Step In Good Farming

The sowing of clean seed is the first step in profitable farming says John D. Macleod, seed expert of the Crops, Seeds and Weeds Branch, Ont. Dept. of Agriculture, Toronto.

When a well-cleaned and graded sample is sown, one may expect vigorous and uniform germination; strong plans capable of resisting unfavorable weather and diseases; a uniformly ripening crop, harvester with a minimum loss and of the best marketable quality; cleaner farms, greater yields; higher grades; better prices and more profits.

Clean seed should be a bright, plump, uniform sample, pure as to variety, free from all feoregn matter, including seeds of other cultivated crops, diseased grains, small, shrunken grains and weed seeds.

Small grains make good feed but poor seed. The little plant in the early stages of growth depends on the meat in the kernel for its maintenance. If a small grain is sown there is not always sufficient nourishment in the kernel to sustain the little shoot until it is strong enough to draw from the soil, the result being a short stunted plant at the best. Plants from small grains are shallow rooted. Should a dry season occur the roots will not penetrate deep enough in the soil to get sufficient moisture.

Small grains are slower in germinating, the little shoot in many cases never reaches the surface. Some small grains do not germinate at all. Plants from small grains are frequently short and stunted. They do not usually mature with the rest of the crop, the result being a loss in production, in food value and in profits.

Thorough cleaning and grading of seed is cheap insurance and is of vital imprtance.

Labor Minister Is Scheduled To Speak In City

TORONTO, Feb. 26 — (CP). — Speaking dates of Hon. Norman A. McLarty, Federal Labor Minister, on behalf of Liberal candidates in the approaching Federal elections, were announced to-day.

Mr. McLarty, member for Essex West, at dissolution of Parliament last month, will speak in Brantford on March 1 and at Waterloo the following day. He will be in Cornwall on March 7 and Kemptville a day later. March 11 he will speak on behalf of himself in the Essex West riding, and will travel to Clinton and Wingham for speeches on March 15.

Mr. McLarty will wind up the engagements at Peterborough on March 16.

Four-Mill Cut On Strength Of 1940 Demand

Fred T. Tuggey, former alderman, suggested in a statement to the Examiner this morning that the city council might have done a little better for the taxpayers in arriving at a lower rate than they did.

"I don't want to be taken for a fault-finder," Mr. Tuggey said, "but I believe in trying to keep in touch with what the council is doing. They have set the tax rate for this year at 33 mills on the dollar which is 1½ mills lower than last year. I am a little curious about how they arrived at that figure.

The Provincial Government have promised a subsidy equal to one mill which is ear-marked for reduction of taxes. That takes care of the larger part of the reduction of one and a half mills.

But, here was more than that to be considered. The demand of the City Trust was $65,000 less than last year, a very nice saving to the taxpayers; then there is $2,000 less required in the Utilities Commission's charge for water and fire purposes. There is $12,000 less for relief, and that is another item that should make the taxpayers feel a bit cheerful. Then there was the council's own statement that they had a surplus of $11,000 from last year.

Furthermore there was a lot of new property being assessed and taxed for the first time, and the taxes on that property should also go toward cutting down the 1940 tax rate.

When we add up most of these reductions the total is the magnificent sum of $90,000. Taxpayers, do you know that amounts to around four mills on the dollar, and still with the government's one mill, and with reductions and the taxes on new houses, all we got in the lowering of our tax rate was 1½ mills.

According to the council's figures I think we should have had at least three mills of a reduction on the strength of the reduced demands. I'd be willing to gamble that the council is taking from the taxpayers this year more money than they know what to do with.

It might be well for those who like to follow municipa laffairs if the year's estimates were published in full. Getting a mill and a half is all right as far as it goes, but it does not go far enough to my way of thinking. I am not trying to hamper the council. I would like to be able to help, but it seems to me they have certainly missed the boat in giving us a reduction of only 1½ mills. Instead of us getting the happy new year we were expecting, we've got something like a headache."

Japanese Firm Wins Supreme Court Case Against General Electric Over Light Bulbs

OTTAWA, Feb. 26—(CP)—Patent rights on frosted electric light bulbs were involved in a judgment handed down by the Supreme Court of Canada today in favor of Fuso Electric Works of Tokyo and other Japanese interests and against the Canadian General Electric Company.

The court upheld the Fuso Company's claim that a patent of Canada General Electric was invalid and that there had been no infringement of patent.

The patent relates to frosted glass articles and methods of making them. The patent in question related to an improvement by which bulbs are subjected to a strengthening treatment, consisting of a second etching inside the bulb.

Grand Juries Make Way For Judge To Address Remarks To Public

"If grand juries have no other use—and I think they have—they serve to furnish an opportunity for the presiding judge to address remarks to the public on important matters," pointed out F. D. Kerr, K.C., in an address before the Peterborough Rotary Club to-day on the history and traditions of the law.

Mr. Kerr illustrated his statement by a reference to the fact that the first chief justice of Upper Canada in 1793, the Hon. William Osgoode had addressed a grand jury on the desirability of the abolition of slavery and his remarks had been crystallized by the jury in a report. As a result the old province of Ontario had had the honor of bein gthe first part of the English-speaking world in which slavery was banned.

Introduced by President E. L. Sackville, Mr. Kerr explained that he proposed to give something of the back ground that entered into the training of such Rotarians as V. J. McElderry, K.C., and T. J. Carley, K.C. The home of law training in Ontario he said was Osgoode Hall in Toronto which had taken its name from that of the first chief justice, the Hon William Osgoode, who at the age of 37 years had been sent out from England in 1792 to become chief justice of Upper Canada, then with a population of only 10,000. Mr. Kerr referred to some of the outstanding cases in which Chief Justice Osgoode whose jurisdiction extended from Niagara Falls on the west to Cornwall in the east had presided. One of these was in Cornwall where a prisoner convicted of manslaughter had been sentenced to be burned on the hand.

Osgoode Hall, the speaker pointed out, took its roots from the famous Temple Inns of Court in England and Mr. Kerr proceeded to discuss the history and traditions of those celebrated institutions and the celebrated Temple Church, dating back to the time of the crusades. His picturing of the wealth of tradition that surrounded the Inns of Court and his mention of famous men, from Francis Drake down to Lord Tweedsmuir and General Smuts of South Africa were most interesting as was his statement that five of the men who had signed the American declaration of independence had belonged to the Inns of Courts.

Court Orders New Trial

OTTAWA, Feb. 26 (CP) — The Supreme Court of Canada today ordered a new trial of the case of John R. McGillivray of Bowmanville, Ont., against C. H. McFadden, arising out of a motor accident.

McGillivray's car collided head-on with a car owned by McFadden and driven by a man named Larsen who was killed, when Larsen attempted to pass a truck near Bowmanville, while driving from Detroit to New York.

At the trial, judgment for $6,530 was given in favor of McGillivray and a counterclaim by McFadden was dismissed.

Alnwick Couple Honored On Anniversary

ROSENEATH, Feb. 26.—Mr. and Mrs. Corelli Thackeray were the reason for a happy family re-union in their home on February 20, when children, grandchildren, nieces and nephews gathered to honor their hosts on the 45th anniversary of their wedding. Forty-five sat down to supper and later on in the evening one hundred and twenty-five neighbors came in to offer congratulations and enjoy an evening of dancing and cards.

The children, grandchildren and other close relatives presented Mr. and Mrs. Thackeray with two chairs and an address conveying congratulations and extending wishes for many more years of married life.

The party was a complete surprise to the hosts, who rallied to the occasion and extended a glad welcome to their guests and entered whole-heartedly into the evening's festivities. Several telephone calls carried congratulations also.

Jennie Grigg, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Walter Grigg, and Corelli Thackeray, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Thackeray, all of Alnwick township, were married at the home of the bride's parents by Rev. B. S. Sexsmith. Cecil Thackeray of Gore's Landing, was the one guest attending the wedding who was present at the celebration on Tuesday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Thackeray are highly respected residents of Alnwick township, where both are life-long residents. They are prominent farmers, still carrying on their farm work. The family consists of three sons, Clarence, Lorne and Stewart, and one daughter, Mrs. Frank Adams, all of this township.

There are fourteen grandchildren.

Personals.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Macklin and Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Budd of Port Hope, visited Mr and Mrs. H. E. Macklin during the week. Mrs. Macklin accompanied her guests to their home for a visit.

Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Tucker, Marjorie, Morris and Arthur Tucker, of Belleville, visited the former's mother, Mrs. S. A. Tucker on Sunday.

Welcome Members

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 26 (ENS) —Two new members were welcomed to the weekly meeting of the Busy Bees group which met in the Parish Hall last week for the fourth meeting of this newly formed organization. Members spent the afternoon in making patches which will go into the quilt the young girls intend to raffle when completed. Each was given tickets to sell as their contribution towards their first project.

Theft Of Coat Results In 2-Month Term

For the theft of an overcoat from the court house to which he had pleaded guilty last week, Aurel LaValee was sentenced by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in Police Court this morning to two months in the County Jail.

LaValee admitted having been convicted here previously of the theft of a sum of money, for which offence he had served a jail sentence.

Thomas Gorman, who was charged with LaValee last week with the theft of the overcoat pleaded guilty to-day to a drunk charge, and was fined $10.00, and $4.50 costs, or fifteen days in jail. The theft charge was dismissed when Crown Attorney McElderry, K.C., offered no evidence.

"I am a lake seaman, and there will be a job on the boats soon," said Gorman, in pleading for leniency.

"The boats are all frozen in yet," replied Magistrate Langley.

Claims Editors Best Censors Of World News

KINGSTON, Feb. 26. — H. L. Garner, general manager of the Peterborough Examiner, declared it is futile to have too strict censorship of war news in newspapers with the radio carrying uncensored broadcasts from the United States in his address to Queen's University Press Club on Friday night.

The Press Club dinner was the first in several years. Peter Macdonnell, editor of the Queen's Journal, gave a brief outline of the history of the club since its formation in 1931, with H. J. Hamilton as its first president up to the present. Nearly 50 members were present. Stan Tucker, club president, presided at the dinner.

Censorship was said by Mr. Garner to be the main concern of newspapers to-day. But he pointed out the terrific task placed on the Board of Censors in prohibiting publication of certain news while American newspapers published the same material. He considered strict censorship useless, referring to the time of the departure of the First Canadian Division from Halifax when a German short wave station broadcast their departure seven minutes after the ships left the harbor.

"Each soldier has relatives and friends who know what is to happen," the newspaperman said. "The newspapers know, too, but cannot publish it. Newspapermen have accepted the situation and are doing their best. But the best censorship is achieved by allowing each editor to police his own paper. Then there is no need to fear outward censorship."

War Bulletins

LONDON.—(CP).— The Glasgow steamship Loch Maddy, 4,996 tons, was torpedoed in the North Atlantic Thursday with a loss of four lives, and a British warship which rescued 35 survivors was believed to have sunk the submarine attacker, it was announced to-day.

LONDON.— (CP). — A Finnish spokesman in London declared today that "Finland is always ready for peace."

He was commenting on Copenhagen reports that Scandinavian countries might be prepared to aid in mediation of the Russian-Finnish war.

"We would accept mediation from anyone if it brought us an honorable peace," he said, adding, "that is what we have asked for all along."

SEATTLE.—(AP).—There are 10 times as many Swedish volunteers in Finland now as there were in the Finnish "war for liberty" in 1917, Dr. Yngve Zotterman, commander of the medical corps of the Royal Swedish Naval Reserve, said to-day.

Dr. Zotterman is in the United States on a mission for his country's navy. He did not estimate the number of his countrymen in Finland.

Secret Station.

LONDON.—(CP).—A secret radio station calling itself the "new British Broadcasting Company" attacked the British government last night. There was no way of telling whether the station was operating in England.

One listener said the announcer put a good deal of emphasis on when he described as the continually changing war aims of the British government.

HONG KONG.—(AP). —Japanese military despatches to-day reported Ohinese were massing in Kwangsi province, South China, for another attempt to recapture Manning, the provincial capital.

Chinese reports said 1,000 Japanese were killed and eight armored cars and two field guns destroyed in sharp fighting at Wutang, 15 miles north-east of Manning, Saturday.

LONDON.—(CP). — Four German prisoners of war were recapturd to-day a short distance from an internment camp in North-eastern England, from which they made a short-lived escape.

LONDON.—(CP).— Sir Kingsley Wood, Secretary of State for Air, is ill with influenza, it wa sannounced to-day.

Fining the Grocers.

LONDON.—(CP).—War efforts of the British Food Control to keep supplies and prices as well disciplined as soldiers were evident today.

One grocer who refused to sell a Food Control inspector potatoes unless he bought other foodstuffs was fined £5 ($22). Another who charged more than the fixed maximum for potatoes was fined £1.

CHICAKO—(AP).—One sentence in an uncensored letter from Captain Lauri Pihkala of the Finnish army to a friend in the United States epitomized the casual courage that has made Finland mighty in her stand against invading Russia.

He said simply: "We hadn't indeed, any choice whatever."

The letter, written to Avery Brundage of Chicago, president of the American Olympic committee, regretted that "this wretched Russian assault might annihilate now the 12th Olympiad," scheduled this year in Helsinki, but he said "if this trouble will be over ere the end of May we will be able to manage the Olympics."

LONDON.—(CP Cable.) — Mrs. Lois Butler, daughter of the late Sir William Duff Reid of Montreal to-da, joined the women pilots section of the Air Transport Auxiliary —the ferry service between plane factories and Royal Air Force squadrons.

Mrs. Butler competed in the King's Cup air races and used her own plane before the war just as other women used automobiles. She was also captain of the Canadian women's olympic ski team.

TOKYO.—(CP-Havas).—The Asahi chain of newspapers said today a growing struggle among Great Britain, France, Germany, the Soviet Union and the States for munitions ores in South China is worrying Japanese authorities.

South China produces a large proportion of the world's tungsten, antimony and tin—all vital munitions ores. The newspapers said China is seeking to profit from the situation in South China to attract foreign support.

Mrs. Wand Heads Women's Team

Mrs. E. Wand, president of the Local Council of Women has been selected as chairman of the Women's team to take part in the Salvation Army Red Shield Drive which is to commence on March 11th.

This is the Army's National Appeal and the national target is $1,000,000.00 of which Peterborough is expected to raise $10,000.00.

Mrs. Wand points out that women's teams will be expected to make contact with women's institutions, hospitals, etc.; to call on individual women in their homes, also retired business and professional folks. There will not be any house to house canvass.

Lost Homestead Took To Road

"I had a homestead out in the Peace River country until 1929", George Taylor, transient, told Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning after he had pleaded guilty to having been found drunk at the C.N.R. depot Saturday. "I could not make it go because of the low price of wheat" he added "and as I am an iron moulder by trade I came down east looking for work".

"Don't you think getting drunk was the wrong way to get work" asked Magistrate Langley in fining Taylor $10 and $4.50 costs or 10 days in jail.

John McCallum, another transient, who just got out of the local jail Saturday morning after a month's sentence on a liquor charge found himself back in court this morning. He was arrested Saturday night on a begging charge and pleaded guilty. Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., sentenced him to ten days in jail.

McCallum said that he was a lake sailor and had been discharged at Sarnia last fall. Since then he said, he had been wandering around the country.

"Is this the only place you have been arrested?" asked Magistrate Langley and McCallum answered in the affirmative. He added that he had gotten out of jail here Saturday morning and had been begging a little food intending to take the late C.P.R. train out of town.

Death Cheats Lady 96 Of 77th Wedding Day

BLOOMFIELD, Ont., Feb. 26.—(CP)—Mrs. Peter M. Maybee of this Province Edward county village, who would have celebrated her 77th wedding anniversary March 15, died last night in her 96th year following an illness of several months. Her husband, who survives, is 97.

Mrs. Maybee lived under the reign of five British sovereigns and the couple has resided here for the past 2 years. Formerly, Mr. and Mrs. Maybee lived at Odessa, near Kingston, where they conducted a general store for 52 years.

Surviving Mrs. Maybee, besides her husband, is a son, Stanley Maybee, 75, Williamsport, N.Y., who will attend the funeral here.

Jabs and Jottings as Picked Up By Examiner Reporters.

SNEAK THIEF BUSY

Miss Irene Bell, 309 Louis street, reported to the police Saturday that a sneak thief had stolen a vanity case and a boy's coat from her home. The coat was afterward found on the street by Constable C. J. McGillen while patrolling his beat.

CAR DAMAGED

An automobile driven by Dr. H. V. Dobson was damaged when it and another machine driven by Harold Van Volkenburg, R.R. 3, Lindsay, came into collision at the intersection of Simcoe and Queen streets Sunday afternoon. Van Valkenburg said that his car skidded in the snow when he tried to stop, according to the report given police.

A COLD MORNING

It was reported this morning that at the school house near the junction of the Mount Junlan Road and the Burleigh Falls-Apsley highway he thermometer stood at 30 degrees below zero at 6 o'clock. $t was 18 below at Burleigh Falls around 7 o'clock and by 9:30 had climbed to 10 above zero.

'LUNGE SANCTUARY.

C. G. Kingan reports information from D. J. Taylor, Deputy-Minister of Game and Fisheries that Nogie's Creek from the first dam to Bass Lake will be closed for fishing, and will be used as maskinonge sanctuary. The local Fish and Game Protective Association has received permission to buy full grown grey trout as an auxiliary restocking plan if the members are in favor of a move of that kind.

CARS, TRUCK COLLIDE

As Fred Eason, R.R. 1, Keene, was driving his car north on George street near Rink street Saturday and attempted to pull to the right, his car wheels caught in the old street car tracks and the machine skidded completely around and came into a collision with a south bound truck owned by National Grocers and driven by Ernest Hamblin, Crescent street. The truck was damaged to the extent of $35 while Eason's car suffered to the amount of $50 damages as a result of the impact.

LETTERS FORM SOLDIERS

The Examiner welcomes the opportunity to publish letters from Peterborough soldiers now in England. From time to time, as news of the receipt of such letters by parents and friends has been learned, this paper has published them, except, of course, personal contents. But there are many other letters being received each week of which the Examiner cannot know. For that reason this paper asks that parents and friends of soldiers send to the Editor any such letters they may receive, marking parts they do not wish published. Care will be taken to see that they are returned to the senders.

FROZEN TO DEATH

As though the present cold spell had caught him in its grip, a small terrier today stood frozen in Victoria park. He looked as though death had overtaken him in the act of running, suddenly, without warning.

CHAMPIONSHIP HELD

With perfect skiing weather prevailing, Sunday crowds at the Bethany run yesterday were the largest local skiiers have ever seen. Farmers and townsfolk turned out to see the Peterborough Ski club championships and there wasn't an idle sleigh in the district; all were busy drawing passengers from the village of Bethany to the scene of activities.

RUSSELL KIRN PROMOTED

His many friends in Peterborough will be interested in learning that Russel Kirn, former local boy and son of Mrs. M. J. Kirn, 193 Murray street, has been promoted from chief of the engineering department of the Cedar Rapids plant of the Quaker Oats Company to general plant superintendent. Mr. Kirn who is a brother of Howard C. Kirn of the Peterborough Quaker Oats plants was educated in local schools and at the University of Toronto.

OPENING CAMPAIGN.

R. M. Glover is opening his election campaign in Ashburnham on Wednesday night. The meeting will be held in the Community Hall at Hunter and Mark Streets, opposite Mark Street United Church. Mr. Glover decided to make his bow to the electors in the building that is close to his old home in the years before his marriage. He will be assisted by Dr. E. M. Crough, F. D. Kerr, K.C., and E. L. Sackville. According to his plans this morning he is booked for the northern section of the riding this week while the weather remains favorable.

SOMETHING NEW AT THE Y

The "Tuesday-Night Group" has been having a good turnout at the Y.M.C.A., with 25 spending an hour of fun and games and then the "gym" and a half-hour in the pool. These boys pay their membership of $1.20 over a period of 12 weeks at the rate of ten cents per evening. At the end of the course which ends on May 21 every boy who has attended 10 of the 12 nights will be allowed to become one of the group scheduled to spend a week-end in camp. In the meantime for the membership fee of $1.20 they are privileged to spend an evening per week in a first class institution and are under instruction in swimming, diving, life-saving, etc. Boys can register with Hamilton Gosse at the Y or with D'Arcy Windsor up to March 5, after which no registrations can be accepted. As the leader of the groups put it "Be at the Y with your dime on Tuesday night and see for yourself."

Three Boys Held On Theft Count

The break-in at the Normal School Friday night had an unusual sequel Saturday when the father of a fifteen-year-old boy brought him to the police station and informed the police that he had found the lad in possession of an instrument that had been stolen from the school.

Although the youngster stoutly refused to state the names of his companions, the police arrested two more boys in connection with the affair, one of them sixteen years old, the other only thirteen.

This morning the sixteen-year-old lad appeared in police court on a charge of breaking and entering and theft, elected summary trial and pleaded not guilty. He was defended by W. B. Gordon and at the request of the Crown was remanded until Thursday.

The younger lads appeared in juvenile court and were also remanded.

Stolen from the school were several valuable miscroscopes and a number of scales.

OMEMEE

Institute Honors Alzina McConnell

OMEMEE, Feb. 26 (ENS). — The Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. R. H. Williamson on Wednesday evening. The president, Mrs. T. E. MacPherson, opened with "The Maple Leaf," followed with prayer. After a short business period the following program was given: Recitation, "Doris and Harry" by Mrs. R. J. Cornwall; reading, "My First Sock," by Mrs. B. Acreman; reading, "Omemee, 1874," by Mrs. MacPherson.

Miss Alzina McConnell, winner of the district public speaking contest, delighted the women with her address.

Mrs. Everson, on behalf of the ladies, presented Alzina with a gold signet ring and wished her every success in the Dominion contest she now enters.

The meeting closed with the National Anthem, and the hostesses, Mrs. Cornwall and Mrs. McConnell, served dainty refreshments.

Personals.

Mrs. C. L. Morcombe entertained the choir of Trinity United Church on Thursday evening at her home.

Mrs. T. B. Chester was hostess to a bridge party on Thursday afternoon. Mrs. R. Bradley was winner of prizes for high score.

Stanley Tisdale of Toronto called on friends in town last week.

Guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Pitt last week were Mr. and Mrs. C. Hutchison and Mr. and Mrs. A. Cornell.

Mr. and Mrs. Gibbs of Peterborough called at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lamb.

OBITUARIES

MRS. CHARLES A. LAWSON.

Death came during a shock to her many friends at her home in Orland on Thursday, February 15th, after a heart attack of Mrs. Charles A Lawson, who was in her 69th year. She was in the best of health up until the time of her death. Eliza McIvor, born in Millbrook, was the daughter of the late Gordon McIvor and Mary Ann Windell. She was twice married, her first husband being the late Isaac Harper, of Otonabee, who predeceased her 14 years ago.

The funeral was held from Orland United church on Saturday afternoon, the Rev. A. Bennett, of Castleton, conducting the service, after which burial was made in Welcome cemetery.

Besides her sorrowing husband, there are left to mourn four children, Mrs. Thos. Nurse of Peterboro (Ellen), Mrs. Oscar Reid of South Monaghan (Mary), Mrs. Delbert Sine of Harold (Gladys), and one son, Howard Harper of Otonabee; also two stepchildren, Mrs. George Welch of Peterborough, William Lawson of Wooler, two sisters, Mrs. Wm. James Paul and Mrs. Wm. Gray, both of Cavan, and Thomas McIvor of Smith, also five grandchildren.

MRS. J. T. MORRISON

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 26.—The funeral of the late Mrs. J. T. Morrison, aged 76 years was held from the family residence, Lakefield on Thursday afternoon. Before her marriage, Mrs. Morrison was Sarah Payne, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Adam Payne of Bobcaygeon. Prior to coming to reside in Lakefield in 1925, she had made her home in Kinmount for 18 years.

She possessed a cheery and generous nature. By shedding rays of sunshine with her smile she won many true friends. Mrs. Morrison was a devoted wife and mother and spared no effort in making her home a happy one. For her it was just passing on to a fuller life, believing only on the One who shed His blood for the redemption of our sin.

Surviving besides her husband and one son Lorne of Lakefield are three sisters, Mrs. Margaret Cresswell of Akron, Ohio, Mrs. T. C. Yonge, and Miss Bessie Payne of Lakefield. Rev. W. R. Walker of the Lakefield Baptist Church was in charge of the funeral service.

Pallbearers were Walter Walker, Theo. Nicholls, Jay Knox, T. C. Yonge, Irt Lennox, S. J. Charlton. Interment took place in Lakefield cemetery.

Floral tributes were received from the family, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Walker, Miss Mary Webster, Mrs. V. E. Choate, Baptist Church and Young People, and Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Sargeant.

MRS. MARIA BRIDGET KING

Mrs. Maria Bridget King, widow of John King, 560 Reid street, died at St. Joseph's hospital on Saturday in her 79th year after a short illness.

Mrs. King had lived in Peterborough for the past 55 years, coming here from Ennismore, where she was born. She was a daughter of the late, Mr. and Mrs. W. Spencer. Mrs. King was a member of St. Peter's Cathedral and was held in high regard in this community where she had a wide circle of friends.

Surviving are one daughter, Mrs. H. Spence of Peterborough; four sons, Orville of Picton and Jack, Arthur, and Stafford, all of Peterborough; one sister, Mrs. W. Connors of Consort, Alberta. Also surviving are 10 grandchildren and two great grandchilden.

The funeral will be held on Tuesday morning at 8.40 o'clock from the residence of her son, Stafford King, 380 London street, to St. Peter's Cathedral where Requiem Mass will be sung at 9 a.m. Interment will be at St. Peter's cemetery.

MRS. JOSEPHINE ADELINE THORN

The death occurred at Nicholls Hospital on Sunday of Mrs. Josephine Adeline Thorn of lot five concession two South Monaghan.

Mrs. Thorn was in her sixty-fifth year, and was the daughter of the late James Fair and his wife Elizabeth Rutherford. She is survived by her husband, Robert Thorn, and one son. The funeral will take place Wednesday at 2 p.m. from the family residence in South Monaghan to the Little Lake Cemetery.

MRS. MARY ADALINE BUCKHAM

Death came Sunday to Mrs. Mary Adaline Buckham at her home at 157 Morrow Street, after a month's illness. She was in her 83rd year.

Although advanced in years, Mrs. Buckham retained a youthful spirit and at Knox United Church, where she was a most active worker, she had a host of friends who will mourn her loss. Her church was always one of her greatest interests and she worked unsparingly in its service.

She was a native of this district, having been born in South Monaghan township, and she spent all her life in this vicinity, moving to Peterborough from Bensfort a quarter of a century ago. She was a daughter of the late William Huggins and Sarah Pugh. Her husband, John Buckham, died in 1926.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. G. E. Marshall of Windsor, and Mrs. E. G. Johnston of Peterborough, and one son, Frank Buckham of Bensfort; also one brother, Joseph Huggins of South Monaghan.

The funeral will be held on Tuesday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock from Knox United Church, Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt officiating. Interment will be at Little Lake Cemetery. The remains will lie at the church from noon on Tuesday until after the service.

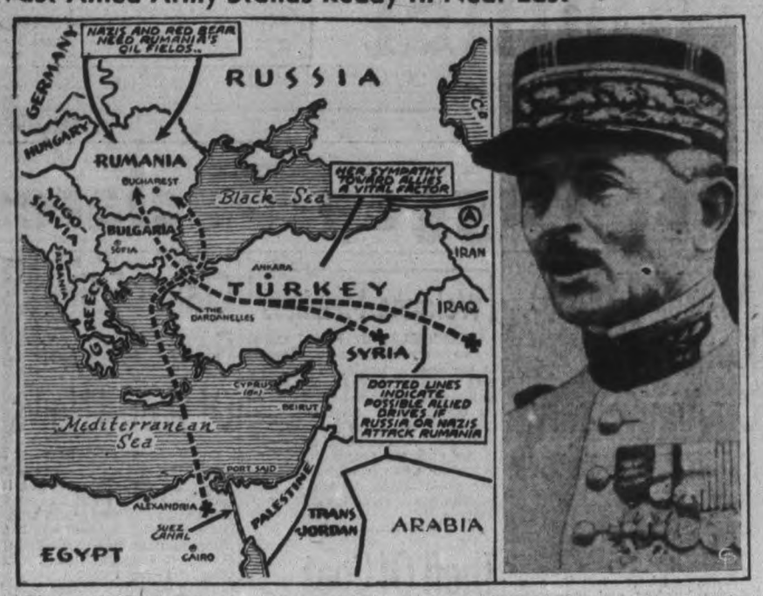
Vast Allied Army Stands Ready In Near East



War on the Eastern front is foreseen this spring, with more than 1,000,000 Allied troops concentrated there under Commander-in-Chief Maxime Weygand (Right) of France, who describes his great army as a "fire department" and himself a "fireman." The Allied armies include soldiers from all parts of the French and British Empires, including forces from Australia, New Zealand and Egypt, as well as the Turkish war machine. When action comes, additional troops probably will be rushed to the Near East from France and North Africa. Should Rumania and her oil fields be threatened, Gen. Weygand's hosts might (1) advance eastward through Turkey or (2) ship directly through the Dardanelles to Rumania ports. There they would be joined by Rumanian troops. In event Russia and Germany unite in the Near East, Weygand's armies might try to drive through the Caucasus and cut the Soviet's oil pipe lines (A) from the Baku oil fields on the Caspian Sea to Batum on the Black Sea, thus severing Russia's principal supply line and her main feed line to Germany.

Karelia Assault Costing Reds 4,000 Men A Day

HELSINKI, Feb. 26 (AP)—Soviet Russia has lost 100,000 men, by the estimate of a foreign military observer, in bending the Mannerheim line enough to threaten Viipuri (Vibourg).

This observer says that 4,000 Red soldiers killed has been the average price exacted daily for the gains that have carried Russia's hammer-and-sickle banner, since the start of the big push Feb. 2, to a point within a few miles of Viipuri. Finland's aggregate loss has not been disclosed.

The Red army has exerted the greatest pressure on the western extremity of the Karelian isthmus front, the Gulf of Finland end, with the result that Finns acknowledge a spearhead within eight miles of Viipuri.

There were unconfirmed reports that Finland's island fortress, Koivisto, 20 miles south of Viipuri, had fallen (a Russian claim several days standing), but the official Finnish version was that the defenders were still holding out.

(The Leningrad headquarters of the Red army said Saturday night that occupation not only of Koivisto, but also the neighboring strongly fortified islands of Tiurinsaari and Piisaari, had been completed.

Take 28 More Forts

(Today's Russian communique reporter occupation of 28 more defensive fortifications, bringing to 762 the total of such positions reported taken since the isthmus offensive was started.)

The Finns' Sunday communique, covering Saturday's operations, said localized Russian attacks on the isthmus front were repulsed with "heavy casualties inflicted on the enemy" and "at least 17 tanks were destroyed."

A quantity of weapons, including five trench mortars, were reported added to the Finn's store of Russian-made arms as result of "successful defensive action" northeast of Lake Ladoga, and two tanks were said to have been put out of action in that sector.

Hot Work and a Tough Job

The bravery and enthusiasm of the Australians and New Zealanders in the ill-fated Gallipoli campaign of the World War was recalled by the zest shown by the Australians drilling for war service at Holdsworthy camp near Sydney, New South Wales. The soldiers are stripped to the waist to feed the 18-pounders. The gun is in full recoil immediately after the shell has left the barrel.

CURLING

By HERB MARTIN

We're going to eliminate all records and scores for to-day and branch out on a little different line. It will be a change for those who are kind enough to read this column and it will save us from being too accurate.

It is surprising the number of people who drop in on No. 8 and who have never seen the game of curling, and it is equally surprising the people who did not know that there was a curling club in the city.

It might be interesting at this time to give a little information regarding the club in general.

The present rink was built in 1909, replacing the old combination curling and skating rink burned down in 1908. The ice surface is about 140 feet by 106 feet.

The rink can accommodate fifty-six curlers at one time.

Unlike some other sports, members can play morning, afternoon, or evening. Mild weather is the only barrier.

The ice surface is divided into seven parts and each part is known as a rink or an ice, and are 1, 2, 3, etc.

Each curling stone is made of Scottish granite, and weighs on an average 40-42 pounds (including the handles). At present we have 167 pairs of such stones.

Spectators get quite a kick out of players using the brooms. These brooms are used for keeping the ice clear of matches, cigarette butts, and any other foreign substance that may be on the ice. It also creates a certain amount of exercise.

The question has often been asked, "Do you use hot water when you flood?" The answer is no. Just ordinary tap water put on with 75 feet of 1¼-inch hose. After each flood there is a finish put on that is known as the "pebble." This pebble or finish is done with lukewarm water, and there are different kinds of machines for doing it. There are several kinds of finishes—the ordinary pebble, the diamond-shaped, the criss-cross, or the straight up and down, and cross-wise. We believe it is only a matter of fancy which is the best.

The Peterborough club has the largest natural ice curling rink in the province.

It was established in 1876, and ranks high with other clubs affiliated with the Ontario Curling Association.

Belmont Couple Honored; 43 Years Wed

TRENT RIVER, Feb. 26 (ENS).—A large number of friends and neighbors and relatives of Mr. and Mrs. James Longmuir of Sunny Slope Farm, met at their home on Friday night to honor them on the occasion of their forty-third wedding anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Longmuir were completely taken by surprise, and a most enjoyable evening was spent, during which Mr. and Mrs. Longmuir were presented with a floor lamp and a folder containing a sum of money.

Rev. A. McLaughlin read the address, while the presentations were made by Mrs. George Brooks and Mrs. Thomas Dunham, after which lunch was served.

Trinity College Beats Grove 4-3

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 26.—(ENS)—Grove First and Trinity College played an exhibition game on the rink Saturday afternoon with the Grove losing out to their old rivals 4-3. It was fast hockey on keen ice and fairly clean with only six penalties handed out, Grove drawing four of them. Owing to some arguments over the last game about goals, the game was handled by O.H.A. Referee Max Board of Peterborough.

The first period opened fast with T.C.S. drawing the first goal. Duggan counted in a scramble in front of the net. Summerville tallied another from the penalty shot line. Grove tried hard to cut down the lead and Findlay put T.C.S. three goals up when he tallied on a neat pass from Duggan in the corner. Grove scored when Harris beat Crenhouse to the draw. The first period ended 3-1 for T.C.S.

In the second both teams tallied once. McAvity got the gate for tripping and while away St. Remy counted for Grove. Grove received their first penalty when Langmuir was chased for slashing. No advantage was taken and not until after he returned did T.C.S. score, Findly getting the goal.

The third opened with the Grove on the attack trying to cut the two-goal lead down but in all their attempts they only managed to count once. Potts and Duggan were penalized for roughing and while away Longmuir tallied the only and only for Grove. Cayley went off for tripping and the Grove tried hard to get that one goal and tie it up but Evenhouse beat them everytime on their attacks.

Grove's fron line and goalie looked fine while Duggan, Findley and McAvity played good hockey for T.C.S.

The teams:

T.C.S.: Goal, Evenhouse; defence, Fleming, Spence; centre, Duggan; wings, Cayley, Findley; subs, McAvity, Sommerville, Caldwell.

Grove: Goal, Herold; defence, Carson, Foster; centre, Frewer; wings, Harris, Roberts; subs, St. Remy, Langmuir, Potts, Vaughan, Morris.

Referee—Max Board, Peterboro.

Stan Leggitt with 596 (225, 220) and Zaida Harvie with 564 (200, 216) were high for the evening.

With but one week of the third section remaining the standing follows: N. May, 28 points; V. Freeman, M. Gregson, 18; Z. Harvie, 16; K. Meredith, 10; D. Freeman, 4.

Tuesday

Twelve teams of Dominion Woolens bowlers turned in the following results for the past week:

Jenkinson	674	634	700—2008
Lazure	609	660	697—1966
Wedlock	787	848	644—2279
Hefferman	614	693	752—2059

Armstrong	750	779	829—2358

Vince Lazure with 621 had men's high three for the night. Vince McDonalds 616 and Mike Doris 600 being the only other score over the 600 mark. For the ladies Pearl Morley threw in a lovely 284 single, which the writer believes to be high ladies' single for this league. Her three-game total of 544 was high three for the night.

Wednesday

In the Wednesday Nite League with the season rapidly drawing to a close the third section leaders, Lansfields, who had an eight-point lead were unfortunate enough to step into Johnson's Motors who really cleaned them for an tight-point loss. This enabled the fast travelling C.G.E. squad to slip into a first-place tie with Lansfield's when they picked up eight soft points on DeCarlonis default. The upset of the evening came when Jimmy Collins' Coca-Colas trounced Anthony's 6 points to 2. Captain Joe Anthony hit everything on the alleys except the pins to score a very small 480 for three. In the other game Downer's were lucky in defeating the luckless C.P.C. team 6 to 2, the Packers having a decidedly bad evening. Following are the results:

Downer's	980	722	904—2606
C.P.C.	783	804	729—2316
Anthony	644	825	863—2332
Coca Cola	887	839	811—2537
C.G.E.	939	867	1051—2857
DeCarlonis			Default
Lansfield's	914	971	812—2697
Johnson M. ..	997	1022	1047—3066

Bowlers to top the 600 mark this week were as follows: Ray Clifford 662, N. Downer 617, Mel Anthony 600, Fred Martin 734 (325), Tommy Martin 693, Eric McKinstry 686, Charlie Clarke 694.

Thursday

The K. of C. Bowlers turned in the following results for the past week:

T. Anthony	589	531	638—1758
Legrow	645	540	766—1951
Meagher	576	698	660—1944
B. Jones	665	845	796—2306
B. Anthony	891	795	867—2553
F. Jones			Default
J. O'Brien	626	687	590—1903
F. Pepe			Default

Frank Doris with 659 and Freddie Meagher with 627 were the only bowlers to top 600.

George Jay of Jay's Cigars in the City League has been elected captain of a team of five men who claim they can take Gordon's of the City League for a sleigh ride. This match is expected to be rolled on Monday, March 4 and will consist of total pinnage for 6 games, three games to be bowled at the K. of C. Alleys and three at Duffus Recreation Academy. Probable line up of teams will be as follows:

Jay's Aces: Fred Hickey, Maurice O'Neil, Len Anthony, George Walton, Alf Mattucci. While Gordon's will send up five of the following players to bring home the bacon: Bud Weese, Tommy Miller, Jack Playford, Frankie Woods and the Martin brothers, Bill and Fred.

Any person who is interested in bowling should see these games as they promise a lot of action. Tentative time is 7:00 p.m. Duffus; 8:30 K. of C.

Three Goals Scored In Three Minutes

By the Canadian Press

When they really set their minds to it, Springfield Indians can break up a hockey game about as fast as any team in the International-American hockey league. They did just that last night, and spoiled the evening for Syracuse fans.

It was as close a game as could be wished for until the last three minutes of play, with the Stars coming from behind three times to knot the count. The Indians really hit their stride and when it was all over the score was 6-3, and the Stars were down in the cellar of the western division.

Pat Egan climaxed a passing bout with Kaminsky and Schultz to fire the winning goal at 17.04, just to show there was no mistake. Lloyd Jackson fired in a couple more in the next two minutes.

It was the second win in as many nights for Indians, who defeated Indianapolis 4-1 Saturday night. New Haven eked out a 2-2 win over Indianapolis last night after dropping a 7-4 decision to Philadelphia Ramblers the night before.

Liberal Cause Never Better Col. Dewart Says

The nomination of R. M. Glover as Liberal candidate on Saturday afternoon was made unanimous by Colonel John A. Dewart's resolution, seconded by T. J. Carley, K.C., both of whom, with E. L. Sackville, had also been proposed, and that their names be withdrawn.

In his address to the convention, Colonel Dewart thanked Dr. Ralph Honey and Fred Fife of Otonabee for having proposed him, especially the eloquent little speech Dr. Honey had made to the delegates.

"In the time I have been associated with the Liberal Party I have never seen what looked like a more enthusiastic convention than that which is assembled here this afternoon," Colonel Dewart said. "The polling organizations must be in good condition, an indication that is to the credit of Howard Quinn and his executive in these recent years.

It was fully expected that our late member and present Senator would be the candidate at the convention held two weeks ago. No one else gave serious consideration to getting in a position to be a candidate, and it is with a great deal of regret that I have to declare that I cannot let my name go before this convention.

"Never in the history of the Liberal Party have our people solicited votes in a better cause."

Colonel Dewart said that the people of Canada should be thankful that, in facing one of the greatest national crises in the history of this country, they have at the head of its affairs a man of the great experience of Mackenzie King.

Colonel Dewart singled out three reasons for the confidence of the Canadian people in Mr. King. One of them was the unity of the nation brought about by Mr. King and his Cabinet. Another was the stabilization of the prices of commodities for the benefit of consumers. Prompt action following the outbreak of war had prevented the rapid increase in prices, and thereby in the cost of living, that resulted during the last war beginning in 1914.

The third point mentioned by Colonel Dewart was in regard to criticism, by opponents of the Government, alleging tardiness in bringing the country on to a war basis.

"From a military standpoint, I am able to estimate with some degree of accuracy, and to my way of thinking it is a marvellous thing what a gerat deal has been accomplished by the Government in the short time since war was declared last September."

Colonel Dewart said that Mr. King exhibited many of the qualities shown by Premier Chamberlain in sound and steady leadership, inspiring confidence in the people. Mr. King had pledged the resources of this country in the cause of Great Britain and the Empire, and had implemented them by giving direction to Canada's war efforts with vigor that had merited the confidence of the people of this riding in support of the Government candidate, who would be Mr. Glover.

"Mr. Glover's roots go deep in this riding. He has livel here all his life, and he became widely known as the publisher of the Examiner. Rollie Glover has been all these years a "square shooter," that he always tried to be fair in every way, and I haven't the slightest doubt that he will be the next member for Peterborough, and that he will do us all credit in the House of Commons."

T. J. Carley, K.C.

In stating that he would not contest the nomination, T. J. Carley, K.C., humorously pointed out his announcement touched upon something that was almost a precedent, for in the Federal elections for the last thirty-seven years the people of this riding had the pleasure of voting for or against a lawyer, "and to your credit, be it said, that on the whole you treated them very well."

"It has been a pleasure to me to hear Rollie Glover say that he was going to let his name stand. If there is going to be a search in this riding for a National candidate, I don't know where they could find a better National candidate than Rollie Glover. In fact I would suggest that Mr. Fraser ought to make it unanimous."

E. L. Sackville also asked that his name be withdrawn, remarking that anyone looking over the crowded convention hall and feeling its enthusiasm would have to be a pessimist if he did not also feel that the candidate it nominated would be elected. "He ought to be elected to support one of the strongest Prime Ministers Canada has ever seen."

Mr. Sackvile said that if he was ever proposed again at a nomination and was in a position to accept it, he would be glad to accept the honor." With the others he pledged his "full and undivided support to the candidate of this convention."

Proposed Glover

In offering the name of Mr. Glover to the convention, Reeve W. A. Anderson who proposed him, seconded by Dr. E. M. Crough, said "I don't need to praise Mr. Glover very much. He is known through this riding as the former publisher of the Examiner. I have known him for many years, and I am glad to have this opportunity of nominating him."

Reeve Anderson recalled that twenty years ago Mackenzie King had been chosen as leader of the Liberal party in Canada. One of his greatest achievements was the unity which he had fostered among the Canadian people. "Today under the same leadership Mr. King has brought all the different parts of this country together in units to prosecute the war. I am satisfied that Mr. King is the proper person to be the Prime Minister of Canada in these difficult times which we are in." Mr. Anderson urged that the people put all their confidence behind the candidate who would support and lead Canada through this war.

Dr. Crough said that Mr. Glover was known to every man and woman in the riding. For many years he had given his active support to everything that made for the betterment of this community and that he had established a reputation that was an assurance of his election. "If he serves us in Ottawa as well as he has done in the past we shall have every reason to acclaim him. As our next member he will be a worthy assistant to the King administration.

Mayor Hamilton

"It is the most natural thing in the world to see Rollie Glover a candidate for Parliament," said Mayor Hamilton. "He used to be a good sportsman and athlete, and I have known him through those years. I am glad he is in the field. He has handled other jobs so well that we'll have to give him another. I feel confident he is going to be elected."

Mrs. Charles M. Scott

Mrs. (Dr.) Scott spoke of Mackenzie King as "a cultured Christian gentleman," and mentioned the fact that the Prime Minister was on his way to St. Andrew's Church in Ottawa when the death of the Governor-General, Lord Tweedsmuir, was announced. Mrs. Scott expressed approval of the stand taken by Mr. King in going to the people at this time for an unqualified mandate, and said that women would give unstinted efforts for the election of Mr. Glover as a supporter of Mr. King. Referring to Hon. Dr. Manion's National government, Mrs. Scott said that when Sir Robert Borden formed a Union government he submitted his proposed cabinet to the electors. But, so far, Dr. Manion has not announced the name of any of those he would call in as Ministers.

Senator Duffus

Senator Duffus expressed his appreciation of the cordial manner in which his appointment to the Senate had been received, and promised to do his best to be worthy of the honor.

"It is a genuine pleasure for me to congratulate my good friend Rollie Glover on being selected as the candidate of this large assembly of men and women. I feel that he is the strongest man that could be nominated in this riding, or from outside it. Almost every person knows him either personally or by report, and that is of great importance in selecting a man to carry on public affairs. He was a success in business and in sport, and he has had fine contacts with the people of the country.

Mr. Glover was for years in a position of great responsibility as the publisher of The Examiner and the moulder of public opinion in this community, and I believe that his influence had a lot to do with the fact that we have one of the finest cities and counties in this country; in fact I believe we surpass most other counties.

A Leader In Relief

We should not forget at this time that when the depression came upon us Mr. Glover displayed a kindness and a spirit of charity which I believe a great many of our citizens will remember. As the publisher at that time Mr. Glover carried on a relief fund which was really the beginning of Peterborough's present relief work.

I have been associated with Mr. Glover during the last five years, and I assure you no man I know had any greater interest than he in the people of this country and city. I prophesy for him a very successful career as a member of Parliament."

Mr. Duffus concluded with a reminder that good wishes were not enough, that work had to be done, and promised everything he could to ensure the election of Mr. Glover with a big majority, "because it is the majority that usually reflects at Ottawa a member's standing in his own community."

Scandinavian Ministers Meet

SANDLER KOHT MUNCH

5 Days Sneezing

MARIETTA, O., Feb. 26.—(AP)—Marjorie Kaneff's five-day attack of sneezing was stopped, but the flood of telegrams, letters and telephone calls hasn't let up a bit. The 11-year-old girl's physician and her father were wondering today which was harder on their nerves—the sneezing siege or the attendant flood of advice on how to halt it.

More Efficiency On The Farm Manitoba's Aim

WINNIPEG, Feb. 26 — (CP). — Increased efficiency on the farm is aimed at by Manitoba's Wartime Committee on Agriculture through an intensive farm educational campaign it is now launching.

This campaign, to be conducted through every medium, press, radio and lectures, is designed specifically to assist agriculture to carry out its national obligations in wartime and to help the farmer make the most efficient use of the farm resources in his own interest as well. By stimulating use of improved methods of production and marketing, it is also expected that the farmer will be placed in better position to withstand the readjustments anticipated in the post-war period.

This committee, intended to pool the experience of the best agricultural men in Manitoba, is composed of representatives of the Government, of the Manitoba Federation of Agriculture (made up of a variety of farm organizations), of the Grain Exchange and similar bodies.

The committee's program consists basically of the stimulation of ordinary peacetime farm activities. For instance, it will work for intensified drought prevenion, keeping feed on the farm, guarding against crop failures by diversification and other means, improved breeding of stock, reduction of wastage such as badly-balanced feeding and the feeding of poor animals, les sover-cultivation with its consequent loss of moisture.

Buying at Cash Prices,

To help the farmer replace inefficient implements forn out during the 10 years of Western agricultural depression, encouragement will be given to implement purchases through co-operative organizations by which it is hoped the farm may obtain such machinery at cash prices instead of the usual two or three years' instalment price, commonly considered a headache by both sellers and buyers. It is hoped that prices of implement parts especially may be reduced in this way.

Particular importance is placed on this implement angle because wartime means greater dependence on machinery as men are drawn from farms.

It is estimated that a back-log of implement needs amounting to $100,000,000 or $150,000,000 has accumulated since 1930, much of which must be replaced if western agriculture is to be placed on an efficient basis again. Incidentally the farmer will be given instruction on the proper handling and maintenance of this equipment.

Since adequate food supplies are a prime requisite of war, the committee considers that the war impinges directly on Western Canada and especially on the good areas in Western Canada, into which much of Manitoba falls by climate and variety of produce.

A somewhat similar program is being organized in Saskatchewan at the moment.

Trout In Drain

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Champion tellers of fish stories can move over for Simon Eugene Singling, eight. Simon, playing in the rain beside a storm drain in the heart of the city, spied a fish. He seized an iron bar, stunned it and pulled it out. It was an eight-pound speckled trout. In support of his claims he has the fish and a witness.

Australia gave $50,000 for relief in the Turkish earthquake.

One of Peterborough's best known and best-liked citizens has been chosen as the Liberal candidate in West Peterborough. In this all-important election, however, the voters will look beyond the candidate and study the party he represents and its record.

Behind the popularity of the chosen standard-bearer they will see the sins and shortcomings of the King government, its failure to solve peace time problems, its greater failure to provide defence equipment with which to face the emergency that on its own admission the King administration saw coming. They will see too that incompetence in the Department of Defence that led to the removal of Ian Mackenzie, the mismanagement, the improvidence and the flagrant personal and political favoritism shown in the awarding of defence contracts. And they will recall the scuttling of parliament to prevent the investigation of all these things.

That is why in this election, they will decide that they cannot afford to vote for a candidate who represents such an administration, no matter how popular he personally may be.

He Heads Swedish Navy

Admiral Gosta Ehrensward, chief of the Swedish royal navy, is pictured aboard the Swedish flagship. Sweden is bolstering her military might, just to make sure she will not be caught napping, as Russia battles her neighbor, Finland. Swedish military authorities have already issued instructions to all anti-aircraft units in the country to fire upon any military planes seen flying over Swedish territory. The orders followed the bombing of the town of Pajala by Russian planes and brought indignant demands in the Swedish press that a protest to Moscow be followed by insistence on compensation and assurances against similar repetition.

BY KATHRN BEMIS

SYNOPSIS

Characters as you meet them:

JANIS SHELDON—Who has inherited $20 000 and is on her way to Hollywood to try for a career in pictures.

ROCK CONOVER—Guard of convicts whom he is taking to San Quentin.

LUCINDA HOLLENBECK—A friend of Rock's, who is also aboard the train and who is a picture actress "at rest."

YESTERDAY'S ACTION

After having breakfast with Rock, Janis goes to the observation car for recreation. When the train stops and the passengers go for a short airing, Janis is suddenly robbed by a man who grabs her purse. Back on the train Rock apologizes for not being able to help, and tells Janis she needs looking after. He suggests Lucinda. Later the three meet in the dining car at dinner.

CHAPTER IV.

THEN as swiftly as this sense of impending danger had come to Janis, it vanished; thoroughly bound to Lucinda's charm, she was ready to drink in her every word and glance.

Lucinda was one of those women whose age could be anywhere from twenty-five to a dozen years more but to Janis, she was an awe-inspiring, pedestal - mounted figure called a screen star.

Rock, on Janis' right, hurried through the meal with preoccupied air. When he was reluctantly leaving them, Lucinda said: "Don't worry Rock—Janis and I will get on famously. Go strut your stuff."

"Anybody who can't get on with you, Lou, is hopeless. I told Janis what a swell person she was going to meet," was his parting comment.

Even Rock, it seemed, was making an effort to please Lucinda, and Janis understood it perfectly. She had always known that movie actresses were far too glamorous to be treated like ordinary women. All of them must be something like Lucinda, because from what she said, she had been in very important roles.

She was resting now, she explained. She had overworked and, Wilneck, the big director, had advised her to avoid a collapse by doing nothing for a year.

The Web of Flattery

But she would be delighted to see that Janis got a break. A girl as pretty as Janis with so much personality, should easily get started in pictures. And pull counted. It was extremely fortunate that Janis had run into Rock and herself, who knew all the answers.

Janis, strung to a high pitch of expectancy, wondered what Lucinda used to make her hair look like faded gold and her lashes grow to such astonishing length, what gave her greenish eyes such sheen and depth.

Lucinda was slim, too nearly skinny. But tonight she was not denying herself food; she was eating even more than Janis who always had a healthy appetite. That Lucinda was fascinating, Janis could not deny, although she thought her face too long and thin, her features too sharply defined to be beautiful.

But she knew how to dress. Her black sheer frock was simply cut and cleverly accented by bizarre imitation ruby earrings and a matching broad bracelet.

Her frequent gestures were arresting because of her bright ruby nails and, Janis, not missing a single feature of Lucinda's exotic allure, decided after knowing her thirty minutes, that meeting this actress was the biggest stroke of luck she had ever encountered.

"Rock says expense doesn't worry you if you make the grade" Lucinda said, when they were finishing their ice cream.

She had a novel way of clipping off sentences in that husky voice of hers that Janis longed to imitate.

"Of course, that's all right," Lucinda continued, "providing you have—enough income."

"But why—why should it be expensive to make the grade in Hollywood?" asked Janis, frowning.

"Naturally, you don't understand yet, my dear." Lucinda's air was patronizing. "It's the front that counts—and you'll have to put up a good front."

Planning the "Front"

Front? Somehow the idea did not appeal to Janis. For a long moment, she considered this. All the people she had known who carried too much "front" eventually saw it explode into thin air. She didn't see why it wouldn't be the same in the movie business. But she forced herself to remember that movies were different, and Lucinda should know how a novice should behave. The faint doubt of Lucinda's good judgment that had crept into Janis' mind, she cast aside as insidious, unworthy of the lavish attention this new acquaintance was giving her. Why, between Lucinda Hollenbeck and Rock Conover, it would be easy to climb the motion-picture heights! Lucinda had promised it.

She paid Lucinda's dinner check, after Lucinda's hasty examination of her purse revealed that she had left all her change in the pocket of her coat hanging in her compartment. Lucinda acted embarrassed over the incident, but Janis was only too glad to help Lucinda out of her predicament, glad to place this alluring actress in her debt.

Janis was wreathed in high hopes when she parted with her new friend for the night. She returned to her seat with a magazine and gratefully met the wide smile of Rock, sitting so near with those frightful men. He did not come to speak to her, but she knew it was because he dared not leave those law-offenders, now visualizing bleak prison walls with cowardly apprehension.

She opened the magazine and tried to read. But she could take no interest in stories telling of frustration and bitter trial now when a roseate future beckoned. Wasn't real life much simpler and jollier? She tossed aside the magazine filled with fiction stranger than truth, tucked the plump pillow behind her head and went immediately to sleep.

Moon Madness

In the middle of the night she awoke, sleepily turned her head toward the window. Moonlight was silvering great hills of sand out of which, here and there, came small twisted trees, as if a playful hand had stuck them there, hit or miss. The desert! Vast, gaunt in its loneliness, alluringly beautiful yet startling and dreadful in its grandeur of waste.

Breathlessly Janis continued to watch the desert flash by. It seemed hours that she could only spasmodically close her eyes because of the glamor of those beckoning sand miles.

Then she knew she had dropped off to sleep again, for suddenly it was daylight, and the moon and the sandhills were gone. The country was level and dotted with palm, sycamore and cedar trees. Occasionally a patch of green lawn around a ranch house whizzed by, and she saw human beings beginning the day's chores, and grazing cattle and horses, lazy chickens and hogs.

The train paused briefly at Needles, then dashed on through the orange and lemon groves, flaunting golden fruit that made Janis wide-eyed. "I'll pick an orange, some day!" she declared to herself. "I'll really pick one off a tree! How thrilling that will be!"

Later, when she was breakfasting with Lucinda, Rock paused briefly at their table to explain he must pay strict attention to the dangerously uneasy prisoners. He said he was leaving Janis in Lucinda's hands just as if he and Janis were old friends, making her pridefully conscious of her swift conquest of a man's romantic interest.

In Hollywood

And when she and Lucinda were standing before the Los Angeles station, he waved at them until his car window flashed from their range of vision. Then the exultant Janis got into a taxicab with her new friend, redcaps set their luggage at their feet and all at once Janis found herself being carried swiftly through downtown Los Angeles and on out to Hollywood.

"We'll go to my apartment first, darling," Lucinda announced. "Then I'll get you settled—and you can go on from there."

"I feel guilty— taking so much of your time," Janis said, wondering how she could ever repay this girl for her kindness. "What would I have done if I hadn't met you?"

Lucinda shrugged her slim straight shoulders, declared: "It's absolutely nothing, my dear. I'm glad to help in a small way—especially glad to do anything for a friend of Rock."

Janis colored, said quickly, "I'm not—not exactly a friend of his—I met him on the train and——"

"Don't let that worry you. I've made a few train acquaintances, too, in my time." She gave a hard little laugh. "I must confess, some of them turned out to be—rather useful."

Janis wondered about this. But only momentarily. To doubt this new friend would be, she felt, nearly disloyal.

They were swinging into Hollywood Boulevard now and she forgot everything but the glamorous fable about this street. She wondered if it would live up to her visionary conception of it. But from all she could ascertain at the moment, it was like any other big city business street.

Even Hollywood and Vine seemed only the usual bustling street intersection; where pedestrians crossed with the traffic signal, or took their lives in their own careless hands. Where traffic roared and snorted like wild life on the loose, while actually being controlled with dexterous precision.

Lucinda's apartment proved to be a two-room white stucco bungalow set in a long court, containing half a dozen others, identically alike.

Janis, intrigued by such doll-like proportions, exclaimed: "How darling! I'd like to live in a place exactly like this!"

"It would never do if you want to get anywhere in pictures, Janis, only live here while I am resting. When I'm working again I'll rent a house out in Beverly, or up in the hills.'

Janis frowned, began to worry. How long would her inheritance last if she followed Lucinda's advice?

"The Authority on Authorities"

NOT TO BE TRUSTED

DEPENDABLE and trustworthy as a bridge star's wife may be most of the time, the bridge table is no place to trust her, if she is a keen competitor and is playing against him. Then is the time that some of the nicest ladies pick out crucial spots to underlead aces and resort to other nefarious devices which enable them to laugh weeks afterward about how they got even for various things the husbands had done.

Very strong No Trumps when vulnerable, with only 4-3-3-3 distributions, were used by North and South on this rubber deal. Others who use weaker No Trumps would have started with 2-No Trumps, South bidding 3-Spades, North 3-No Trumps and South 4-Spades.

One of our outstanding experts, who wants his name withheld, was declarer, and his wife led the heart 5. Expecting East to have the A but possibly not the Q, he ducked, and the Q won. A heart was returned to the A and a third round ruffed. South then led the spade 2. When she played the 6, he guessed her for possibly the J but not the K, so played dummy's 10, the singleton J winning. Later, of course, he lost the setting trick to the spade K.

Her low heart lead really gave him a chance to make 6-Spades. If he came up with the K, then ran three diamonds, discarding a heart, following with the spade A and another to the Q, he would have lost only to the spade K. With normal defense and play, he would have lost only one trick in each major, making five-odd. And here he was set by his own wife

Builder Knew

BOSTON, Feb. 24 — (AP) — John F. Kinney, 92, retired builder and sea captain, refused to obey police orders to move from his Beacon Hill home after a heavy oil truck crashed into the building and weakened its foundations. All other families obeyed the warning last night and left. The captain said he inspected the building himself and found it all right.

Lad Is Stabbed

SANTA MONICA, Calif., Feb. 26. —(AP)—Ten-year-old Benny Knypstra of Mar Vista finished his violin lesson and sat down to relax in an overstuffed chair. An eight-inch knife, which had been used to sharpen a pencil and forgotten, pierced his back. He died in hospital.

He Kept Two

LUBBOCK, Tex., Feb. 26 (AP) A 29-YEAR-OLD produce company employee admitted today that he maintained two wives in the same household.

G. E. Brown, held on a bigamy charge, was quoted by District Attorney Burton Burks as saying he married the first time in 1929 and the second time in 1937.

In a written statement Brown said he had three children by his first wife and one by the second.

Burks said a sister of the first wife precipitated the investigation.

Seed Potatoes Expected To Be In Demand

Up to the noon hour Saturday the produce market held its opening prices steadily, but began to shade them towards 12.30 o'clock as a means of disposing of the morning's remnant.

The first grade eggs opened at 25 cents with smaller sizes down to 20 cents, but the last of the morning's supply dropped below these figures. The top price for butter was 30 cents, but declined to 27 cents. Chickens generally were 20 cents, dropping back to 18 cents. Hens opened at 17 cents. Turkeys were 21 to 23 cents, and some sold up to 25 cents.

One woman had a stock of late maturing chickens averaging around seven pounds and selling at 20 cents a pound.

Potatoes were unchanged in price, and of about the same quantity as in recent weeks. James Healey of Westwood quoted White Stars at $1.25 and Irish Cobblers $1.10. Erle Tully's Katahdins were tagged at $1.10 the 75-lb bag. Mr. Tully reports a lively enquiry for seed.

Honey prices have been steady. Offa Williamson's four pound tins of white No. 1 honey was 50 cents. Harry Gill reported good business in fresh meats, pork 13 and 15 cents, beef 12 and 14 cents, lamb 20 and 22 cents.

Apples are firm in price. Norman Moncrief reported strong demand, with first quality Spies at 45 cents a peck or $1.60 a bushel; McIntosh Reds also $1.60; Snows, $1; Ontarios $1.15 and Talmans $1.

Pleasant View Orchard of Bowmanville quoted cooking apples at 35 cents a peck Spies 45 cents and McIntosh Reds 40 cents.

Herb Dolg's vegetable prices were: Onions 25 cents for six quart basket, turnips three for ten cents, cabbage 10 cents each; and apples, Starks $1, Talmans $1.

Gordon Fitzgerald of Smith townships priced a three-cord truck of dry maple at $7.50 a cord.

Why Both Sides Have Held Back

LONDON, Feb. 26—(CP)—Admittedly this has been a strange war—if by strange you mean that what was generally expected hasn't happened.

Many continue to ask why neither combatant takes major offensive action by land or air. Some say the Allied directors of strategy lack offensive spirit, adding that this is what the doctrine of defensive strategy has brought us to.

But it certainly is not the case that the leaders and men of the Allied forces are lacking in the offensive spirit. It is rather that they know that strategy must be adapted to every phase of the contest. The time for action will come. But it has not been forgotten that the premature offensive of 1914 and 1916 cost the Allies dearly.

I think this is how the Allied High Command sees the situation.

1. The German Army in September (1939) was fully mobilized. Though the bulk of it was engaged in Poland, there were ample forces to hold the 120 kilometres of the Siegfried Line between the Rhine and Moselle—a position which presented a narrow, strongly fortified front with flanks secured by neutral territory, which the French on moral and political grounds would not think of violating.

2. A frontal attack, lacking the element of surprise, cannot be undertaken against the Siegfried position without a considerable period of preparation and reconnaissance. It could, in September, only have been justified as a means of bringing relief to Poland, and if the main German army was still committed to that front.

3. But before the French army could fully mobilize and the first British contingent could and did arrive, the fate of the Polish army was sealed. An attack then on the Siegfried Line with the German main army released from Poland would have been an act of madness.

4. On the other hand, the French army, reinforced by the B.E.F., could with confidence hold the Maginot defences. Time was required by the Allies for the expansion of the British Army and for the effects of the blockade.

5. It was necessary, moreover, for the Allies to retai.. a large force in reserve in case the Germans invaded neutral territory. While that danger existed the Allies had to wait events.

Regarding Air Attack

It is not therefore difficult to understand why the Allied armies are standing on the defensive. The reasons why the Allied air forces did not take offensive action are rather more complicated. The main reason I suppose was that there were few military targets which could be attacked without endangering noncombatants. Such an attack it was desired to avoid.

To have initiated such attacks, however strict the concentration on military targets, would have given a handle to German propaganda and would have invited reprisals unlimited by any humanitarian scruples.

Attacks on purely military objectives such as airdromes, except when active operations are in progress, might not produce great effect, and would certainly involve casualties.

There were therefore valid reasons for leaving it to the enemy to initiate full air war. The growing strength of the Allied air forces also suggests a policy of warning.

German Hesitancy.

But why did not the Germans, in view of the growing strength of the Allies, take the offensive when the Polish campaign ended? I think this is how they saw it:

1. They probably would have attacked then and there had not Hitler, hoping to get away with his spoils without a major war, launched his peace offensive.

2. The great expenditure of petrol and the damage done to German mechanical vehicles and aircraft during the Polish war were also postponing factors.

3. By the time these causes of delay had disappeared, winter was approaching, making extensive land operations hazardous.

4. There would then seem to have been a conflict of advice as to the form offensive operations should take. The alternative courses considered were apparently: (a) A combined land and air attack on the Maginot Line, including probably the invasion of Luxemburg; (b) An invasion of Holland and Belgium to facilitate air attack on Britain and the U-boat war; (c) Postponement of land and aiar offensives till the spring; (d) Intensification of U-boat, mine and surface-raider action, without risking a major land and air war.

5. Weather conditions probably led to the postponement of land operations.

6. The effect on the German people of air reprisals, coupled with the hardships of food shortage, may have been the reason for hesitating to initiate air war. The difficulty of carrying out air attacks on Britain without incurring prohibitive casualties had also been revealed by the R.A.F. mass flights over Germany.

These and other considerations led the Germans to a decision to stand on the defensive during the winter.

In view, however, of the disappointment results in the sea warfare, and of the diminishing prospects of economic assistance from Russia, owing to Soviet difficulties in Finland, it is almost certan that Germany must take the offensive in the spring. Economic conditions will force her.

What form her initiative will take cannot yet be forecast. But it is certain that, sooner or later, according to the nature of her action, the Allies, to achieve victory, will take counter offensive action. With growing strength, they can await with patience the opportunty for that counter-offensive.

Newest Dictator

Newest recruit to the ranks of the "strong men" is President General Joseph Felix Estigarriba who made himself virtual dictator of Paraguay with a formal decree that he was assuming "all political powers in order to save the republic from anarchy." In a radio broadcast prior to issue of the decree General Estigarriba announced that he was acting with full approval and co-operation of the army and navy. He is the hero of the Chaco war aganist Bolivia, and served as Paraguay's minister at Washington. He was inaugurated as president last August 15, for a four-year term.

Turks Ready For War With Their Army Of 2,000,000 Men

The republic of Turkey, caught between the demands of Germany and Russia—and Italy, too—may find itself forced to fight. In which case, the Turks will rely on a modernized army whose war strength is estimated at 2,000,000. Unlike the Turkish force which went to war in 1914 on the side of the Central Powers, the Turkish military establishment of today is a modernized, motorized force which compares favorably with that of other European powers of similar size. ABOVE are four views showing the modern fighting force Turkey can place in the field as an ally of Britain and France if war should become inevitable this spring.

Hero Crews Dine With Lord Mayor Praise By Britain's Defence Chiefs

LONDON, Feb. 26—(CP Cable).—In service dress, with the dust of London's streets on their boots, the 760 naval heroes of the Exeter and Ajax who helped in the defeat of the German pocket-battleship Admiral Graf Spee, came to the ancient Guildhall here on Friday to lunch with the Lord Mayor and city corporation.

They took in the great hall with its stained glass, its gold plate and pendant banners. They looked down and smiled shyly at one another, moved to their place as quietly as they could.

While the officers being welcomed in the art gallery by the Lord Mayor, the men, unshaken in battle, sat timidly like schoolboys on their best behavior. But presently their restraint began to evaporate. Their whisperings became a hum and then a lively chatter.

'Bit of a change from the old ship," one was heard to say to a shipmate.

The orchestra started playing as the Lord Mayor came into the hall with Winston Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, Captain Woodhouse of the Ajax, Captain Bell of the Exeter and other notables.

The men rose and applauded.

Captains Bell and Woodhouse sat on either side of the Lord Mayor. Seated nearby were Mr. Churchill, Sir Samuel Hoare, Privy Seal, Air Secretary Sir Kingsley Wood, Lord Chatfield, minister for coordination of defence, and Lord Hankey, minister without portfolio.

Britain's Biggest Thrill

The Lord Mayor, proposing the toast to the men, said nothing had given a greater thrill to the people of Britain since the war began than the account of the battle of the Plata.

"For courage, daring, skill, seamanship and tenacity it will merit an honored place in the annals of the Royal Navy," he said.

Referring to the presence of six of the captains of merchant ships who were prisoners in the Graf Spee, the Lord Mayor said:

"They have come home, and thanks to the Royal Navy so have 300 shipmates who were liberated from a prison ship on Friday last."

The Lord Mayor added that victory was not gained without its price, and of those who had not returned he could only say that they were brave men whose names would live.

He declared the officers and men of the Ajax and Exter had shown the world that the British Navy was ready, able and willing to accept a challenge whenever and wherever it was offered.

The Lord Mayor read a cable from the Mayor of Auckland, New Zealand, who said: "Like you we are today at a civil luncheon honoring the Achilles heroes of the Graf Spee engagement. Please convey our citizens' fraternal greetings to the captains, officers and ships' companies of the Exter and Ajax."

He then read the following telegram from the Governor of the Falkland Islands: "We in the Falkland Islands rejoice in the safe and triumphant return home of the victors of the River Plata action. The pluck and good cheer of the seriously wounded have been wonderful."

Another message said: "Good luck and best wishes to officers and men of the Exter and Ajax." It was signed "Exter and Ajax wounded."

Sir William said he intended to send a reply from the whole company in the Guildhall, conveying heartiest greetings to the wounded men and expressing the fervent hope that they would enjoy their convalescence and secure speedy recovery.

Breakup Looms At Churchill

CHURCHILL, Man., Feb. 24—(CP)—The cold waters of Hudson Bay are clear of ice and old-time residents of Manitoba's summer seaport at the mouth of the Churchill river are afraid that living is becoming "soft" in the frozen north.

Just two miles from shore, icy green water can be seen tossing around as unusually warm winter temperatures—it was only 34 degrees below zero yesterday—prevent it from crystallizing. Not since pioneer northerners can remember has the bay been iceless in February.

Ice formation at the mouth of the Churchill River is only 45 to 50 inches thick. Ordinarily river mouth ice reaches a depth of six to eight feet during the winter.

Already there have been predictions of an early break-up in ice conditions around the mouth of the river. Should these forecasts prove correct the northern port's summer shipping season may start earlier than usual although this would depend greatly upon ice conditions in Hudson Strait.

Port officials hope the signs of an early break-up may result in a longer shipping term this summer by opening up the Bay route before August and holding it open at least until regular closing dates.

If these hopes materialise, the far-north route may prove invaluable as a shipping lane. The danger of a quick freeze-up would be greater hazard to submarines than it would be to ocean-going freighters and, in addition, Nazi U-boats would be compelled to remain on the surface or else risk being rammed by the thousands of icebergs.

Constable Stanley Grimm, society painter and full-time policeman, exhibited two paintings at this year's United Artists' Exhibition at the Royal Academy in London.

Warship Barham Torpedoed Flagship Nelson Mined Churchill Finally Reveals

Both Made Port Unaided—Almost Repaired; Claims 2 Subs Sunk In Last 2 Days, Predicts More U-Boats, Bigger Mine War

LONDON, Feb. 27 — (CP Cable). —Two of Britain's biggest battleships, the 35,000-ton Barham and flagship Nelson, 33,950 tons, are under repair at naval yards after being damaged by enemy action, Winston Churchill disclosed in the House of Commons to-day.

Without disclosing when or where the First Lord of the Admiralty said the Barham, which was completed in 1915, had been hit by o torpedo and that the 15-year-old Nelson was struck by a magnetic mine.

Both ships were able to proceed to port under their own steam and soon will be commissioned again. He made no mention of casualties.

Other Battleships Escaped.

Mr. Churchill added that apart from the battleships Royal Oak and the aircraft carried Courageous, which were lost early in the war, and the Nelson and Barham, "no other large ships have been damaged or sunk since the outbreak of war or during these very difficult winter months."

Mr. Churchill disclosed that the Royal Navy had not had to use Scapa Flow since the battleship Royal Oak was sunk there on October 13 with a loss of 810 lives.

He predicted intensification of the sea wa rand declared that the fleet soon would be reinforced by five modern battleships.

In connection with the Barham, it was recalled that on December 20 it was disclosed that a battleship of the Queen Elizabeth class had been damaged by a torpedo and that three men had been killed. The Barham is of the Queen Elizabeth class.

The Nelson was able to make port under her own steam. Mr. Churchill said.

Thousands Kept Secret

"This secret, of which many thousands of people were necessarily aware, was very well kept and has only just leaked out into Germany after it had ceased to have any importance," he added.

The First Lord said the five new battleships of the King George V. class would give Britain 16 battleships—the largest battle fleet in the world—in addition to three battle cruisers.

These ships "are capable of standing up to the air bomb and are far better adapted to underwater explosions than anything we have today," he said.

"If we had not got at the present time unquestioned superiority in battleships, the German navy cruisers would come out into the Atlantic Ocean, and, without fear of being brought to account, would be able to obstruct, if not arrest, the whole of the enormous trade without which we could not live.

"Happily we have far greater strength in capital ships than the enemy and if at any time they break out, as they way do, we always are ready to meet them with much larger forces and bring them to battle and destroy them."

Net Loss 200,000 Tons.

Mr. Churchill placed the net loss of British merchant shipping at less than 200,000 tons out of a 21,000,000 total. He compared the figure with that of 450,000 tons lost in "single

The Loophole

London, Feb. 27 (CP)

UNOFFICIAL naval sources revealed today that British warships hovering off the northern Norwegian coast have discovered a means of attacking German ships trying to follow Norway's coastline, without violating Norwegian territorial waters.

At two points at least along the Norwegian coast, they disclosed, shoals are so broad that ships have to travel more than three miles off shore. These points are particularly well watched.

Reports that two German vessels had been sunk by British warships off Petsamo were regarded in Admiralty circles as a German propaganda manoeuvre designed to obtain more accurate information about Allied naval movements in the north.

7 More Centres Chosen For Air Schools

OTTAWA, Feb. 27 (CP)—Location of a number of new schools in the British commonwealth air training plan and dates for the opening of others were announced today by Defence Minister Rogers.

In addition to locations previously announced schools will be set up at Edmonton, Ottawa, Calgary, Saskatoon, Prince Albert, Vancouver and Regina.

A statement from the department of national defence said:

"No. 1 air observers school will be opened in May at Malton, Ont. The following month, No. 1 elementary flying training school will also be opened at Malton, and No. 2 elementary flying training school at Windsor Mills, Que.

"By July, it will be possible to announce the inauguration of No. 2 air observers school at Edmonton, while No. 1 service flying training school, now at Camp Borden, will function as such during the same month.

Service School At Ottawa

"It has been decided to establish No. 2 service flying training school in the vicinity of Ottawa, the airport at Uplands having been selected as the site. It is expected that this will be opened in August, together with No. 3 elementary flying training school at London, Ont., and No. 4 elementary flying training school at Fort William, Ont.

"The third service flying training school, which will be located at Calgary, is to be in operation next September, while No. 4 service flying training school is to be opened in Saskatoon, and No. 6 elementary flying training school in Prince Albert, next October. Prince Albert will also be the site of No. 8 air observer school to be opened later. November should see the inauguration of No. 4 air observers school at London. A flying school will be established at Moncton on the site of the Department of Transport Airdrome.

Others Pending

"Negotiations are now pending with Vancouver and Regina for the use of municipal airports as sites for proposed flying schools."

The announcements are in accord with the progressive development of the plan which contemplates a total of some 70 schools, spread all across Canada.

The schools come into operation in groups as they are ready and the staff is available to man them.

German Squadrons Visit Paris For 1st Major Scare

PARIS, Feb. 27—(AP). — Massed squadrons of German planes flew to the Paris region early today, dropped no bombs, but sent thousands of Parisians to shelters in the first air raid alarm of the year.

Six were wounded by an anti-aircraft shell. The exploding shell, digging a hole two feet deep in the street, pelted surrounding buildings with fragments.

Only after "all clear" had been signalled was the size of the German force disclosed by observers. Hitherto, Germany's aerial incursions have been on a small scale with only a few of the reconnoitring planes reaching this far into France.

The coming of the masse squadrons was heralded last evening by two isolated planes. Anti-aircraft batteries splotched the sky with their fire, while searchlights roamed in search of the intruders.

No alarm was sounded at that time. Officials said it was unnecessary.

British Fliers Down 2 Nazi Heinkels In Coastal Attack

LONDON, Feb. 27—(CP).—The Air Ministry announced today that two raiding German planes had been shot down off Britain's coasts as the German Air Force apparently resumed its widespread coastal raiding.

One of the raiders, a Heinkel bomber, was downed by a patrol of the Royal Air Force fighter command off the mouth of the Firth of Forth shortly before 1 p.m. (7 a.m., EST).

That waterway, leading to the city of Edinburgh and the Rosyth naval base, has been a frequent target for German raids.

The Air Ministry communique said:

"Early this afternoon a fighter aircraft of the Royal Air Force shot down a second Heinkel off the coast of Northumberland. Three members of the crew of the enemy

London, Feb. 27 (CP Cable)

WINSTON CHURCHILL made a concession to fear of the unknown when introducing the naval estimates in the House of Commons today.

He was saying that the Admiralty had lost only 63,000 tons of naval shipping, or about half of the losses of the first six months of the last war, when Miss Ellen Wilkinson, Labor, shouted across the floor "You'd better touch wood!"

With a wide grin on his face, the First Lord solemnly raised his right arm, then lowered it with his fingers caressing the wooden top of the big dispatch box on the table, in front of him.

Heavy Nazi Army Movements Observed; French Destroyer Gets a Sub; Germans Down [illegible] Plane Over Heligoland

BRUSSELS, Feb. 27 (AP)—Artillery fire of increased intensity was reported to be shaking houses of the frontier villages of neutral little Luxembourg today while heavy German troop movements were sighted across the Moselle river.

Unusually heavy road and rail traffic was visible across the river. A steady stream of cavalry, cyclists, infantry, ammunition and food columns have been noticeable since Saturday.

The Obermosel Zeitung said barracks had sprung up overnight halfway between Mennig and Besch in the Rhineland region. Observers could not say whether the German troops were manoeuvring or reinforcing troops in the Saar section.

Eyewitnesses said they had seen an officer they believed to be Field Marshall Hermann Wilhelm Goering among the group of German officials standing on a bridge near Echternach over the Sauer river Saturday.

French Sink A Sub

PARIS, Feb. 27 —(CP-Havas)—The 1,458-ton French destroyer Simoun destroyed a German submarine off Cape Finistere, it was disclosed here tonight.

According to official estimates, the French had previously sunk at least 15 U-boats up to Feb. 16. Ten of these were attacked last year and the remainder between mid-January and Feb. 16. Within the past two weeks British naval and air forces were estimated to have accounted for seven more.

LONDON, Feb. 27.—(CP)—One of the Royal Air Force planes which took part last night in the reconnaissance flight over Germany landed before dawn this morning in a field near Grimsby, on the east coast of England.

Local inhabitants were awakened by the sound of the motor and saw the pilot drop a flare to pick out a spot for his landing.

France To Feed Rumania Planes, Guns

BUCHAREST, Feb. 27 — (AP).—Three agreements whereby France would supply Rumania with large quantities of warplanes, machine guns and other armaments were reported to-day.

Signing of the contracts was reported unofficially as a Rumanian finance commission returned from Paris.

Great Britain, it also was reported, already has flown 60 Spitfire pursuit ships and Bristol Blenheim to this country.

The French and British action was described as following upon receipt of assurances from Rumania that Germany would not be favored in exports of Rumanian oil.

This produced some uneasiness here as to Germany's future action toward Rumania, particularly in view of the expected arrival of a German economist this week to seek more oil.

Meanwhile, Italian negotiators began conferences which observers believed might develop into a Balkan economic contest with Germany.

Launching of discussions with the Italian trade mission here caused widespread speculation in foreign diplomatic quarters as to Italy's motives in seeking an increased share of Rumanian exports—at the moment when either Germany or the Allies have contracted for nearly everything.

Most informed circles held the belief that Italy was seeking to nudge out Germany and resell Rumanian goods in world markets for gold.

German quarters openly expressed anger at the French-Rumanian agreement, especially after the Government's action yesterday in raising railway rates on exports, including oil, to Germany.

At the same time French and British quarters declared Rumania must remain "on her good behavior" or there may be a repetition of their action of January when they stopped all raw material exports to this country because Rumania appeared to be favoring the Nazis.

Conscription Is A Persistent Topic Despite 2-Party Renunciation

(By the Canadian Press.)

Both major political parties have renounced any intention to introduce conscription, but it is far from a dead issue in the current election campaign. It keeps bobbing up as a persistent topic of political discussion.

Conservative Leader Manion revived it again in a speech yetserday at Kakabeka Falls, Ont., in which he warned that conscription would split the country down the middle. He said it is the duty of a public man to keep Canada together.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King has said that the Government would not introduce conscription. Members of the cabinet participating in the campaign maintain that there is no thought of conscription.

During the special session of Parliament last September Mr. Mackenzie King said: "The present government believe that conscription of men for overseas service will not be necessary or an effective step. No such measure will be introduced by the present administration."

Making eight speeches at the Lakehead, Dr. Manion spent the most active day of his campaign yesterday exploding a general broadside against the government. He charged the Liberals have no intention of introducing unemployment insurance and lashed out at the whole Government war program.

Allied Warships Sink 2 Nazis Off Finn Coast

BERGEN, Norway, Feb. 27.—(AP) Reports received here from the northern-most tip of Norway say Allied warships have sunk two German vessels near the Arctic coast of Finland.

The reports, from Vardoe, 50 miles northwest of Finland's Petsamo Fjord, said the ships had been sunk in the Petsamo vicinity, but did not say whether they were warships, or merchantmen, and gave no details of the action.

Presence in the Arctic of a British naval squadron of undetermined strength was reported last week. Press reports said French warships also were on hand, apparently in a move to blockade shipping from Russia to Germany.

Finns Retreat To New Arctic Lines; Planes Bomb Russian Air Bases

HELSINKI, Feb. 27 (AP) — The Finnish high command today announced Russian attacks from the Arctic to the Gulf of Finland and acknowledged that Finnish forces had withdrawn to new defensive positions after an all-day Russian assault in the Arctic region of Petsamo.

In the north the Finns said they withdrew to new positions at Nautsi, on the Norwegian border 65 miles south of Petsamo.

In the south, the daily army communique reported, the Russians were driving across the Bay of Viipuri, attacking islands in the southwestern part of the bay, naval key to Viipuri, after having occupied the strategic fortifications on the islands of Koivisto.

The communique indicated the Russians were aiming at some sort of encirclement of Viipuri—the immediate goal of the great Russian "February offensive" on the isthmus of Karelia.

It was assumed that the Russians no longer are blocked by Koivisto's heavy guns, which anchored the western end of the Mannherheim line, and that they are preparing to swing wide to the west, perhaps attempting to cross the ice on the Bay of Viipuri in order to effect a pincer move against Viipuri itself.

The communique indicated also that the Finnish air force now is in a position to conduct long-range bombing flights as well as to engage in defensive activity. It was stated that an enemy air base "far behind the enemy lines" was among the objectives bombed.

The Russians also continued attacks on the Isthmus of Karelia in their drive toward Viipuri against desperately fighting Finnish forces at Somme, Naykkijaervi, Lake Perojoki, Ayrapaanjaervi and Salmenkaita, the high command said in its daily communique.

These positions are in the Mannerheim Line southeast and east of Viipuri, and have been mentioned in previous Finnish communiques as

Few Loopholes In Blockade British House Assured

LONDON, Feb. 27—(CP). — The British Government assured the House of Commons today that there are no serious loopholes in the Allied blockade which permit shipment of United States and other neutral goods to Germany.

Ronald Cross, Minister of Economic Warfare, said in response to a question that no serious leakages through the United States, Russia, Norway, Italy, the Netherlands or Belgium were suspected.

A check is being considered, however, on shipping through Vladivostok, the Soviet Union's main Pacific port, he disclosed.

The Government had been asked whether large tin shipments from the United States to Vladivostok during recent months were being re-exported to Germany since no such shipments were made before the war.

(Copper shipments also have been loaded recently at Manzanillo, Mexico, bound for Russia.)

Mr. Cross said he was aware tin and rubber shipments from the United States to Russia had increased during the last few months but that oil shipments appeared to have fallen off. He declared there was no information whether part of these raw materials were being resold to Germany.

Mr. Cross told the House there was no possibility of copper from the British-owned Rio Tinto mines in Spain reaching Germany. Any such shipments, he said, would have to pass through the British contraband control.

The question of blockade leakage arose from an increase of £17,000,000 ($75,650,000) in United States sales to 13 European countries, including Soviet Russia, in the last four months of 1939.

Mr. Cross said the exports had passed through the contraband control and were "most carefully watched" with the exception of shipments to Vladivostok, which

Germany's Misguided Youth Behind World Challenge

OXFORD, England, Feb. 27—(CP) —Viscount Halifax, Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs and Chancellor of Oxford University, today envisaged Nazi youth as carrying a "terrifying challenge" against civilization which can be resisted "only by force on the battleground."

Addressing the student body at Oxford, Lord Halifax declared the driving force behind the Nazi movement is German youth—"deliberately deprived of the elements of true judgment."

"Their point of view is in stark opposition to yours," the Foreign Secretary told the students. "They have their own ideals, which to our minds are distorted and deformed, but for which hundreds of thousands of them are prepared, without moments of hesitation, to sacrifice their lives.

"There is what seems an impenetrable barrier dividing you from them which somehow will have to be broken down if the youth of Europe is to avoid living always in this waste land and if the European temple of civilization is to deserve and win a rekindling of lamps."

Saying that youth may take the view that their elders have made havoc of the world, the Foreign Secretary said "No generation has the right to lay the cause of all its ills upon the shoulders of its predecessors" and the conflict today is "between youth and youth."

A Victorian visitor, he continued, "would be astounded no doubt by the material conveniences with which we have added to the ease of life, but he would be still more astounded by the moral retrogression of Europe and this devastating perversion of youth in Germany.

Expect Earful For Welles As Hitler Airs Wants

By H. M. PETERS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

BERLIN, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Informed German circles expressed the belief today that Adolf Hitler would tell Sumner Welles in no uncertain terms that the Reich demands hegemony on the European continent and return of her lost colonies.

From the insistence of inspired press articles that non-belligerents maintain complete neutrality rather than mere official neutrality, the opinion was advanced that Hitler would urge "more complete neutrality" by the United States.

Sumner Welles, United States Under-Secretary of States, began his European fact-finding mission by handing Premier Mussolini a personal message from President Roosevelt. In turn he heard Il Duce's opinions on the fundamental differences that have brought the great western powers into war.

Obviously, behind the diplomatic reserve, Mr. Welles has been told to see if he can find any basis by which the President could make a new attempt to head off a major onslaught by the massed armies of either side.

The place his trip—to Rome, Berlin, Paris and London in that order—will take in war history is uncertain but from the Washington point of view in which the journey was conceived, its urgency was given fresh impetus by such reports as heavy massing of German troops near Luxembourg.

Germany is reported in London circles to be uneasy about the visit. For instance Welles is likely to want to hear what may be embarrassing facts about Poland and Czecho-Slovakia and Germany's intentions toward those unhappy countries.

In the light of Mr. Roosevelt's other message announced today — that delivered by Myron Taylor to Pope Pius—in which the President expressed concern over "assurance of the life and integrity of all nations under God," it is asked how he could possibly be indifferent to the future of the nations now tempor-

Manion Assails King's Move For Insurance

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., Feb. 27—(CP).—Hon. Dr. R. J. Manion, National Conservative leader, will carry on his attack against government policies tomorrow night when he continues his election campaign tour at Sault Ste. Marie.

The Conservative leader lashed out on a new tack last night by denouncing the "impertinence" of the government in announcing its intention to introduce a scheme for unemployment insurance in the House of Commons. Prime Minister Mackenzie King has been making the same promise since 1919 without result, he declared.

Dr. Manion recalled that last year Mr. Mackenzie King refused to resort to Governor-General's war-deadly month of April, 1917."

Each month has shown a steady improvement in shipping, he said, with the navy convoying into British harbors in January—"in the teeth of U-boats, mines and winter gales and fogs"—considerably more than four-fifths the peace-time average of the three preceding years.

The Opposition was quick to praise the administration of the Admiralty. A. V. Alexander, Labor, a former First Lord, said "the spirit of our people is behind the Royal Navy."

Mr. Churchill's statement accompanied the introduction of the navy appropriation bill.

More U-Boats Coming.

Mr. Churchill said that two German submarines almost certainly had been sunk within the last two days. He predicted an increase in German U-boat building.

By the end of 1939 the Germans had lost at least half their U-boats, namely, 35, Mr. Churchill said, and he doubted whether even 10 fresh U-boats went into action during the first four months of the war.

"With the passage of summer the new building of U-boats will increasingly come into play and we expect to meet these with our very large new buildings of crafts especially adapted to their destruction," Mr. Churchill said.

He told the House that "we see our way to mastering" the magnetic mine "although mechanically it is very nicely made."

The First Lord asked the House for "a few men, some ships and a little money"—the Admiralty's appropriation is kept secret under wartime regulations. The House is being asked to pass a £100 ($445) token appropriation, and will not know until after the war just how much money it really represents.

Mr. Churchill said it was physically impossible to make exact estimates, and "there is no need to tell the enemy more than is good for him."

Bigger Mine Attacks.

Speaking of the magnetic mine, Mr. Churchill said: "To be modest, we do not feel at all outdone in science by the Nazis. Although we must expect, perhaps in the immediate future, further and much heavier attacks by mines, we believe we shall find ourselves equipped to deal with them."

He said the engagement of thousands of volunteer minesweepers originally was for three months.

"But it is now clear that it must be greatly prolonged," Mr. Churchill added. "The volunteers from the fishing fleets seem to have taken a liking to it. In many ports over 75 per cent. of those who volunteered for three months now wish to continue for the duration.

"In their attack by mines upon our shipping and neutral shipping, the Germans have broken every rule hitherto accepted by the world for regulating mining warfare.

One of the most extraordinary things I have ever known in my experience is the way in which the German illegalities, atrocities and brutalities are coming to be accepted as if they were part of the ordinary day-to-day conditions of war."

"As soon as the necessary preliminary details are arranged, I will communicate with you and give you full information as to how to get in touch with my representatives either in the United States or Canada," the letter read.

Kenneth Everson, 20, told of meeting a man introduced to him as "Charles Sweeny" in a Santa Monica hotel a mont hago. Everson did not join the group.

B. C. Butler, Canadian commissioner here, called the reports "ridiculous."

Not For Canada

OTTAWA, Feb. 27 (CP) — No recruiting for the Canadian forces, air, land or naval is being done outside Canada, it was learned at the national defence department today.

Officials here were unable to understand a report from Los Angeles to the effect young men were being invited to join a foreign air force and come to Canada unless the recruiting mentioned were for some country other than Canada.

Canadian authorities are not aware of any other air force using Canada as a base for recruiting.

arily in subjection.

It is difficult to see what Berlin could tell Welles that would aid his cause. Hitler's defiant speech of last Saturday did not seem to indicate readiness, in Mr. Chamberlain's words, "to show us conclusively that she (Germany) has abandoned that thesis that might is right."

Incidentally Mr. Chamberlain in his Saturday speech interjected a sentence that seemed to rule out an Allied peace with, for instance, Field Marshal Goering, should Hitler step aside.

"Under the present government of Germany there can be no security for the future," Mr. Chamberlain said, adding significantly:

"The elements in Germany who are ready to cooperate in building the new Europe are ruthlessly proscribed."

Goering and his associates in the economic dictatorship of the Reich are by no means to be regarded as "ruthlessly proscribed."

Paris today hinted that the Polish government-in-exile, established on French soil, will certainly expect to see Mr. Welles when his itinerary brings him to Paris. Authoritative revelations of brutality exercised by the German administration in Poland suggest that he will hear on that part of his trip of a side of warfare not always uncovered in the diplomatic conference room.

Welles Sees Ambassadors

ROME, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Sumner Welles, special envoy sent by President Roosevelt on a mission of inquiry in Europe, scheduled informal talks today with the ambassadors of Germany, Great Britain and France in winding up his initial conversations in Italy.

Welles, United States undersecretary of state, arranged to see Sir Percy Loraine and Andre Francois-Poncet, British and French ambassadors to Rome, at luncheon at the home of William Phillips, United States ambassador.

Later in the afternoon, his program called for a meeting at tea with Hans Georg Viktor von Mackensen, German ambassador.

From these talks, he was expected further to round out first-hand information on what is going on in Europe before boarding a train for Berlin shortly after midnight. There he is expected to be received by Adolf Hitler and Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop.

The trip to Berlin will take Welles through Switzerland, and it is thought he might stop briefly in Berne.

After visiting governmental leaders in Berlin, Paris and London, he is expected to return to Rome for further talks with Premier Mussolini and Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano.

Although Welles' aides emphasized his itinerary is not definite, he probably will go to Paris from Berlin.

The bomb explosions occurred the evening of Feb. 24 while the Italian Minister Giuseppe Bottai was in Zagreb. The bombs were placed in public telephone booths. No one was injured.

Pavelich has been living in Italy since a French court convicted him of complicity in the assassination of King Alexander. He never was arrested, but was tried by proxy.

The King's assassination came shortly after he had disembarked from a liner on a goodwill journey to France. The killer fired a number of shots into the King's carriage. The French Foreign Minister, Louis Barthou, riding with the King, also was killed.

scenes of fierce combat.

"The enemy suffered heavy casualties. The fighting continues," the communique said, but did not mention whether the Russians had advanced or been repulsed.

"Our troops captured large quantities of infantry arms and destroyed 18 tanks," the communique said of this action.

At the extreme opposite end of the Mannerheim Line, at Taipale on the shore of Lake Ladoga, the Finns "again repelled a powerful enemy attack," said the communique, "hurling the enemy back to his starting positions."

The Finns announced a large Russian offensive against Taipale last week as the invaders attempted to turn this eastern flank of the Mannerheim defences.

Fear Red Pincer Blow.

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Feb. 27—(AP).—Dispatches to Stockholm and Copenhagen newspapers today said Finnish authorities had withdrawn all non-combatants from the village of Sakkijaervi, 25 miles west of Viipuri, in fear of a Russian pincer attack against Viipuri.

Sakkajaervi lies across the bay of Viipuri from the Koivisto forts, loss of which the Finns acknowledged yesterday. The shore of the bay around Sakkijaervi, which lies six miles inland, presumably guards entrance to the bay on the west as Koivisto did on the east. Viipuri lies at the head of the bay.

The Finnish high command was said to be fearful the Russians would cross the ice of the bay toward Sakkijaervi from Koivisto.

These same dispatches said the Finns had managed to save their Koivisto fortification guns, while the fort itself was said to have been destroyed in advance of its abandonment.

Group Committeemen Hold Conference

The second annual meeting of group committeemen was held in the Paragon Hall, Thursday, where speakers put forward in a constructive manner, the work and responsibilities of the group committee.

The scout movement was outlined by Commissioner J. T. Hornsby; Assistant Commissioner L .A. Grant, and E. Wolfe gave details of organization and operation. Rev. Dr. E. W. Young gave a vivid talk on the religious side of scouting, following which Skipper Cutmore and W. Lyburn touched on the co-operation and utilization of the group committees.

President William C. English of the local Boy Scout Association, introduced the speakers of the evening. Some forty committeemen and scouters were present.

W. G. Shiner of Murray Street voiced the thanks and appreciation of the committeemen.

Refreshments were served by Akela Langhorn and her helpers, Mesdames Littlefair, Lawson and Hopkins of St. James' Mothers' Auxiliary. During the evening Commissioner Hornsby presented certificates to S. Leggitt, R. Hedron, B. Baldwin and T. Littlefair for passing a scouter's indoor training course recently held in the association headquarters.

Wanted Pictures For Album, Nazi Got Them

ABINGDON, England, Feb. 27 — (CP).—An English girl who persuaded a young German student to take a photograph of a damaged British plane was given suspended sentence Monday of one year and ordered to post a bond of £20 (about $90).

She gave her name as Marjorie Rowse and claimed she did not know it was forbidden to take such pictures. The German student, who said his name was Wilhelm Hermann George Arnold Theobald Solf, 23, was sent to prison for two months for violating regulations applicable to foreign residents and for taking the snapshots.

The prosecution asked Solf, who claimed he left Germany because he did not like the Nazis, how he could admit in the face of this serving in a crack German cavalry regiment, working in a Nazi plane factory, going back temporarily to Germany in 1939 and being allowed to return to England a few days before the invasion of Poland.

"I'm afraid you don't very well understand how these things are done," Solf replied.

Because of his status as a student, Solf was not interned when war was declared.

The girl said she simply wanted the snapshots for her album.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, Feb. 27 — (CP). — Trading was dull on Winnipeg Grain Exchange today as wheat futures prices followed the only available market factor—irregularity at Chicago.

Quotations began the session with minor losses but firmed as moderate seaboard buying met light offerings in the pit. At the close values were ¼ to ⅛ lower, with May at 83⅝, July 89⅝, and October 90⅞ cents.

Chicago was firm most of the day but declined in the last half of the session and near the close was about ⅜ cent lower. Buenos Aires was ¼ to ½ cent higher at noon.

PERSONAL AND SOCIAL

Mr. Jack Lane of Detroit is spending several days with his parents, Mr and Mrs. T. J. Lane, Hunter street. He was accompanied by Miss Bernice and Mr. John Martin, who are visiting with their mother, Mrs. P. Martin, Lock street.

Mrs. Dorothy Lattin is leaving today for Toronto, where she will attend the annual Hairdressers' Convention at the Royal York Hotel.

Mrs. Herbert Bradburn is visiting her parents in Ottawa, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Preston.

Mrs. H. E. Connolly, King street, will be hostess tonight at a meeting of the Art Study Club. A paper on Palazzo Pitti will be presented by Miss T. Mathers, and on Donatello by Mrs. B. W. Harvey.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Winterbottom of 596 Chamberlain street have announced the engagement of their youngest daughter, Thelma, to Mr. Jack Simmons, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Simmons, 526 Romaine street. The marriage is to take place the 22nd of March.

Mrs. Gordon Matthews, president, and Miss Margaret English will receive next Saturday afternoon at the Kingsway Workers' tea and homecooking sale, which is to be held in the Green Room and Library of the Y.W.C.A. from three to six o'clock. Mrs. Thomas MacKay is in charge of arrangements.

A Girl Guide Enrollment ceremony is to be held Wednesday evening in St. Andrew's Church, and Guide mothers will be entertained during a social hour afterwards.

A general meeting of the Christian Education Council will be held in the Y.W.C.A. on Thursday evening. The council, which is an inter-denominational body, is responsible for a Summer Vacation Bible School in connection with teacher training courses and inspiration meetings for Sunday School teachers. Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe is president of the organization, and the secretary is Miss Esther J. Thornton.

The boys' and girls' committee of the Peterborough Kiwanis Club is making visits to the homes of boys and girls who attended the open air camp in Jackson Park last summer, and members will make their report on Thursday night at a meeting in the Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Leo Copp is chairman of the committee.

Mr. and Mrs. Irving Moldaver are quietly observing the second anniversary of their marriage today.

The public meeting, sponsored by the Local Council of Women, which was to have been held Thursday evening in the Canadian Legion Hall, has had to be dropped owing to unforseen circumstances and the shortness of the political campaign. The meeting had been planned by the Council in order to create a greater interest among women in the exercising of their franchise, both Liberal and Conservative candidates having been invited to present their platform. Similar meetings have been held in other cities with marked success, and it is with regret that the committee in charge here has had to cancel its plans.

Business Girls Hold "Black-Out" Bridge

A "black-out" bridge was an unusual and interesting affair of Monday evening, sponsored by the Junior Business and Professional Women's Club in their George Street Club rooms. A realistic air-raid warning was sounded several times throughout the evening, and bridge was played by the dim light of candles.

Miss M. McKercher, Miss J. Best and Miss M. Royea were in charge of bridge arrangements. Prizes were won by Miss M. Royea and Miss M. Whyte.

Among those attending were: Mrs. Girven, Mrs. R. Carney, Mrs. G. Cuff, Mrs. M. McKee, Mrs. D. Campbell, Mrs. J. M. McKercher, Mrs. W. W. Leonard, Mrs. W. J. Charleton, Mrs H. Lowes, Mrs. K. Kelso, Mrs. A McRae, and the Misses I. Skitch, M. Stanton, M. Skitch, K. Elliott, H. Miller, M. Preston, M. Easson, J. Martin, M. Edwards, A. Bennett, R. Young, M. Pinning, J. Best, M. Downing, M. Numbers Arranged By S. Northrop Program Highlight

Highlights of a delightful musical evening presented Monday in Park Street Baptist Church by the choir, assisted by Mrs. James Goldie and the Northrop String Ensemble, were two numbers arranged by the organist, Stanley Northrop, and sung with full and colorful tonal effects by the choir, "Every Day," with words by Miss Agnes Sands, was the second selection, and the first, "His Eye Is On the Sparrow," was a skillfully arranged religious number to which the finely blended voices gave an unusual beauty.

Mrs. James Goldie, whose vocal gifts are well known, as heard in two well received song groups, Ball's "In the Garden of My Heart," and "Daisies" by Hawley; Carlisle's "Sundown," and "Morning" by Speaks. In gracious response to enthusiastic applause, Mrs. Goldie sang McDowell's "To A Wild Rose."

A ladies' quartette composed of Miss Martha Sands, Miss Iva Pilling, Miss Nancy Lane and Miss Agnes Sands, sang Schubert's "The Lord Is My Shepherd" and a lilting Welsh melody, "The Ash Grove," and two groups by the Northrop String Ensemble included four selection from the ballet "La Source" (Delibes), Paderewski's "Minuet" "Valse Triste" (Sibelius), "Minuet" (Smith), "Hungarian Episode" (Bendix). The ensemble consisted of Harry Northrop at the piano; Tom Smith, 'cello; Ross Gillespie, viola, and Russ Huggins, George Gatfield, Stanley Northrop, violins.

The opening number, by the choir, was Tours' "Blessing, Glory, and Wisdom." Lee's "I Sing the Cross," by the choir, an adaptation from Londonderry Air, and Mendelssohn's "Hear My Prayer," in which the soloist, ensemble and choir joined, concluded a musical program of high quality.

Couple Honored On Anniversary

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 27 (ENS)—A number of friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Wilde on Sunday to honor the occasion of the thirty-ninth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Dalgleish, Rear Street.

The guests of honor were presented with a purse of money following which dinner was served in the dining-room, beautifully decorated with pink and white streamers and cut flowers. Mr. Dalgleish replied appropriately to the toasts drunk in his and Mrs. Dalgleish's honor.

Among the guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Clinton McComb, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Dunk, Miss Muriel Dalgleish, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Dalgleish, Peterborough, and Lionel Dalgleish, James McComb, Bob Dunk, and Clifford Cassan.

Anne Macdonald To Wed Dr. Hodge

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Macdonald of Chicago and Pinehurst, North Carolina, have announced the engagement of their youngest daughter, Miss Anne Macdonald, to Dr. Ian Hodge of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, and Toronto.

The bride-elect attended the University of Toronto, and made her debut in 1936. Dr. Hodge received his medical degree from the same university and is now connected with a Philadelphia hospital.

The wedding ceremony, which will be small, will take place on April 6, in the chapel of the Congregational Church in Winnetka, Illinois, and will be folowed by a larger reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Macdonald in Winnetka.

The Macdonald family are formerly of Peterborough, and another daughter, the former Mary Elizabeth Macdonald, is married to Hugh Franklin Waddell of this city.

Home and School Association News

KING EDWARD SCHOOL

On November 20, 1914, King Edward School Mothers' Club, held its first meeting, and in commemoration of this event, as well as Founder's Day, a splendid program was carried out last night.

With the president, Mrs. E. Chambers, presiding, the program opened appropriately by repeating the the Home and School Creed in unison.

Mrs. Parnell, president of the Home and School Council, and Mrs. Richardson, Health Convener, were welcomed as guests of the evening.

In a brief business session, plans were made to banquet the school hockey team, who are champions of the City League. A donation is also to be made to the School Milk Fund.

Reports from the secretary-treasurer show much activity on the part of this organization, while the program convener, Mrs. G. M. Wallace, gave a fine report of the programs already enjoyed and announced a special Father's meeting for March.

As a pleasing interlude in the program, Mrs. R. C. Searles sang in beautiful solo, "At Eventide," and "You and I," with violin obligato by Mr. Searles and accompanied at the piano by Mrs. A. Wedlock.

The delightful group of piano solos, including Handel's "Harmonious Blacksmith" and 'Signs of Spring," played by Miss Elsie Chambers were enjoyed.

"The Girl of To-day—The Woman of To-morrow," was the interesting theme developed by the speaker, Miss Christine Gardiner, Girls' Work Secretary of the Y.W.C.A.

Speaking particularly of the teen-age girl, Miss Gardiner referred to this as the time of great adjustments, physically, mentally and spiritually. The three greatest influences of this period should be the home, the school and the church. Each of which should help to give the girl a sense of balance and of co-operation with God.

In is increasingly important in such troubled times, that we should train our girls to meet all situations in the world of to-morrow.

An interesting panel discussion dealing with different phases of Home and School work, was presented by the following conveners: "Home Education," Mrs. Ellis; "Health," Mrs. Robertson; "Visual Aid," Mrs. Chambers; "Religion in the School," Miss C. Adams; Current Events and League of Nations, Principal H. Dearborn.

A beautiful candle-lighting ceremony, led by Mrs. Wallace, concluded this inspiring and educational program.

Assisting in the ceremony, little Margaret Heal lit the memory candle for the Founder of Home and Schools, Mrs. A. C. Courtice. The National candle was lit by Mrs. Cook; the Provincial by Miss E. Elliott, and the Local by the president, Mrs. Chambers.

During the social hour, the candles on the birthday cake, which centered the pretty tea table, were lit by Mrs. J. O. Fife, an early member, while tea was poured by two former presidents, Mrs. S. Gillespie and Mrs. H. Turner, and an efficient committee assisted in the service of refreshments.

The attendance banner was tied for by three rooms: Miss Elliott's, Miss Adams' and Mr. Dearborn's, evidencing the splendid attendance at this Founder's meeting.

We Noticed

..Shop windows throughout the town are blossoming forth with new ideas for spring, and the colors are delightfully bright . . ., refreshing splashes of color for the eye to rest upon these gloomy days when the sun refuses to shine more than a few moments at a time.

..The smartest hats are small and look like an old-fashioned garden. One adorable toque was of heaven blue (and the shade did look like a summer sky on a day full of sunshine). It had a navy grosgrain strap and a fluttering bow-like veil ...seems as if it just wouldn't be spring without a filmy veil to aid with that "fetching" appearance.

..A trim little sailor of white lace with strap and pompoms of navy would be ideal for your new tailored suit, and if you are planning to be ultra-feminine this season, we saw a dainty version of the coachman hat in navy straw trimmed with grosgrain ribbon that would top your ensemble most alluringly

...it had a crown of white anemones and was completed by a draped veil. Another fashion favorite is the pillbox...one window featured a particularly modish version in popular navy and white.

"Thinking Day" Is Observed

An impressive line-up of fifty Salvation Army and St. Andrew's Guides and Church Brownies, Cubs and Scouts filed into St. Andrew's Church Sunday morning for a special service in observance of the annual "Thinking Day," held February 22nd, when girls and young women throughout the world join spirit in a salute of friendship and co-operation.

"The Runaway Slave," a story of Philemon and Onesinus, was the subject of the address given by the pastor, Rev. Dr. E. W. Young.

Flowers on the Communion table were the gift of Mrs. Max M. Kerneghan in memory of her parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. George Evans. Mr. Evans was clerk of session for many years, and Mrs. Evans was deeply interested in every branch of the church's work.

DOROTHY DIX

No Woman in the World Is as Lonely as the One Who Has a Husband With Whom She Hasn't a Single Thought, Taste or Desire in Common.

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a widow living in a small town overrun with old maids and widows, and I want to marry. I made a mistake in my first marriage, but stuck to it until my children were grown and on their own. I have my own home and it is a nice one and I make my living by renting out rooms, but I was not intended for a business woman. I like to cook and keep house. And it is so lonely living alone. I am only 47 and when I look ahead and think that I may live to be 70 I get desperate. Life isn't worth living alone. Listening to the radio alone, going to church and the movies alone, doing everything by myself, that's what gets me. What's a woman to do in a small town in which there are only two eligible men in it and that is overflowing with lonely women? Can you tell me? LONE WIDOW

ANSWER:

I suppose that the best thing that a woman hell-bent on matrimony can do is to follow Horace Greeley's advice when he said: "Go West, young man." At least, according to statistics, there are more unmarried men in that region than anywhere else in this country, which theoretically should make it a good hunting ground for husbands.

But in honesty I am bound to warn you that this favorable state of affairs does not extend to the Pacific Coast, where every hotel and boarding house from San Francisco to the Mexican border is jam-

What Difference?

Letters written during the war of 1914-18 are being published at Washington, and they reveal that General John J. Pershing, commander of the American Expeditionary Force, was opposed to an armistice in the last days of the war. He would have preferred to have seen the Allied forces press on toward the unconditional surrender of Germany. He was certain the Allies on the Western front had an advantage of 37 per cent. over Germany in men and 35 per cent. in guns. He knew the morale of the Allies was higher than that of the Germans. For those reasons he believed it wise that the enemy should have been utterly defeated.

This is not the first time the argument has been raised. There was much written of it at the time. The morale of the Allies was well sustained, but when word came that there had been an armistice declared the entire world went wild for joy. There are plenty of people today who can recall what happened in their own communities. People could not contain themselves and they resorted to antics, parades, and what not. Men and women wept, then they shouted until they could shout no more. Others poured out prayers of thanks. The war was over and people had been longing for that very thing.

That feeling was so strong that it may have had something to do with the Armistice itself. It may have been strong enough to outweigh the contention that when they were at it the Allies should continue until Germany was ready for unconditional surrender.

Just what difference it would have made had Germany been driven to the point of unconditional surrender we do not know. Asking or suggesting that an armistice be arranged is one way of admitting defeat; being at the point of unconditional surrender is a major degree of the same condition.

It is historically true that the demands which were made on Germany and the ultimate amounts paid by Germany for war damages were as far apart as the Poles. Under the Treaty of Versailles Germany agreed to pay $31,000,000,000. A few payments were made and then stopped. France marched troops into the Ruhr to collect by way of coal, but passive resistance was the German method and that form of enforcing payment was a washout.

Then came the Dawes plan and Germany was to pay $595,000,000 annually, and these payments were made for five years, but the catch in that was that during that time Germany went into the money markets of the world and borrowed more than she was paying. In 1929 the Young plan was adopted after a meeting in Paris and Germany's indebtedness was placed at $9,000,000,000. How much of that Germany actually paid has never been plainly recorded, but the manner in which the total of 31 billions named in 1921 had sagged to 9 billions in 1929 indicates extremes which are baffling.

What would "unconditional surrender" have meant? Would the Allies then have taken possession of Germany? We think not. It must be remembered always that there was a nation of 70,000,000 people, and they would remain Germans and would have to live.

It was that undecided feeling which gave Hitler his start. He worked on the theory that Germany had not been defeated, but had been betrayed by her own leaders at the time of Versailles, and from there he undertook to rebuild the nation. He rebuilt on the plain theory that Germany was again to become so strong that she could challenge the world and occupy a greater and more dominant position than was hers prior to 1914. Whether it would have made any difference if Germany had been driven to unconditional surrender in 1914 is highly problematical in view of all that has transpired since.

We Want U.S. Dollars

Royal Canadian Mounted Police have been instructed to see that current exchange is paid on American funds tendered for settling bills in Canada, and the wonder is that there has been need for asking the police to have anything to do with it.

The plain truth is that United States money today is worth more than our own. The price varies fractionally from day to day, but for weeks it has been 10 per cent. or better. Banks and other financial institutions recognize it, and it is also accepted in the general run of business.

The Canadian who takes American money and seeks to give back change in Canadian money without making allowance for the difference is laying himself wide open for a good deal of trouble. He can be fined up to $2,000 or he may be sent to prison for as much as a year. And that is fairly stiff treatment.

We are interested in this because we want it to be known that in the tourist trade the visitor from the United States is going to be paid the premium on his money. We want him to know that all our people are willing to pay it without question. His dollar is worth $1.10 of our money at present, and when he does business with us on that basis we are losing nothing at all because one can take the U.S. funds to the bank and be credited with the larger dollar.

It is actually a simple enough process and the wonder is that there should be any squabbling over it. We want to tell people across the line to come on over for their vacations and get the advantage of the added value of the money they spend in this country. As things stand at the moment the U.S. visitor will get the premium on his money all right and people who refuse to pay it can be fined or sent to jail, but the pity is that it became necessary to make such provision before the thing was done willingly.

Cannot Pledge Candidates

"Is there anything wrong," asks a reader of the Examiner in a note sent to this office, "in drawing up a list of certain things in which a number of people believe and then submitting them to the candidates in Peterborough West? We want to know how they will vote on conscription, unemployment insurance and a number of other matters and we think it is right that we secure a pledge from the candidates before election day. I have been told it cannot be done, but I know of cases where it has been done."

Our advice is to have nothing to do with such a petition. We will go as far for sake of argument as supposing that a candidate might sign such a document. If he did so he would be in hot water from the start. He can make all the verbal statements he sees fit, but when he starts writing his name on pledges he steps directly in the way of the Elections Act which says plainly enough that the signing of anything which would interfere with his exercising freedom of action in parliament is illegal. The candidate would be liable to a fine or even imprisonment, and it might be possible that even if elected he would have to forfeit his seat in the House.

So save yourself the bother of going to a candidate with a resolution or a petition, or anything which would bind him to a certain line of action, and asking that he affix his signature to it.

When Hitler Spoke

Hitler made an address the other day, and people in England heard it. The same is true of Canada if one had a radio set which picked up the short wave. We were not warned about listening, neither were the folk in England. They could do as they liked about it. But people in Germany would not dare to listen when Prime Minister Chamberlain spoke.

Hitler said little but he took quite a time doing it. His one phrase was: "I prefer to settle these problems by peaceful understanding, but if they want force they shall have force." That was not intended to scare the outside world because it has been stated before. It was for home consumption, and to show the people of Germany that they were being attacked from the outside world when Hitler would have preferred to have settled all things in a peaceful way.

He had not a word to say about Poland, Czechoslovakia, and those small groups in Bohemia and Moravia. He had not a sentence to explain his hitch-up with Russia and the shove-off he had given to Stalin and his Red army in the murder of the Finns. No mention was made of the floating mines or the way in which German sea raiders were sinking neutral vessels.

The choice part was when Hitler mentioned the Lord God as having selected him as the agency through which to work out His plans. Candidly, and with reverence and respect, we submit that Hitler has made a mistake. He might well leave the Almighty out of it because we are certain as can be not at any time has the Fuehrer consulted with High Heaven in the framing of his policies.

New Style Of Reporting

There are some things being done these days in a way which is sufficient to make the old-time newspaper man jump up and down and say things. Like this: Word comes that another vessel has landed "at a port in England" carrying 429 Canadians—the 110th Army Co-operation Squadron of the Royal Canadian Air Force.

And on the same day there is another story telling about how the men left this country from an "Eastern Canadian Port." That's all.

The people who were at this unknown English port at which the troops landed from an unknown Canadian port, from which they sailed in an unknown vessel on an unknown date were not aware who was coming. They had to find out for themselves that the newly-landed folk were Canadians.

There used to be years ago an old rule in a good many newspaper offices, and it was founded on the letter "W." What or Who, Why, When, Where—all that information was supposed to be included in the first paragraph. And if you didn't get it all tucked away in that first paragraph the old boy on the desk would start to move around and splutter and then he'd explode. He would positively blow up.

Yet this new form of writing which is being used today in telling of the movements of troops defies every known newspaper law. There is no such thing as a scoop possible. It is writing in the dark and passing it along to your readers that way. It is possibly opening the way for your reporter of today coming to the conclusion that he can do things the same way. Yes sir—it's liable to play hob with all the old articles of faith in the newspaper business.

And yet having said all that, we are agreed that it is splendid style to adopt during war years. It is doing things as they ought to be done. There is in every situation a central idea, if people are wise enough to find it, and in the present situation it is this—that our troops leave Canada and arrive safely in England. So for the time we gladly countenance this new and strange kind of reporting even if it does leave out the Where, When, What and Why. Crossing the wide Atlantic and doing so in safety is something which the British Navy understands, and we are well satisfied to leave it that way.

Quite a System

We have rather a strange system. A prisoner in court at Hamilton admitted that in the last six weeks he had spent $200 on liquor. He was out of funds and appeared on a vagrancy charge.

The magistrate hearing the case remarked: "You just went out and got $200 worth of grief." Correct.

And so the court will have to do something about it; probably give him a sentence.

Without seeking to point a moral, and just looking at things as they are it runs this way: It is quite legal to manufacture liquor, and the Provincial Government has itself gone into the business of selling it, while the Federal Government secures a better revenue than the province through its form of taxation.

So we make it right and legal to purchase liquor, $200 in six weeks in the case of the man in Hamilton. Then we employ policemen to round up those who get soused, and we have courts where they go and find out how long they will have to stay in the jails for having spent too much money with the Government. We are not making any comment about it. Not a word—because it's hardly necessary.

NOTE AND COMMENT

There are four times as many mumps cases in Toronto as at the same time last year. And before the election campaign is over there will be plenty more sore jaws not caused by the mumps.

Chairman of the Milk Control Board says business has been placed on a sound basis. That's strange because at the back of it all is stock which has to be frequently watered.

The clerk at Bellevue, Neb., says there are $25,000 paving bonds outstanding against the municipality, and there is not a yard of paving in the place. May be, but there are several yards of bonds.

WHICH ONE?

(By A.R.K.)

¶ Old Rain Face says that Spring is near, a cheering word I love to hear, he gave me reasons why; he shook his finger as he spoke, 'twas like a piece of weathered oak, conviction in his eye.

¶ How did he know I asked of him, a signal that he might begin, and he explained the thing: he'd watched the sun ride high at noon, he'd oft at night gazed at the moon, they told of early Spring.

¶ He'd watched the bush the winter through, seen fox and rabbit, beaver too, the signs were plain to see; he noticed how the clouds had run, of signs there was an ancient one, the bark upon the tree.

¶ But Big Bear also spoke to me, and said as far as he could see, the season would be late; we'd have a lot of winter yet, what he set forth I can't forget, hard facts he had to state.

¶ He'd watched the horns upon the moon, he'd seen no groundhog tracks at noon, the ice was heavy too; there were no signals that he saw, to tell him of the coming thaw, long weeks ere winter's through.

¶ And so two prophets talked to me, on not a point could they agree, each spoke in words quite strong; I thought about the thing last night, concluded one of them was right—and so the other's wrong.

Two Veterans To Run Again At 84 and 79

PARLIAMENT'S two veterans, Robert S. White and Hon. C. H. Cahan, have again been nominated as Conservative candidates in Montreal ridings. If the Conservatives carry no other seats in Quebec they are almost certain to win St. Antoine-Westmount, which Mr. White has represented since 1925 without a break and St. Lawrence-St. George, where Mr. Cahan has also been returned continuously since 1925. Mr. White is 84 and Mr. Cahan is 79.

They are two remarkable men, whose political careers go back to the days of Sir John A. Macdonald. Mr. White is a son of Hon. Thomas White, who was minister of interior in the Macdonald Government and was looked upon as his likely successor. Hon. Mr. White founded two Ontario papers, The Peterborough Review and The Hamilton Spectator. The Spectator he sold to William Southam and then took over The Montreal Gazette along with his brother in 1870. It has been in the White family ever since. His death in 1888 was a blow to the Conservative party. He represented an Ontario riding, Cardwell, which has long since disappeared. His son Robert succeeded him as member for Cardwell in that year. He is the only member of Parliament recently dissolved, who sat in the House with the old Conservative chieftain.

Mr. White was member from 1888 to 1895. Then on the eve of the Dominion election of 1896 he accepted the post of collector for customs for Montreal. He held that position until 1917. He retired to return to his first love, newspaper work, to become editor of The Gazette. He was the very able editor until 1925. Then 30 years after his retirement from politics he re-entered public life. It was in that year, at the age of 69, that he first ran for the old seat of Westmount and was returned with a majority of over nine thousand. The rise and fall of the Conservative party has meant nothing to Mr. White's constituents. They have continued to return him with ever-increasing majorities. Now at 84 he again seeks their indorsement. It is doubtful, if, in the history of the Canadian Parliament, there has ever been a member who has sought re-election at the age of 84.

Back in the early eighties Mr. White represented The Montreal Gazette in the Press Gallery at Ottawa. He was president one year. Two notable newspapermen of today were confreres of Mr. White, J. E. Atkinson, publisher of The Toronto Star, and John W. Dafoe, editor of The Winnipeg Free Press. Mr. White is still happier in the Press Gallery than in the lobbies of Parliament. Any afternoon when Parliament is sitting and it is dull in the House you can find Mr. White reminiscing in the Press Gallery lounge room. He is, by the way, honorary president of the gallery.

HON. MR. CAHAN has marched in front rank with every Conservative leader since Confederation. He entered public life as a young man five years before the death of Sir John A. and as long ago as 1890 was elected to the Nova Scotia Legislature. He was only 29 at the time and was then on the editorial staff of The Halifax Herald. Even while a member of the Legislature he completed his law course. His ability was so outstanding that he became leader of the Conservative party in Nova Scotia within two years. He was a close friend of both Sir Charles Tupper and Sir John Thompson. When Tupper formed his Cabinet in 1896 on his appeal to the country, he invited the youthful Nova Scotian into his Cabinet, but apparently he saw the storm approaching and refused.

He retired from politics and for 13 eventful years he was a big business man operating in British Guiana, Trinidad and Mexico. He was promoter and manager of extensive tramway, electric light and hydro-electric enterprises in these countries. It was a life of business romance. Having made a fortune he returned to Montreal where he has practiced law ever since. Politics and public life always had its attractions for him. While he was not a candidate in 1911 he was one of the organizers of the party in Quebec. The story has not yet been told of his collaboration with Bourassa, which led to the loss of 28 Liberal seats in Quebec. From 1914 to 1917 he was in charge of the purchase of munitions for the Allied Governments in the United States. Then he was recalled to Canada to become director of public safety for Canada. Speaking of his experiences during the war years in the House of Commons last year, he remarked:

"Some day I shall have to take from storage some of these documents which are now deposited in a large safe in Montreal where I keep them safely and amuse the public by publishing some real detective stories dealing with my personal experiences in those year."

At the famous Conservative Winnipeg convention of 1927 Mr. Cahan was a candidate for the leadership. He was 66 at the time and the party turned to Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett. However, in 1930 when the Conservative party reached power, Mr. Cahan entered the Cabinet. Despite his long association with public life and the Conservative party he was nearly 70 before he held office. He was secretary of state. He is the father of the present Companies Act and is given credit as the man who actually wrote the Greater St. Lawrence Waterways Treaty.

Letters To The Editor

A GREAT LINE-UP

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—The planet Mercury must be looked for low, this month, near the western horizon, below which it will set soon after 7 p.m. So there is not much interval of dark in which to distinguish it. If you do see it, that makes a fifth in the line-up of naked eye planets. Venus is the brightest, Jupiter next, a few degrees lower, Saturn is higher and Mars highest. Neptune is not a naked-eye object, but is also up easterly in the evening sky.

40 CENTS IS FAIR

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—I read with some interest in the Examiner how a few ratepayers from No. 28 Highway (or Charlotte street west, as they would have it), gave the North Monaghan Council a shellacking for paying the men who laid the sewer to their doors forty cents an hour instead of thirty.

As a ratepayer of North Monaghan I'd like to give my version of it. These people on Charlotte street came to the council many times with a petition for the laying of a sewer. They pleaded for it and did everything but cry. Give us the sewer at any price, they said. The council gave them a break and put in at the lowest cost and what happens?

After the sewer is in and they are all set, they come up to the Court House and make a lot of noise for paying forty cents an hour. Do these people understand the conditions the men had to work under? Any person who would begrudge forty cents an hour for that type of work—hard labor—is very small to say the least, in my mind, the minds of the council and every fairminded ratepayer.

Let me ask would these same people do the work for thirty cents? All I am sorry for is that the leader of the council didn't stand up and defend his men as any leader is expected to do in a case like that.

Hoping to hear more on their subject.

RATEPAYER.

FROM ALDERSHOT

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—I know that you haven't heard of me but I am one of Peterborough's soldier boys. We received some Canadian newspapers with stories about what good times we were having and of all the free stuff we received upon our arrival. I don't know who wrote it but it's far from being true. Since we left Canada we received about 35 cigarettes free. That is all we received free.

There are quite a few Peterborough fellows here. I have met a lot of my old pals here within two or three blocks of my own barracks. Our main trouble is the weather here. It is not cold but it is very damp and misty. Another thing is the price of tobacco here. For 20 cigarettes it costs 28 cents, tobacco costs 25 to 35 cents an ounce. Another little matter is this heating system we have here. Central heating is one open fireplace (a small one) in a room bigger than your front office or printing room.

I would like you to thank, for me, the I.O.D.E. for sending me the parcel. It was greatly appreciated. I wish the Peterborough Collegiate Cadet Corps the best of luck this year I was a member of it when I was there and hope it is the best this year. Well on behalf of the Peterborough fellows we wish the Prince of Wales Rangers the best of luck.

• All Newspapers At Least 40 Yrs. Old

THERE is not in existence in Canada today an English-speaking newspaper which was not in existence at the beginning of the century—40 years ago. That amazing statement is made by the Sydney Post-Record. We quote:

The disappearance from the field of Canadian Journalism of the Regina Daily Star, leaves only three publishers of daily papers in business in Saskatchewan,—a Province with a population of approximately 1,000,000 people. In each case, however, the remaining dailies appear in both morning and evening editions, and, being high-class papers, give an excellent service to the whole Province. The Regina Leader-Post, the Saskatoon Star-Phoenix, and the Moose Jaw Times, take creditable rank with the best dailies that are published in Western Canada. The Regina and Saskatoon papers are Sifton publications, while the Moose Jaw Times is owned and conducted by Thomas Miller, one of the ablest and most highly regarded of Canadian Journalists.

The Regina Star was established in 1928, and had barely completed its twelfth year when it succumbed to the difficulties and economic problems which had confronted it from the very outset. An evening paper, it claimed political independence, as do nearly all Western papers with varying degrees of justification, but, as a matter of fact, it was the only daily in Saskatchewan that was owned by Conservatives, and gave more or less support to the Conservative party both federally and provincially.

The chief reason the Star never achieved a permanent radius, was that it represented a new adventure, in a field already amply served by a paper which had been in existence for more than forty years, and which was conducted by able and skilled newspapermen. Nothing has been more frequently demonstrated in the newspaper business than the difficulty,—to express it no more strongly,—of dislodging a publication which has once got command of a "trading area," by a rival which has subsequently appeared in the same field.

In point of fact, there is not in existence anywhere in Canada today a single English-language daily newspaper, which was not in existence before the beginning of this century. The morning News-Herald of Vancouver is only an exception insofar as its name is concerned, for it is in reality the co-operatively-run successor of a paper which had previously found the going too hard in that city and the News-Herald has yet to find its feet.

With this single reservation,—for it can hardly be called an exception,—every attempt made to start a daily paper since 1900 has resulted in failure. And there have been not a few such attempts. Moreover, failures, suspensions and mergers have reduced by over 30 the number of Canadian dailies since the last war.

Nor is the reason far to seek. Canada is a country of vast extent, with a relatively small and, for the most part, a widely scattered population, and these conditions make the publication and distribution of a daily paper on economically or profitably.

Nevertheless there are still over 100 dailies in Canada, with its population of 11,000,000 people,—at least 30 more than are published in the United Kingdom, with a population of approximately 45,000,000. No country in the world—not even excepting the United States,—has more newspapers percapita of its population than the Dominion of Canada. And, it may be added as an unchallenged fact, nowhere else are the people better served by their daily and weekly press.

CASE OF THE ALTMARK

NORWAY, of course, is protesting with all her power—with one eye on Germany, she has to. The Germans, of course, are protesting with all their power, hurling threats at the Norwegians and imprecations at the "law-breaking" British. But one really doubts that any one outside of Germany is going to be profoundly shocked, or that Norway is going to be forced into the war as a result. Perhaps the Cossack's exploit was not exactly a help toward the ultimate rule of international law; but having granted that, many Americans, listening to the German outcries and remembering how little help that nation has given toward the reign of law, may not repress a sardonic smile.—New York Herald Tribune.

A NOTED PRECEDENT

Just as well when considering the proposed St. Lawrence waterway scheme estimates to remember that in practically all such jobs, the original estimates have been greatly exceeded. For instance, the Welland canal was estimated to cost $50,000,000, but, actually the final cost was $133,000,000.—Niagara Falls Review.

POLITICAL SACRIFICE

(Toronto Telegram)

To win the war, Mr. Hepburn's ministers stand ready for any sacrifices. They even urge support for a federal government in which they have no confidence.

THE GROUCHERS

SINCE WAR began there has been altogether too much criticism of the Government. Complaints about the things our rulers have done, moaning about the things they have left undone, have filled the space between earth and heaven. Many of these lamentations, it is true have a basis of justification. But too much attention has been paid to the petty misdemeanors of the Government and too little credit awarded to their steady and immense achievements. Citizens here are too ready to lie back and blame the Government for all their ills instead of exerting themselves and setting right matters which lie within their own control.—London Sunday Express.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

And it shall come to pass in the last days, that the mountain of the Lord's house shall be established in the top of the mountains, and shall be exalted above the hills; and all nations shall flow unto it. And many people shall go up and say, Come ye, and let us go up into the mountain of the Lord, to the house of the God of Jacob; and he will teach us of his ways, and we will walk in his paths: for out of Zion shall go forth the law, and the word of the Lord from Jerusalem.

And he shall judge among the nations, and shall rebuke many people: and they shall beat their swords into ploughshares, and their spears into pruninghooks: nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more. O house of Jacob, come ye, and let us walk in the light of the Lord.—Isa. ii, 2-5.

FLORIDA FEARS

THE NEW WAVE of prosperity in Florida has genuinely disturbed the state's banks, conservative realtors, and wealthy property owners. The trend has caused them to fear that small investors will start haywire speculation in real estate, resulting in another speculative boom—and subsequent collapse. Now several groups are laying plans to head off such a development. They will probably have the state realtors' association pass a resolution condemning speculation. They are also talking of stricter licensing of real estate men and a widespread educational campaign. On proposal is to have the American Banker publish a manual giving the exact facts about property in every important Florida community.—Newsweek.

BRITAIN'S "P. M. G."

ALTHOUGH he is not often in the limelight, Major G. C. Tryon, the Postmaster-General, has actually held Ministerial office longer than any other M.P. since the Great War. Now his forthcoming retirement is being discussed in Westminster.

He first took office in 1919 as Under-Secretary for Air, and, except for a two years' interval, from 1929 to 1931, he has been in harness ever since.

Major Tryon's father, Vice-Admiral Sir George Tryon, was lost in the disastrous collision between the Victoria and the Camperdown in the Mediterranean 47 years ago.

2 Trappers Held For Theft In Bancroft Area

BANCROFT, Feb. 27.— (ENS) — Acting on a complain from Harold and James Elliott, sons of Thomas Elliott of West Huntingdon, who are jobbing for G. N. Jones of Bancroft, in Bruten township, Provincial Constable Palmateer and Game Overseer Inwood of Combermere drove by car Saturday morning into the Bruten Lumber Camps. From there they snowshoed a distance of seven miles to Big Rainy Lake to the camp of Curtis Helmer, 31, of Madawaska and George Saunders, 27, of Lake St. Peter who were trapping in that vicinity.

Helmer and Saunders were accused of stealing blankets, camp utensils, saws, etc. from the camp of the Elliott boys. Upon questioning both Helmer and Saunders are said to have admitted stealing goods on February 17 and produced the stolen articles from their hiding place. Provincial Constable Palmateer immediately placed both men under arrest.

Some difficulty was experienced on the homeward journey as Boulder Lake which constituted a part of the winter draw road was flooded badly due to the weight of the logs which were dumped there.

During the homeward trek from camp to car the officers had the thrill of hearing the wails of timber wolves. Helmer and Saunders were lodged in Bancroft jail Saturday night and were later remanded for trial which will take place at a later date.

Beth Shannick, 4-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Shannick was operated on for appendicitis in the Red Cross Hospital Thursday night.

Mrs. William Plumley received word Wednesday night of the death of her mother, Mrs. William Hillis, who was a patient in the Nicholls Hospital, Peterborough. Mrs. Plumley left by train Thursday morning for Wilberforce where she attended her mother's funeral which took place Saturday afternoon.

Mr. Alex Wadsworth who was severely injured last Wednesday evening by a falling tree, is now in Bancroft Hospital. His condition has not changed much since admittance but there is considered a chance for his recovery.

The ladies of Bancroft chapter 157, O.E.S. held a quilting in the Chapter Room Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. Rorke Ferguson, M.P. for Hastings-Peterborough riding was a visitor in Bancroft Thursday last.

The ladies of St. Paul's United church held a cafeteria tea in the basement of their church Friday evening.

Mrs. G. E. Towle who spent last week in Toronto returned home Friday evening accompanied by Mr. Towle who returned to Toronto Sunday eveping.

A quiet wedding was solemnized Saturday afternoon Feb. 24 at the home of Mrs. David Watson when her youngest daughter Effie was united in marriage to Mr. Thomas Card, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Card.

Mr. Herman Maxwell met with a very painful accident Friday night when he slipped and fell fracturing his ankle.

Mr. James Kirk of Toronto has been busily engaged the latter part of the week transporting the steam shovel, which had been used by Curran and Briggs Construction Company in the building of the Bancroft-Peterborough Highway, from its storage on the Paudash Lake Road to Bancroft for shipment by train.

Bancroft received a snowfall of about four inches on Saturday, storming the whole day and winter seems to have again reached its former ruggedness as Monday morning's thermometer reading was 30 below zero.

CLIMAX TO ESCAPE

Sign Of Weakness

Zurich, Switzerland, Feb. 27 (CP-Havas).

THE Swiss newspaper Neue Zuercher Zeitung to-day saw in Germany's threatening attitude toward neutrals a lack of assurance in her ability to win the war.

"In most German press attacks," the newspaper said, "may be divined a susceptibility not in harmony with the self-confidence of a powerful nation which daily proclaims its certitude of victory —or at least tries to publicize the idea of such certitude."

5 Ontario Meets Then East For Manion

FORT WILLIAM, Feb. 27 (CP)— After Conservative leader Manion completed five speeches in his own district here Monday, his campaign schedule calls for five speeches in Ontario before spending a week swinging through the Maritimes and Quebec.

From here, he goes to Sault Ste. Marie for night meeting Wednesday. Then he addresses a Toronto luncheon Friday noon and a Niagara Falls meeting that night. Saturday he speaks in Oshawa in the afternoon and Belleville at night. Proceeding then to Ottawa for three days' rest.

Leaving Ottawa Wednesday morning, March 6, he speaks in Sherbrooke that night, at Saint John night of March 7, Charlottetown night of March 8, Halifax night of March 9, Quebec March 11 at night, Montreal March 12 at night.

He plans to spend the last two weeks of his campaign in Ontario.

OBITUARY

MRS. CHARLES LAWSON.

MOUNT PLEASANT, Feb. 27. — (ENS).—The village of Orland and surrounding community received a great shock when Liza McIvor, beloved wife of Charles Lawson, passed away suddenly at her home in Orland, after only a few hours' illness.

The late Mrs. Lawson suffered a heart attack on Wednesday afternoon and passed away on Thursday morning.

Mrs. Lawson was twice married, her former husband was the late Isaac Harper of Otonabee township. She was one of a family of ten children, of which only three now survive.

Two years ago she married Mr. Lawson. Her death is a sad blow, coming at a time when Mr. Lawson's only son is in a hospital in Toronto and his daughter-in-law is in Belleville hospital.

The funeral was held on Saturday afternoon from the church at Orland, the remains being carried from the home to the church. A testimony of the esteem in which she was held throughout the district was evident at the service. Friends and relatives filled the edifice, paying their last respects.

The service was conducted by Rev. A. Bennett (a former pastor) of Castleton, assisted by Rev. M. Cook.

The Rev. Mr. Bennett accompanied the remains to the grave at Welcome cemetery.

The honorary pallbearers were Mr. J. H. Paul and Mr. Kemp. Acting pallbearers were a son, Howard Harper, three sons-in-law, Thomas Nurse, Oscard Reid, and Delbert Sine, two nephews, Wilfred Reynolds and Raymond Kemp.

Left to mourn her loss, besides her husband and niece, Ruby Kemp, are an only son, Howard Harper of Otonabee; and four daughters, Mrs. T. Nurse (Nellie) of Peterborough; Mrs. Oscar Reid (Mary), South Monaghan; Mrs. Delbert Sine (Gladys), of Harold; and Mrs. George Welch of Peterborough; two sisters, Mrs. J. H. Paul of Ida; Mrs. Wm. Gray of Cavan and one brother, Thomas McIvor, of Peterborough.

First Squadron Of Canada's Air Armada Arrives In England

The first fighting unit of the R.C.A.F. to arrive in England on active service, the 110th Army Co-operation Squadron landed at an unnamed English port and entrained for a training base in the South of England. As the transport neared the dock, civilian onlookers heard the Canadian voices and shouted "It's more Canucks, God bless them." The 110th is pictured, ABOVE, as they left an Atlantic seaport for their epic voyage to England. Squadron Leader W. B. Van Vliet of Winnipeg, O.C. of the Squadron, is pictured, TOP LEFT, as he supervised the entraining of his men for their trip to their sailing point. Drawn from all parts of the Dominion, members of the 110th are pictured, TOP RIGHT, aboard their transport ship. Final farewells were said to the departing squadron, LOWER LEFT, at Ottawa where final training had been completed. Fur caps were replaced by field service caps, LOWER RIGHT, as the squadron entrained for active service overseas.

packed with women, whose ages range from the cradle to the grave, all dolled up in their best and all looking for the men who have apparently fled to the wide open spaces and taken to cover. All of this I can testify to, for I have seen it with my own eyes.

I confess that I am never so filled with awe and admiration of the hopeless optimism of my sex regarding marriage as I am when I get a letter like this one from "Lone Widow." So many of them, like her, have had bitter experiences of husbands who knocked them about; who were grouchy and about as pleasant to live with as a fretful porcupine; who were too lazy to work and support them; who were drunkards; who were unfaithful. Yet in spite of the awful warnings they have had they are crying to put their necks in the noose again.

And their universal excuse is that they are lonely. Suffering cats! Wouldn't you think a woman who had had that kind of a husband would just eat up loneliness? That she would love it, adore it, exult in it, and that every day of her life she would thank heaven on her bended knees that she didn't have to wait up at night to let a soused man in who couldn't find the keyhole, or that nobody had the right to swear at her, or find fault with the cooking, or ask her what she did with the quarter he gave her back out of her pay envelope last week?

Believe it or not, no woman in the world is as lonely as the one who has a husband with whom she hasn't a single thought or taste or desire in common, who doesn't even speak her language.

But, such is the triumph of hope over experience in women's breasts, no matter what kind of a husband No. 1 was, the widow expects No. 2 to be a paragon, even though he is a mail-order husband. She is sure that he will be handsome and young and rich, and, above all, a fascinating and interesting companion who will be ready either to sit at home and entertain her or step out with her as she so desires.

Such men are as rare as hens' teeth, and not many of these glamor boys are seeking middle-aged widows with children and without money for wives. So my advice to these lonely ones is to put aside their romantic dreams and devote the energy and enterprise they have wasted in pursuit of the elusive male to their jobs. It will pay far better dividends, and no woman who is putting all of her heart and her back and her interest into making a success of some business will be lonely. She won't have time to be. She will be too busy keeping an eye on her job to be on the lookout for Prince Charmings.

Problem of Know-It-All Wife

Dear Dorothy Dix—I am 21 and have been married three years. All my life I have had my way about everything, but I have retained a nice disposition, although I do have quite a temper, especially toward my husband. My problem is this: Should I give in to my husband when I know I am right and humble myself to him? Or should I continue making him do as I want him to do? He doesn't seem to mind it and I have seen so many cases of women suffering terribly because they did not humble themselves to their husbands. What is your viewpoint on ths queston?

MRS. McC.

ANSWER:

Evidently you are one of the women, and there are plenty of them, who are pleasant so long as everything goes their way, but when anything crosses them it is another story. Then they turn into viragoes and say cruel and bitter things that they expect everyone to forgive and forget as soon as they have spit out all of the venom that is in them.

Also, according to your own account, you are one of the wives who know it all and are always right and who are bent and determined on making their husbands do their way. How does it happen that you are so sure that you are incarnate wisdom? And especially why do you think that you are so much more competent to decide every question than your husband is? Did you marry an imbecile? And haven't you occasionally in your life made a mistake?

Think it over and perhaps you will be willing to make a few concessions. My viewpoint is that you have got the whole relationship between husband and wife wrong. In the first place, you are dominating your husband, and that will kill not only his love for you but yours for him, because no wife has any respect for the man she henpecks and no man but resents it.

In the second place, you make your husband the scapegoat for your temper, and unless he is an he-angel he will eventually flee from your tongue to some woman who has honey on her lips. And, in the third place, no one can possibly be right on every subject, and when a husband and wife discuss the topics that are vital to them it is no humiliation to her to admit it when she is wrong or accept her husband's point of view.

Better face about and change your philiscphy of marriage before it is too late.

Must Be Ace Train Hopper in Finland Front-Bound War Writers Find

By WADE WERNER
(Associated Press Staff Writer.)

HELSINKI, Feb. 27 — (AP). — This correspondent has just returned from the front north-east of Lake Ladoga and must admit that it was comparatively relaxing after the experience of getting there in good bombing weather.

Six of us left Helsinki by train. An hour later, just as some of us had taken off our shoes, the first air raid alarm came, and we all tumbled out into the snow.

No bombs. We climbed back aboard, but when we reached the next station the town was burning after a heavy bombing.

Three of our number finally arrived at Sortavala, 175 miles from Helsinki, 33 hours after our departure. Another and I arrived after 45 hours, including eight hours of jumping into snowy woods and two hours of dodging bombs. The sixth member of the party arrived after 55 hours.

Normally this journey should have been an easy, comfortable overnight jaunt.

Illogically one's first impulse is to blame the railroads, but on second thought one realizes it is a wonder that the railways keep running at all.

A Sprinter, Too.

The war correspondent must be an athlete—a good jumper on and off of trains and a sprinter into the woods when the situation demands.

After six or seven sprints into the woods, there was an alarm on our train at 2 a.m.

"Take your choice, lads, the woods or the train," said a compassionate conductor. One whiff of the Arctic breeze outside, and I chose to cling to my seat in the warm train. So did most of the Finns.

When it comes to running the gauntlet on a heavy bombing day, I prefer a motorbus. But even this can be uncomfortable.

Coming back from the Karelian Isthmus front on a bus recently, we ran into air raid alarms almost the entire distance.

We arrived at one town just after its centre had been blown to bits. Between stretches of forest, the driver would step on the gas, racing across the clearings like a hare pursued by hounds.

Winter driving is difficult, and it is a marvellous chauffeur who does not land his car in snowdrifts at least two or three times on a trip.

The planetary configurations ruling this day emphasize personal rather than business activities. It is probable that social, domestic or romantic engagements, or those business interests connected therewith, may be uppermost, possibly causing some sore of suprising and dramatic upheaval. If this sudden visitation is diplomatically handled, with strategy or cleverness, there may be much pleasure and gratification. The mind is well poised to grapple with intriguing situations, however, thrilling or novel.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year in which their tact, shrewdness, and mental stability will enable them to meet an unforeseen and exciting trend of events in which social, emotional or romantic angles are stressed. This dramatic or intriguing situation may demand a sudden disruption of current affairs, which, if shrewdly handled, may culminate in great satisfaction and solid benefits as well. Use tact and compromise rather than force.

Future Chapter

Moscow, Feb. 27 (AP)

WAR between the United States and Europe is a future chapter of the capitalist world, the government newspaper Isvestia predicted today.

"In the meantime," it said, "conflict is raging on world markets where America is victorious and has succeeded also in exacting from Europe a colossal gold indemnity without conducting real war."

Isvestia said the United States' successes had caused a fiercer economic struggle among European countries and that had precitated the war.

53 Independents In Alberta Seek 42 Seats

EDMONTON, Feb. 27 (CP)—Withdrawal of the Liberal candidate for March 21 Alberta general election in Clover Bar constituency today left only one constituency in the province where both Liberal and Independent candidates are in the field.

Announcing the withdrawal of M. G. Christie as Liberal standard-bearer in Clover Bar, Gerald O'Connor of Edmonton said St. Albert was the only riding where a Liberal and an Independent are runing. He said he believed the situation in St. Albert would be "adjusted very shortly."

Officials of the unity movement announced A. Crowther, Liberal candidate in Beaver River, is expected to switch to the Independent slate in the "next two or three days" and J. H. Tremblay, Liberal in Grouard, would not be opposed because of amalgamation of various parties opposing Social Credit. Mr. Tremblay now is overseas with the Canadian Active Service Force.

Leaders of both the "old line" parties are runing under the Independent banner — E. L. Gray, Liberal leader, in Bow-Valley-Empress as an Independent; D. M. Duggan, Conservative chief in Edmonton on the Citizens' Slate.

53 for 42 Ridings.

So far 53 Independents are running in 42 ridings, seven running on the citizens' slate in Edmonton and six on the citizens' slate in Calgary. Edmonton and Calgary are five-member constituencies.

In five ridings neither Liberal nor Independent nominees have been chosen. Beaver River and Grouard complete the total of 49 ridings.

Nominated to date besides the 53 Independents are 31 Co-operative Commonwealth Federation candidates, 3 Liberals, 25 Social Crediters, five Independent - Progressive; four Labor, Two Communists, and one each United-Progress and United Workers' Alliance candidate, for a total of 125.

The Liberal Provincial Executive granted constituency organizations the right to decide whether to join in supporting candidates opposed to Social Credit or run a straight Liberal, but no statement clarifying the position of the Leader of the party running as an Independent has been issued by Mr. Gray. The Conservative Party decided some time ago to join solidly with the Independent movement.

He contested the seat unsuccessfully in 1935 when A. A. Heaps, Co-operative Commonwealth Federation, was elected.

Nazi Scuttlers Are Foiled, Freighter Taken

LONDON, Feb. 27 (CP) — The German freighter Wahehe, 4,707 tons, which attempted to run the British blockade from Vigo, Spain, to her home port, today was brought to a British port by a warship which foiled a scuttling attempt.

The Wahehe was listed officially as the 24th German vessel captured during the war and increased the total captured tonnage to 98,200. In addition, 28 German ships totalling 152,891 tons are listed as destroyed by scuttling, or other causes.

Six German ships were reported Feb. 13 to have left Spain in attempts to run the blockade to Germany. Two have been captured, and another, the Orizaba, was reported last night to have sunk after striking a shoal near Hammerfest, Norway.

The British steamship Clan Morrison, 5,936 tons, out of Glasgow, hit a mine and went down in the North Sea, it was announced today.

Survivors of the vessel were landed at an east coast port on Sunday. One Lascar seaman was lost and 15 others were injured.

One officer was buried beneath the debris caused by the explosion and members of the crew worked for half an hour to extricate him. He was injured seriously. The survivors took to three lifeboats and were later picked up by rescue vessels.

The Clan Morrison, owned by the Clan Steamers, Ltd., carried 15 officers and a Lascar crew.

Low Toll For Week

British and neutral shipping losses for the week ending Sunday night were reported as the lowest of any week in the war. Four British ships of 17,776 tons and three neutrals of 8,850 tons were reported sunk.

The report was in contrast with the previous week, in which losses of five British and 15 neutral ships, with total tonnage of 86,077, were the war's highest for one week.

Submarines were blamed for only one sinking last week, compared with 74,534 tons of the previous week's losses.

In addition to the Clan Morrison, the week's British losses were given as the British Endeavour, Royal Archer and Loch Maddy; and neutrals as the Tara and Petten of the Netherlands, and Santos of Sweden.

Three ships sunk the previous week also were named: the Steindstad of Norway, Denhaag of the Netherlands, and Aase of Denmark.

Average weekly loss of British and neutral shipping since the war began Sept. 3 was placed at 13 ships of 43,700 tons.

In this riding and everywhere veterans of the last Great War are flocking to the Manion standard. That is not to be wondered at for in the present conflict the attitude of the King government has made the ex-service man the forgotten man of this new war. Their offers of service have received nothing but the cold shoulder and the minister who made such a mess of preparing for the current war that he had to be removed from the defence portfolio, is considered quite good enough to be placed in charge of the pensions of the men who fought in the last war.

Dr. Manion, himself a veteran of 1914-1918, has promised to make full use of the voluntary services of veterans. That is why they are with him in the present campaign.

Because they have nothing to hope for from the King government they are voting for a national administration.

Y.M.C.A. Plans To Spend $1,038,000 In War Services In 16 Months

OTTAWA, Feb. 27 — (CP). —National Council officials of the Y.M.C.A., after checking figures on the "Y" $1,038,000 war services budget for the first 16 months of the war, today gave a general outline of how this money is to be spent.

In making this expenditure break down public, Harold M. Long, Montreal, joint campaign chairman, said the total was reached after long study of a complete and detailed report submitted by Major J. W. Beaton, senior "Y" officer for war services, following his return from Great Britain and France.

The $1,038,000, to be used by the "Y" exclusively for services to the military, air and naval forces in Canada, Great Britain and the war zone, is the objective of the Association's first wartime national appeal next April.

To Operate Huts

In general terms, the wartime budget to the end of December, 1940, is made up as follows: Canadian Y.M.C.A. war services, in Canada, including construction and equipment of Red Triangle Club huts in training camps, operation of huts in large centres, services to soldiers in "Y" buildings, athletic equipment, stationery, reading material and other supplies for soldiers' use, air force and air training centres and supplies for soldiers' use, air force and air training centres and supplies, Halifax Hostel purchase and operation, $508,000.

Canadain war services in Great Britain, including construction and equipment of Red Traingle huts, cost of operation of the Beaver Club in London, furnishings for regimental institutes at Aldershot, information centres, athletic equipment and supplies, stationery, reading material and other supplies for soldiers, entertainment, picture shows, concert equipment, $265,000.

In the theatre of war with the Canadian Active Service Force wherever it may be assigned to action including huts, mobile tea vans, supplies for distribution to soldiers, sports equipment, entertainment, $240,000.

Payment to the British Y.M.C.A., for services and equipment far exceeding this amount, advanced to the Canadian "Y" on the arrival of the First Canadian Division, $25,000.

Machine-Gunners Support Advancing Infantry

Ambitious Program Is Launched By Salvation Army War Services

By HAROLD FAIR
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

LONDON, Feb. 26.—(CP).— The Salvation Army has resumed its work of giving a helping hand to Canada's soldiers and providing them with comforts such as it did the soldiers in the First Great War.

Five picked men from the organization have been attached to the First Division of the Canadian Active Service Force and work under the direction of Major Alfred Steele, a Salvation Army Brigadier in Toronto before the war broke out. His "base" is a small office near Trafalgar Square.

The Salvation Army war services —a purely Canadian undertaking which depends on the people of Canada for support—launched an ambitious program for the troops' benefit. It involves establishment of hostels, club rooms, religious services, entertainment, sports and information offices at two London stations.

Chaplain In Last War.

Major Steele, chaplain with the 19th Infantry Battalion in the 1914-18 struggle, came to Britain with the first flight of the C.A.S.F. to set the machine going. He was followed by the five men who held various ranks in the Salvation Army and were appoited to divisional units.

They are: R. W. Gage of Toronto, 1st Infantry Brigade; William Jolly of Toronto, 2nd Infantry Brigade; J. B. Meakings of Portage La Prairie, Man., 3rd Infantry Brigade; G. Pilfroy of Halifax, Royal Canadian Army Service Corps, and H. Wollman of London, Ont., with the Division Forces.

The Salvattion Army took over and equipped four buildings at Aldershot as recreational centres, arranged with the British Salvation Army for use of four hostels by Canadian troops on leave and now is negotiating for a large hotel to be used exclusively as a Canadian hostel. It will accommodate a minimum of 200 men and will be within easy reach of men arriving from France on leave.

Major Steele said his organization has no canteens in England—except three mobile ones which supply free tea and biscuits to men on training exercises — but will have them in France "right up to the firing line."

Four Libraries

He reported establishment of four central libraries, each containing 500 books, and that a supply of magazines had been made available to the soldiers.

Entertainment has a prominent part in the Salvation Army's program. Each of the five officers has been supplied with a movie outfit and in addition arrangements were made for concert groups to entertain the troops.

Religious services have been conducted by the officers each Sunday in the huts. Generally a piano is available but if it isn't, the problem is easily overcome because each officer is an accomplished musician and plays other instruments.

The army sports program also is extensive. Sports equipment was supplied the officers and each is arranging sporting events within his unit.

Another aspect of the work concerns family welfare. The Salvation Army receives inquiries from families in Canada regarding the health of the men and separation allowances. Major Steele said the Army has co-operated with the Canadian Legion in most cases affecting questions resulting from pensions and separation allowances.

CAMPBELLFORD

Decrease In Rate Is Not Expected

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 27. — (ENS).—At a special meeting of the council called for the purpose of discussing the annual budget it was believed unlikely that there would be a further cut in the tax rate here this year. "I'd certainly like to see it kept the same as last year, 46½ mills, and the only way this can be done is by every department cutting their expenses to the bone," Mayor Long said. Though the meeting was called to hear estimates from committee chairmen, not all were prepared to present an accurate account of what they would need. Councillor MacMillan, chairman of the Road and Bridge Committee, declared money might be saved by not oiling the streets from curb to curb this year. An accurate estimate of what would have to be done on the roads could not be made until spring, he stated, also pointing out that a sidewalk on Alma Street would have to be repaired during the coming summer.

A delegation representing the interests of a locally owned hall claimed that the present license fee charged by council was prohibitive and asked that they consider its revision. On motion the matter was left with the solicitor for his recommendation. A joint meeting of the Council and Water and Light Commission was set for February 28th, when it is expected council will learn definitely what grant will be made available to them by the Utilities this year. According to council whether or not the tax rate remains unchanged rests largely with the Commission from whom they are hoping for the same grant as they received in 1939.

rants to provide one province with relief funds. Yet, he said, such methods would be necessary to finance relief until the new parliament can assemble, because of the Prime Minister's action in dissolving parliament when he did.

The party leader spoke eight times in his home constituency, Fort William, where he will seek election at the general pooling March 26. In the last parliament he represented London, being returned in a by-election there after being named Conservative chieftain.

Need Unity Not Wedge.

The first duty of a public man in Canada is to keep this country together and conscription would split it down the middle, Dr. Manion said at Kakabeka Falls.

"It's no use trying to put in something that would break Canada into pieces, for we need a united Canada now more than ever," he told a supporter who advocated conscription.

From his observations on an election tour of Western Canada in the last two weeks he concluded, he said that "conscription would be beaten on a vote in Western Canada as in some other places."

Dr. Manion declared he was opposed to conscription also because it was both unnecessary and ineffective. In the first Great War Canada enlisted 600,000 men in the armed forces but only 10,000 were conscripted, he said, quoting Major-General A. G. L. MacNaughton as authority.

Dr. Manion quoted Quebec press reports of speeches by Liberal Cabinet Ministers in the last five years declaring opposition to Canadian participation in external wars, which pledges he said, had been forsaken.

He charged Prime Minister Mackenzie King and Justice Minister Lapointe with talking national unity while trying to stir up disunity between Quebec and the rest of Canada "for petty political purposes."

The conscription issue was raised again when the meeting was thrown open to questions and a war veteran "challenged" Dr. Manion or the Prime Minister to raise more than 200,000 soldiers without conscription. "I have a son and I won't let him go to war without conscription. We want fair play and equality," the veteran said.

Foreigners Get Jobs.

Dr. Manion firmly told the questioner he was making the speeches there, then explained the effect of conscription in the last war.

"He's a good Conservative. Lots of us feel the same way," said a woman in another part of the hall, complaining against the possibility of foreign-born taking the jobs as voluntary recruiting went on.

"We didn't have an anti-conscription league in the last war," added the veteran, holding up a circular letter bearing a Toronto address. "If the man who wrote this was here I'd strangle him."

"You can blame that sort of thing on Mr. King," Dr. Manion answered, "It's his government that has discouraged enlistment. In the last war, everybody was encouraging enlistment."

The treatment of men who were first accepted, after giving up their jobs, and then discharged for medical reasons, the handling of allowances, the lack of preparation, all helped discourage enlistment, Dr. Manion said.

If there were not enough men in the forces, it was not because men were not offering themselves but because they were being discouraged from enlisting, he added.

The circular letter described the "no conscription league" as a means of providing "all those forces in Canada who are opposed to conscription an opportunity for co-ordinated expression of their viewpoint." It proposed to organize opinion supporting the attitude expressed "by all leading figures in the Dominion House of Commons who have announced that they do not intend nor do they see the need for, the introduction of the conscription method in Canada."

The organization's executive was described as "representative of the major youth organizations in this city, with the exception of the Young Communist League, as you will readily understand the necessity of avoiding any suspicion that the no conscription league is under the influence of any foreign power."

Steve Pearce, 42 Rosevale Avenue, Toronto, was mentioned as president of the organization.

Dr. Manion attacked the Montreal paper, Le Canada, from which he quoted parts of two speeches, as "a vile organ down in Quebec which lies about me at every turn of the wheel."

He claimed Mr. King and Mr. Lapointe were playing in Quebec "cheap party politics as they have always played it," but they were not going to play it this time without being told about it.

sary. But sirens sounded just before dawn at the approach of the larger German force.

It was a Spring-like evening in Paris when the first two planes appeared, and numerous Parisians calmly sipped their wine at sidewalk cafes, or hung out apartment windows, or stood on the sidewalks to watch the play of the searchlights against the starlit night.

Radio Shuts Down

The cannonading was heard first to the east, then it spread in volume around the city. Radio stations shut down lest their broadcasts guide the attackers. The last previous air raid alarm came November 23.

Throughout the alarm, policemen continued at their posts, directing traffic.

Today, authorities took note of Parisians' behavior and issued a notice reminding civilians to take shelter upon hearing anti-aircraft guns. Even if no bombs fall, there is danger from falling shells or shell fragments from anti-aircraft batteries.

The night brought a change in the weather, with low-lying clouds and a drizzling rain. No planes were heard directly over the city, nor was any firing noted during the period of alarm.

Whether the show of German force was simply a reply to recent British flights deep into Germany, or meant the start of more serious activity, remained to be seen.

The Germans also were reported in flight deep over Eastern, Northern and Northwestern France, with squadrons crossing the frontier and fanning out in various directions.

In contrast to the stir in the air, the Western Front was reported quiet. This morning's communique said: "A quiet night on the whole front."

other production costs made the 70-cent minimum too low.

Mr. Coldwell described Canada's war regulations as "unBritish and undemocratic" because they allow authorities to detain persons without trial. The government should make new provisions for the post-war periods, he saiad in discussing the effect of the war on Canadian economy.

Soldiers overseas with the Canadian Active Service Force should be given an agreement binding the Federal government to provide adequately for their dependents should they be killed or for the men themselves until they are absorbed permanently into civil life following the conflict.

The Real Reason?

Claiming it was not the Ontario Legislature's motion of censure, but the 69 motions and resolutions that the Conservative Opposition had filed that caused Prime Minister King to dissolve Parliament, M. A. MacPherson, former Attorney-General of Saskatchewan, opened a tour of Ontario at Galt.

He charged the Dominion government had deliberately falsified the records by failing to print motions and resolutions filed by the Opposition prior to the opening of Parliament and issued a blank page instead. He criticized the King government's attitude in 1935 in rejecting a British government proposal for an Empire training scheme.

Mr. MacPherson said the Prime Minister was trying to draw a red herring across the trail of domestic problems for the past five years, during which he had pursued a policy of drifting, and was trying to make people forget promises of the past. He said war issues obscure all others at this time and that the people of Canada have but one common purpose, whether they are Liberal or Conservative, and that is to prosecute the war to a successful conclusion. He charged that Canadians who are in uniform have entered the service despite the government, and not because of it.

Discussing the commonwealth air training plan, Mr. MacPherson compared Mr. King's attitude with his reception in 1935 of the proposed International St. Lawrence waterway plan and the proposed U. S. Alaska highway through British Columbia. "Mr. King doesn't hesitate about agreements with the United States," he said.

No Trust For Britain.

"Mr. King trusts the U. S. where he doesn't trust Britain," Mr. MacPherson added.

Canada's present war costs are much higher than the first Great War because the 1914-18 effort was almost entirely manpower while this time it is men and machines, finance minister Ralston said at Ottawa in an election speech over the national network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

Division this time costs probably twice as much at least as in the last war, he said. The estimates for Canada's Militia service alone for the first year of this war are $197,000,000.

"At this stage of the last war our Naval equipment and personnel was composed of two light cruisers and 1,500 men, and for the first full fiscal year of the last war the Naval service spent less than $4,000,000.

"This time we have 6,000 officers and men in the navy. We have six destroyers and a flotilla leader with five naval minesweepers and 20 auxiliary craft, and the estimates for the first year are not $4,000,000 as in the last war, but about $40,000,000. There is, as a matter of fact, a building program on which orders have already been placed or tenders called for 90 additional vessels, totalling nearly $50,000,000.

8,000 Officers, Men Now

"There was no such thing as a Canadian Air Force in the last war. This time the Royal Canadian Air Force comprises over 8,000 officers and men.

"But that does not take account of the air training scheme. The estimate for Canada's share up to September 1 was about $50,000,000 but the estimate for our share for the full fiscal year ending March 31, 1941, will be around $100,000,000."

Col. Ralston said it was his "very sincere opinion" that Conservative leader Manion has no justification for characterizing Canada's war effort as weak, inefficient or dragging.

Revenue Minister Ilsley said at Yarmouth, N.S., that national unity would be "seriously endangered" if Dr. Manion's proposal to form a National Government was carried out.

"When I see that all of Dr. Manion's candidates are Tories," Mr. Ilsley said, "I don't see how it would be possible for him to have the experienced and tried Liberals in his proposed government."

The Minister said the fact was "Liberals have no confidence in his (Dr. Manion's) leadership and would refuse such offers. If Dr. Manion should go to the other parties and join with them, I think we would then have the worst possible type of government in Canada.

"Such a government, made up of a number of elements, would soon be full of dissension and conflicting views. Instead of unity such as exists in the Liberal Government, there would be the worst dissension."

aircraft were seen to take to a rubber boat."

An earlier communique announced the first Heinkel was shot down off the Firth of Forth.

Action On Front.

LONDON, Feb. 27—(CP). — The war stirred with new spring restlessness today as the Royal Air Force made the longest reconnaissance flights of the war over Germany; air raid alarms sounded in Paris, and large Nazi troop movements were reported along the Luxembourg frontier.

In announcing the fourth Royal Air Force flight over Germany within a week, an Air Ministry communique said: "Our aircraft reconnoitred important seaports in Northern Germany and the Baltic."

The Baltic Sea—where runs the German iron ore lifeline from Sweden—is nearly 500 miles from the English coast.

British planes "operating over Central Germany penetrated as far as Berlin," the communique said. Flights also were reported over Western Germany and Heligoland.

Last week, the Air Ministry announced leaflet dropping flights over Austria and Bohemia and reconnaissance trips over Heligoland Bight and Northwest Germany.

The Air Ministry said last Thursday it "was not generally known," but British planes had flown over Berlin "more than once" since the start of the war.

Germany's aircraft also were active, and Parisians were routed out of bed early today by the first air raid alarm since last November 23. No planes were seen by Parisians, although the alarm lasted 57 minutes.

Show for The Crowds

Earlier in the evening, curious thousands had gathered in Paris streets to watch French anti-aircraft batteries fire at two German planes in the searchlight-brightened sky. The planes were driven off. No alarm was sounded, although the firing lasted 15 minutes.

The cannonading first was heard east of Paris, then grew in volume as the planes, flying high, approached the city.

Observers expressed belief the sudden shift to Spring-like weather had brought on the surge of aerial activity.

The aerial uneasiness extended to the Netherlands. Anti-aircraft batteries at Amersfoort and surrounding villages opened fire during the night. Residents reported that planes, believed of foreign nationality, had passed over at high altitude.

Residents along the Luxembourg frontier with Germany reported big Nazi troop movements. Trains and long columns of trucks, infantry and cavalry were seen. Luxembourg is on the northwest end of the Western Front.

The British Air Ministry communique said:

"During the last 24 hours a number of successful flights over enemy territory have been carried out by aircraft of the Royal Air Force.

"These have included reconnaissances over Heligoland and the German North Sea coast as well as large areas of the interior of Western Germany.

"In the course of the night, in addition to patrol of the Frisian Islands, our aircraft reconnoitred important seaports in Northern Germany and the Baltic, while others operating over Central Germany penetrated as far as Berlin.

"All our aircraft have returned."

Government orders are keeping many factories in the Netherlands busy.

The Petsamo district shore now is in hands of the invading Russian army.

At this point, the coasts of Russia and Norway are only a few miles apart. To the East is the Russian port of Murmansk, where a number of German merchant ships took refuge last fall. Several of them, including the liner Bremen, later sailed down Norwegian territorial waters and reached Germany.

The identity of any remaining German ships at Murmansk is not known.

Arctic Patrol Goes On

After a British naval boarding party removed British seamen from the German prison ship Altmark in Norwegian waters Feb. 16, the British and French authorities called attention to the fact that Germany was using Norway's neutral waters as cover for naval movements.

Subsequently, the Allied warships were reported to have taken up their Arctic patrol.

The 4,354-ton German steamship Orizaba, in service only nine months, was reported last night to have struck a shoal and sunk at Skjervoy, near Hammerfest, Norway, 175 miles west of Vardoe. There was nothing to indicate war action might have sunk her.

A vessel passing nearby reported that only floating debris showed where the Orizaba went down. The crew was reported rescued.

The ship was one of six which on Feb. 13 were reported trying to run the blockade from Spain to Germany. Two of these fell into Allied hands.

PALMOLIVE

HAS KEPT COMPLEXIONS LOVELY ALL OVER

Of course they didn't call it Palmolive then. To those beauties of ancient days, it was a simple mixture of the costly, oriental oils of Olive and Palm. Yet that crude blending cleansed their skin . . . helped keep them always lovely . . . desirable to their lords and masters.

And from then until now, although millions of dollars have been spent in cosmetic research, nothing that is finer, more soothing for your skin has been found than these same gentle oils of Olive and Palm. These oils alone go into the making of Palmolive today. And these oils alone, blended under scientific supervision, give Palmolive its gentle, cleansing lather, its delicate, natural colouring, its wholesome purity. Get Palmolive today.

Percy Dunford Lost Racer

Percy Dunford lost his good mare "Tillie the Great" last week. He had left her with a farmer near Bethany for winter care, but some sickness struck her and she was dead before much could be done. "Tillie" was twelve years old. She had been around the circuit tracks for years, and had many smart races to her credit.

The best mark hung up by the Dunford mare was 2.11 for the mile at Ottawa when she was five or six years old. It was after that performance Earl Rowe offered $1,200 for her, but Dunford refused to part with the favorite of his stable. She was in foal when she died, but she has left behind a colt now eight months old.

RETURN AWAITED

Jim Gillespie is en route home from a winter vacation in Florida. Friends here have had letters from him and are looking forward to his report on Canadian-American relations since outbreak of war.

HIT-AND-RUN CASE.

Paul Collett, 507 Albert Street, left his car parked on the north side of Brock Street, between George and Aylmer Streets, Monday night and later discovered that a hit-and-run motorist had sideswiped his machine, pushing a door in.

VETERAN CURLERS

When a Lindsay team of curlers played against Beaverton recently it was learned that the total ages of the eight men playing was 565 years. Lindsay's four combined to make 265, the visitors were 300 years old. The average works out to a little over 73 years apiece.

DR. KEITH PRESIDENT

Dr. H. J. Keith has accepted the presidency of the Ottawa branch of the League of Nations Society in Canada, it was announced to-day. He succeeds Rev. Stuart Ivison. Dr. Keith, a graduate of McGill University has held pastorates in Peterborough, Ont., Edmonton and Winnipeg.

NO LISTS YET.

The headquarters of the two political parties in this riding have not yet received printed copies of the preliminary voters' lists in Peterborough city. There have been many inquiries from citizens who wanted to make sure their names are on the lists and it is expected the latter will be available in a short time.

A POLITICAL LOSS.

It takes all kinds of things to make up an election campaign. Down at Belleville a sneak thief stole a brief case from the parked car of George H. Stokes, the Conservative candidate in South Hastings. It was the property of R. H. Ketcheson, secretary of the Belleville Conservative Association.

BIG TIMBER CUT.

The Peterborough Lumber Company has completed its season's work in its timber limits in Galway township. The camp it has been operating all winter has been closed after a production of logs that will yield more than one million feet of lumber, comprising hemlock, spruce, pine, basswood and hardwood. The company has also a considerable cut of four-foot hardwood for its retail fuel business.

MARKET TOLLS

Collection of market tolls is one of the items of business to come before the property committee of the council tonight. There had been some earlier suggestion of doing away with the present contract system, and appointing a market clerk on salary. However, nothing has been heard of late at the city hall on this proposal, and it may be left for another council to make the change.

JOIN C.A.S.F.

Two more Peterborough men are in the Canadian Active Service Force. They are Alfred Pooley, who was long a member of the Prince of Wales Rangers' Band, and whose father, Ambrose Pooley is a member of the band, and Romeo Leonard, son of Daniel Leonard, Sophia street. Both men are in the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment. Romeo Leonard is a brother of Johnnie Leonard, who is in the Royal Navy.

Famous Player Looks Over Carrier Boys' Band

"I'd like to see this band entered in competition in any of the contests in the United States: they'd really go places." That was the comment of Paul Robinson, famed harmonica player, when he listened to the carrier boys' harmonica band in action at the Examiner office Monday night. He had high praise for the Canadian champions and listened to them with keen interest, afterwards joining in their playing himself. He gave an impromptu performance of his own ability that left the youngsters open-mouthed. Tonight a number of the carrier boys are appearing with him on the stage at the Centre Theatre. In this picture Robinson is seen demonstrating for the boys. (Examiner Staff Photo.)

I. F. McRae Is Elected President Of The Kawartha Golf Club

The annual meeting of the Kawartha Golf and Country Club was held Monday night at the clubhouse, where the executive council met to hear reports and elect committees and officers.

R. M. Glover, retiring president, addressing the members, said that it had been his privilege to be in office during two of the most eventful years since the club was formed. He cited among other things the completion of the fine 18-hole golf course, the building of the locker-room, the surfacing of the road and the decided improvement in the scoring ability of the younger players. Evidence of this could be found in the club competitions being won by scores in the low 70's, and both the Dobbin-Glover Trophy and Midland League have been won by Kawartha. All this to him had been a great source of pride and satisfaction.

The board of directors, he said, had from time to time granted funds for the purchase of trees. Thousands of these had been planted during his term of office. The wisdom of this planting is beginning to show now, although it will not be for a long time that this work will be fully appreciated. The club has, he stated, possibly the largest privately owned tree nursery in Ontario.

In conclusion he thanked the committees and officers for their co-operation in helping to make his term of office an easy and pleasant one.

The following chairmen tabled reports:

Finance Committee—T. Glover.

Golf Committee—H. G. McKenzie.

Tennis Committee—Bob Maybee.

Membership Committee—B. Ottewell.

House Committee—D. D. Sproule.

Entertainment Committee—F. J. Overend.

Election of committees resulted as follows:

Board of Directors—C. A. Salmonsen, I. F. McRae, T. Glover.

Executive Council—C. A. Salmonsen, I. F. McRae, T. Glover, H. G. McKenzie, B. I. Burgess, D. J. Emery, C. H. Crowe, T. J. Miller, H. Foster, D. D. Sproule, E. Riley.

Golf Committee—H. G. McKenzie, W. G. Ovens, C. B. Muir, H. Pounder, D. Menzies.

Handicap Committee—T. J. Miller, F. Martin, S. Adamson.

Tennis Committee — J. Kirkwood, Bob Maybee, R. S. Hull.

At the conclusion of the regular meeting a special meeting of the board of directors was held for the purpose of electing officers for the coming season. The results of the election is as follows:

President—I. F. McRae.

1st Vice-President—C. A. Salmonsen.

2nd Vice-President—Geo. Hewitt.

Treasurer—T. Glover.

Secretary—R. MacMorran.

King, Queen Joke With Captives Of German Prison Ship Altmark

AN EAST COAST BRITISH PORT, Feb. 27 (CP) — Five men rescued from the German prison ship Altmark laughed and joked with the King and Queen yesterday over their experiences during weeks of captivity.

"What did you have to eat?" the King asked G. C. Barrett. Cape Town engineer.

"Mostly bread and soup, sir.' said Barrett.

". . . and bread," interposed R. Burns, carpenter.

Commander L. A. K. Boswell, Distinguished Service Order; Lieut.-Commander D. L. R. Saumarez, Distinguished Service Cross; Petty Officer H. Flavell, Acting Petty Officer H. G. Maunder, Leading Seaman T. W. Boverall, Seaman G. C. Sterry, Chief Engineman G. M. C. Clelland and Engineman R. W. Fox, Distinguished Service Medal.

The Queen asked one of the Altmark men who had been aboard the German pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee what he thought of Captain Hans Langsdorff, who committed suicide after his ship was scuttled.

"He seemed a decent enough sort as far as I could judge," the man replied.

"It was said the way he died," the Queen remarked.

On his arrival the King was welcomed by Vice-Admiral C. G. Ramsey, Commanding Officer for the coast of Scotland.

The feats for which the men were decorated were not disclosed. The King shook hands with a number of officers on the parade ground, including the oficers of a Polish submarine.

After inspecting machine shops, the King boarded a barge and proceeded to a warship, which he inspected.

As His Majesty, wearing an Admiral's uniform, passed by destroyers and other ships in the harbor, their crews stood at attention at the railings.

The King also inspected 500 apprentices being trained as artificers. He then drove to a nearby aerodrome which is a training station for the fleet air arm, inspecting Royal Air Force officers, naval officers and ratings. He returned to the Royal train from the aerodrome by automobile.

Come On

"IT WAS sheer bravado that wouldn't stand up before facts," is the view of firemen in regard to policemen who said recently they would be willing to engage in hockey duel.

For no word has come from the police force since the fire department countered by declaring their willingness to play at any time and challenging the police force to name a date. Winter is fast disappearing, but police have not yet named a date for the battle, proceeds from which were to go to the Red Cross.

Four Tenders Received For City Insurance

Four tenders for public liability insurance were received by the legal committee of the council Monday night with Alderman Gordon presiding.

The committee decided not to award the contract until Thursday night when it is expected all the members will be present.

The property committee is meeting tonight, and on Wednesday night the committee appointed to deal with Alderman Ovens' proposal to make a survey of the city's financial structure "and methods of financing" will apply themselves to a discussion that was not definitely outlined the other night.

The members of this committee are Mayor Hamilton, Aldermen Cotton, Gordon, Ovens and City Treasurer M. E. Shaver.

And by way of completing preparations for the March meeting of the council, the other committees are getting together Thursday evening, making four nights in a row at the city hall.

Drinking Episode Ends Up In Theft

The story of how a drinking episode followed the collection of money for a parcel and led to a charge of theft was told in police court this morning when a local man pleaded guilty to the stealing of $5.50 from a driver for a trucking firm.

It seems that the accused had accompanied the driver on his rounds and helped him in his work by delivering a parcel or two. On one occasion Monday he called at a house and made collection and later he got drunk on the money and had an argument with the driver about the matter. It was his first offence and Crown Attorney McElderry, K.C., consented to his being allowed to go on suspended sentence for one year, in view of the circumstances disclosed in the case.

RAF Pilot Snaps Nazi Defences Without Attack

WITH THE BRITISH FORCES IN FRANCE, Feb. 27—(CP-Havas).—A British plane recently came back from a 2½-hour flight beyond the Westwall with the finest photographs of the German border defences made by any Royal Air Force crew since the war began, military authorities disclosed last night.

Not a single German plane or anti-aircraft battery attacked the craft during the flight. The 23-year-old pilot, who was on his first reconnaissance assignment, and his sergeant-observer were taken to headquarters immediately upon their return and congratulated by the staff.

Officers have commented on the fact that although British planes have lately made flights over Germany as far as Berlin and Vienna, no Nazi machines have flown over the British sector. Photgraphs taken by the British fliers show hundreds of miles of German highways and railroads devoid of activity.

The young pilot and his companion flew at a height of about 15,000 feet. Cloudless weather permitted them to take particularly fine shots. They stopped only when their supply of film had run out.

The machine zigzagged over most of the fortified area, photographing among other things camouflaged airdromes behind the acutal defence line. They flew for twenty minutes over one airdrome where a squadron of Messerchmitts was stationed. Not one machine took off to attack them.

"We flew for half an hour over an important railway centre which I knew from previous flights to be studded with batteries of all types," the observer recounted. "We took photographs from all angles. Not a shot was fired at us during the entire flight. Not a single person attempted to stop us. There was a slight haze on the ground but we unquestionably were spotted hundreds of times."

Lily Lake Ladies Elect Officers

The women of the Lily Lake Association closed their year with their February meeting which was held at the home of Mrs. Clifford Chapman, Jackson Park Road. All members but two were present. This being the end of the first year since the association was organized it took the form of an anniversary dinner arranged by the committee consisting of Mrs. C. Chapman and Mrs. Fred Steinkrauss. The reports from the various departments were heard and all officers reported a splendid year of activities and financial success. The organization has grown from sixteen members to twenty-five members. The election of officers for 1940 was held under the direction of Mrs. William C. Steinkrauss. The following officers were installed:

President, Mrs. Gordon Hancock; 1st vice-president, Mrs. Orville Young; secretary, Mrs. A. Ackison; treasurer, Mrs. Clarence Hancock; pianists, Mrs. Fred Steinkrauss, Mrs. George Middleton, Mrs. Arthur Hancock; visiting and Flower Committee, Mrs. James Hatherley, Mrs. J. A. Middleton, Mrs. C. J. Hancock, Miss Margaret Robson; Telephone Committee, Mrs. Stanley Blewett, Mrs. Clarence Ferguson, Mrs. Ferdinand Rowland; Program Committee, Mrs. David Wilson, Mrs. Harry Fowler, Jr., Mrs. George Middleton; Press secretary, Mrs. William C. Steinkrauss; Social Committee, Mrs. George Middleton, Mrs. Robert Falls, Mrs. Orville Young; Sewing and Knitting for Red Cross, Miss M. Robson, Mrs. Middleton.

Prayer was offered by Mrs. C. J. Hancock, Mrs. William C. Steinkrauss, Mrs. Gordon Hancock, and Mrs. Clarence Ferguson. Sewing for the Red Cross was handed out to be returned in two weeks' time.

The birthday cake and coffee were served after the business session. The meeting closed with a hearty vote of thanks to the hostess for a very enjoyable afternoon.

War service work will be the chief interest in activities and financial expenditures during the term of the war.

SHANGHAI (AP)—British troops patrolling Shanghai's "badlands" district arrested 14 Chinese gunmen and seized a quantity of arms and ammunition today, and then turned down protests by Japanese gendarmes.

The Japanese said the Chinese were followers of Wang Ching-Wei, alated to head the Japanese-controlled government in occupied portions of China, and that for this reason their arms should be turned over to the Japanese.

The British authorities refused, and after a tense interval the Japanese withdrew.

Spring Boon To Finns.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn.— (AP). — Igor Sikorsky, noted airplane designer, disagrees with the opinion that the advent of spring will aid the Russian campaign in Finland, believing rather, that "spring will be more of an asset than a liability to Finland."

"The (Finnish) terrain which is now very firm and the lakes which are solidly frozen will thaw out with the coming of spring, making travel almost impossible," said Sikorsky, a native of Kiev, Russia, in a talk here last night.

He added that if the Finnish forces were augmented by 100,000 soldiers the "war would go on indefinitely."

LONDON. — (CP). — The Royal Horse Guards and the Life Guards, which provide ceremonial escorts for the King on state occasions, have been combined to form a "composite household cavalry regiment" for the duration of the war.

Th regiments are already on active service, a military source disclosed. Their ceremonial duties will be carried out by a reserve regiment during the hostilities.

LONDON.—(CP).— The evening News to-day said many London butchers are "on strike" against acceptance of meat offered by government depots, alleging much meat graded as first class is scarcely second class.

Travel Bureau Director To Visit City

Leo Dolan of Ottawa, director of the Canadian Travel Bureau, whose primary work is the promotion of tourist business into this country has promised to come to Peterborough some time after the elections to address a public meeting, E. A. Outram, assistant city clerk, told the Examiner this morning.

A tentative date of May 11 has been set for this meeting which may be a dinner affair to which the members of the county council will probably be invited.

The council has several purposes in mind in requesting Mr. Dolan to come to Peterborough. They wish to hear about what his department has been doing and to obtain other information that might be of help to the industry in this section, and they also wish to keep Mr. Dolan in friendly contact with Peterborough as the main and central city of the Kawarthas.

A County Offer

Reeve W. A. Anderson of Otonabee stated on Saturday that he was willing to recommend and support a motion that the county council assume the cost of 3,000 copies of the 1940 issue of the Examiner special Tourist Edition.

"I can only speak for myself," Reeve Anderson said, "but I feel that the other members would likely be in favor of this idea. I am satisfied that you have the most efficient plan of reaching Americans who are intending to come into Ontario on a holiday that has been tried so far.

"The city council is paying for 12,000 copies of the edition, and I think the county should take care of the other 3,000 that was mentioned to the city a few nights ago. The cost to the county would be $150. All but two of our townships belong in the summer play ground list, Douro and North Monaghan, and I don't know that even these two should be omitted. Some of our townships have many miles of river and lake frontage and a very considerable property investment in the tourist business, and for these reasons I am in favor of paying for the 3,000 copies."

Reeve Anderson said that the county council did not meet until June, but in the meantime approval of many of the reeves might be obtained by personal interview and ratified at the June session.

The city of Peterborough is contributing $600 by assuming the cost of 12,000 copies at five cents a copy, and its chief interest is to make the city a centre of tourist attraction represented by the Kawartha Lakes and rivers.

IF YOUR BACK IS WEAK or painful you can be sure there is some interference with the nerves along the spine or hips.

This could result from some jar, twist, strain, exposure to cold or assuming a faulty posture.

Any of these can cause a misalignment of spinal joints capable of producing constriction of nerves, which will make muscular movement painful and difficult.

Various ailments such as lumbago and sciatica are often brought about in this way.

Our experience has proved that spinal manipulation is capable of restoring health and comfort to many persons who have suffered with ailments of the back and hips.

CAMPBELLFORD OUTFIT SMOTHERS THE NORWOOD SQUAD 10 TO 1

Milltown Boys Take Lead In T.V. League

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 27. (ENS) —Seven hundred customers watched Campbellford hand Norwood's top-ranking T.V.L. squad a 10 to 1 setback here last night in a blazing tilt jammed full of lightning fast hockey. Though the fans came expecting to see the best game of the season they were probably no more surprised than the Hornets themselves who narrowly missed being shut out completely and after giving the Hendy-coached crew a seven to six beating on their last visit here during the first half of the schedule they came at least prepared to repeat the performance. And they probably would have done so had it not been for two things: The locals have been getting in some practice and dished up a brand of back-checking which completely disorganized ninety per cent of the Hornets' attacking thrusts.

In fact during the first period the visitors had no more than three shots at Turner all of which were turned neatly aside. The second item to figure in the Sunoco victory was their passing attack and when four men go down the ice all taking part in the play they're really playing combination hockey or whatever you want to call it. They blazed countless shots at McMaster and went about it as though they knew what they were doing, in fact beside the smoothly working Campbellford attacking unit the visitors looked ragged. However that was all in the night's game and anything can happen when the boys go to Norwood on Wednesday.

Referees Innes and Payne handed out eight penalties of which the honor of getting five went to the home crew but all were minors since the officials who had both eyes open for trouble quickly checked up anything that looked suspicious.

Campbellford In Lead

Thought the win put Campbellford one point ahead of the Hornets its likely the Norwood squad will finish in top position as they have a four-point game with Marmora coming up on Friday when the locals meet Madoc for the last scheduled performance before the playoffs so that even if they win from Norwood on Wednesday and from Madoc here on Friday they can gather only four points while Norwood can stay on top by winning from Marmora and Madoc.

Though most of the action took place at the Norwood end Turner did some sensational work in the Campbellford net and was called on several times to turn aside thrusts in the last two periods. Actually he earned a shutout and would have had it if the home crew had not been so intent on runnig up a big score. It was Puffer who notched the visitors' solo tally when he combined with Hill on an end to end rush when Sunocos were down the ice with only Wilkes left at the blue line. They skated around him and Puffer drilled it from close range, the puck bouncing over Turner's stick. The homesters had been leading nine to nothing up to that time and Norwood supporters who were getting plenty disgusted set up a din which spurred their team on to another power attack that was quickly nullified by the Hendy-Wilkes defense.

The winners did their scoring in splurges. They eased their way in to test McMaster continuously during the early part of the opener and he did some showy work between the posts as the Norwood rear guards were not offering him much protection from Sunocos lightning raids led by Robinson-McIlrath and Kelly who rained in at will and were usually joined by Hendy. All four passed the puck around inside the Norwood blue line to the complete bewilderment of the visitors. They tested the Hornet net minder who sprawled, dove and reached for them.

It was not till the thirteen minute mark that the locals notched the opening counters. They scored three times in less than a minute Robinson getting the first alone was aided by Joe Kelly for the second and figured on the third which Hendy registered on a pass from Kelly. Godden slapped in Free's rebound which went in off Rothwell's skate to make the score 4 to 0. Only penalty of the period went to O'Leary who was waved away for holding Robinson as he cruised in to take a pot shot at the Norwood net.

In the second frame the visitors tore through in an effort to ease themselves out of the cellar position and even when Puffer did succeed in penetrating the Sunocos rearguards his efforts were nullified as Turner came out of the cage to outguess him. McIlrath who played a vital part in the locals attacking unit countered with a swift solo rush and drove one in that appeared labelled and Brady returned the biscuit following a Campbellford attack only to have Wilkes, stalwart defenseman take the puck from him. It was Blake who potted the only goal of the period when his beautifully placed shot from a few feet out found the open corner. Rogers and Free were waved away for roughing and as they returned to the ice Wilkes was sent to the hoosegow for interference giving the visitors a one-man advantage which very nearly backfired as Hendy tore in to let go a bullet-like drive.

In the final frame Hendy scored from the face-off shooting from a difficult angle into the upper corner. Free tallied a minute later during a Sunoco attack his shot finding its way through a maze of legs into the net.

Robinson, Blake, Hendy and Godden each with two goals were the locals chief snipers while Free and Atkinson got the remaining pair, the latter when he spit the Norwood defense on a beautiful solo effort.

Campbellford: Goal, R. Turner; defence, E. Wilkes, O. Hendy; centre, Robinson; wings, McIlrath, Kelly; alternates, Free, Blake, Godden, Atkinson.

Two Games Staged In Warsaw Rink

WARSAW, Feb. 27.—(ENS)—In the first game of a double-header at the local rink Friday night, Douro's second team underwent the trying experience of meeting the local Dandruff Removers, the abbreviated game ending in a 2-2 tie.

Their weird combination, plus timely help from the referee, enabled the Barbers to give a good account of themselves.

In the main game, Douro subdued those surprising up-and-downers, the Ancient Oaks, in a hard, fast tussle.

Douro played their best game of the season, outskating and outshooting the wily oldsters to earn the big end of the 7-4 score. This was the first game of a consolation playoff, the next to be played between these teams, Wednesday, Feb. 28. The teams:

Douro—Joe Hayes, Coughlin, R. Moher, W. Moher, John Hayes, J. Moher, J. Leahy, B. Delaney, J. Healy, O. Leahy, F. Moher.

Oaks—Parcells, Drain, Thompson, Sharpe, Munro, Hamblin, R. Darling, A. Darling, Eliot, Davis, Selkirk.

Referee—M. Lonsberry.

Wrestling

Worester, Mass.—Maurice (The Angel) Tillet, 275, France, defeated Jimmy Coffield, 218, Kansas City, two straight falls.

Camden, N.J. — Lou Plummer, 213, Chicago, threw Bob Wagner, 222, New York, 9.16.

All Saints' Win First Of Finals Beating Trinity

All Saints are one game up in the Church League bantam finals after copping a 3-2 nod last night over Trinity. The Anglicans can win the title with victory Wednesday. All Saints got a 2-goal edge early with their rivals disorganized, Jones and Hill tallying. Trinity had a good share of the play the rest of the route, Beatty scoring in the second and again in the third to tie it. Near the finish, Jones scored the winner. All Saints' defence stood out with Outram prominent, and Hill and Jones good up ahead. Beatty was the main Trinity threat with Jewell also good. Trinity kicked plenty at the end, taking the loss hard. The teams:

All Saints—Goal, Panter; defence Outram, Shadgett; centre, Chambers; wings, Jones, Baxter; subs, Padgett, McDougall, Mason, Hill.

Trinity—Goal, Dorset; defence, Beatty, Hill; centre, Plunkett; wings, Fallon, Meredith; subs, Beaton, Dinsdale, Courtney, Jewell, Pammett.

CURLING

By HERB MARTIN

We expect to reach the finals in the main event of the Neill Trophy by tonight, and also reach the eights in the consolation.

Here's what happened last night during the four and one-half hours of curling:

J. T. Braund, two down coming home, slips a three over G. Green to win the game and advance to the semi-finals.

The lowest scoring game of the 'spiel was supplied by Lowes and Charlton. E. Thomas' rink played two games and broke fifty-fifty.

E. H. Northey, Lakefield, is the last outside rink left in the play. His rink won the consolation event last season.

The president put an awful crimp in the C.P.R. last night. See score.

F. Green slipped a big seven over R. Bacon and that end won the game.

Our dream of an all "Green" final was knocked high hat when N. Hamley upset the Dr. Green-Sackville combination.

The lights were turned out at 11:34 p.m. and we all went home to bed.

PRO PUCK PERSONALITIES

By Central Press Canadian

When the talk turns to plain and fancy stitching, so much a part of the national pastime, the name of Al Murray always crops up. No official count is kept of the amount of thread used up by players during their careers but the championship in such an item would probably rest somewhere between Al and Helge Bostrum rotund Chicago defenceman of a few years ago, still plying his wares in the minors. Pound for pound (he weighs around 150) the American rearguard is one of the hardest hitting players in the N.H.L.—or was in his best days. A shoulder injury that kept him on the sidelines for all but a few games last season, has never completely healed and Al is not the mighty mite he used to be. No trivial injury was his shoulder one that requiring transplanting of tissue from a leg muscle to pull it together. Born at Stratford, Ont., 31 years ago, Murray spent five years acquiring experience in the minors with Buffalo and Syracuse, before joining the Amerks in 1933-34, making this his seventh season with the team. He's not the rushing type and the goal he scored last January 7 was his first in four years. His totals at the end of last season stood at four goals, five assists for nine points plus 155 minutes sitting-out in penalty pews.

Fruitmen Lose 4-1

The previously undefeated Fruitmen dropped a 4-1 exhibition decision to the Cigarmen last night in a Midnight Loop tilt at the Brock. It was fast and clean with the winners having an edge, especially around the rival net. Goals were scored by Fleming, Dinsdale, Ruiter and Sproat, with DeCarlonis getting one for the losers. Teams:

Fruitmen—Goal, Crary; defence, Carravaggie, Asta; centre, Chimenti; wings, Carravaggie, DeCarlonis; subs, DeCarlo, Holland, DeNoble, Anthony, McAuliffe.

Cigarmen—Goal, Sloane; defence, Sproat, Parnell; centre, Dinsdale; wings, Fleming, O'Neill; subs, Leith, O'Toole, Ruiter.

SPORTS—DAY BY DAY

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC PERDUE

Memories of the glorious days of Ace Bailey, Bert McLeod, Frankie Collins, Joe Dwyer and the rest, will flood back tonight as hundreds and hundreds of Peterborough puck followers line up before the doors of the Brock St. rink and for a long way down the avenoo for the big playoff tilt tonight. All with some silver in the hand, a fanatic gleam in the eye and a mouthful of hockey chatter. Just like back in the old days—when other Petes were on the prowl for an O.H.A. championship (which they ultimately won)—the present crop of puck-chasing Petes will pack in the customers till the sides of the old arena have a rubbery bulge. Yep, it's hockey playoff time again in this man's town, and no other sport arouses Peterborough fandom as hockey does, come the playoffs.

* * * * * *

Port Colborne Incos are here at 8.30 to clash with the locals in the first game of the O.H.A. intermediate "A" round-robin playoff series. The Incos are reported to be plenty powerful, but they'll have to show oodles of class to take the speedy Petes in the latter's ice igloo. The Buckland bunch waltzed through their group games with the Redmen and Fliers handily, not losing a tilt on home ice, nor did they lose a group playoff to the R.C. A.F.-ers. Licked Owen Sound here, too. Only lost in exhibition tussles to Toronto Goodyears and Oshawa Generals—but these two clubs are packed with pro timber. Yeah, the Petes are good and they might just cop a provincial pennant this very season.

* * * * * *

At anyrate, the local steppers have a break in starting this serial off at home. A win or two at the start will mean a great deal. You see, it's a brief series. Four clubs in it, playing home-and-home games, which means the Petes will get three games here. Top two then playoff for the O.H.A. championship, two out of three games. But that will be two weeks or so yet, and by then we might hit a snag for lack of ice, Might have to play remaining games—if the gang goes that far—in the Oshawa artificial ice arena. Which would be tough on many fans here, but what can ya do if spring arrives too early? There is no price increase here tonight.

* * * * * *

Besides Port Colborne Incos, Kitchener Greenshirts and the Petes, the winner of the Collingwood-Owen Sound group series (now going on) will make up the round-robin. A series the O.H.A. and all the clubs agreed upon. It is a fine break for the fans, as they see three clubs of playoff calibre, regardless of whether the locals win or lose. The O.H.A. champ then can challenge the N.O.H.A. winnah to decide the championship of all Ontario. And then challenge the Quebec-Maritime victor for the Eastern Canada title. Yep, who knows but the Petes might be invading enemy territorial waters (if the ice fails) well out in April!

* * * * * *

A Redhot Playoff

As for tonight, it should be a grand battle between two smart outfits. Fast, classy and with no holds barred. A typical intermediate "A" or senior "B" playoff before a packed house of roaring fans. With the ice okay and both clubs at full strength and ready for the fight of the year. All the Petes are in the pink, including Goalie Ray Harding, Defencemen Don Crowe, Drake Jopling, Jack Gardner, Jim Ellis, Les Burton, and Forwards Bun Kingdon, Honey Tompkins, Art Heal, Eddie Starr, Don Coughlin, Joe Blewett and Jack Jopling. With Coach Frank Buckland and Manager Bill Jackson clucking around like mother hens over their brood when danger threatens! Looks like a hectic hockey evening here, folks.

* * * * * *

Owen Sound Trappers and Collingwood Shipbuilders resume their intermediate "A" group playoffs tonight, third tilt being in the Sound. And they've got two refs, D. A. Houston and Bert Hedges. The Trappers—after holding the strong Collingwood crew to a draw in the Trappers' lair last week—stepped into Collingwood next time and grabbed a 3-2 victory. With Red Creighton scoring one goal and assisting in the other two. Red must have been hotter than a tin roof in the Sahara. His buddy, Onions Smith, was also in on three goals. Their serial should be over by the end of the week and the winner ready to hop into this round-robin whirl early next week.

Hawks Grabbed A Win

Only a couple of hundred fans dug down last p.m. for the district playoff in the Brock, but those who attended saw a right lively tilt. Omemee Hawks earned a 9-5 win with a third-period drive against the Lock Co. Eagles, but 'twas plenty fast and exciting most of the distance. A 1-1 count in the first and then 4-3 for the O's to open the third. Game kept peppery from bell to bell with some very fair hockey shown and a bit of slashing. Eagles' goalie sort of fanned on a few in the third, but anyway the Hawks shaded the local lads the last half a bit. Which doesn't necessrily mean that the Prete pack will be eliminated Wednesday in Omemee—not all all. The work of Tripp, Parsons and Dart, besides the goalie, caught our eye on the Omemee lineup; while Watson, Gilbert, Pryde, Cournyea and Edmunds all turned in good hockey most of the way for the Eagles. A neat number.

With the church basketball playdowns of Ontario commencing this week, the men's City Cage Loop double-header at the Y.M.C.A. has been moved up from Saturday to this Wednesday eve. Zephyrs play Quakers at 7.15 while Dominions meet C.G.E. at 8.15. St. John's Juniors tangle here this Saturday night in the Y.W.C.A.—yep, the Y.W.—with the junior winner of Toronto in the first O.C.B.A. round. And this Saturday sees our St. Paul's having an O.C.B.A. intermediate "A" playdown game in Toronto 'gainst the winner of that district. The following Saturday will find the same teams tangling in return jousts of points-to-count series but with the sites reversed. Three P.C.I. school squads play in Bowmanville this Friday while three Girls' Loop tussles will be held Friday in the Y.W.

Havelock Will Meet Westwood In East Peterborough Finals

HAVELOCK, Feb. 27 (ENS). —It took forty minutes of overtime before the Havelock Albions finally sank the winning counter in a gruelling battle with Trent River in the initial game of a Rural League double-header on Monday night at Norwood Arena. The 3-2 victory for Havelock eliminated their opponents and sent the Albions into the East Peterborough Rural League finals. The second sudden-death playoff fixture saw Westwood gain a 5-2 decision over Elgin, which places them up against Havelock in a two-game series, goals to count on the round, for the E.P.R.L. title. The first match will be played this Thursday evening, and the second next Monday, thus winding up the Rural League hockey for the current season.

The Havelock-Trent River game was a long drawn out tussle, in which the Albions barely managed to grab off a win over their aggressive opponents.

Polloc ktook a pass from Hunter after two minutes of the first period for Havelock's opening goal, but Trent River held a slight edge over the homesters during the rest of this session. Just past the halfway mark, Jim Brown tallied for the losers, and a minute later slipped George Brown a pass for their second counter. The score, 2-1 in favor of Trent River, remained thus throughout the middle frame and for nineteen minutes of the third, when Lade notched the tieing marker for the locals with just a minute remaining.

A penalty shot for the Riverites during the second failed as Jamieson stepped over the line. An Albion goal was disallowed as well this session when Hagerman's tally was called back on an offside. The first penalties of a fairly clean match came during this period, Jim Brown going off for taking a swing at Lade while Pollock of Havelock was gated twice. Play was wide-open in the third canto, giving both goalies plenty of work. Hoffman and Van-Volkenburg went off together for roughing it. A goal kicked in by McLaughlin of Trent River was disallowed this period.

Deadlocked at the end of regulation time, the two teams battled without success during the first 20 minutes of overtime, in which the lone penalty went to Hoffman of the Albions, for slashing. Hamilton and Pollock accompanied each other to the cooler for a mix-up in the second overtime session, and a third stanza was looming closely when E. Ellis combined with F. Ellis for the Albions' winning marker.

Pollock, a tireless worker for the winners, was the outstanding member of the Albions' lineup. Others who showed to advantage were Hoffman, Whitney, Lade, Hunter, and Peters. For the losers, F. McLaughlin, Jim Brown, George Brown, Hamilton and Jamieson were especially effective.

Westwood Had Margin.

Westwood held a fair margin of the play in the second tilt of the double-header, defeating the Elgin squad easily enough, 5 to 2, although the latter first took the lead in the initial stanza and never relinquished it until near the halfway mark in the middle frame. The game was exceptionally clean, only one penalty being handed out, and this in the final session to Scott of Elgin for tripping.

Boyle opened the scoring for Elgin after three minutes in the first canto, when he accepted a pass from Lumsden. Westwood pressing continually practically dominated the play, but were unable to break through for a counter until Ross notched one on a solo drive at the nine-minute mark in the second period. Ross also tallied on a similar attempt, a couple of minutes later, and once under way the Westwood crew ran in another pair of counters before the end of this session. Gill and Morris were the marksmen for the last two goals.

Struggling gamely to make up the three-goal margin which Westwood held going into the final stanza, the Elgin boys succeeded on only ont occasion . J. Preston combined for an Elgin goal at the halfway mark, only to have B. Graham nullify this one for Westwood four minutes later.

The winner's iced a strong lineup, with Sandy Ross perhaps grabbing off the biggest portion of honors when he clicked for a pair of very timely goals in the second period. Boyle and Goalie Red Lobb were outstanding for the losers.

The teams:

Havelock—Goal, Peters; defence, Lade Hoffman; centre, Hagerman; wings, Hunter, Pollock; alternates, E. Gordon, McMullen, E. Ellis F. Ellis, Earl Gordon, H. Hamilton.

Trent River— Goal, Hill; defence, A. Brown. F. McLaughlin; centre, Jim Brown; wings, George Brown, Parcells; alternates, Jamieson, R. Hamilton, Chaplin, VanVolkenburg, E. Stevenson, C. Stevenson, Ruttan.

Elgin — Goal, Lobb;; defence, J. Preston, J. Richardson; centre, Lumsden; wings, Murphy, E. Preston; alternates, Scott, Boyle, Rusaw, Metcalfe, Wilson, G. Richardson.

Referees—F. Gill and G. Rothwell, Norwood.

All Saints' Seniors In Second-Place Tie

By beating George St. Seniors 5-3 last night in a Church Loop game, All Saints tied George St. for second place, and these teams will playoff the tie Wednesday, winner meeting Murray St. in playoffs. A big second frame drive for four goals put All Saints in front. George St. scored in the first and got two more in the third with the winners getting but one more. Edwards and Langton counted twice each, with Ward, McDougall, Livingstone and Robinson getting one each. Platt and King were the best two-way players there. Tonight, All Saints and Trinity have their second juvenile final. The teams:

All Saints: Goal, Lacey; defence, Frost, Bowen; centre, McDougall; wings, Langton, Platt; subs, Livingstone, Robinson.

George St.—Goal, Smith; defence, Parnall, M. Akers; centre, Edwards; wings, Ward, King; subs, Hamilton, Hardie, Dunkerley.

Coaches Frown On Game Of 3 Huddles

TORONTO, Feb. 26.— (CP). — Canada's football coaches appear to be banding together to chastise the judgment of the men who formulate the game's rules. The tutors look unkindly upon the rule adopted by the Canadian Rugby Union last Saturday allowing only three field huddles during one quarter.

Alexander Ponton, coach of Toronto Balmy Beach of the Ontario Rugby Football Union, said last night that he considered it "too bad some of our rulemakers don't talk to coaches occasionally when rule changes are being considered."

"As it is, players and coaches are left at the mercy of well-meaning old-timers who forget that playing conditions have changed in the last 20 years," Ponton added. "We've got enough trouble in football now without taking the huddle away from us." Ponton contended that without the huddle, quarterback signals will not always be heard by all the team members because of the roar of the fans.

Standing alone in favor of the switch back to barking signals from scrimmage, Ted Reeve, coach of Montreal Royals, said he thought the move would speed up the game. He contended there has been t much abuse of the 20-second limit allowed for huddles."

Not Much Morfe Speed.

Coach Doug Kerr of McGill University, commented in Montreal that advantages of the huddle system outweight the disadvantages "by a long way." He doesn't think cutting down the number of huddles will speed up the game "an awful lot" and there will be more room for error under the new ruling.

The restricted huddle rule is "a poor one" as far as Lew Hayman, coach of Toronto Argonauts, is concerned. Warren Stevens, University of Toronto coach, said that an effort was made to do away with the huddle in city senior games 2 years ago but the idea was abandoned "because the crowd out-roared the signal callers."

Another coach to recall experiments to discard the huddle as "unsatisfactory," Art Massucci of the Sarnia Imperials, said his quarterbacks always have called regular signals, "but we found they have to be called from huddle so the boys can hear what's going on."

Only western coach to comment on the C.R.U. meeting, Dr. W. C. Broadfoot of the University of Alberta, paid no special comment on the huddle rule, but said at Edmonton that the Western Intercollegiate Union probably will play Western Interprovincial Union rules next fall regardless of changes adopted by the C.R.U.

George St. Juniors Make Semi-Finals

George St. Juniors enter the Church Loop semi-final as a result of their 5-2 win last night over All Saints. They now meet Park St. East year's champs scored first but were backed up most of the way. Lacheur and Hill for All Saints, and Hamilton and Woodgate, counted in the first. The Cockerill brothers made it 4-2 in the second, and Smith counted in the third. George St. showed two high-scoring lines and looked smart. Spooner kicked out a flock for the losers, with Smith, Robinson and Deering the best up front. The teams:

George St.—Goal, Richardson; defence, Henry, Marsden; centre, Routley; wings, Hamilton, Woodgate; subs, E. Cockerill, K. Cockerill, Craig, Saunders, Smith.

OMEMEE HAWKS GRAB PLAYOFF WIN OVER LOCK CO. EAGLES

Visitors Run Wild In The Third To Snare A 9-5 Victory And Go One Up In Playoff Series

Omemee Black Hawks went one up on their district group playoff series with the local Lock Co. Eagles by winning here 9-5 last night before about 200 fans in the Brock St. rink. It was the third game of their three-in-five playoffs and gives the Hawks an edge for the return game in Omemee on Wednesday.

The Hawks earned the win on a passing attack that began to click in the second period and paid dividends in a wide-open third canto. The visiting squad played better combination in the enemy zone and gave Goalie King a busy night the last two periods. The score was 1-1 in the first heat and 4-3 for the O's as the final chukker started. They clicked neatly in the third to cop the decision.

Play was fast and exciting from start to finish, and the fans made plenty of noise. The game was surprisingly good throughout, with few real lapses by either side. The referee let a lot of minor slashing go but did not permit the game to get out of hand. The homesters drew all three penalties. Goalie King fanned on a few but kicked out some tough ones, while Goalie Fisher played a consistently good game. Watson, Gilbert, Cournyea, Pryde and Edmunds all looked good for the locals; as F. Parsons, Tripp and Dart shone for the winners.

Even In First

Play was hot an even at a rapid clip all through the first. Gilbert nearly notched one early and Dart made a nice try right after. West hit the post in close and a Watson-Gilbert rush was dangerous. Watson scored the first one on a corner passout from Edmunds and Tripp got it back later on a side shot that went in off the goalie. Cournyea was penalized late in the period for boarding, and the Black Hawks were pressing at the bell.

Early in the second, with Cournyea off, the O's tallied with Tripp scoring, aided by Dart and Lucas in close. Gilbert tested Fisher and it was fast and hot, with Omemee having an edge. Ellis stole the puck from a local defenceman's stick in close and rapped it home. Prete got that back shortly in a scramble in close, but it was disputed and the goal judge changed. Omemee pressed and Dart nearly copped one. Edmunds pulled a good rush and then Gilbert scored from Pryde on a fine pass at defence. F. Parsons came close and Dart raced in fast to take Tripp's pass and score when left uncovered in front of the net. Cournyea nearly got one near the finish of a good period.

O's Look Better

It opened up in the third more and the Hawks looked a bit better. A Cournyea-Pryde rush nearly clicked and King robbed Dart. West made Fisher hop and then Lucas scored on an angle shot from the blue line. Four Eagles went on the attack and they got one back as Edmunds slammed home West's pass. With five Eagles up and pressing, the O's broke loose for one, Tripp scoring from Dart. When Watson went off for boarding, the visitors ganged up but not dangerously, and Watson was back when Lucas' side shot at defence fooled the goalie. Dart added another on a fine rush right after, skirting defence and blasting a hot one at King. Five Eagles swooped in and pressed hard, with a Cournyea-Watson try almost netting one. Pryde went off for hooking and it was hot for a minute till Dart scored from Jamieson at close range. With all back, the locals went on the attack again and got one back near the finish, Gilbert scoring from Cournyea in front of the net.

The teams:

Omemee: Goal, Fisher; defence, F. Parsons and Williamson; centre, Tripp; wings, Dart and Jamieson; alternates, Lucas, Brohm, Ellis, Brooks and Brockley.

Eagles: Goal, King; defence, Watson and Watkins; centre, Gilbert; wings, Cournyea and Pryde; alternates, Edmunds, Prete, Burke and West.

Referee—Lou LeBarr of Peterborough.

Puck Playoffs Comence Here Tonight

Port Colborne Incos clash with the Petes here tonight (Tuesday) at 8:30 o'clock in the Brock St. rink. It is the first game of the O.H.A. intermediate "A" round-robin series, and a most important one to grab off in the hunt for a provincial championship this winter. The Incos are reported strong, easily leading their group all season, and made up of ex-senior "A" players and promising puckists who did not catch the senior squad this year. Playing on artificial ice, they have had the advantage of a month or more extra skating and playing over the Petes, but the locals are now in fine condition and can skate with any club in Ontario.

Both squads will be at full strength for this crucial contest and a red-hot playoff struggle is anticipated on fast ice. A record crowd of 2,000 or more for this season, city and district fans, is expected to view the battle. There is no advance in the price of tickets during the regular round-robin series, though later the prices may go up here.

Hard Bumper

DON CROWE

Goodyears Drop 2nd Game To Ports 6-4

TORONTO, Feb. 27 — (CP) — Toronto Goodyears to-day are listed as the first victims of playoff upsets in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series.

Defending champions and leaders at the close of the current schedule Toronto failed to hold a 4-1 lead at Port Colborne last night and were trounced 6-4 in the second of the best-of-five semi-finals. Toronto won the first game at home 3-0.

St. Catharines squeezed out a 3-2 victory over Hamilton in the other semi-final at Hamilton. Saints won the first of this best-of-five series 5-4.

King, Turney and O'Flaherty gave Toronto a 3-0 lead in the first 13 minutes against Port Colborne. Thompson broke the Sailors' zero at the three-quarter mark, but King pounded home his second marker to make the Ports look a beaten team.

Toronto adopted defensive tactics during the second session which proved their undoing. The Sailors began to click in this style of going and goals by Gallinger and Fitzgerald put them back in the running.

The champions were completely outplayed in the last period which saw Gallinger score twice and Upper once to give the Ports the game and square the series.

Brunell scored an early goal for Hamilton. The slim lead held until early in the third frame when Boyd drifted a screened shot into the Hamilton net.

Backor and Mocha added to the Saints' total before Barlow slashed Hamilton's second counter past Ran Forder, who played a standout game in the winning team's cage.

Third games will be played at Toronto and St. Catharines to-morrow night.

Tweed Hammers Stirling 6-1 For Final Berth

TWEED, Feb. 27.—(ENS). —In a wide open hockey game at the local arena on Monday night, the Tweed Terriers tore into the Stirling Shells, trouncing them 6-1. This victory has assured the Terriers of a place in the finals.

The first period was wide open with both teams missing several scoring chances. However, at the eighteen minute mark Marsh rapped in a pass from Elsbury.

The Terriers increased the lead in the second period with Marsh tallying the second goal at the seven minute mark, unassisted. Joe Courneyea, flashy centre player of the Terrier team tallied the next two goals, getting his first one at the fifteen mark on a pass from Marsh and the next one two minutes later on a pass from Elsbury. The only goal for the Shells was tallied at the nineteen minute mark by Fraser. Tummon received the only penalty of the period, while in the first Long received the only bench warmer.

The Terriers tallied two quick goals in the last period, with the first coming at the nine minute mark, by Elsbury on a pass from Courneyea, while thirty seconds later Marsh took a pass from Elsbury for the sixth Terrier counter. Perritt and Marsh went to the bench for tripping in this frame.

Line-ups:

Stirling — Goal, Fox; defence, Jones, Walker; centre, Armstrong; wings, Fraser, Barnard; subs, Morton, Mays, Richardson, Ingram, Balty.

Tweed— Goal, Reeves; defence, Orar, Tummon; centre, Courneyea; wings, Elsbury, Marsh; subs, Porritt, Arber, Leal, Long, Woodcock.

Referees—Ackers, Quinn.

Horner Staying Till Boos And Cheers End

TORONTO, Feb. 27 (CP)—Some people in hockey figure Red Horner is near the end of the trail, a few hope so and the big redhead won't commit himself.

"When they stop cheering in Toronto and when they stop booing in Boston, I'll know I've lost the old touch," he says. "Then I'll quit."

But Toronto Maple Leafs' bone-crushing captain and defenceman still packs them in with the tactics that made him a violent upstart when he broke into the National league in 1928 at the age of 19. The big hip still swings into his body-checks and the big right fist still flashes when somebody tries to comb him.

"Sure, I get a thrill out of the booing as well as the cheering," he admits, "I guess I have a particular part to play in hockey and I think some people come to see me play it. I sort of tingle when that Boston crowd gives me a going-over."

Horner is leading the league in penalties for the eighth straight year.

Weekend before last, the Leafs and Montreal Canadiens staged the two most riotous games of the season, replete with squabbles, fights and penalties. Horner was in the midst of everything, bringing the customers to their feet with applause in Toronto and with hoots at Montreal. The Toronto team, fighting mad under the Horner urge, won both games.

A Laugh for Red

The next night in Boston he laughed when that other Leaf veteran, Gus Marker, exclaimed over a broiled lobster "a fellow shouldn't play too long after he's 30."

"That all depends on who he is," Horner said, with a wink to others at the table. "Some men get old and retire to politics or something, while others just go on and on."

Tuesday night the Leafs met Boston's good, big team. Horner was caught up the ice when the Bruins scored their first goal and Coach Dick Irvin gave him orders to remain on defence after that.

The crowd couldn't understand why Red kept hammering the Boston attackers at his blueline and then refused to carry the puck to the Bruin end, where he would get the business in return.

"Yellow Horner, yellow Horner," they screamed when he went to the bench. They forgot that Horner once smashed Eddie Shore to the ice in Boston with a broken jaw after Shore had put Toronto's Ace Bailey out of the game for life.

The Bruins won that one 5-0 and Horner ventured: "maybe Marker is right." But Toronto won in Detroit Thursday night and the redhead fairly glowed afterward. He didn't talk about retiring.

Oh, For The Life Of a Boxer

If all training grinds were as easy to take as this one, the pugilistic profession would be overcrowded. The stag at bay here is Gus Lesnevitch, who is training in the Florida sunshine for his attempt to wrest the light heavyweight crown from the Hibernian head of Pittsburgh's Billy Conn. The girls helping Gus train are Miami Beach belles.

Training Camp Briefs

(By The Associated Press)

By The Associated Press

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb. 27. —(AP)—Lefty Lee Grissom, the pitcher New York Yankees took from their 1939 World Series rivals, Cincinnati Reds, looks for a good season because his arm isn't sore.

"I pulled a muscle in my left shoulder in 1937 pitching in seven games in six days," he explained. "I pitched only one complete game all year."

He gave his wing its first trial since last season when the Yanks' camp opened yesterday and didn't feel a twinge.

AVALON, Calif.—Chicago's Cubs are jubilant over the fact that Clay Bryant's arm hasn't given any indication of soreness after extended throwing drills. His work and the showing of Julio Bonetti, have been the highlights of early workouts. Bonetti has a good fast ball and curve and is working to develop deception in his delivery.

CLEARWATER, Fla. — It didn't take Manager Leo Durocher of Brooklyn long to make up his mind about Joe Vosmik, the former American League outfielder. He stood behind the cage at batting practice yesterday and saw Joe belt a couple to the far corners of the field and announced, "Vosmik is my left fielder." He has 10 candidates for the other regular gardening jobs.

TAMPA, Fla.—Cincinnati's Reds may realize they had to take it and like it last all in the world series, but they're determined to go places this year. Ernie Lombardi, all smiles after signing his new contract, declared: "I'm going to regain the batting championship." And when a photographer asked Johnny Vander Meer what minor league club he was with last year, Johnny replied, "The Reds, my friend."

Tunney Takes Professor For $5,000 Swapping Bits From Shakespeare

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 27 — (AP) —Gene Tunney, former heavyweight champion of the world, made more money to-day (if there's a payoff) from his knowledge of Shakespeare's "Macbeth" than the Bard of Avon received for writing it.

Tunney did it by matching memories with Professor Jacob Bacchus Taylor, head of the Department of Accounting at Ohio State University.

The two friends were at lunch yesterday when Tunney—who was accused of training for his championship scraps with Jack Dempsey by reading Shakespeare—tossed in a quotation from Act 5, Scene 8 of "Macbeth" to build up a point.

The former champ quoted:

"Lay on, Macduff.

"And damned be him that first cries, 'Hold, enough!'"

Professor Taylor, pretty fair admirer of Shakespeare in his own right, chimed in with:

"You're wrong there, Gene. That quotation should be:

"Lay on, Macduff.

"And cursed be he that first cries, 'Hold, enough.'"

Tunney raised his brows and said: "I'll wager five dollars I'm right."

The Professor came right back with:

"And I'll bet you $5,000 you are wrong."

Tunney punched a finger lightly against the professor's chest and answered:

"You, Jacob, have made yourself a wager."

An early edition of Shakespeare was brought in and Tunney thumbed to Act 5, Scene 8 of "Macbeth." He was right.

Professor Taylor gulped and said:

"You win, Gene. I haven't that amount on me right now, but I'll see you to-morrow."

OBITUARY

MRS. ROBERT THORN.

BAILIEBORO, Feb. 27 (ENS). — Death came on Sunday to Mrs. Robert Thorn of Bailieboro in Nicholls Hospital, Peterborough, after an illness since November. Aged 64 years, she was a daughter of the late James and Elizabeth Fair, and was a noble Christian character.

Surviving are her husband and one son Harold. She was one of a family of six girls, four of whom are living, Miss Minnie Fair, Mrs. William Bradshaw, Mrs. Ada Thorne, and Mrs. Wellford Dawson.

She had lived all her life in the Township of South Monaghan, and was a valued member of Centreville Presbyterian Church. Funeral announcement later.

MRS. CHARLES E. WOULD.

NORWOOD, Feb. 27.—The death of Elizabeth Simpson, widow of Charles E. Would of Asphodel township, occurred in Nicholls Hospital, Peterborough, on Tuesday, February 20, after a short illness.

The funeral was held from the home of her son-in-law, J. Russell Thompson of Norwood, on Thursday afternoon.

Rev. J. U. MacIntosh, pastor of the Baptist Church, Norwood, of which Mrs. Would was a member, conducted the service at the house, church and cemetery. He read Psalm 23 at the house, followed by prayer. The service at the church was taken from the 139th Psalm and St. Matthew 4. He spoke very highly of the life of Mrs. Would. The hymns sung were "Rock of Ages" and "Jesus, Lover of My Soul."

Mrs. Hubbel sang a sacred solo, "Goodnight and Goodmorning."

Mrs. Would was seventy-six years, five months and twenty-nine days old. She was born in Seymour township, eldest of a family of seven children of whom three members survive. In 1891 she was married to Charles E. Would and resided in Seymour until the spring of 1912, moving to Asphodel township, where she resided until her death.

There are left to mourn the loss of a loving mother, two daughters and three sons. They are Mrs. Clarence Taylor, with whom she resided; Mrs. J. Russel Thompson of Norwood; Harry of Toronto, George of Dummer, and Leslie of Peterborough; also two sisters, Mrs. George Elliott of West Huntingdon and Mrs. James Simpson of Dummer; and one brother, William Simpson of Seymour.

The pall-bearers were Fred McMillan, William Mildenhall, James McMillan, Thomas Fry, Harold Little and Allan Simpson.

Interment was in Norwood Cemetery.

ONE FALSE STEP

BY KATHRN BEMIS

SYNOPSIS

Characters as you meet them:

JANIS SHELDON—Orphaned stenographer who inherits $20,000 and goes to Hollywood to make a career in pictures.

ROCK CONOVER—Who has been a prison guard and gives this up also to seek a picture career.

LUCINDA HOLLENBECK— Hollywood hangeron, who preys on susceptible young people with money.

YESTERDAY'S ACTION

Janis, Rock and Lucinda have had dinner on the train while Hollywood bound, and Lucinda and Rock paint a lively picture for Janis. They impress upon her the importance of putting on a "front." Arriving in Los Angeles, Janis is taken to the apartment of Lucinda, getting her first view of the film capital while riding through the city.

CHAPTER V

"But until I do get in pictures, wouldn't it be better to——"

"Really, Janis," Lucinda's tone was indifferent. "If you'd rather I didn't concern myself with your future—if you think you can go it alone——"

"Mercy, no!" exclaimed Janis, fearing Lucinda was deserting her. "I want to take your advice; I'm very grateful."

"Then I'll go phone a real estate girl I know. She'll take us around, show us houses. I don't have a phone. It's such a nuisance—people eternally calling—you know how it is."

Janis assured her that she did know which was not quite truthful. She immediately thought: "I should like to have people call me—a great many people. I want to know—oh, so many people here!"

Looking for a House

Not long after this she and Lucinda were buzzing along wide boulevards in a smart maroon roadster driven by Eve Trout, a modern-mannered bleached blond about Lucinda's age. Janis thought their repartee clever, wished she could learn to talk and act like them.

The confidence they seemed to have in themselves seemed a gift worth cultivating; and the slacks and mannish blouses they wore gave them striking assurance. Lucinda's slacks were wine-colored and needed pressing, and Eve wore soiled white ones in her tall, flat-chested figure, with an air of not caring what any one thought of her or her clothes so long as she pleased herself, and Janis was inclined to admire her for it. She visualized herself in slacks, which she thought might improve her looks by making her seem taller than she actually was; and she decided she must begin to imitate these girls in every way if she expected to get on in this part of the world.

"This is Beverly Hills—where so many film people live," Eve informed Janis, when they were rolling along a broad street, flanked by lacy pepper trees. "There's a darling French Provincial in the next block you'll love. You can lease it for a song. Mary Black, the girl who played opposite Tony Morrell in 'The Great Feather,' owns the place. She's moving into her new house out in Coldwater Canyon."

"Oh, Mary Black! She's wonderful! But her house would be too expensive," said Janis quickly.

"A mere five thousand—and it's a steal," declared Eve.

"Five thou—why, I couldn't think of it! I haven't——"

"Now listen, darling," came smoothly from Lucinda, you'll have to take our tip on how to set yourself right. You can't bury yourself in a cubbyhole in this town and amount to shucks."

"Emphatically not!" seconded Eve.

Janis was bereft of words. Her brain was churning around a simple problem in substraction. Five from twenty left—fifteen! Could that be good arithmetic? Five — from twenty——

But upon seeing Mary Black's architecturally perfect pink stucco house set on a velvet green lawn, outlined on two sides by tall hedges of crimson geraniums, the patio out back with its lily pool and gay umbrella-covered furniture, the badminton and tennis courts, the barbecue oven, Janis fell under the spell of its charm. Especially when Eve gave her the whispered information that she might be able to slash Mary Black's price down to four thousand.

Meeting Mary Black

Mary Black, a sweetly demure, soft-spoken young woman, was astonishingly unlike what Janis had expected to meet. Mary could lay no claim to beauty now, such as she had on the screen, but her dignified reserve was startling contrast to the rapid-fire chatter of Lucinda and Eve.

This Mary Black was more like Janis' girl friends back home. There was nothing artificial about her, nothing to indicate that her ego had expanded with her wide recognition in the cinema world. Janis wished that she could know her better.

And it was Mary Black herself who led the three girls through the elegantly appointed lower floor of the house and on up to the second, where the rooms were divided into suites.

One of these aroused Janis' curiosity. An unmistakable odor of things masculine like black cigars and tobacco-cured pipes clung to the heavy wine drapes and the walnut severity of the sitting room and bedroom. Even the black-and-wine shower and bath were conveniently arranged as a man would have them.

Janis paused beside a row of thick volumes on the open bookshelves. Frankel's "Popular Medicine," Podolsky's "Medicine Marches On," and "History of Medicine," by Haggard, she noted.

Mary Black explained, 'This is my brother's suite. You'd know he's a physician, wouldn't you?"

"I should say he's rather fond of you, Miss Black," remarked Eve. The buff walls of the room, the marble mantel, several walnut tables were decorated by lovely framed photographs of Mary Black as she had appeared in her most famous roles.

Mary Black laughed in a pleased sort of way. "Oh, yes—my brother spoils me. But I don't object too much—he's such a perfect creature."

Another Stranger.

"Talking behind my back, were you?" abruptly asked an agreeably high-pitched voice from the doorway.

The four young women simultaneously wheeled toward the man. He was at least six feet tall and looked to be in his early thirties, Janis thought. His well - proportioned frame was broad-shouldered and his features were stern and clear-cut. Even his large grey eyes with their humorous depths did not make him handsome, although many women would think him homely enough to be called good-looking in an extraordinary way.

His glance flicked over his sister's guests, came to rest on Janis, whose lips were curved in a smile.

"Oh, Steve — how you startled me!" Mary Black exclaimed. "These people are looking at the house, Miss Hollenbeck, Miss Trent, and Miss Sheldon—my brother, Dr. Black."

He bowed courteously to each in turn, murmured a polite "delighted," and stepped over to Janis as if he gave him the greatest delight of all.

"You'd find this house very livable," he said, his gaze wandering ungertainly over the group.

"I'm sure I would," said Janis.

His face lighted. "So! It's you who is house-hunting?"

"Yes," she replied, thinking how fortunate Mary Black was to have such a brother.

"Outside of this suite, the house has interesting features. This is just a man's rough idea of a hangout." His eyes narrowed, settled intently on Janes' eager little countenance. "Your— your husband might find this suite to his liking."

Janis colored furiously. "I'm Miss Sheldon," she hastened to inform him.

"Please forgive me — I thought Mary said 'Mrs.' Your interest in a home misled me. You're looking for your family, I judge — or you're in pictures."

"Oh, no," cut in Lucinda suavely. "Miss Sheldon's alone — but needs a fairly large house to entertain in—she's just come to town."

"She couldn't find anything better suited to her needs than this place," Eve hastened to add.

Dr. Black nodded thoughtfully. He fastened his straightforward look on Janis, but he spoke to his sister. "Mary—must I exit in disgrace—or may I hang around if I promise to improve my manners?"

Mary laughed musically, exactly as Janis remembered her doing on the screen. For a bare second the thrill of this swept aside the hurt of Dr. Black's attitude. Then, abruptly, Janis drew herself up, her face pale with determination. "I'm —I'm 18, Dr. Black—quite able to take care of myself, I hope."

He fussed with his tie, looking as if he were stifling a desire to laugh.

"I can vouch for Miss Sheldon," quickly declared Eve Trout, from the firm of Olds & Olds, you know. She would make a splendid tenant. She's from one of St. Louis' best families."

"You wouldn't need to sue her for house damage after she moved out," put in Lucinda ironically.

Eve scowled, her tongue in her cheek. All this talk sounded pretty cheap to Janis. She was incensed. But she had an unaccountable desire to be well thought of by Dr. Black. After all, her parents had been "best family" to her, even if they hadn't been social register best.

What Will He Say?

Miss Black hastened to say, "Certainly, you'd bring us a responsible person, Miss Trout. We'd be most happy to have Miss Sheldon take the house."

"Yes, indeed," heartily seconded Dr. Black. "Miss Sheldon would be a real decoration here."

Janis said, indifferently, "Thank you. I'll—I'll think it over," and started for the door.

Dr. Black caught up with her and took her arm. He peered whimsically down into her troubled little face as they descended the broad stairs. She felt hreself trembling, and waited for him to speak.

TOPLESS SUITS PAY

SOME of the biggest top scores, including even games that were not dealt into the cards, are made by fine tournament players through bidding four-card suits which contain no top honors. An opponent sitting at the left of such a suit may wind up doubling the contract partly because his honors are located advantageously over the declarer's. His chagrin is deep if he finds those honors in the dummy, sitting over him, where they can kill off his honors.

Most assuredly West had every right to expect his honors to be sitting over the enemy's honors in the heart suit, but he was sadly disappointed when he saw the dummy. He began to fear—and he was right—that he had doubled his opponents into game.

The diamond Q lead to the A was followed by a switch to the club 5, which the A won. Declarer sent the heart 2 to the J, west ducking, returned South with the diamond K and led the heart 8. West ducked again and South let the 8 win, following with the 10 to the A, then a losing club finesse. West fired back another club, then South made West use his last trump on the good diamond 10. This time West returned another club, so the declarer took his last heart, last club and spade A, giving up a spade at the end. He had lost to the opponents only one trick in each suit, making his doubled 3-Hearts for a luscious game.

British Critic Defends Canadian Actors

LONDON, Feb. 27 (CP Cable).—S. R. Little, British theatre critic who was adjudicator of last year's Canadian drama festival, wrote in the Daily Sketch today that he had "read with amazement Maurice Colbourne's attack on the Canadian theatre and amateur players who are bringing to it a new, vigorous life all over the Dominion."

Mr. Littlewood referred to a letter written by Mr. Colbourne to the New York Times in which the actor said Canadian theatres where his company played "Geneva" recently were ill-equipped and called some Canadian Little Theatre players "exhibitionists."

The critic said he would like to know which performances by Canadian amateurs Mr. Colbourne saw and said as an adjudicator he had the pleasure of seeing amateur companies from every part of the Dominion. The result was "one of the most stirring and heartening experiences," he said.

Mr. Littlewood said that not all the acting he saw in Canada was great but many performances were of the highest quality. "The playing, for instance, of Robert Haskins from Clive, Alta., in Tchekov's 'The Bear' was so far from being 'inexpert' that it showed powers quite beyond those revealed by Mr. Colbourne himself in any of the parts I have seen him essay upon the London stage.

Ennismore Club Debates Politics

ENNISMORE, Feb. 27 (ENS). — At a regular meeting of the Young People's Club of St. Martin's parish which was held in the Parish Hall and presided over by President Fergus Crough, a fitting tribute was paid the late Lord Tweedsmuir by Miss Marguerite Mulvihill, who spoke briefly on the life and works of the late Governor-General. During the evening an open political discussion touching on current events was a special feature, after which various games were indulged in by the members.

Junior Red Cross Holds Pie Sale At Trent River

TRENT RIVER, Feb. 27—(ENS). —The Junior Red Cross held a short business session after the afternoon recess at the public school Friday afternoon, with Miss Ethel Shearer in charge. A number of visitors were present. With all standing facing a picture of King George VI the National Anthem was sung, after which all saluted and repeated the pledge of allegiance to our flag, our King and our Empire. Miss Irene Wood presided at the piano.

Miss Erlie Wannamaker read the secretary's report. Miss Irene Wood gave the treasurer's report. All bills in connection with a recent social afternoon were ordered to be paid after which the girls spent a half hour sewing patches for quilt blocks with Mrs. H. B. Wood, Mrs. Gordon Shearer, Misses Ethel and Florence Shearer supervising and the girls are working most enthusiastically to compete the required number of blocks.

The girls of the school were requested to bring a small size pie each, while the boys were to buy them at the auction. Pies of all varieties were arranged around the teacher's desk, while Mr. Harold B. Wood auctioned them off. The prices were not to exceed 15 cents and every pie was disposed of, realizing a total of $3.91 for the Red Cross. Hot cocoa was served at lunch hour, each boy sharing his pie with the girl who brought it for sale.

Clippers Skip Bermuda Stop

NEW YORK, Feb. 27—(AP)—Delivery of uncensored mail to Europe solely through air channels appears likely as a result of an announcement of Pan American Airways that its Clipper planes will omit the Bermuda stop on flights to Portugal, starting March 15.

The company made no mention of British contraband examination of mail at Bermuda, which has caused criticism in some quarters in the United States. It gave as its reasons "better weather conditions" and the fact mid-Atlantic weather reports are being received from two United States' coast guard vessels assigned to special duty.

The Clippers thus return to their original route—direct across the Atlantic eo Horta, the Azores—interrupted last October, when they included Bermuda as a refuelling stop. Pan-American says the direct flight saves five hours.

Officia lair circles attached significance to the new policy which possibly may allow some American mail to reach Germany without allied examination for contraband. Pan American connects at Lisbon with Italian and French air lines. As yet, British air lines have not begun a Lisbon-London shuttle service to connect with the Clippers.

The twice-a-week shuttle service of the company to Bermuda will not be affected.

The route of westbound flights, in which European mail bound for the United States is censored, continues as at present, the planes stopping at Bermuda.

OBITUARY

MRS. MARGARET BRICK

ENNISMORE, Feb. 27.—With the passing of the late Mrs. Margaret Brick—formerly Margaret Maloney—death removed from this community one of its oldest and most respected citizens as well as the last member of a family whose forefathers were closely linked with the earlier history of Ennismore township.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Brick was held on Thursday morning from her late residence to St. Martin's Church, where at ten o'clock Rev. J. C. Moloney of the Sacred Heart parish, Peterborough, a nephew of the deceased, was celebrant at the solemn requiem mass. Assisting Father Moloney were Rev. Paul Costello of Hastings, a cousin of the deceased, and Rev. Simon Perdue of Toronto, a nephew of the deceased's husband, the late John Brick.

Rev. J. V. McAuley of Campbellford preached the sermon, eulogizing the life of this saintly and exemplary Christian mother, whose greatest ambition was the salvation of her own soul and of the souls of those who God had entrusted to her care.

Also present in the sanctuary were C. J. Caroll of Norwood and Rev. V. J. Gillogly, parish priest of Ennismore.

Pall-bearers were the five surviving sons, William, Frank and John of Ennismore, Dr. Michael of Windsor, James of Detroit, and a son-in-law, Mr. William Duffus of Peterborough. Interment took place in St. Martin's cemetery with Rev. Paul Costello officiating.

Other than her five sons the deceased is survived by one daughter, Mrs. William Duffus of Peterborough. Her husband, one son and one daughter predeceased her some years ago.

Among the great numbers of close relatives and friends from a distance who called at the home to pay tribute to the deceased or who were present at the funeral other than the immediate family were: Mrs. James Brick, P. J. Moloney, Ian Moloney of Detroit; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brown of Scarboro; James Moloney, Mike Crough, Mrs. Kathleen McGarritt, Mrs. Myra Hogan of Toronto; Mrs. Paul J. Moloney and son, Scollard of Ottawa; Senator J. J. Duffus and Mrs. Duffus, Mr. and Mrs. Denis Sullivan, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Moloney, Mrs. Harry Connolly, Mr. and Mrs. James Guiry and son, Jimmie, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Hickson and daughter, Katie Perdue, John Perdue, Mrs. Herb. Duffus, W. F. Cavanagh, Patricia Duffus, Messrs. Charles and Joseph Duffus of Peterborough, Mrs. William O'Neill and sons, Joseph and Gerald, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Carrol, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Perdue, Mrs. Lillian Lucas of Downeyville; Mr. and Mrs. Peter Maloney, Mr. and Mrs. Lyola Moloney, of Douro.

The late Mrs. Brick was a daughter of Francis Maloney and Hannah McCarthy, both of whom belonged to pioneer families of Ennismore. An early history of the township relates that in the year 1826—one year after Ennismore was surveyed—the settlement was visited by Sir Peregrine Maitland, accompanied by Col. Talbot and Col. Alexander McDonnell, and they stayed at the shanty of the deceased's grandfather, the late Eugene McCarthy.

In 1861 and 1862 Stephen McCarthy, an uncle of the late Mrs. Brick was reeve of the township and in later years another uncle, Jeremiah McCarthy, held that position.

The deceased was the last member of her family to pass away. A brother, Dr. Paul J. Moloney of Ottawa having predeceased her but a few months ago.

Nazi Flier Gives Dutch A Scrap

THE HAGUE, Netherlands, Feb. 27 (CP).—Netherlands government officials prepared a strong protest to Germany today after a German airplane was reported to have engaged a Netherlands plane over the province of Noord Brabant. The German plane escaped southward over Belgium.

A government communique said another protest would be made against a territorial violation by a second Nazi plane near Woudenberg, east of Utrecht. It was driven off by anti-aircraft fire.

Meanwhile, German-Dutch economic negotiations began here.

Chief negotiator for Holland is Dr. H. M. Hirchfield, director-general of commerce and industry, and for Germany, Dr. Paul Walter, of the Reich ministry of supply.

Oyster Supper Is Held In Warsaw

WARSAW, Feb. 27—(ENS).—The oyster supper put on by the Presbyterian ladies on Wednesday evening was a delightful affair, and well attended. The long tables were beautifully decorated with bouquets of daffodils and narcissai. The oyster soup was perfectly cooked, and a delicious vegetable soup was prepared for those who did not like oysters. There seemed no end to the tempting cakes and pies. The program was out of the ordinary with Hector Munro presiding. The fish contest was won by Mrs. George Moore. A song was sung "Merrily, Merrily All" by seven children unaccompanied. Mrs. Trevor Watts recited "Friday Bargain Day." The Hillbilly Band was quite entertaining and the players seemed to thoroughly enjoy themselves. Mary Hendren and Jean Lonsberry sang.

"No man amounts to much unless he has a good nagger for a wife," the pastor said.

Fuller Residence Razed By Fire

TWEED, Ont., Feb. 27 (ENS)—Fire of unknown origin totally destroyed the house and contents of Mrs. William Gowdy, of the village of Fuller, Huntingdon township. Mrs. Gowdy was alone at the time and neighbors noticed the flames coming through the roof and an alarm was given.

A large number gathered, but the flames had gained such advance, that only some of the contents in the lower level of the building were saved. The building, which was of frame structure, was partially covered by insurance.

While hurrying to the scene of the fire at Fuller, Mr. Gordon Mitts' truck collided with some cows that were on their way to a spring for their daily drink. Upon investigation, it was learned that one of the cows was injured and that its leg was broken. The roads in this part of the township are piled high with snow and motoring is difficult.

Chest Wheezing Means Bronchitis

The principal symptom of bronchitis is a dry, harsh, hacking cough accompanied with a rapid wheezing and feeling of tightness across the chest.

There is a rising of phlegm, especially in the morning. This phlegm is at first of a light color, but as the disease progresses becomes yellowish or greenish, and is sometimes streaked with blood.

You will find in Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup a remedy to stimulate the weakened bronchial organs, subdue the inflammation, soothe the irritated parts, loosen the phlegm and mucus, and help nature to easily dislodge the morbid accumulation.

Tells Of Amazing Benefits Received By Using Syntona

Grateful Lady Says: "Only Those Who Have Suffered As I Did and Have Regained a Normal Degree of Good Health Can Realize What It Will Really Do." Read Her Statement.

MISS G. L. ROGERS

"Words cannot describe the way I suffered with rheumatic pains in my limbs and joints," said Miss G. L. Rogers, 863 Stedwell street, London, in a recent statement.

"My ankles would puff and swell and the pains in my back and limbs caused me to lose many a night's sleep. My circulation was so poor that my hands would turn white in cold weather. I was seldom without a headache. I had become badly rundown and had lost about 12 pounds. My appetite was poor and what little I did eat would sour in my stomach, causing acidity, heartburn and billiousness. Frequently I had dizzy spells; spots in front of my eyes; my tongue was coated and my complexion was poor.

"I feel deeply grateful to a neighbor who recommended Syntona to me for this medicine has proved a real blessing. After taking nine bottles my rheumatic condition had been cleared up and I feel healthier than I did for years. My weight is back to normal for my height and I feel so much better in every way. Only those who have suffered as I did and have regained their vitality and good health can realize what a fine medicine Syntona is."

Syntona is made only from the pure juices of selected herbs, roots and leaves. It produces these results by cleansing the system of excess acids and poisonous waste matter, and by aiding in the assimilation of the food for strength and energy.

Syntona is now being introduced in Peterborough at Elliott's Drug Store. (Advt.)

Kidney Acids Rob Your Rest

Many people never seem to get a good night's rest. They turn and toss—lie awake and count sheep. Often they blame it on "nerves" when it may be their kidneys. Healthy kidneys filter poisons from the blood. If they are faulty and fail, poisons stay in the system and sleeplessness, headache, backache often follow. If you don't sleep well, try Dodd's Kidney Pills—for half a century the favorite remedy. 103

500 Britons, Canadians Near Finland

Quarter Of Volunteer Force Raised; Roosevelt In Charge?

LONDON, Feb. 28 (CP)—About 500 British volunteers, including several Canadians, members of an international brigade organized to help Finland against Russia, were disclosed today to be already on their way to the northern war fronts.

This first contingent comprises about a quarter of the international force enlisted in Britain to give unofficial military aid to the Finns, supplementing undisclosed quantities of war materials which the British government has sent Finland.

It was reported that Kermit Roosevelt, son of the late United States President, Theodore Roosevelt, was considered for the post of Comander of the brigade by Field-Marshall Baron Carl Gustaf Mannerheim, Finland's commander-in-chief.

Roosevelt was commissioned as a second lieutenant in the British army soon after war started.

While the international brigade has no status in Britain, its members will wear battle dress like that of the British army with silver collar badges carrying the letters "I.-N." for International. They are to use British war materials already in Finland.

British organizations are continuing to collect money, clothing, medical supplies, ambulances and fire engines for Finland. One organization announced today it has raised $688,000.

Nearly 500 Hungarian volunteers recently passed through London en route to Finland and another party is expected to reach here shortly.

Meanwhile a movement for still more aid to the embattled Scandinavian nation gained momentum with some suggesting that an expeditionary force be sent.

Talk of such an expedition has been inspired by contention that the aid already given Finland is not sufficient to turn the tide of war against the Red army. Leslie Hore-Belisha, former War Secretary, and Commander Oliver Locker-Lampson, Conservative member of parliament, are among those who recently have urged large-scale assistance.

As envisaged by proponents, an expeditionary force would give the Finns relief in the form of trained manpower and at the same time strike at Russia, thus stalling any Soviet economic assistance to blockaded Germany. The reasoning here is that Russia would have few supplies to spare once she was matched against a well-armed and numerically strong foe.

With the Western front still practically static, the Allies are said to be turning to a broad concept of strategy. Finland and the middle east are looked upon by the highest military and naval authorities as potential fields for flanking attacks on Russia and Germany.

It is noteworthy that despite recent Finnish reverses circles close to

Food Front Britain's One Major Weakness Lloyd George Warns—Sees Lesson That Cost Germany Last War, Forgotten

LONDON, Feb. 28.— (CP).— David Lloyd George, addressing a meeting sponsored by the National Defence and Public Interest committee, to-day urged the government to "make it clear" that air attacks on civilians will bring retaliation.

The former prime minister, one of the principal negotiators of the Versailles treaty, declared that "when peace comes it must no longer be a sham pact that will not stand the first shower that falls upon it."

"And certainly it must be a peace that will not be a betrayal of our principles, our pledges, our promises and our trust," he declared.

"There is one thing I want to say as an old war prime minister: Better a long war than a mean get-out."

"If you want a short war," he continued, "you must be thoroughly prepared for a long one and the enemy must know it—a long one on all fronts.

"My theme to-day is that at least on one vital front, in my judgment, we are not fully prepared, and that is food supplies."

He urged that Britain remember that the army and the nation must eat, declaring: "Germany forgot it the last time. She centred on her great armies. She was starved to surrender. She learned the lesson. Have we?"

"Every acre of land in this blessed Isle must make its full contribution to national safety before we reach the fateful crisis," he declared.

He said there are "millions upon millions of acres of 'weed land' going to waste," and asserted "we have five million more mouths to feed and six million less tons of shipping to feed them with than in 1914-18."

Mr. Lloyd-George said Germany, learning the lesson of the last war, now had doors open to Russia, Italy and Rumania for supplies, while of Britain he said: "Frankly, in respect of food we are not so well off as we were the last time for a long war."

Referring to clamor for intervention in Finland, the former Prime Minister said: "Don't run any more risks. I would not allow any reckless or inconsiderate steering on icy roads to skid us into war with Russia. It is a big job we have undertaken. It will need all our strength to get through."

Finland Silent On Red Gains About Viipuri

Enemy Losses Heavy Scanty Report Says Of Fighting

HELSINKI, Feb. 28 — (AP). — The Finnish high command in only a brief reference to Russia's important drive on Viipuri on the Karelian Isthmus to-day said the "enemy suffered heavily" in fighting in which the Finnish troops "fought defensive actions."

In this fighting, which occurred yesterday, several Russian tanks were destroyed, the Finns said, and "artillery activity was lively on both sides."

This was the least space given to the Isthmus fighting in the daily communique for some time. Yesterday's statement disclosed that the Russians were threatening to encircle Viipuri with a drive across the island-dotted and ice-crusted Bay of Viipuri.

Of the war in the air the high command said that "enemy air activity in the war zone was concentrated on the Karelian Isthmus and the area north-east of Lake Ladoga."

The Finns said they repulsed Russian attempts to advance north-east of Lake Ladoga and that "operations against surrounded enemy positions continued" at Kuhmo, farther north.

The Finns said thei rown air force "bombed enemy troop columns," munitions dumps, communications, and certain military objectives on the Gulf of Finland and its coasts."

Of the Arctic front, where the Finns yesterday disclosed a withdrawal southward to Nautsi, on the Norwegian border about 75 miles below the coast, to-day's communique said only that "a few enemy aircraft were observed," and "bombs dropped by the enemy caused no appreciable damage."

Wants To Be Re-wed

New Bedford, Mass., Feb. 28.

JUDGE MAHEW HITCH considered today a petition by which Mrs. Ellen Garcia, 22, seeks to annul her marriage to her stepfather, Manuel Garcia, 44, in order that they might be re-wed in a state which permits such alliances.

Married two years ago after the death of Garcia's first wife, the two were convicted of morals charges and sent to prison. A state supreme court justice ruled recently that no crime had been committed and revoked the three to five year sentence imposed on Garcia, who had served about 18 months.

French Bag Two Nazi Planes In Mass Raid

PARIS, Feb. 28.— (AP).— The downing of two German planes which took part in massed German flights over France during the past 48 hours was announced today by the French High Command.

These were in additioin to two other German planes — Heinkel bombers — which the British Air Ministry announced yesterday had been shot down on Britain's east coast after the German fliers had crossed France and the English channel.

The French did not reveal whether their pursuit planes or anti-aircraft batteries were responsible for the two enemy craft destroyed over France.

The High Command's announcement said:

"In the course of particularly live aerial operations in the last 48 hours, two German planes were downed in France."

Considerable firing by French anti-aircraft batteries was directed at German squadrons which flew over Paris area Monday night. Six Parisians were wounded by one anti-aircraft shell.

The French said both sides had made deep incursions into the other's territory dropping propaganda

Nazi Raider Leaves Scene Trailing Smoke As Fishermen Return Shot For Shot

LONDON, Feb. 28.—(CP).—The Aurora, one of four British trawlers attacked by German warplanes yesterday, engaged in a 20-minute machine-gun battle with two of them and drove them off, one with smoke streaming from its tail and losing altitude, it was learned to-day.

An incendiary bomb and machine fire struck the 225-ton Aurora, out of Aberdeen. Captain Alexander Craig and the chief engineer returned the fire.

One of the four bombs rained at the Aurora hit the ship in the bow and started a fire. Disregarding his own danger, the trawler's second engineer grabbed an extinguisher and put out the blaze, while his fellow officers peppered away at the two planes.

The other three trawlers attacked off the north-east coast of Scotland were the Bilsdean, Craigcoilleach and Strathran-Noch. Although the ships were riddled with machine gun bullets, the Aurora's cook, who was hit in the arm, was the only one wounded in the four attacks.

The Aurora, the 24-ton Bilsdan and the 233-ton Craigcoilleach put into port. The Strathrannoch, remained at its fishing post.

The Bilsdean and Craigcolleach were fishing side by side when they were attacked by a lone German plane. Machine gun bullets swept their decks, but the plane's bombs missed the double target.

The Aurora's crew had the most dramatic story to tell, of a running 20-minute battle with two raiders.

The trawler was first attacked by a lone bomber, which was soon joined by a second raider. The captain and engineer immediately manned the ship's Lewis gun, but the planes quickly separated and attacked from opposite sides. Since the trawler mounted only one gun, the captain and engineer could

Plan Comes As Carol Decrees Orders Civil Mobilization

BUCHAREST, Feb. 28—(AP). — Authoritative quarters said to-day Germany had offered to guarantee Rumania's borders in return for huge increases in oil, wheat and other raw material shipments to the Reich.

These sources said the plan was submitted while the Rumanian cabinet considered issuing a royal decree for virtual civil mobilization to accompany military mobilization already undertaken in part.

Acceptance of the German plan, it was said, would oblige Rumania to abandon her plan for civil mobilization and send at least 1,000,000 of her 1,400,000 men under arms back to their jobs in fields and factories.

The German plan also was said to include promise to prevail upon Hungary, Bulgaria and Soviet Russia to abandon their territorial claims on Rumania and sign non-aggression pacts with her.

Germany was reported ready to sponsor a new railway agreement between Rumania and Hungary to make it easier to transport vital supplies to the Reich.

Authoritative quarters said it was extremely doubtful whether Rumania would accept the plan because the price — a virtual Nazi monopoly of her exports—was considered far too high.

The proposed civil mobilization order would give the government control of all industry similar to the plan already in operation in Turkey.

Dr. Karl Clodius, Germany's ace economic expert, postponed a visit to Bucharest until next week. Observers said this was to give Rumania time to study the German plan.

Meanwhile, Rumania was scheduled to call an additional 200,000 reservists to the colors March 1, swelling the army to 1,600,000—virtually general mobilization.

Red Oil for Germmany.

VARNA, Bulgaria, Feb. 28 — (CP-Havas). — Russian oil destined for Germany began to flow into Bulgaria to-day as the 13,500-ton Soviet tanker Tuapse started discharging its cargo here.

The oil is the first instalment to be delivered via Bulgaria of a large amount contracted for by the Reich under its recent trade agreement with Russia. German technicians have been busy recently preparing to build storage tanks at Varna and at the Danube River port of Ruschuk, linked by rail to Varna.

When the Tuapse arrived at Varna last night it turned out to be too big to berth and was forced to anchor in the open roadstead. This morning tow small Italian tankers chartered by the German government, the Torpelo and Teleno, were put to work transferring the oil ashore. They ma yalso serve as temporary storage tanks for part of the oil until permanent tanks are built ashore.

Struck By Train 2 Courtland Men Are Killed

TILLSONBURG, Ont., Feb. 28.— (CP)—Melvin Armstrong, 80, of Courtland, and Martin Bilger, 75, of R.R. 2, Courtland, were killed today when their car was demolished by a fast Wabash freight train near Courtland Station, about six miles east of here.

Armstrong was believed to have been driving the auto.

The car was carried half a mile by the train, with the bodies still in the wreckage. The crossing where the crash occurred is protected by a wig-wag warning signal.

Both Armstrong and Bilger are well-known district residents.

They were driving south from Courtland on the way to Langton and evidently did not see the westbound freight, although two trucks were halted on the other side of the tracks waiting for the train to pass.

Conductor J. L. Billings of St. Thomas was in charge of the train, with D. C. Eden of St. Thomas as brakeman.

Armstrong is survived by his widow and one daughter, Mrs. A. Roison of Courtland, and Bilger by a widow and three children.

3 Motorists Hurt

GLENCOE, Ont., Feb. 28.—(CP)— Three men were injured slightly when their car was struck by a Canadian National Railways freight train at Glencoe crossing today.

The injured: Jack Carrothers, 25, of Ekfrid Township, driver of the car, concussion; Stewart McNeil, 24, of North Caradoc, cuts and bruises; and Stewart Thompson, 22, of Mount Brydes, head wounds and body injuries.

521 Red Planes Shot Down Raiding Finns

HELSINKI, Feb. 28—(AP).—Finnish sources announced today 521 Russian planes have been shot down since the start of the war.

These sources estimated the total value of these planes at 2,500,000,000 Finnish markka ($42,500,000), or five times the Finnish financial losses due to bombings.

The Finns reported 1,310 Russian tanks have been destroyed or captured. Many were said to have been repaired and used by the Finns.

Citizens who contribute jewelry to national aid defence funds will be given iron rings in exchange, the Finns announced. The rings will carry the image of a fighting plane.

Meanwhile, Red army troops were reported smashing southward deeper

Farmer Jailed As Bank Robber

SARNIA, Ont., Feb. 28—(CP).— Sherwood K. Parsons, 21-year-old Elgin County farmer, was arrested here early today and charged with armed robbery in connection with the holdups of a branch of the Bank of Commerce in the village of Shedden yesterday. Police said Parsons had a loaded revolver and $783 in his possession when taken into custody.

Loot in the holdup at Shedden, 10 miles west of St. Thomas, was reported at $1,020. A lone bandit entered the bank at closing time, cowed two employees and two customers with a revolver and fled in an automobile that had been parked outside the bank branch.

Police said that Parsons had two sets of car keys in his possession. No car was found here but authorities quoted Parsons as saying his car was on the Market Square in London.

U.S. Busy On Plan For Better World —After The War, Hull Reveals

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 — (AP). —Cordell Hull, Secretary of State, said to-day that conversations are under way between United States diplomats and governments all over the world in the interest of preventing the forces of autarchy, regimentation, and economic totalitarianism from gaining control after the end of the war.

Mr. Hull revealed that copies of his recent statements concerning contacts made with neutrals with a view of establishing a better world order after peace have been sent to all United States representatives abroad, so that these diplomats could call them to the attention of the governments to which they are accredited.

Asked at his press conference whether this referred solely to the capitals of neutral nations, Mr. Hull said it meant all capitals.

The action was taken, he said, with a view of preparations for post-war adjustments, economic and military. He emphasized that the conversations had nothing to do with conditions during the war.

If the forces of peace and stability—especially economic forces—Mr. Hull said, are not organized preparatory to the transition and reconstruction period after the war, the forces of autarchy and regimentation and economic totalitarianism probably would have the same tendency they had after the First Great War.

This tendency, he said, was to spread their practices on an ever-narrowing and more disastrous basis, through increasing areas of the world, with much worse destructive effects than followed a similar policy after 10 years of the post-war period.

The Secretary of State refused to go at this time into the nature of the reaction from governments already communicated with, except to say his preliminary impression was that it was favorable.

He also said he could not say at this time whether any of these governments had submitted specific plans or programs.

Bombing Coup?

Romanshorn, Switzerland, Feb. 28 (AP)

INHABITANTS along the Swiss shore of Lake Constance were startled this afternoon by what sounded like an air raid on the old zeppelin works across the lake near Friedrichshafen, Germany.

A heavy fog screened the factories, which now are making warplane motors, from the view of the Swiss, but German anti-aircraft batteries along the German shore were heard firing sporadically for nearly 15 minutes around 3 p.m., and the sound of plane motors was heard.

Gough Proposes War At Once With Russians

LONDON, Feb. 28 — (CP). — General Sir Hubert Gough, commander of the British Fifth Army in France during the last war, today urged Great Britain and France to go to war at once with Soviet Russia.

"Our open resistance to Russian aggression now will go a long way toward influencing Italian policy in our favor," General Gough argued in an article in the "English-speaking World."

"This is a point of great importance, for the eventual attitude of Italy is still entirely uncertain," he said.

"A comparatively small use of our sea power could cut Russian communications in the Arctic. It would not call for an effort beyond our resources, while probably saving a much greater effort later."

Raging Streams Swamp Berkeley

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 28—(AP). —A cloudburst sent three raging streams down on Berkeley, Calif., and caused damage estimated at $100,000 within 10 minutes today.

Harry Goodrich, city engineer of Berkeley, who estimated the damage, said the most severely-struck sections "look as if they had been hit by an earthquake."

Already, through many parts of Northern California, floods had forced some 3,000 persons from their homes and caused great property and crop damage.

Dutch Batteries Kept Busy On Trespassers

AMSTERDAM, Feb. 28 (AP) — Netherlands anti-aircraft batteries fired during the night on foreign aircraft which flew too high to be identified.

For more than five hours, ending at 3 a.m., Amsterdam batteries blazed away intermittently at the unwelcome visitors, as they had done also on Monday and Saturday nights. It was not disclosed whether any hits were scored.

For the second time, an unexploded shell ripped through a house from garret to cellar. Last Saturday, a schoolhouse in the heart of the city was damaged; today, a three - inch projectile crashed through three floors of a residence near the beds of sleeping residents.

(The German news agency claimed "German observers" had established "beyond the possibility of mistake" that British planes were flying over the Netherlands to and from Germany.

(In London the air ministry declined comment on this German charge. In unofficial circles, however, it was recalled that Netherlands have been frequent, while only on one or two occasions has a protest been lodged in London.

(Only a week ago a German plane went so far as to fire on a Netherlands plane which had tried to intercept it over Netherlands territory.)

War Orders Step Up Manufacturing Over Ontario—Steel Gets Fever

TORONTO, Feb. 28.—(CP).—War orders are stimulating manufacturing in all sections of the province, according to the weekly labor report issued to-day by Labor Minister Hipel.

The orders range from gas masks to airplanes, it was revealed. Demand for skilled labor is constant.

Registration of unemployed show a steady decrease at Brantford. Present indications point toward higher production levels in iron and steel. All textile establishments in the district are busy, with some operating day and night shifts. Two companies are contemplating opening up in Chatham shortly. Factories are working with normal staffs.

A construction company has been awarded the contract for construction of temporary accommodation at an elementary flying training school at Fort William and work is expected to start next week. Railways are still very busy.

Hamilton reported manufacturing in a very healthy condition. War orders are being given preference and planes are operating to full capacity to complete these orders as soon as possible.

A locomotive company at Kingston is increasing staff with competent mechanics whenever they are available. A shipbuilding company expects plates and other materials in about a month.

A rubber company at Kitchener is taking on girls to complete a war order. Box factories at London are working full time, as are shoe and textile companies. Work on the airport is expected to start next week.

A large motor firm at Oshawa is recalling former employees of the truck production line. Skilled and semi-skilled workers are being sent from Ottawa to the R.C.A.F. at Victoria Island, daily. Supply, however, exceeds demand at present.

Demand for skilled help is increasing at St. Catharines and pay-rolls are reported increasing. Heavy movement of freight and grain is reported through the Sarnia terminal.

Daily Anti-British Hymn Of Hate Keeping Germans At War Pitch

LONDON, Feb. 28—(CP). — The German radio beats an incessant anti-British "hymn of hate" into the ears of the people of the third Reich and beyond.

No matter what the occasion Prime Minister Chamberlain is always "Der Oberkriegshetzer Chamberlain," or "Archwarmonger Chamberlain." The British Empire is never mentioned without being preceded by "blood-stained," "dripping with blood" or "blood-thirsty." The British navy invariably is termed "the British pirates."

A reputed veteran often is brought before the microphone to tell a blood-chilling tale of ill-treatment at the hands of the British in the last war. And despite internationally-accepted evidence to the contrary, the inglorious defeat of the pocket battleship Graf Spee is still put down to use of gas shells by the British cruisers that put it to flight or to what is termed the partial treatment of the Uruguayan Government.

These are only a few of the many ways in which the radio is used by the Hitler regime to drum Germans up to war pitch. The extent of this became known when the British Broadcasting Corporation opened an international "listing post" at which the outflow of foreign stations is recorded 24 hours a day.

This revealed that the Nazis follow three main themes in their radio-ranting against the British Empire. Tireless are the efforts to make the word British synonomous with rottenness and to picture the Empire as falling apart at the seams. The lower class Briton forever is being told that he is the tool of plutocrats, that he is a victim of exploitation by the moneyed-class.

In short wave broadcasts aimed at the colonies and other parts of the commonwealth Nazi announcers harp on the theme that the Old Country exploits them only for her own benefit, that she is a leech at the colonial breast.

LONDON, Feb. 28 (CP)—The blackout and ARP raise problems for every Briton, but few more poignant than that which beset an "angry mother" in Hampstead whose daughter's love life was fraught with interruptions.

The borough's ARP bulletin quoted this anonymous woman as saying that "a warden round here is not playing fair." She said, according to the bulletin, that her daughter always met "her boy" in an air raid shelter.

Premier Paints Dark Scene Of Long Conflict

WINNIPEG, Feb. 28 — (CP). — Prime Minister Mackenzie King, painting a dark picture of a long and widespread war, opened his Western election campaign with a plea for return of his government as "the ablest body you can bring together, of one mind and one purpose, to serve you in your war effort."

Speaking here last night at the first of two meetings he will address in Western Canada, the Prime Minister warned his listeners the next Parliament would be a "war parliament" and that the government would have power of life and death over Canadian citizens.

It was the grave responsibility of government to initiate measures which meant the sacrifice of Canadian lives. No man would seek that responsibility except as a high patriotic duty.

"Who will say what we will see before this terrible period is over?" the Prime Minister asked. "Your individual and personal fate will be at stake in the next few years.

Drastic Shakeup Coming

"No person here will find himself in the fortunate position two years hence, that he is in tonight, unless I am greatly mistaken.

"Demands are going to be made upon us, the like of which we have never known. The world today demands experienced men to administer the affairs of every country. For that reason and that alone we are asking you to support us at the present time."

To the Conservative party and those who might wish to support it the Prime Minister said they had the right to know what men Conservative Leader Manion planned to put in his proposed National Government, and what policies would be initiated.

The Prime Minister also had a message for the Social Credit and Co-operative Commonwealth Federation parties. "There are times, undoubtedly, when economic questions

Man's Hip Broken By Falling Tree

LIFFORD, Feb. 28—(ENS).—His left leg badly broken near the hip when a falling tree pinned him to the ground, Melvin Wright, farmer and trucker near here, will lie in hospital in Lindsay for close to two months.

Mr. Wright and a farmhand, Frank Cook, were felling trees in a woodlot on Mr. Wright's property yesterday afternoon when the accident occurred. A large maple became lodged and when the two freed it, the tree fell in a different direction to that which they anticipated. Both men started to run and Cook succeeded in escaping the path of the tree, but it caught Wright, pinning him to the ground. Cook worked frantically to free him, and after some time succeeded. He attempted to carry the injured man to his home a mile away but was forced to put him down after travelling part of the way and seek assistance.

Mr. Wright was rushed to Lindsay hospital and physicians reported the broken leg to be a severe one. He is not expected to leave hospital for between six and eight weeks.

OBITUARY

JOSEPH LINDSEY.

Death came on Tuesday to Joseph Lindsey at his home on Western Avenue, North Monaghan township, after a long illness. Mr. Lindsey, a former lumber contractor and laborer, had been ill for the past eight years. He was in his 70th year.

Born in Tweed, he was a son of the late Richard Lindsey and Sarah Rogers and came to North Monaghan from Campbellford a good many years ago. He was a member of Bethel Baptist Church.

Surviving are his sorrowing wife and eight children: four sons, Joseph, Manson, Leslie and Arnold; and four daughters, Mrs. William Stewart of Buckhorn, Mrs. R. Hills of Toronto, Mrs. Earl Iaporte of Highland Grove, and Miss Stella Lindsey at home.

The funeral will be on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Duffus Funeral Home, Rev. Leonard Jones of Bethel Baptist Church officiating. Interment will be at Little Lake Cemetery.

JAMES ROGER STEWART.

The funeral of James Roger Stewart took place on February 23 from the Brown Brothers Funeral Home, Toronto. Mr. Stewart died in Toronto Western Hospital after an illness of three months' duration. The service was conducted by the Rev. J. A. C. Kell, pastor of Fairbank United Church, and interment was made at Little Lake Cemetery, Peterborough.

Mr. Stewart was born in Otonabee Township on December 1, 1862, son of the late Samuel Stewart and Mary Brown, who were pioneer settlers. He farmed in Otonabee until 1921, when he moved to Peterborough. In 1932 he went to Toronto.

He is survived by a brother and sister, both of whom reside in Toronto.

On the arrival of the cortege at Little Lake Cemetery a short service was held in the chapel. Pallbearers were Ormie Stewart, Garnet Brown, Richard Stewart, Dougall Matchett, Fred Collins and Beecher Matchett.

A large number of friends and neighbors attended the service on Friday to pay their last respects to one whom they had reason to honor as a man and a friend.

Two Boys Of 16 Given Life For Slaying

DEDHAM, Mass., Feb. 28 — (AP) —Two 16-year-old boys, who engaged in a grim game of armed robbery while their 'teen-aged companions played scrub football nearby, went to prison for life yesterday for the slaying of a night watchman in a case unique in Massachusetts criminal records because of their youth.

Under indictment for first degree murder— a charge carrying the mandatory death penalty in this State—Arthur Cray and Irwin Nelson, both of Quincy, accepted District Attorney Edmund Dewing's offer to reduce the charge and let them plead guilty to the second degree slaying of Emil Carson, 45.

"I believe these young men should never again be allowed to mingle with society," Dewing told the court. "I believe that it is the first time in the history of this State that we have had two youths charged with first degree murder."

The arrest and arraignment of the youths followed the shooting of Carlson and a series of penny-ante armed holdups which netted them a total of only forty-five cents.

Dewing suspended prosecution on the robbery indictments.

hours a day since the war began told of some of the things he heard in an article in the London Daily Telegraph. He wrote:

"The martial note, which was so prominent in Nazi peace-time broadcasting, has now been greatly intensified. War is presented as just that rousing cavalcade of story book heroics which 1914-18 taught us it is not.

"The atmosphere of airfields, submarine bases, mechanized units comes with compelling realism from the loudspeaker. Everywhere the travelling microphone finds nothing but triumph and inspiration. There are interminable march programs with effects designed to imitate the tramp of army boots. No sentimental melodies of the 'Long Way to Tipperary' kind. 'Mit bombem and granaten' (with bombs and grenades) is a title typical of scores."

One part of German radio propaganda that seems to be undergoing change is that directed by the Oxford-accented German broadcaster known as Lord Haw Haw. For months he attacked things British from every conceivable angle. Now, however, he spends the greater part of his time denying everything that in anyway reflects on Nazidom. That would seem to indicate Haw Haw is on the defensive.

War Bulletins

Received By Examiner Over Canadian Press Leased Wire

LONDON — (CP). — The Contraband Control examined 133 neutral ships during the week ending February 24, the Ministry for Economic Warfare announced to-day.

Seventy-seven of the ships availed themselves of the "navicert" system of prior certification of cargo by a British Consul. Of these, 42 were said to have been released after the simple formality of checking their papers.

LONDON — (CP). — Food Minister W. S. Morrison announced today that Britain's whisky production must be cut to one-third of the 1939 output because of the shortage of grain for live stock. Similarly, he said, consumption of sugar by breweries must be reduced 30 per cent.

PARIS — (CP-Havas). — The Army High Command's morning communique to-day reported:

"Patrol activity together with some artillery fire along certain points of the front."

Abandoned At Sea.

LONDON — (CP). — The abandoning of the Estonian steamship Orion in a sinking condition after it sprang a leak in a storm was disclosed to-day when a trawler landed 16 members of the crew, including three women, at a Scottish port. The vessel was of 770 tons.

LONDON — (CP). — Lord Horne, former Chancellor of the Exchequer, told shareholders of the Great Western Railway to-day that passenger services now have increased to about 80 per cent. of the peacetime normal, but added:

"Let us not disguise from ourselves that we, and all our long tradition of decent life, are in jeopardy. This war will be far more bitter than the last. It is already more brutal."

LONDON — (AP). — Captain Harold Balfour, Under-Secretary for Air, told the House of Commons today that one of three 31-ton flying boats built for Britain's proposed trans-Atlantic service was damaged recently and another was returned to the makers for modification. He said they would be used when service starts in June.

Two Pole Leaders Shot.

PARIS. — (CP-Havas). — Two noted Polish industrial leaders of the city of Lodz were shot by the Germans when they refused to sign declarations accepting German nationality, the official Polish information centre charged to-day.

They were Robert Geyer, president of the Chamber of Industry and Commerce of Lodz and owner of one of the best known textile factories in Europe, and Guido John, owner of a metallurgical plant.

STOCKHOLM. — (CP-Havas).—The Swedish Association of Merchant Marine Captains to-day called on the Swedish Government to take steps together with other neutral states to terminate the war now being waged against neutral shipping.

HELSINKI. — (AP). — Finns fighting for the life of their nation, paused in their war against Russia to-day to honor the memory of Dr. Elias Lonnrot who published 105 years ago the Kalevala, the epic of Finland's mythical origin and model on which Longfellow based the metrical pattern of his Hiawatha.

Liberals Concentrate On Prairies But See Major Battle In Ontario

(By the Canadian Press.)

The Liberal campaign focussed today on Manitoba and Saskatchewan, where there was a strong party following in the last parliament, but in Ottawa political circles it was indicated that possibly the most vital election fight will be between the Government and the Conservatives in Ontario.

In the final two weeks of the campaign leading Liberal and Conservative speakers probably will devote most of their energies to Ontario, where the Liberals held 56 seats at dissolution and the Conservatives 25. The other seat was a United Farmer of Ontario — Labor.

In the meantime, Government campaigners ranged into the West. Prime Minister Mackenzie King and Justice Minister Lapointe spoke in Winnipeg last night and presented the Government's case for re-election to the voters of Manitoba where the Government held 13 of the 17 seats when parliament was dissolved. Tomorrow the Prime Minister speaks at Prince Albert, Sask., in which province the Liberals held 15 of 21 seats. Conservative Leader Manion speaks at Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., tonight.

An Experienced Regime.

Mr. Mackenzie King said his government has the experience and grasp of Canada's problems which it would take a new administration a long time to acquire. He declared that the Liberals are appealing for support to carry on the war effort because they think it will be in the interest of Canadians and not merely because they want power.

It was the Prime Minister's first platform speech of the campaign and he discussed the sudden dissolution of parliament and defence expenditures. Mr. Lapointe recalled the Liberal victory in the Quebec Provincial election last fall and said he was going through every province to preach the same doctrine that brought victory in Quebec.

The Government continued to press the campaign and far outnum-

Golf First

London, Feb. 28 (CP)

VISCOUNTESS ASTOR told the Golf Union a new story about the Graf Spee today which, she said, had been recounted to her by an officer of H.M.S. Exeter, one of the cruisers which participated in the battle with the German raider.

The story concerned one of the merchant skippers held prisoner on the Graf Spee. Although his ship was about to be blown up, the skipper went back to his cabin for his golf clubs and came aboard the Graf Spee with the bag slung over his shoulders.

The moment he reached the raider's deck, he astonished his captors by asking them to send a message to Montevideo cancelling an engagement he had made for a golf match there the following week-end.

Lady Astor did not say whether the Germans sent the message.

Want Canadians

MONTREAL, Feb. 28 (CP)—The Montreal Herald says today two United States Oil Companies are recruiting about 120 Canadian ship's officers and seamen to sail oil tankers through belligerent waters. The recruiting is reported to have been revealed when officers of the Canadian Seamen's Union here admitted they had been approached to obtain the men.

Wages 25 per cent above normal are said to have been offered to the men.

Several Injured

LONDON, Feb. 28 (CP) — The press association said today that several members of the crew of the battleship Nelson had been injured when the vessel was holed by a mine in December.

Winston Churchill, first Lord of the Admiralty, announced in the house of commons yesterday that the Nelson was damaged by enemy action but he gave no details.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, Feb. 28 — (CP). — A brisk buying wave at the opening established early gain on Winnipeg Grain Exchange today, but trading turned dull.

Wheat futures prices were ⅝ to ¾ up at the close, with May at 89½, July 90½, and October 91⅝ cents.

The trend, following the lead at Chicago, slumped after mid-session and offerings came out to aid in the decline. Export and commission houses supplied most of the buying orders.

Routed by the Finnish forces, the 44th Russian division fled leaving behind them a litter of army equipment spread behind them for a distance of 10 kilometres, LOWER RIGHT.

Electors Are Told To Consider Policies Two Parties Rather Than The Candidates

"I have nothing against Mr. Glover; he has been a personal friend of mine for many years, but I have a good many things against his leader, Mr. King," declared John R. Corkery in addressing a well-attended Fraser meeting in Harmony Hall, Douro, on Tuesday night.

"This is a time of national crisis, of national emergency, and it is the duty of every elector to pay particular attention to the policies of the opposing political parties, rather than to the individual candidates," Mr. Corkery said, in developing his argument that the all-important feature of the present campaign was whether or not a national government should be substituted for the purely party government of Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King.

The candidate, Gordon K. Fraser, and E. A. Peck, K.C., were other speakers, and Wallace Anderson was chairman. Moving pictures of the scuttling of the Graf Spee and other news shorts were shown, Mr. Fraser handling the projector himself.

Referring to the fact that he had known Mr. Fraser for years and knew something of the help he and Mrs. Fraser had been to many people in their neighborhood, Chairman Anderson said that he had only one regret. "I wish he lived in Douro," he remarked.

Mr. Peck's Address.

"Gordon Fraser is a man of energy and ability, a good business man and you can't go wrong in selecting him as your representative at Ottawa," remarked E. A. Peck, K.C., after a word of thanks for the kindness he had he personally had always received from the electors of Douro. "We are here on a special mission to-night," he said, "owing to the entirely unexpected and unnecessary action of Mackenzie King in dissolving Parliament after it had been called together for the purpose of transacting public business."

Although in the matter of declaring Canada in a state of war, Mr. King had taken the position that Parliament must be consulted and although he had declared in answer to Premier Hepburn's criticism that Parliament was the place to answer such complaints, he nevertheless had "trotted over to the Governor-General after a session of only a few hours and had the House dissolved."

"Got Cold Feet."

"For some reason or other," said Mr. Peck, "Mackenzie King got cold feet and dissolved Parliament. He has given two or three excuses over the radio where he could not be questioned. One of them was that he could not carry on a war program and at the same time deal with criticisms in the House. Well, if he can't do that he should get off the job and make room for some one who can."

The speaker added that Mr. King, if he should be lucky enough to be returned to power, would still have to face the music. "To turn his back on the Parliament that he has always commended so highly was monstrous," said the speaker. "Do you think that a man like that is the man you want to trust with the tremendous responsibility of seeing that Canada does her full share in the war?"

Predicting that the struggle was certain to last at least two or three years, Mr. Peck said that a national government as proposed by Dr. Manion was vitally necessary in this time of national emergency.

John R. Corkery.

After stressing the importance of voting in this particular election on the issues that stood out, John R. Corkery charged that Premier King had run away from the facts after calling Parliament together. Now he asked to be returned to power. "He is in the same position as a board of directors which refuses to give the shareholders a complete report and then asks to be re-elected," said Mr. Corkery, "and in the same position, too, as a litigant who wants trial by jury with all the evidence concealed.

Pointing out that the Bren gun committee report and all the allegations that had been made in regard to contracts for munitions could not be investigated because Parliament had been scuttled, Mr. Corkery said that the electors of Canada were like a jury that was called on to try a case without having the facts before it. "The statement that the election had been brought on because of the criticism voiced in the Legislature," said the speaker, "is just an alibi. The truth is Mr. King was afraid to face the facts and the questioning he would have received."

No Ordinary Campaign.

Mr. Corkery remarked that this was no ordinary political campaign. It was a time of national crisis and the interests of the country should be placed before the party. The national government offered by Dr. Manion was the logical policy for such a time as this.

"I have every regard for Mr. Glover," concluded the speaker, "but do not forget that a vote for him is a vote for the King Government."

Not Personal Battle.

"This is not a battle between Rollie Glover and myself," said Gordon K. Fraser, the last speaker. "The only issue is that King must go. As for Mr. Glover and myself, I am sure that no matter which of us happens to lose we will still be able to shake hands with a smile when it is all over."

The National Conservative candidate stated that he had been coming to Peterborough County for 40 years and had been a resident of the county for the last quarter of a century and a property owner before that.

Mr. Fraser assailed the King government for its failure to prepare for the war that Mr. King himself admitted that he knew was coming. In the years before the war $188,000,000 had been voted for military needs and to mechanize the army and yet when war broke out Canada was short of equipment that should have been available. There were no fighting airplanes, no tanks, little motorized equipment, and there was a shortage of clothing and other supplies.

Discussing the government's peacetime record Mr. Fraser said the present administration had failed to solve unemployment, it had added almost 4,000 workers to the civil service list, it had been forced to jump the sales tax two cents and to incerase the radio license fees.

"You have to pay $2.50 a year now," he said. "I think it is too much. In fact I am convinced that with the quality of reception we get on CBC stations ten cents a year would be too much." Mr. King he said had always leaned toward the United States and in this connection he charged that the country was being flooded with American hogs on which there was a drawback of 99 per cent.

As an example of King extravagance he wished to call attention to the purchase of a luxurious officers' mess building for the air force in Vancouver at a cost of $94,500 whereas a building could have been furnished to meet every need for $10,000 or $15,000.

The fact that Dr. Bruce, former lieutenant-governor had seen fit to come forward as a candidate for national government because he felt the emergency justified such a government was the best possible endorsation of the Manion policy, the speaker said.

"I am not going to ask you to vote for me," he said in conclusion, "I merely ask you to weigh the issues thoroughly and vote according to your best judgment after due consideration of all that is involved."

The meeting closed with the National Anthem after the audience, at Mr. Fraser's suggestion, had demanded a recitation from Chairman Anderson.

British Agent Describes Arab Capture

OMEMEE, Feb. 28—(ENS).—An interesting story of capture and torture by one of the fierce Arabian tribes was told at Omemee High School this week by Major Carter, a British intelligence officer, who spent many years in the East.

Major Carter spent four and a half in Arabia, Africa and Asia and was captured and held prisoner by the Arabs for a long period. He went blind during his captivity, later regaining his sight. He also spoke of seeing Hitler and Mussolini and showing several colored slides of interesting places, including Italy and Arabia. Major Carter is making a tour across Canada, lecturing at schools.

Colonel J. A. Dewart's enthusiasm for the war effort of the King Government will scarcely be shared by his fellow officers in Peterborough. As a matter of fact this city seems to be entirely off the war map; the only war decoration it has so far received has been a senatorship.

Col. Dewart's old regiment, the Prince of Wales Rangers, a keen and efficient unit has been entirely neglected and its rifles taken away and replaced by ancient Ross weapons. The 4th Battery, with a record second to none among the country's artillery units, has received similar treatment. All but one of its guns have been handed over to a battery that a short time ago existed only on paper.

As for Peterborough individuals who wanted to enlist they have had to wander all over the country at their own expense trying to find a berth in the Canadian Active Service Force.

Recently four Peterborough men journeyed to Kingston in the hope of getting into the army and found that the military board was not sitting that day and they would have to come back. Next day they made a second trip to Kingston, again at their own expense and two were lucky enough to be accepted.

Saturday the other two who had made two fruitless trips to Kingston received a letter from the office of the district recruiting officer for M.D. No. 3 from which this is a quotation:

> "The Prince Edward and Hastings Regiment in Picton are taking on some more men for the next 10 days and if you could make your way there you might stand a chance of getting enlisted. YOU WOULD HAVE TO PAY YOUR OWN EXPENSES TO PICTON AND IF NOT ENLISTED YOUR TRANSPORTATION HOME."

So is recruiting encouraged under the King Government! So is the full measure of youth's willingness to serve curbed by the curious conditions that prevail under the inexplicable enlistment scheme of the present administration!

Dr. Manion believes that patriotic young Canadians who are willing to offer themselves to the country's armed forces are entitled to something better than an invitation to take a third trip at their own expense in the hope that they "might stand a chance of getting themselves enlisted." Hundreds of thousands of other Canadians who have the same opinion will show it by their votes for Manion candidates on March 26.

The Mind Of Stalin

United States Under-Secretary of State, Sumner Welles, is in Europe, having been sent there as a sort of private ambassador for President Roosevelt. In a general way his mission is to find out the prospects of peace. If there is any way of bringing warring nations to the point where they will agree then he wants to bring home such evidence.

One may be right enough in fearing that at the moment his mission is a lost hope, but if Mr. Welles can find a ray of hope then a troubled world may take pleasure enough in looking at it. He has been in Rome talking with Mussolini, and from there it is announced he is going to Berlin to see Hitler, so that man is at least bent on seeing the right people. He will probably have conversations with many of the bigwigs of Europe before he turns toward home.

We see nothing at all wrong in what the man is seeking to do, and if any degree of success comes his way that will be fine. But Russia does not like this Sumner Welles, and it has hastened to announce that he is a trickster, and that "American imperialists are determined to prolong the European war until the last drop of French, British and German blood."

Russia sees United States as a land which is profiting by having large war orders placed with it; it is busy manufacturing while the rest of the world is taken up with fighting.

That attitude gives a fair enough illustration of how difficult it must be to talk reasonably with Russia. Stalin has seen to it that his people are at the outset given an entirely wrong and poisoned impression, and probably Russians today as a result actually believe President Roosevelt has cooked up something which was stewed in trickery and steeped in deceit. Russia has been officially informed that Welles is in Europe to stir up a greater war or to promote the present one to greater ferocity. So what chance would an honest and sincere diplomat from any country have if he desired to talk reasonably and sensibly and earnestly to Stalin? The answer is —none at all.

Is Toronto Very Smart?

When a government passes new laws to secure more revenue by way of taxation that is regarded as a signal for people to look for ways and means to escape payment.

The city of Toronto has bonds outstanding payable in New York funds, and such a bond coming due right now is worth $110 per $100 of face value due to the premium on United States funds.

The Federal Government has a form of bond taxation whereby it steps in and takes one-half of the premium when it is more than five per cent., and also an additional one-half per cent. tax.

In that way the holder of the bond payable in New York funds would actually receive an advantage of 4½ per cent., while the government would take 5½ per cent. of the total 10 per cent. advantage in price.

Toronto had set aside $391,000 as the amount it would have to pay on account of the premium on United States funds, and now this has been reduced to $170,000. Under the original plan Ottawa would have received a revenue of $221,000, but according to Toronto's new scheme Ottawa will receive nothing at all.

How is it to be done? Holders of the bonds are to be asked to turn them in to Toronto where they will be paid $105 for each $100 face value. At that figure the Dominion tax does not become operative. The bond holder will receive his $105 whereas under the usual way he would get $110, out of which he would have to pay $5 of it to the government and an added 50 cents tax, leaving him with an actual return of $104.50.

Possibly the move is quite legal, and by it Toronto will save $5 on each $110 transaction. Toronto civic treasury will get the benefit and the Federal Government will be out that much of its anticipated revenue—$221,000.

We dare say our Federal Government needs that tax money just as much as Toronto needs to save it. Probably more. Our government at Ottawa is going to need more money than at any time in its history, and taking part of the premium on New York funds coming to holders of city of Toronto bonds appears to be a fair enough place to look for revenue. Toronto's plan may be regarded as technically clever, and it may actually mean money in the pocket for the city, but when all that has been argued out what does it amount to? If Ottawa is denied $221,000 of needed revenue will Ottawa not have to get it elsewhere? A plan like that might be worked and applauded were we not in a war year, but when a nation is at war the scheme does not look just right. It smacks rather much of side-stepping and getting out from under. If all people and corporations and municipalities were to start plotting on how they could escape paying taxes to our central government during the war period we would create a strange and unwanted situation. The Toronto scheme may seen to be smart but the trouble is it has been introduced at a time when smartness of that kind is difficult to appreciate.

A Shifting War

Difficult enough to keep the finger on the centre of the war in Europe today. In the latter stages of the war of 1914-18 it was the Hindenburg line. Today the amount of actual warfare along what used to be called the Western front is relatively small.

There can be no doubt that some of the cleverest observers are looking toward the Scandinavian countries, while others, equally well informed, watch the Balkans and Rumania in particular.

It is reported that thousands of Swedes have crossed the border to fight with the Finns against Russia, but as a nation Sweden will have no part in it. She is afraid she might be attacked by Russia and by Germany. If Finland goes down to Russia then Sweden will have Russian bolshevists as neighbors, so Sweden is not happy either way.

Observers watch too when they see trouble in the North looming at the same time as trouble in the East, and they wonder if Germany has been clever enough to see the advantage of scattering Allied forces to several fronts.

Russia wants the nickel mines of Finland, the finest in the world outside of those in Canada, and she wants control of the ice-free shore on the north, reaching out into the North Sea.

There is no question about Germany's interests in the north. Germany draws her iron ore from Sweden, and it is good. It is still being shipped down the Gulf of Bothnia and across the Baltic, and if that supply were in danger of being cut off Germany would fight for it. It is as vital to her existence as the supply of oil and gas.

A war in one section creates causes for war in another. It took Germany years to build the Siegfried Line, and France spent an equal time on the Maginot. Both those nations must have considered that right there was the danger point and the probable centre of war in the future. Today there has been very little war there. For the moment it has shifted to the sea and to Finland. It may shift again to Rumania if Germany cannot get her supplies of oil. It is not possible to take a map and put a finger on a spot today and say "That's where the war is being fought."

Little News 75 Years Ago

A copy of the Weekly Examiner of November 23, 1865, has been preserved by J. H. Johnston, Park Street. That was 75 years ago, and the paper was then in the tenth year of its existence. As a rule when an old issue is reviewed it is customary to refer to the names of people who were then in business as reflected in the advertising pages.

For the moment we prefer to consider how much actual news a paper 75 years ago was publishing. The Examiner of 1865 was four pages and they were large pages too. Half of page one was taken up with advertising, and next in order was a continued story, which came to a conclusion in that issue and terminated with the words: "They were happily married." On the second page there was editorial matter, a report of a town council meeting, and a letter dealing with affairs of the Peterborough Literary Club. Officers had been elected by the British Order of Good Templars. Page three was entirely devoted to advertising, and so was page four with the exception of one column of selected reading which could not be classed as news.

Out of 28 columns in the paper there were 20 columns of advertising. (We mention that to give the business office a headache and a longing for the good old days).

Of course Peterborough was a small place then. There would be no cable news and no telegraph news would be coming. There was no correspondence from any place in the district such as papers feature today, and the cost of providing copy must have been very small indeed. Such a paper should have been profitable.

Develop More Speakers

We read the other day where plans had been completed for a banquet at which there would be no after-dinner speaker. A newspaper in the district sent out a reporter to ask a number of people what they thought of the idea and replies were as interesting as they were varied. Some did not think much of the average after-dinner speakers they had heard, and said they would enjoy such an event with the speaker left out. One thoughtful gentleman said: "We are not developing enough good speakers in our country, and one reason is we do not offer sufficient encouragement or opportunity to our young people."

Tastes differ of course, but for our part we admit to being glad at any time to listen to a good speaker or to one who has a thorough knowledge of some problem. It is an accomplishment to be able to stand up without fear or confusion and address an audience and do it intelligently and in an entertaining way.

It probably is correct that we do not offer much opportunity or encouragement to our young men to develop the art of speaking in public. By way of suggestion we believe it is a field where our service clubs could do something useful. We have in Peterborough five such organizations; three of them meet weekly and two twice a month. They are seeking speakers for their meetings and right there would be the place to give a chance to some of the younger men. We are convinced it would be interesting and it would also be doing something definite toward bringing out and developing such talent as we have in the city or the district.

A good many of these young men are living in a world with which their elders are not acquainted. Possibly some of them have already faced problems in trying to make a start in life of which the present adult generation know nothing at all. If our service clubs and possibly other organizations would give the younger chaps a chance to develop as speakers we might be agreeably surprised at the talent in our midst just waiting to be touched into action.

NOTE AND COMMENT

It begins to look as though China could go on losing the war as long as Japan can stand to keep on winning it.

One critic has already remarked "If the political candidates tell us what they actually know and no more then we shall have a short and quiet campaign."

Windsor had a chance to collect $300,000 in poll tax last year, but secured only $6,100. Looks as though they just passed the collection plate and let it go at that.

Planes leaving Winnipeg have in the last eight months carried 1,500 women passengers, so it looks as though Canada was responding well enough to the opportunity of taking to the air.

Sixteen members of the British parliament are in the Royal Air Force leading the Chatham News to conclude that parliamentarians not only declare wars but actually fight them.

Councils all over the province have had a spell of protesting about the Provincial Government cutting down the size of the municipal grant. And now that the protesting has been completed, what about it?

Police in Providence arrested a vacuum cleaner salesman because it was alleged he was selling machines too cheap. While he was being held at police headquarters he proceeded to sell three cleaners to officers there. We do not imagine that chap will ever be out of a job.

A farmer in Ridgetown reported the loss of his car to the police, and said it was worth 15 cents but was loaded with groceries and chop stuff for hogs worth $25. The explanation was that he bought the car three years ago for $15 and considered it worth 15 cents today. At least the man was honest and probably right enough.

ALL WRONG

¶ Long Archie's rather out of sorts, filled to the neck with dire reports, his conversation's blue; but he has always been that way, and has no cheerful word to say, so it is nothing new.

¶ Long Archie does not like the town, he says the place is running down, the taxes are too high; if things keep on like what they are, not ten in town will drive a car, there's sadness in his eye.

¶ The store where he stops in to deal, they have a scheming way to steal, they soak him every time; and every time he goes in there, they get far more than what is fair, he whacks up his last dime.

¶ Long Archie's preacher is no good, he's none too easy understood, his sermons are too long; he's muddled in his logic too, and Archie knows before he's through, his points are none too strong.

¶ Long Archie's neighbors are so queer, he never feels like drawing near, they're not a friendly lot; he wouldn't care if they'd all move, the neighborhood might then improve, he gives them little thought.

¶ And I suspect much now and then, that he's not like the other men, for groans flow from his chin; Long Archie should be told I guess, although I know he'd not confess—that something's wrong with him.

Trying To Find What's Wrong With Hitler

HERE'S ANOTHER of those prophetic stories regarding war and Hitler. We do not recommend that it be accepted as fact, but it is none the less interesting. Nor do we go hard for the concluding statement about the message under the postage stamp. That story has been going the round and has popped up too many places already. However, here it is as written by Ernest G. Paine and forwarded from New York:

NEW YORK.—To grab the spotlight again as a great national hero, Adolf Hitler, who suffers both from delusions of grandeur and split personality, will try to put himself at the head of a suicide army of 1,000,000 men next summer in a frenzied attack upon the Allies. This theory was advanced here recently by Dr. David Seabury.

Dr. Seabury believes that "the very frenzy of such a drive will result in its defeat and bring about Hitler's death."

This is not the first prediction the well-known psychologist has ventured on the moves Hitler will make. In October, 1938, he forecast the alliance between Hitler and Stalin because of the German chancellor's split personality.

"My predictions are not guesses, but based on scientific study and my own contacts with intelligence and military experts," he said. "At the time I predicted Hitler would join Stalin he was having trouble putting over industrial fascism in Germany. And once the pressure of economic and military circumstances increased it was not illogical, with his type of mind, to swing to the direct opposite.

TO BOTH EXTREMES

"Hitler has the kind of mind that when it is compelled to make a change its change is always to the drastically opposite. In psychology such a mental condition is known as schizophrenia."

Hitler's delusions of grandeur, which Dr. Seabury believes will lead him to try to head a suicide army next summer, stem from conditions of the German chancellor's childhood. Although it may not be well known, Hitler's father was a drunkard and broke his mother's heart. As a result, Hitler received excessive attention as a child, and to make up for his father's failings he became obsessed with the conviction that he must become a national hero.

Asked if he believed Hitler's father was insane, the psychologist said, "there is potential psychosis in any many who drinks so much."

He had no hesitation, however, in classifying the son as "definitely psychotic"; although he said Hitler is not insane to the point that he cannot always handle himself.

Predictions of world events through psychological and sociological analysis go back as far as 1907, when Sir Patrick Geddess, famous British sociologist, foretold the great war, its duration and its outcome, Dr. Seabury said.

FORESAW 1940 WAR

"In 1907, Sir Patrick told me there would be a war in 1914, that it would last four years, and that the peace terms would lead to another war in 1940. He said the U.S. would enter this second war in 1942 and that it would not end until 1950.

"At a meeting of more than 300 psychologists, psychiatrists and sociologists at The Hague in 1935, the prediction was made that war would break out within five years because of progressive development of leaders such as Hitler."

Germany's state of complete despair was the reason the people selected Hitler as their leader, Dr. Seabury said. When people get into a brooding despair they "fixate" on a dramatic figure. Germany today has the same psychoses as Hitler, the psychologist believes.

"You go into a store and everything is 'Gnaedige Frau' and so on. But you go out into the street and a soldier will knock you off the sidewalk. A nation like that could only choose a leader like Hitler. If the federated states of Europe they're talking about now had happened 50 years ago the trouble with Germany might have been avoided. You can only make peace with the cultural side of Germany, not the militaristic one."

Dr. Seabury looks for a repetition of Finland's resistance if the Russians attack Turkey. He says that although Stalin has primitive peasant shrewdness and the ability to exploit the people with the same general ruthlessness the Cossacks had, he and the other Russian leaders lack the vision to see outside their own pure, ruthless dictatorship, and cannot conceive how a democratic citizen will fight for his rights and his country. They won't accept the strength of the well disciplined Turkish army, and it will be a case of Finland all other again, Dr. Seabury said.

"I think Mussolini will do the same as the Italians did before. When the Balkan situation breaks he will be fighting Russia and ultimately the Germans. Hitler realizes this and, consequently, keeps troops at the Brenner Pass."

That conditions in Germany are far from happy is evident from Dr. Seabury's closing remark to the reporter: "A recent letter from Germany referred my attention to its stamps. The writer said, 'These stamps may be valuable.' When I soaked them off I was able to read, underneath, the words: 'We are starving to death!'"

SO WHAT?

Speed Cop: "Due back on board at midnight, eh? It's now 10 a.m."
Tar: "Blimey! Ten hours late already."

• Why Shells Are Not Being Made

A CONSERVATIVE candidate in Nova Scotia "scores" the fact that no shells are now being made in a large steel plant in that province which was used extensively for that purpose during the Great War. He might have added that no shells are being made in Brockville or in dozens of other communities throughout Canada where they were produced in large quantities the last time we fought against Germany.

And why? The answer is a simple one. This war has so far differed radically from the corresponding period of the Great War in that there has been no duplication of the mobility which marked the opening stages of that conflict. Where armies were moving and constantly engaged at that time, today they are in large measure inactive. This, as anyone will immediately realize, has meant a very marked reduction in the comparative consumption of ammunition, and it is probably true that for every 100 or even 1,000 shells that were fired in 1914-15, not one shell is being fired today.

This war also differs radically from the Great War in that British industry was from the outset placed on a war footing for the large-scale production of munitions supplementing the pre-war reserves that had been established. Britain was caught unprepared for the demands of the Great War upon her industry and she soon experienced a shortage of munitions, especially shells. Long before this war materialized, she was resolved that there should be no repetition of that situation, and since the war began she has greatly increased her production of projectiles and is still increasing it from week to week and from day to day until she now possesses stocks which are considered quite adequate for all contemplated requirements made on her own soil and in her own factories without having to cross the Atlantic to obtain them.

Those are two important reasons why shells are not being produced in any quantities in this country for overseas use—not nearly so much ammunition is being required and very much more of it is being produced in Britain than at the corresponding period of the Great War. If Britain needed shells of Canadian manufacture, she would have ordered them long before this and should the time arrive when she does need them, Canadian industry is ready to supply them as it did during the earlier struggle. — Brockville Recorder and Times.

• The Editor Can't Understand

THE annual report of the Bank of Canada is to hand, as they used to say. At first we are impelled to rejoice that this great national institution, at least, has not yet descended to the low polyglot practice of writing $3.5 millions when it means $3,500,000. For instance, in its reference to its note issue it quotes wholesome figure of "$232,779,000." A few paragraphs further on its slips a bit and puts in a "4½ millions," which is pretty sloppy. Elsewhere it mentions "$352 millions," dangerously close to the abomination about which we complain. And just when we are breathing a sigh of relief that all is yet fairly well, we find an increase in the cash reserves of chartered banks set out boldly, blatantly and, as far as anyone can discern, unrepentantly, thus: "30.1 millions"!

Just why it is done is one of those major mysteries of high finance we have not yet had time to master. Somebody started it and soon financial individuals, organizations, institutions and even periodicals all over the country were following sheepish suit.

Just look at it. $30.1 millions. (Some accountants do not even have the courtesy to put the final "s" on.) How does it read? Why, "thirty point one dollars millions," of course. Nonsensical, isn't it? And if you will take the trouble to count up the characters, you will find that not only does this new style appear awkward, but it does not even save the printing of any symbols. Instead it adds two more! Thus the old-fashioned $30,100,000 has eleven characters, including commas, whereas the latest fad for "$30.1 millions" necessitates thirteen, taking in the decimal point. Count them and see!

Furthermore, where is the logic, sense or consistency in one bank report—and the Bank of Canada's of all things!—carrying in the one document the kaleidoscopic variety of $232,779,000, 4½ millions, $352 millions and, to cap it off, that silly $30.1 millions? This cult of queer tabulation is all very confusing to the lay mind at a time when it has plenty of other things to be confused by and about.—Brantford Expositor.

• Those Two Nazi Sailors

WHEN Capt. Hans Langsdorff, brave commander of the ill-fated Graf Spee, entered Uruguayan waters to elude pursuing British cruisers, he called together British prisoners on his pocket-battleship and notified them that they were about to be liberated. Capt. Langsdorff, a naval officer who knew his business, acted as any British officer, any American officer—any officer, indeed of any country professing to observe international law—would have acted. He knew that, by entering neutral waters, he had forfeited the right to hold his prisoners any longer.

After Langsdorff's tragic death, the Germans made him somewhat of a national hero—and justly so; for he was a first-class fighting man. But now they repudiate their own hero; and bet at naught the law of the sea which he was so careful to observe. Capt. Heinrich Dau master of the prison-ship Altmark, obviously is far from being a Langsdorff. Seamen, liberated from the Altmark by the daring raid of the destroyer Cossack, have told how Dau herded them together in filthy and inadequate quarters, kept them on starvation rations and boasted that, when the Altmark finally got home, he would have them dragged through the streets of Hamburg to be jeered at by German crowds.

One British merchant marine officer, held captive on the Altmark, described Dau as a "tyrant." A plainer-spoken seaman described him as a "pig." Whether or not he is tyrant or pig, Dau indubitably is a liar. He lied to the Norwegian authorities when he sought entry for his prison-ship as a harmless merchantman. Immediately after the Cossack's raid, Dau lied again in regard to the Altmark's armament.

And it is with Dau, and not with the gallant seaman, Langsdorff, that the Nazi government takes its stand in the Altmark incident. This is only natural. Dau is typical of Nazi Germany, Langsdorff was representative of an older, finer Germany.—Buffalo Courier-Express.

BLINDING GLARE

NINE out of ten modern automobiles are equipped with headlights which may be dimmed, tilted downward or diverted from the eyes of approaching motorists on dark rural highways. It is a sorry commentary on this up-to-date equipment to promote greater safety in night motoring that so few drivers pay any attention to it. One conservative estimate is that fewer than 50 per cent make any pretense of saving the other fellow's eyes.

To some people obliged to travel at night the experience of passing fifty to a hundred cars with bright headlights is a dangerous ordeal. Eyes good enough for normal driving become strained until there is difficulty in watching the road. Doubtless many accidents are attributable to this evil, which is no fault of the manufacturer of headlights, but of thoughtless motorists who, it seems to us, should be controlled.—New York Herald Tribune.

HE LIKES HORSES

DR. JOHN EDMUND HASSON of Bath, N.Y., still makes his daily rounds with a horse and buggy. He says he knows it's a bit old-fashioned, but he will continue to use his ancient means of transportation for two reasons: because "I have reached a state of mind where I propose, for the residue of my days, insofar as possible, to follow my inclinations."

If he can get away with it, the good doctor will be doing what most of us never quite have the courage to do—living his own life, all by himself, unmoved by the new automobile of the people next door or the picturesque bonnet of the neighbor to the right.

Perhaps it isn't strictly according to the code of progress; but Dr. Hasson happens to like horses, and so he's going to keep his. He doesn't care a hoot how the Joneses live.—Kitchener Record.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

And the scribe said unto him, Well, Master, thou hast said the truth: for there is one God; and there is none other but he: and to love him with all the heart, and with all the understanding, and with all the soul, and with all the strength, and to love his neighbour as himself, is more than all whole burnt offerings and sacrifices.

And when Jesus saw that he answered discreetly, he said unto him, Thou are not far from the kingdom of God.—Mark xii, 28-34.

Let us hear the conclusion of the whole matter: Fear God, and keep his commandments: for this is the whole duty of man.—Eccl. xii, 13.

ABOLISH SUBSIDIES

ABOUT the time Premier Hepburn of Ontario was announcing a reduction of half-a-mill in the subsidy to municipalities, the city treasurer of an important Ontario city was expressing to us his objection to this form of provincial aid. He said it was too unstable and that because of this instability, municipalities found it hard to plan their program from year to year.

This official would much prefer that any provincial aid be along the line of lifting specific burdens from municipal shoulders rather than by use of a subsidy.—Financial Post.

Befogged

The fog was very thick and the chief officer of the tramp steamer was peering over the side of the bridge. Suddenly he saw a man leaning over a rail only a few yards away. "You confounded fool!" he roared. "What on earth do you think you are doing? Don't you know my ship has the right of way?" Out of the gloom came a sardonic voice, "This ain't no ship, captain. This is a lighthouse."

Navy Allowances Stepped Up For Dependents

OTTAWA, Feb. 28 — (CP). — New regulations concerning dependents' allowances for officers and men of the Royal Canadian Navy place them on a comparatively equal basis with personnel of the Army and the Air Force, according to a statement issued by the National Defence Department to-day.

Because of different conditions of service and in order to avoid scrapping the whole system of naval bookkeeping which has functioned throughout the years, the method of payment in the Navy had to be different from that in the other services.

In the Navy all money whether it represents pay or marriage allowance is credited to the enlisted man's account. So in comparing amounts received in the Navy with those received in the Army it is necessary to take the combined total of pay and allowances.

Recent revision of naval pay and allowance regulations brought increases in allowances to seamen and non-commissioned officers and provided marriage allowances for commissioned officers who did not previously receive them.

Soldiers' Rates.

"The rates for a private soldier are $1.30 a day, or $39.00 for a 30-day month," the statement said. "If the soldier has a wife, the wife is given an allowance of $35.00. So that the combined total is $74.00.

"The basic rates for seamen are in three classes—$1.25, -1.50, and $1.85 a day. These are peace time rates. Since the outbreak of war 978 seamen have been recruited. Seven hundred and eighteen are paid $1.85 a day, because they are experienced seamen selected from marine service. Two hundred and sixty are paid $1.50 a day. Of the entire seamen staff, in the technical term known as rating, the majority of the men are getting $1.85 a day, because they have had the required experience, and amongst the married men practically al lare getting $1.85 a day."

For comparative purposes a soldier receives $74.00 a month for himself and his wife, while a seaman getting $1.85 a day and 75 cents marriage allowances, receives a total of $78 for himself and wife.

Obituary

MRS. ELIZABETH McMAHON.

MILLBROOK, Feb. 28 (ENS). — Following a brief illness of only two weeks' duration the death occurred on Friday at the Port Hope Hospital, of Mrs. Elizabeth McMahon, well-known citizen of Millbrook, in her seventy-first year.

Deceased was born and brought up at Franklin, in Manvers Township, and was a daughter of the late Robert Whiteside and his wife, Mary Ann McNeil. She was one of a family of seven children, four sons and three daughters; of these, three brothers, Archie of Peterborough, Joseph of Franklin, and James of Pontypool, and twin sisters, Mrs. C. Morrow of Port Hope, and Mrs. W. Sanders of Manitoulin Island, still survive.

Elizabeth Whiteside was predeceased by her husband, Robert J. McMahon, by twenty-eight years. Most of their married life was spent in Lindsay, where Mr. McMahon had a position in connection with the railroad. With the exception of the residence in Lindsay, practically the whole of Mrs. McMahon's life, after reaching young womanhood, was spent in Millbrook. Besides the brothers and sisters already mentioned, the other immediate surviving relatives include one sister-in-law, Miss Edyth McMahon, Reg. N., of Newark, N.J., and one brother-in-law, Thomas McMahon of Peterborough; there are a number of nieces and nephews.

Deceased was a faithful member of Grace Presbyterian Church, and particularly active and efficient in the Woman's Missionary Auxiliary, and the Ladies' Aid Society; she had also, for many years been superintendent of the Cradle Roll in the Sunday School, and was a valued helper with the local Red Cross Society.

The funeral took place on Monday at 2 p.m. from Grace Church, which was well filled for the service, and was conducted by the minister, Rev. A. Raeburn-Gibson, assisted by Richard Williams, B.A., theological student of Toronto, and the son of a former pastor of the charge. In his address Rev. Mr. Gibson compared Mrs. McMahon to Dorcas, and spoke of her skill with her needle "consecrated to good works; she was also a laborer and a visitor, and her place must be filled that the work of God may go on."

The pall-bearers were: Dr. H. A. Turner, W. T. Wood, D. R. Fowler, W. C. Thorndyke, W. H. Coombe, and S. F. Eakins. There were many beautiful floral tributes, and interment was in the family burial plot in the Presbyterian Cemetery.

Five New Battleships To Be Added to British Navy

H. M. S. NELSON

H. M. S. BARHAM

The 35-000-ton battleship Barham was damaged by torpedo and the 33,000-ton battleship Nelson was damaged by a magnetic mine, First Lord of the Admiralty Winston Churchill disclosed recently. Both battleships received their damage several weeks ago and have been repaired and will soon be ready for action again. In addition to these two ships going back into active service, five new battleships will soon reinforce the navy, Churchill disclosed.

Millbrook Y.P.U. Presents Play

MILLBROOK, Feb. 28—(ENS). — A highlight of the Young People's Union on Monday at 8 p.m., was the presentation of the play, "The Second Mile," under the direction of Phyllis Kidd and Wella Mae Sisco.

Characters taking part in the one-act play, staged in the living-room of Mrs. Helen Wallace's home, were the mother, Jean Burnham; the invalid daughter, Faith (Mary Burnham); the poor woman selling shoe laces, who also has a sick daughter, (Isabelle Aiken); Peggy Ann (Francis Tickner), a neighbor's child, who by her talk of a "second mile surprises" brings into practical form in Faith's mind, and eventually in her mother's also, the Master's injunction, "Whosoever will compel you to go with him a mile, go with him twain." Two other girls who have an active part were Leitha Edworthy (Anne), and Lola Gardiner (Rosa).

The meeting was open to the public, and began with a sing-song under Earl Edworthy, followed by the business period in charge of President B. B. Dawson; items included next week's meeting under the citizenship convener, Edna McKnight; the St. Patrick's party to be given at Millbrook by Presbytery officers, and to which surrounding societies will be invited; the executive meeting on Tuesday, March 12, at Phyllis Kidd's; and the pot luck supper on March 8, at the church.

An Intelligence Test, conducted by Mr. Dawson, with those present divided into two groups, left the "A's" victors by one point as against the "Z's" otherwise perfect score.

"If Jesus Came To-day," was the worship poem read by Phyllis Kidd; others assisting with the devotional period being Gordon Might, Jean Burnham, Mary Dawson, and Earle Edworthy.

Dorothy Sisco read Lowell's "Holy Grail," or a part of this poem, as a prelude to the curtain being drawn for the play, and the benediction by Rev. A. L. Sisco closed the gathering.

Owned $400 Home So Cut Off Relief Family Of 5 Is Found Starving

GANANOQUE, Feb. 28.—Semi-starvation was experienced by a family of five on Victoria Street, Welfare Board officials found this week when they learned of the plight of an unemployed plumber and his wife and their three children.

A four-months-old baby had received nothing but water in 24 hours and the rest of the family had eaten nothing more than a little bread in the same period.

Emergency rations were issued by the Welfare Board, and indignation was expressed at the action of an inspector of the Ontario Department of Welfare in striking the jobless man, Albert Tyron, off the relief rolls because he owned a home which he built himself at a cost of less than $400. The Tyron family was given relief several weeks ago through the Welfare Board chairman, Fred Mooney. Two weeks ago Inspector B. Webb, Smiths Falls, visited the welfare office, found that relief had been granted to Tyron, and immediately struck his name from the rolls and charged the relief against the town.

When welfare officials visited the house last night they found the premises in darkness. The interior was warm, as the young husband had gathered brushwood to make a fire. When the relief voucher was issued, Mrs. Tyron took a hand sleigh and went to a nearby grocery store where she bought food and fuel.

In the opinion of the Welfare Board, the man was justified in building a little home and should be commended for his enterprise. The home was built under the Government Home Improvement Plan.

The Deputy Minister of Municipal Affairs communicated with chairman Mooney today, stating he had asked the inspector for a report on the case. No suggestion was made in the letter as to who would look after the family while the case is being investigated.

ROLAND M. GLOVER

In asking the voters of Peterborough West to support me in the coming election let me briefly place before you some of the Wartime Accomplishments of the Mackenzie King Administration.

It united Canada as never before—The people of very province are heart and soul behind the Empire's war effort this time, thanks to Liberal foresight and judgment.

The First Division, completely equipped, has been sent overseas to a Mother Country prepared to receive it.

The Second Division is recruited, equipped and ready to go over. Plans are carefully prepared for the organization of a Third Division.

No needless hardships have been caused through premature use of ill-trained troops.

The Empire Air Training Plan, inspired by the King Administration, the greatest programme of its kind ever undertaken, has been launched on a planned and ordered basis.

Naval Defence for both East and West Coasts, including Air Force, Mine Sweepers and Convoying, has functioned efficiently since the outbreak of war. Of it, a Senior British Naval Authority has said, "No finer work is being done anywhere by the Royal Navy itself."

Price Control of all commodities, including such vital necessities as wool and sugar, has been established, with prices pegged low for the poor man. The profiteer is out, and will be kept out, in marked contrast to the free-for-all of the last war.

Shipping Control and Foreign Exchange Control are firmly established on sound lines, and are functioning smoothly and effectively.

A $200,000,000 War Loan was oversubscribed within two days of its launching, a record that proves public confidence. Its reasonable rate of 3¼% contrasts with the 5½% tax free rate of the last war.

Great Britain's war financing is being helped by borrowing for her account and by taking back Canadian Securities.

War contracts totalling over $100,000,000 have been delivered or are in production, stimulating every branch of Canadian industry.

Armament deliveries are approaching full speed; aeroplanes, Bren guns, tanks, artillery accessories, ships—all coming forward in impressive quantity.

Large purchases of Canadian wheat, which purchases had formerly been consistently blocked, have been arranged through a special mission sent to London by the Mackenzie King Administration.

5,600,000 pounds of bacon will be shipped to Great Britain each week as well as large quantities of flour and fish.

Huge shipments of steel and other materials essential to the conduct of the war have been arranged for.

Canadian lumber is replacing Scandinavian in the British market, a tremendous boost to a basic industry.

British confidence in the purchasing personnel appointed by Mackenzie King is evident by the announcement of Premier Chamberlain that war supplies to the amount of $450,000,000 will be bought in Canada this year.

Such a record didn't just happen. It resulted from the efforts of a strong administration working on behalf of a country united in all its parts as never before. And this singleness of aim—conspicuously absent in 1914—is due to the vision, understanding and drive of individual Canadian and Empire-minded Statesmen who back the Empire's participation in the war with their eyes wide open and with full determination to play their parts to the full.

When, in a time of stress, a government will function as effectively as this, I have no apology to offer in asking for your votes. It is a record that I confidently feel you will be proud to endorse.

Faithfully Yours,

Rollie Glover

ORLANDO, Fla., Feb. 28—(AP)—Buddy Lewis, Washington's regular third baseman for the last few seasons, as taking regular turns in the outfield in preparation for a permanent assignment there. Coach Clyde Milan, who is handling the conversion of the hard-hitting infielder into a fly chaser, says Buddy's hardest task will be changing his style of throwing from side-arm to overhand.

Bradenton, Fla.—Casey Stengel's broad grin apparently means that he can pick pitchers who hit, whether or not they can pitch. Wilbur McElroy, a youngster from the University of Southern California, who Casey pickeu p personaly for Boston Bees, beted a 400-foot home run over the fence yesterday with two on board.

Avalon, Calif. — Manager Gabby Hartnett of Chicago Cubs, following his "reform" program, continues to be a jully fellow in camp despite the absence of holdouts Dizz Dean, Augie Galan, and Hank Leiber and the fact that Catcher Al Todd reported overweight.

Anaheim, Calif. — Philadelphia Athletics practice has its light as well as serious side. Although the camp was worried yesterday about Ben McCoy's sore arm, which Benny says is something that happens every spring and soon disappear, players got some fun out of fielding oranges which four Anaheim girls tossed at them for the benefit of photographers.

Lakeland, Fla. — Manager Del Baker of Detroit had words of praise for Tom Seats, former St. Louis Cardinals farmhand, after sizing him up yesterday. "I don't know whether he will eventually become one of the stars of the league, but he has plenty of stuff," said Del.

Hudson, Locking Hemmerling Tie

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Feb. 28 — (AP). — The scrambled race for the scoring leadership in the International-American Hockey League resolved itself into a three-way tie during the past week with Ronny Hudson of Indianapolis Capitals, Norm Locking of Syracuse Stars, and Tony Hemmerling of New Haven Eagles all deadlocked at the top with 48 points.

Fred Thurrier of Springfield Indians was next in line with 45 points, while another-three-way tie found Max Bennett and Jack Toupin of the Stars and Norm Schultz of the Indians with 44 each.

Pete Bessone of Pittsburgh Hornets had a record of 92 minutes in the penalty box.

All Saints' Outfit Capture Church Title

All Saints' Juveniles won the Church Hockey League title at All Saints' rink last night over Trinity, 5 to 0. It was the second straight playoff victory for All Saints—coached by Gord Smith—who had come up as a group after winning bantam honors two years ago. Trinity were outplayed last evening all the way. The Anglicans got two in the first and two more in the second. Maudsley tallied a pair, with Carpenter, Blackwell and McAdams scoring one apiece. They showed better teamplay than their rivals, the latter skating with them, though. Horton got the losers' goal, he, Henry and Fowler going best. The winners' goalie, the regular wingmen and McAdams stood out. The teams:

Trinity.—Goal, Welbourne; defence, Hall, Hatton; centre, Henry; wings, Fowler, Horton; subs., Harrison, McBain, Webster.

All Saints.—Goal, Clapham; defence, Saunders, Ackford; centre, Dyer; wings, Blackwell, Carpenter; subs, Reid, Maudsley, McAdams, Lee, Hotrum.

Referee—A. Padgett.

PETE LANGELLE
Toronto Maple Leafs
(By Central Press Canadian)

Out of the west have moved a multitude of hockey players to N. H. L. stardom, including as one of the recent parties, Pete Langelle, shifty-hipped centre with Toronto Maple Leafs. He's playing his first full season with the team and already knots are beginning to appear in opposing players' legs from trying to keep track of his whirling dervish movements. Langelle attracted Maple Leaf attention in the Memorial Cup finals three years ago when he helped Winnipeg Monarchs to take the Canadian junior crown by checking the opposition dizzy in the series. On being signed as a Leaf he was sent to Syracuse for a couple of seasons, coming up near the close of last year and remaining. He got one goal in league play and one in the playoffs last season. Only recent having passed his 22nd milestone Langelle should have many years of starring in the N.H.L. ahead. Winnipeg was his birthplace and he played all his amateur hockey there. Shoots left and tips the scales around the 170-pound mark. With the Toronto system of switching around 20 players to fill the 15 starting roles each game, Petes has not had a chance to get linked with a consistent line, but he's seen as much action as most members of the squad.

Noise Of Crowd May Hurt Open Game

DETROIT, Feb. 28 — (CP). — Bill Storen, coach of the champion University of Western Ontario football team, said here to-day that he was glad to see the Canadian Rugby Union had decided to allow only three huddles on the field of play during one quarter, as it would serve as an interesting experiment.

The college coach who works in Detroit during the winter months said that he was anxious to see the game speeded up as much as possible, and any elimination of huddles would tend toward this.

He added the proviso, however, that the noise of the crowd would have to be considered and might prove a stumbling block in the path of the new ruling.

Remember When—

Baseball's most dynamic personality, John J. McGraw, was buried at New York six years ago today. Forty-two years in the game—30 as manager of the New York Giants—the game's "Little Napoleon" had turned over the managership to Bill Terry in 1932 but continued as vice-president of the club. He led 10 New York teams to National League honors and three to world championships—an all-time record.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEL PERDUE

Two men's senior City Basketball League tilts are on tap tonight at the Y.M.C.A., being shunted ahead from Saturday. Zephyrs meet the Quakers at 7.15, followed at 8.15 by Dominions 'gainst C.G.E. These tussles should be heated with the finish in sight. On Friday night—whilst three P.C.I. teams have important school jousts in Bowmanville—a trio of Girls' Hoop League contests will be run off again. Orfuns tangle with Westclox in the first fray, followed by the Aces vs. "Y" Gym game, and then St. John's against Quaker Debs. An O.C.B.A. (provincial church playdown) fixture is listed for the Y.W. at eight on Saturday e'en betwixt the Toronto junior winnah and St. John, first game of a points-to-count series. Same night sees St. Paul's in an intermediate "A" tilt in Toronto.

* * * * * *

A round-robin volleyball series for the senior championship of Ontario will be staged Saturday evening from six to eight in the "Y" here. The titular Kitchener crew, Toronto Central "Y", and the local "Y" volleyballers clash. Ducats are two bits, and the finest play in this lively indoor sport that could be seen in Eastern Canada will be here to behold. Rates quite a crowd. Peterborough team includes: Stan Payne, Russ Kitchen, Nels Stanger, Don Crawford, Cliff Cadd, Jim Gillespie, Eric Vincent, Jack Hardill and Ken Kingston.

* * * * * *

Race Getting Hot

Industrial Puck Loop executive has a huddle tonight at eight in Duffus' to deal with protests by Quakers and Packers. These may mean a lot as the schedule ends Thursday in the Brock, starting at 7.30, with these games: Watercraft vs. Packers, Westclox vs. Marines, and Brintons vs. Raybestos. Right now, Quakers are on top with Westclox right behind 'em, and Marines crowding both. Packers and Watercraft are next in a tie, with Brintons next in line and then the Rays. The race is right warmish.

* * * * * *

Out at Omemee tonight, the local Lock Co. Eagles will be into one of those do-or-die things, having to whip the Black Hawks this time or flop back into oblivion. With the shades beckoning the Eagles, it's an 18-carat cinch that the Prete pack will shoot the works in a desperate attempt to again sew up the series for the district title and the right to enter O.H.A. intermediate "B" playdowns. The Hawks have an edge with two wins out of three games played so far in the best-of-five serial, and they're liable to wind it up in tonight's tussle. If the Eagles do cop a nod this e'en, deciding melee will be in Omemee on Friday.

* * * * * *

What The Incos Say

After the game here last p.m., the Port Colborne Incos in their dressing-room had a lot of praise for the Petes. Said the locals were by far the best squad the Incos have met this year. However, the husky visitors added: "We got several bad breaks, we were using our sub goalie, and we can beat Peterborough on our own ice." And you somehow got the idea—at least we did—that the Ports would be by no means a pushover in the canal town. Where they have artificial ice in a rink no wider than the Brock but quite a bit longer. Kitchener Greenshirts will be here this Friday (ducats are on sale tomorrow) and the Petes will likely have to start travelling next week in their round-robin playoff serial.

* * * * * *

That 4-1 win was nice yester gloaming before a good-sized crowd—but far from a sellout—though, on the play, the Buckaroos rated a bigger nod. They dominated play throughout with fast, passing rushes that just failed to click when at the goal-mouth. The Petes are faster, lighter and looked a bit smarter, but the big Incos were strong and checked well. But they did not cover up too good in front of their own net. They bashed the boys around at times with stiff body charges, and the home defencemen did ditto with great gusto. Some rousing bodychecks all through, but play was clean enough. Just one minor scrap betwixt Drake Jopling and O'Neil.

* * * * * *

Opened Up In Third

The game was pretty good, especially that wide-open third heat. 'Twas draggy and ragged in spots the first two periods as the visitors checked closely and the Petes muffed chances. The latter gang got going in the third, especially Honey Tompkins—who played a fine, heady game—and rammed home three. The Incos ganged up late in the last stanza and copped one counter. Referee Hap Day had quite an argument on his hands over the third Peterborough goal, the losers yelling that it was offside, and it could have been termed offside at that. But the Petes earned the win.

* * * * * *

Two of the locals and one Port Colborne gee stood out in this game like a boil on a screen siren's nose. The hard-working, bouncing Don Crowe, and the poker-faced Honey Tompkins (a good worker and with lots of puck savvy) shone in the homesters' cause. With Harding, Kingdon, F. Jopling and Coughlin also going fine, and the rest not far behind. Starr had a bruised leg muscle from a trip but missed only a few minutes of the game. Outstanding for the losers was Vic Concessi (No. 6), and that guy tears off mileage like a racing car. He's got class sticking out on him like the mumps! Huffman and Roy were also effective and some of thos burly blue-line guardians tossed the torso effectively. And so it's one round-robin series win for the fast-stepping Peterboroughs.

* * * * * *

Picking 'em off the Grapevine: Owen Sound won their intermediate "A" group title ('twas cut to a two-in-three series) over Collingwood, and will now enter the round-robin playoffs....Cobourg's junior "C" club meets Trenton now in playoffs, as Oshawa Bees tackle Kingston next....Stouffville takes on Sutton in an intermediate "B" playdown series....St. Peter's won the Southend Puck Loop bantam title in two straight playoff games; Royals copped the first midget playoff 4-1 over St. Peter's....T.B.A. is strongly tempted to forget senior baseball this season, not enough teams to date showing interest in entering....Southend Ramblers copped a gals' hockey tilt from Brinton Fliers 2-1; a previous game saw Fliers win 1-0 with F. Royals Get 4-1 Win

Royals took the first of the two-in-three midget Southend Loop hockey playoffs over St. Peter's 4-1 at the Sacred Heart rink. Anderson tallied a pair with Blaby and Lawson getting one each for the winners, as P. Murphy scored for the losers. The latter, with McLean and Kent looked best for the Saints, while Anderson, Lawson; Leether and Blaby stood out for the Royals. It was a fast, clean tilt all the way. The teams:

Royals.—Goal, Leether; defence, McGregor, Lawson; centre, Anderson; wings, Blaby, Close; subs., White, Darrell, Harris, Cooper.

St. Peter's.—Goal, Parsons; defence, P. Murphy, Matthews; centre, Garvey; wings, McLean, Murphy; subs., Freeman, Kent, Kennedy.

Cops 3-2 Verdict Over Sons To Meet Oshawa

TORONTO, Feb. 28. — Ed. Wildey's Young Rangers crowded into third place in the O.H.A. Big Six group by shading Native Sons 3-2 in the concluding game of the league schedule at the Gardens last night. Victory enabled Rangers to break their third-place deadlock with Guelph.

As a consequence, the Wildeymen will meet Oshawa in the semi-finals, while Guelph and Marlboros will tangle in the other half of the bracket. Rangers will play at Oshawa on Friday night and back at the Gardens next Tuesday. If third game is necessary, it will be played in Oshawa. Guelph will play Marlboros at the Gardens on Saturday afternoon and in Galt on Tuesday. If it is necessary to play a third game, it will be played at the Gardens a week from Saturday.

Were Lucky.

Rangers failed to display the brilliant form they showed in beating Marlboros last Saturday, and were somewhat fortunate to come up with the points. They plied up a 2-0 margin in the first period on goals by Conacher and Adamson. The Sons got one back in the second period via Munro on a play with Webster and Scott and equalized after 8.18 of the third period, Gibbon sinking Munro's pass when Veigel was in the penalty box. Hitting back hard, the Rangers were getting nowhere until Akery lifted a shot at the Native Son cage and Clow, in attempting to deflect it, ticked it into his own net. Penalties kept the Rangers in hot water most of the time. They drew seven of the eight sentences meted out.

Young Rangers — Goal, Halliday; defence, Henderson and Adamson; centre, McLean; wings, Simpson and Wichenko; subs., Conacher, Veigel, Akery, Hamilton, Campbell, Ferguson, and Vail.

Native Sons — Goal, Clow; defence, Munro and Brown; centre, Gibbon; wings, Bowers and Kirkham; subs., Scott, Munger, Brown, Venge, Webster, and Chominski.

Referee—Bert McCaffery.

First Period.

Young, Rangers, Conacher (Ferguson) 10.36
Young, Rangers, Adamson ... 13.17
Penalties—Veigel, McLean, Munro and Akery.

Second Period.

Native Sons, Munro (Webster, Scott) 8.49
Penalties—Wichenko.

Third Period.

Native Sons, Gibbon (Mnuro).. 8.18
Young Rangers, Akery 15.15
Penalties — Conacher, Veigel, and Wichenko.

Ramblers Win 2-1 Over Girl Fliers

In a girls' hockey match at the Sacred Heart rink, Southend Ramblers—who lost last game to Brinton Fliers 1-0—defeated the Fliers by a 2-1 count. It was a fast, hard-fought fray, with Pat Low scoring in the first for the winners, and M. Cournyea counting in the second. Fliers' scorer was not announced. Two near fights broke out, but no punches landed. Dot Dinsdale played a good game throughout. These teams play again at seven p.m. Saturday. The lineups:

Ramblers. — Goal, G. Allen; defence, M. Cournyea, P. Low; centre, B. McAuliffe; wings, Y. LaPlante, M. Jones; alternates, U. Lynch, F. Dionne, P. McGarrity.

Fliers.—Goal, D. Dinsdale; defence, A. Leether, M. Giardino; centre, G. Ritchie; wings, A. Heffernan, L. Devlin; alternate, I. Killoran.

Referee—L. O'Brien.

N.H.L. Leaders

CURLING

By HERB MARTIN

It will be J .T. Braund vs. N. Hamley in the Neill final this evening. This game is called for 7.30 p.m. and will be 12 ends. It should be a dandy.

Another important game will be F. Batten vs. J. Lowes. This is the first game of the playoff tie in Group A. This is also called for 7.30 p.m., and is a 12-end game.

Besides these two games we continue with the Neill consolation event and should reach the finals on or about 11 p.m. Taken all in all, it should be four hours of high-class curling and No. 8 should be well filled.

Two rinks from the Ladies' Club, skipped by Mrs. Bruce and Mrs. DeGraw, played at the Royal Canadian Club in Toronto yesterday. Mrs. Bruce was successful in winning the consolation event. They report a grand time. Mrs. Bruce had with her Miss G. Patterson, Mrs. V. Selkirk, and Miss L. Lyle. They each received a set of trays.

PETES COP OPENING GAME OF ROUND-ROBIN PLAYOFF SERIES

Local Puckists Gain A 4-1 Win Over Port Colborne Incos With Hard Third-Period Drive

Cashing in on chances in the third period, the Petes copped a 4-1 win over Port Colborne here last night to capture the first game of the O.H.A. intermediate "A" round-robin series. About 1400 fans viewed the opening playoff joust, the second being here Friday against Kitchener.

It was a fair hockey game, fairly sparkling in the third chukker after two close-checking and at times draggy periods. The Petes took a 1-0 edge in the first period and, following a scoreless second heat, began to click for a 3-1 margin in the third. The game was enlivened by a fight between F. Jopling and O'Neil in the third, both drawing major penalties. A minor free-for-all threatened among the players but order was quickly restored as two police officers stepped out.

While the Buckland bunch dominated play all through, showing more speed and ability at close range, the visitors checked closely and handed out some stiff body-checks at the blue line. Near their own goal on defence, the Port Colborne Incos did not look so good, nor could they finish off plays inside the Petes' defence on the attack. The Petes earned the win handily and should have had a bigger score, mussing up a lot of chances. Both teams used body-checks freely and it was rugged but pretty clean.

A Busy Night

Walker in the visitors cage had a busy night and kicked out a bunch of close ones, but was fooled on a couple, too. Harding had little to worry about till the last half of the third when the Incos ganged up, and he robbed them of several with some fine saves. Crowe was outstanding on the Petes' defence, turning in a four-star performance, with Drake Jopling also consistently good. Up front, Tompkins was in on three goals with some fine work, while Kingdon and Coughlin were thefted several times. The rest worked well, also. Starr was hurt on the leg when tripped in the second but returned to the game shortly.

Outstanding for the losers was V. Concessi (No. 6), a speed merchant who could skate with any of the speedy Petes and looked brilliant. He was ably assisted by Huffman, while Roy and O'Neill were also good. The defence checked good but failed to cover well in front of their own goal. The team was bigger than the Petes but lacked the locals' speed for the most part and did not click so well on the attack.

Not Counted

Kingdon scored 10 seconds after the game started but it was called back for an offside. Play was fast, rugged and even for a time with the Petes later crowding the Incos, who checked closely. Heal came close and a Heal-Kingdon thrust made Walker jump. It slowed up shortly and was ragged, with Coughlin hitting the post on a nice effort. Right after, Coughlin scored from the side on a corner passout from J. Jopling for the only goal of the period. Crowe went through but missed and the Petes kept tearing in the rest of the route, play being clean and fairly fast. Tompkins almost got one just before the finish.

Early in the second, Kingdon tested Walker and the Petes had most of the play. When Roy went off for tripping, they ganged up hotly for a space. O'Neill went off for tripping just before Roy came back and the Petes swarmed in but without effect. As Roy got back, Kingdon was gated for holding, and it was fast and even. A Starr-Coughlin rush came close and with all back, the Petes dominated play. L. Concessi almost tallied and the homesters, especially the first line, missed several neat chances. Burton pulled a nice rush, and a Kingdon-Tompkins' try nearly clicked. A V. Concessi-Huffman rush made Harding hop, and play slowed up after a time with checking close. Brown went off for tripping near the finish and the Petes failed to cash in on it.

Petes Get Three

Again in the third, the Petes started pressing and came close a few times. Tompkins made it 2-0 with a fine effort, circling the net fast to slip the disc home. Crowe got through but hoisted the rubber over the cage. The locals kept peppering Walker and Heal got another on a pass from Tompkins, dodging the defence at the blue line and sliding right in on the goalie. The visitors argued bitterly, claiming it was offside and play was held up more than five minues. Right after, it got hot and rough. Drake Jopling was boarded hard and he grabbed O'Neil—who had thrown him into the wood. They mixed and tangled briefly on the ice. Other players swarmed in, threatening to fight, but did no damage, and peace-making players, the referee and two police officers broke it up quickly. The fighters drew majors. Tompkins skirted defence and picked the open side of the net with a hot shot for the next goal, and then Kingdon came close.

The Incos began ganging up and giving Harding some hot thrusts to handle but he kept kicking them out. Roy finally scored in close on a side pass from V. Concessi, and then Huffman nearly notched one. A Heal-Tompkins try almost clicked, as the visitors kept pressing the last part of the game, and Tompkins just about scored on a clean breakaway a minute before the final gong.

The teams:

Port Colborne: Goal, Walker; defence, Brown and Gallinger; centre, Huffman; wings, Roy and V. Concessi; alternates, Morrison, L. Concessi, Ferguson, O'Neil and Hewitt.

Petes. Goal, Harding; defence, Burton and Gardner; centre, Kingdon; wings, Tompkins and Heal; alternates, F. Jopling, Crowe, Starr, Coughlin, Blewett and J. Jopling.

Referee, Hap Day of Toronto.

Bruins Humble Hawks 6-0 For Home Fans

BOSTON, Feb. 28 — (AP). — The sad part about playing Boston Bruins, as has been demonstrated to many an opponent time and again, is that even when the famed Kraut line of Milt Schmidt, Bobby Bauer, and Woody Dumart is held in check another formation generally manages to show scoring power.

Chicago Black Hawks did a pretty fair job of staving off the Kraut Kids last night, with only Bauer getting a tally, but the Bruins' line of Bill Cowley, Roy Conacher and Mel Hill went on a scoring spree that meant five goals and seven assists as the Hawks were humbled 6-0. It was Chicago's first loss in 10 National Hockey League games.

Roy Conacher

To Conacher and Hill went two goals and two assists apiece, while Cowley, their centreman, picked up a goal and helped in three.

Besides bringing an end to a two-game losing streak, Bruins used the victory to draw to within two points of the leading Rangers. The Bruins have two games in hand over the Manhattan Blues.

The 77 points compiled this season by the Conacher-Cowley-Hill line looks more impressive when it is considered that Conacher was out of action for more than a month with an injury and Hill missed several games. Despite this Conacher, the leading goal-scorer in the N.H.L. last year with 36, has scored 13 so far. Hill has nine, and Cowley 12.

Garcia Favored In Friday Bout

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 28—(AP).—Los Angeles' two stars of the fistic world, Henry Armstrong and Ceferino Garcia, ease off training routines to-day but blasts of confidence over their battle on Friday night grow louder from each fighter's camp.

The encounter, a 10-round match for Garcia's share of the middleweight championship of the world, promises to be one of the bitterest in local ring history, with Hammerin' Henry seeking to annex his fourth title and Garcia out to avenge a 15-round decision lost to the negro lad in November, 1938.

Garcia remains a slight favorite, chiefly because of a hefty weight advantage. Armstrong's natural poundage is a few ounces shy of 140. Mead wants him to weigh in around 141 or 142, if possible. Garcia figures to scale around 153 or 154.

Turf Fans Dream Of Seabiscuit Win On Saturday

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 28—(AP).—The rosiest dream of all is that Seabiscuit wil win the $100,000 added Santa Anita Handicap and go down in turf annals as the biggest money winner of all times—but it will take more than dreams to get the 'Biscuit across the wire a winner on Saturday.

There is no doubt that nearly everybody is pulling for Seabiscuit to win. People who bet against the gallant old campaigner last week stood and shouted when he burst across the finish line the victor. They'll do it again this week if a Seabiscuit triumph comes to pass.

The fact remains, however, that the star of the C. S. Howard Stable failed by a nose to win the Santa Anita classic in 1937 from Rosemont, and failed again in 1939, by another nose to Stagehand.

Seabiscuit must carry 130 pounds in the mile and one-quarter grind. That was the weight he carried against Stagehand. Stagehand, a colt, packed only 100.

There probably is no Stagehand to worry about this year, however. Featherweighted candidates, at this date, don't seem to figure.

Trio In Ottawa Are Remanded

OTTAWA, Feb. 28 — (CP). — Charged under the Defence of Canada regulations, Arthur Roy Saunders and Harry and Louis Binder will not be asked to plead in Magistrate's Court to-day but will be remanded to March 8. It will be decided before then whether the case will be tried as an indictable offence or as a summary prosecution.

This decision was reached at a conference here last night between Crown Attorney Raoul Mercier of Carleton County and Walter Martin, representative of the Ontario Attorney General's Department shortly after the latter's arrival from Toronto with Inspector W. H. Lougheed of the Ontario Provincial Police.

Louis Binder, a private in the Royal Canadian Engineers, faces a charge of distributing literature forbidden by Section 39A of the defence regulations. His brother Harry, former parliamentary correspondent of the banned Toronto Clarion, is charged with printing and distributing, and Saunders with printing or making it in his Ottawa apartment.

Mr. Martin expected to return to Toronto to-day for a conference with Attorney General Conant. "We are acting under Mr. Conant's instructions that any offenders under the Defence of Canada regulations are to be prosecuted most vigorously," he said.

Mt. Pleasant Institute Holds 2-Way Party

MOUNT PLEASANT, Feb. 28.—(ENS)—A very enjoyable evening was spent in the W.G. hall on Friday evening when Group No. 1 of the Women's Institute with Mrs. T. C. Morden as convener sponsored a progressive crokinole and Chinese checker party.

Seven tables of crokinole were played with keen competition, resulting in Murray Fee winning the ladies' prize for the most games won, playing with a lady's score card and Tom Best highest winner among the gentlemen.

Consolation prizes went to Mrs. Gordon Ruth and Mr. Melville Handley. Six tables of Chinese checkers were played with Florence Lawson topping the list of ladies and Ross Jamieson winning the gentlemen's honors and Mrs. Elliott and Bert Visee carrying away the consolation awards. Mr. Alex Tully held the lucky ticket for the door prize.

A social hour was enjoyed while the ladies of the group served refreshments and the evening's entertainment concluded with "God Save the King."

A progressive euchre to be held on Friday evening, March 1, in the W.I. hall and sponsored by Groups No. 2 and 3 with Mrs. Ira Lowe and Mrs. Vincent Jones as conveners was announced at the close.

Fund Drive Planned By Westwood W.I.

WESTWOOD, Feb. 28—(ENS)—The members of the Women's Institute held their February meeting on Tuesday evening in the town hall. Mrs. J. Clysdale was in the chair.

The permit allowing canvassing for a war work fund was received from the Dominion government and canvassers will visit the homes in this community in the near future. Several letters of appreciation were read by the corresponding secretary, Mrs. Aubrey Wood, for gifts and remembrances received.

Mrs. Joe Millar, a recent bride of the Institute, was presented with a beautiful wool blanket. Mrs. Millar thanked the members.

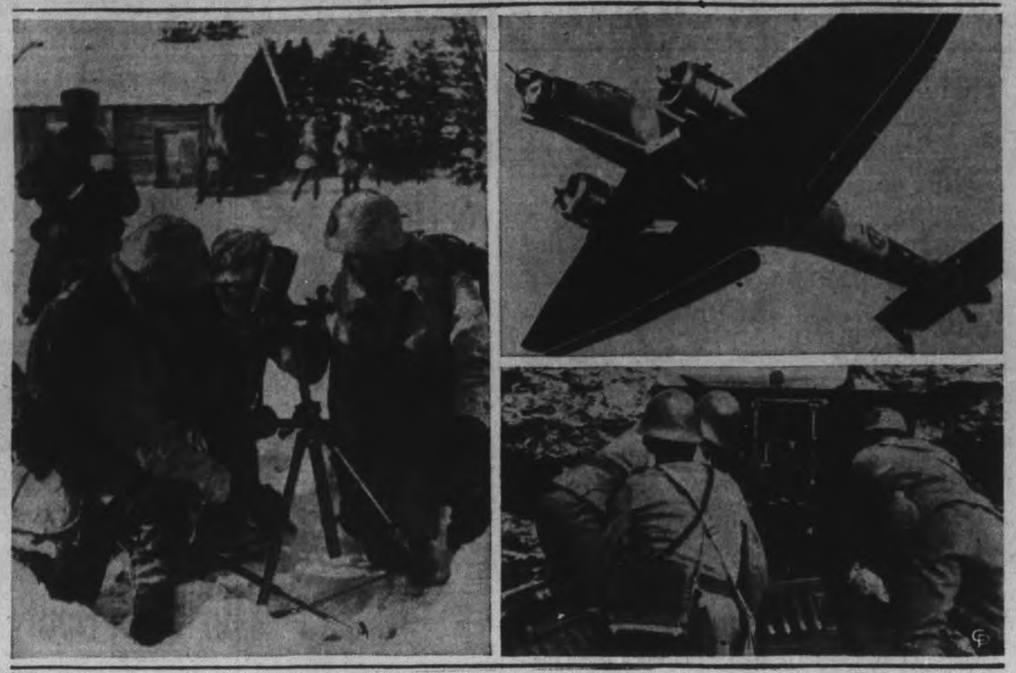
Current events were given by Mr. Hilliard Neilson and a bulb contest was won by Mrs. W. Morrin, and the lucky jar by Mrs. E. W. Sargent.

The demonstration of a crown roast of sausage by Miss Jessie Davidson was ably presented. Slides of Westwood and community were much enjoyed through the kindness of Miss Wallace, domestic science teacher of the agricultural short course which has been in progress in Westwood during February.

Two minutes of silence were solemnly observed as a mark of respect to the memory of the late Lord Tweedsmuir, after which the meeting closed with the National Anthem.

Dainty refreshments were served and a social time enjoyed.

Refusing Military Aid To Finland, Sweden Looks To Own Defences



Struggling to preserve her neutrality as two wars rage around her, Sweden is turning her eyes towards her own defences as it becomes increasingly apparent that Swedish forces will likely be called upon to take the field of battle in the near future. Swedish troops who guard the northern frontier are shown, LEFT, operating a mortar during training in the Arctic circle. Last week Russian bombers bombed the Swedish town of Pajala, close to the Finnish frontier. Although numerically small, Sweden's air force is well-equipped and its personnel well-trained. One of Sweden's larger bombers is shown, TOP RIGHT, in flight. Sweden recently placed an order in the United States for $8,000,000 worth of fighting planes. Nature made this emplacement used by a Swedish anti-tank gun crew, BOTTOM RIGHT, at a spot near the border north of the Gulf of Bothnia. Up to the present Sweden has refused to send direct military aid to Finland, but a strong movement is afoot amongst Swedish militarists to force the government to give Finland direct aid against Soviet Russia.

ber Opposition speakers. Three other Cabinet Ministers spoke, while M. A. MacPherson of Regina spoke at Toronto and Wingham, Ont., for the Conservatives and M. J. Coldwell, National chairman of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation, spoke at Edmonton, where the New Democracy movement announced its election platform.

Scores Wheat Shift.

Mr. MacPherson, runner-up for the National Conservative party leadership, spoke on the economic aspects of the war in his Wingham address. He criticized the King Government for shipping wheat before the freeze up across to the American ports.

"This Canadian money was sent to the United States for the time that the wheat was locked up in the United States ports," he said.

"In 1935, when Bennett was in power, a seven-foot binder in the West was worth $256," he said. "When Mackenzie King went in, the binders went up to $259 and they have increased steadily until this year, they are worth $319. That is the result of the tariff reductions of which the King regime talked so much about."

He criticized the indefinite attitude of the Government before war broke out. "Hitler could tell from the laxity of the Government that Canada would be in no position to go to war. If anything, this helped him to push his war effort."

He said "Premier King's efforts in regard to war before September 1, consisted of a telegram which he sent to Hitler asking him not to declare war. He didn't even receive an answer to it."

He charged Premier King of deliberately falsifying the records of parliament. "On the day that parliament was scuttled," he said, "69 questions in regard to the war effort were sent down to parliament. When the votes and proceedings were printed, there was no mention made of the 69 questions. What became of them; I say that there is a definite sign of parliamentary records being falsified when there was no sign of these questions.

Questions Skipped

(Dr. Arthur Beauchesne, clerk of the house of commons, said at Ottawa that Conservative notices of motion and questions were left off the votes and proceedings of the four-hour session of parliament last Jan. 25 by officers of the house. ("The matter was dealt with by the officer of the house as a question of regular procedure," he said. Ordinarily, in recent years, such notices, which have been sent to house officials before parliament opened, have been published in the votes and proceedings of the first day's sitting, but this is a "Courtesy practice," and was not followed on this occasion.")

In his Toronto address Mr. MacPherson charged that the Canadian government had forced a British Admiral to move from an office on Canadian soil to a yacht in an eastern Canadian harbor. The Admiral was forced to do his essential work from the yacht, he said. Mr. MacPherson gave no details.

"While we may be a separate nation and have a measure of autonomy we didn't have 25 to 30 years ago, everything we've got, including our liberties and our freedom, first and last, is just what the British Navy has been able to do for us, and protect us and nothing more," Mr. MacPherson said.

He said that a National government as propounded by Conservative leader Manion is "looming as a question of major importance" in Canada. The fact that Prime Minister King was appointing "so many Conservatives to key positions, but not in the cabinet, is the strongest argument for National government."

Hon. C. D. Howe, minister of transport, in an address at Cornwall, said Canada's war effort is being prosecuted without "a suggestion of graft, favoritism or other usual by-products of war buying."

All High Standard.

"Nothing is purchased which is not of high standard," said Mr. Howe. "The widest opportunity is given to anyone to tender on war contracts and these tenders are carefully considered with a view to the firm's ability to produce the quantity and quality required within the necessary time limit."

Canada's fighting men are selected carefully on their merits alone. Referring to the army co-operation air squadron landed in England this week, the Minister said the men of this unit had been "chosen carefully by professional soldiers and not by politicians."

"No man can join the army unless he joins through the front door at the recruiting office," Mr. Howe said. Canada's soldiers are the best paid in the Empire.

The Minister lauded the efficiency of Canada's railways in handling without difficulty 40 per cent more traffic since war broke out. Canada is the only country participating in the war "with adequate facilities in its harbors and railways."

Postmaster General Power in an address at Victoria spoke of the present recruiting situation in Canada and said that thousands of physically unfit men had been enlisted in the last war and 80,000 men had been sent to England who saw no service.

Only Quarter Got To Front.

"Of 260 infantry battalions sent to England in the last war, only one quarter were sent to the front," said Mr. Power. "We had units outfitted by private individuals to enhance their own prestige. From that lesson we profited. We made each military district see to its own requirements. We had to be fair to all and recruited adequate examination as to fitness before enlisting a man. Another examination also will be made on a soldier's or sailor's discharge in order to protect him in the matter of a pension.

Mr. Power referred to Conservative Leader R. J. Manion's proposed National government and asked who Dr. Manion would put in as ministers. Most people knew that an all-star team had little chance against a smooth-working team.

"I doubt even if the Hepburn-Drew-Duplessis combination would be capable of carrying on," he added.

Dr. Bruce A Nationalist

Dr. Herbert A. Bruce, former lieutenant-governor of Ontario, was acclaimed National Government candidate in Toronto Parkdale constituency.

Dr. Bruce's speech of acceptance, a brief for a National Government, was climaxed by an attack on Prime Minister Mackenzie King for "torpedoing" and "scuttling" parliament. He charged Mr. King with raising the conscription issue in his first radio address of the campaign.

Had Mr. King formed a national government there would have been a firm and united Canada behind him, said Mr. Bruce.

"The simple fact remains that he refused to abandon party politics in the national interest," Dr. Bruce continued. "He puts forth a rather feeble claim that his government is national because there are representatives from all the provinces of Canada. This is sheer nonsense if any attention is paid to the vote and the constitutional structure."

The government which Mr. King claimed to be national was in office by 46.7 per cent of the votes in the 1935 federal election.

"No claim whatever can be justified which aims at deluding the people into a belief that a united Canada is reflected in 46 per cent Liberal votes."

Insult To Victory

The Quebec provincial election was a victory over an anti-British government, said Dr. Bruce. It was not a Liberal victory. An insult to the loyalty of French Canadians could be read "into Mr. King's statement that French-Canada will desert the cause of liberty if he is not re-elected."

No place in Canada was recruiting so active as in Quebec.

"For Mr. King to insinuate, as he did in his first radio address, that under any other government but his, there was fear of conscription was a statement very unworthy and does not reflect credit in the position which he now occupies. Enemy propaganda would have to be very vicious and remote from the truth to measure up to the quality of Mr. King's statement regarding conscription will not be an issue in this war, as recruiting progresses at a rate greatly in excess of the demands which are made from time to time."

No Proper Air Force.

The Conservatives never provided adequate equipment for the Royal Canadian Air Force while the Liberal Government added to its effective aircraft and made it possible to equip the force with first-class advanced training planes. Defence Minister Rogers said at Eganville, Ont.

Since the outbreak of war 117 aircraft have been delivered to the R.C.A.F., 67 are on order to be delivered shortly "and many times that number are at present under negotiation by the War Supply Board," he said.

In 1935 the Air Force had 154 machines, including 26 service aircraft and 62 elementary training planes. The remaining 64 were planes suitable for transport and general duty, but there were at that time no planes whatever that could be classified as intermediate or advanced training types.

The R.C.A.F. had 269 aircraft on September 1, 1939, including 107 service machines, 65 elementary trainers, 44 general duty and 43 advanced trainers.

Mr. Rogers replied to Conservative Leader Manion's declaration that the Government spent $188,000,000 supposedly on defence from 1935 to the outbreak of war, "yet preparation for the almost inevitable war was shamefully neglected."

"The actual facts are these," the minister continued. "From November 1, 1935, until March 31, 1936, there was spent on national defence a little less than the balance of the previous year's appropriation. To this has been added the amounts actually expended on defence in the fiscal years since then right up to August 31, 1939. Instead of being $188,000,000, as Dr. Manion says, the total is $112,764,449.

"More money has, of course, been spent since the first of last September, but Dr. Manion referred specifically to the time between 1935 and the outbreak of war. He is wrong, therefore, by the enormous figure of $75,000,000."

into Finland in the far north, while on the Karelian Isthmus war-weary Finns dug in for a dogged stand before the shattered city of Viipuri (Viborg).

Observers along the Norwegian border in the north said a new Soviet army offensive had reached Nautsi, some 75 miles south of the Arctic coast, after driving the Finns back eight miles.

All Buildings In Flames.

Every building in Nautsi was ablaze at the end of the day's vicious fighting both in the air and on the ground.

(A Russian communique early today did not mention the Far North offensive but claimed Red army troops occupied 13 more defensive fortifications on the Karelian Isthmus).

The Russians were reported trying to envelop Viipuri, a battered hulk of a city which once housed 74,000 persons, by attacking across the ice of Viipuri Bay.

The attacks were based on the captured fortress of Koivisto, reports indicated, but Finnish sources said any over-ice manoeuvre could result only in heavy Red losses as the Finns still retain big guns on the jagged west coast which can sweep the bay.

Viipuri has been the object of the Russian invasion since the first days of the war and has been subject to almost continual bombing and shelling for three months.

Intense aerial warfare was reported by both sides.

(The Russian communique said six Finnish planes were shot down)

The Finns announced yesterday 17 Soviet planes had been destroyed.

the British foreign office believe the war in Finland will be of "considerable duration."

Quarters which say any expeditionary force is under consideration add that the temper of the British people calls for measure more drastic than the dispatch of war planes, guns and ammunition, collection of funds for food, clothing and medical supplies and approval of British enlistments for the defence of Finland.

Mr. Locker-Lampson has pointed out what he terms the "imminent peril of Finland's overthrow" and proposed in the House of Commons that the government "free a substantial force (from the Allied armies) for instant service in Finland."

He introduced a resolution along that line Monday, calling for the allocation of a day to debate on it. Whether the request for debate would be granted was a question.

Mr. Hore-Belisha, Liberal member of parliament, last Friday in a public address called for full intervention by "sea, air and land" on behalf of Finland; saying "the risk of helping Finland may be great, but the risk of not helping her may be greater."

The neutrality of Scandinavian nations would appear to bar immediate action along expeditionary lines, but one naval man speaks of the "necessity of anticipating enemy movements."

The Finnish Petsamo region looms large on British admiralty maps. Experts see it not only as a gateway for Arctic invasion of Finland—its present use—but as a Russian route to Sweden and a potential base for a coastal advance on Norway.

should be discussed and when we might have opportunity to experiment with financial reforms," he said. "But that time is not a time of war such as the present."

Sound Basis Essential

At the present time, when it was impossible to borrow from the United States or from Great Britain it was most essential that Canada's monetary and financial situation be kept sound and undisturbed.

Mr. Mackenzie King left this morning for Prince Albert where on Thursday he will be chosen as candidate in that riding which he has represented for 15 years. Immediately after the meeting he will return to Ottawa.

The Prime Minister's address at the Civic Auditorium last night was preceded by an address by Justice Minister Lapointe, who came to Winnipeg by air, and will speak in each of the provincial capitals.

Mr. Lapointe said he did not believe Dr. Manion could form a government as efficient as that which has administered Canada during the last five years.

Speaking of criticism directed at the Defence of Canada Regulations, Mr. Lapointe said the Government needed such powers in order to protect Canada's war effort from sabotage and to protect the very people themselves. He had secret information of organizations and enemy agents being instructed to get into the army and obtain citizenship in order to harm the country and hamper its war effort.

Attacks Tory Neglect

Mr. Mackenzie King described the growth of Canada's defence forces in all three branches, navy, army and air, since his government took office. He scored the last Conservative administration for "butchering" the air force and neglecting defences.

He defied Dr. Manion to find any proof of his charge that the British Government had been refused when it first requested an opportunity to train airmen in Canada.

Those charges had been made the First of July, 1938, the Prime Minister said, and he doubted if they would have been made at that time but for the fact a National Conservative convention was to be held in a few days.

Recalling the burdens of responsibility borne by his Government and himself in the past four years the Prime Minister said nothing had been so hard to carry as his inability to speak frankly to his followers and the people about what was happening in the world without arousing undue alarm.

Crisis a Relief

It had been a relief to him when the crisis came at last and the decision of peace or war could be presented to parliament.

It had been a "privation" too when the sequence of critical events in Europe had made it impossible for him to travel across Canada and meet personally the friends he had made in a period of 40 years of public life.

It had been a bitter responsibility to be faced with the task of recommending steps which would involve the sacrifice of Canadian lives. He had not felt that responsibility so heavy as when, last night, he faced a great audience of men and women.

"The future, as I see it, is a very, very dark and terrible one," Mr. Mackenzie King said. "I ask any one of you—would you wish to carry the responsibility which is mine as leader of the government today, having to pass daily on questions of life and death?

"I see a situation ahead of us which may last, possibly, for many years to come. All that has happened since September has served to increase rather than lessen our apprehension.

"If we appeal to you now to give us your support so that we may carry on the war effort, we do it because we think it is in your interests and not merely because we want power. We are doing it as a high patriotic duty."

It would be difficult and a long task for a new government to obtain the grasp of problems and to establish the relations with foreign governments now possessed by the present administration.

Best Two For Peace

Not only would the government be faced with the task of conducting a long war but it might well be called upon to assist in making a peace. The prime minister believed Mr. Lapointe and himself, whose views on peace and maintenance of goodwill among nations were well known, could speak with the voice of the whole Canadian people at a peace conference.

Mr. Mackenzie King said he had dissolved parliament because of the resolution of censure passed by the Ontario legislature a week before parliament opened, and because of the attitude immediately taken by Conservative leader Manion when the speech from the throne indicated there would be an immediate appeal to the people.

"Don't think it was any joy to me to ask my local friends to come to Ottawa looking forward to receiving their sessional indemnity only to be told there would be no session and no indemnity," the prime minister said.

The Ontario legislature vote and the attacks that would be made in parliament which he said, would give Canada's allies and enemy a false impression, made it impossible to hold a session.

"We had no right then to think of ourselves or our friends but of the effect it would have on our war effort if we adopted any other course of action."

Three Men Bid On Collection Of City Garbage

A difference of $1,060 between two of the tenders for the collection of garbage held up the decision of the property committee of the council Tuesday night until definite information could be obtained about the financial ability of the lowest bidder to carry out the contract if it was awarded to him.

The tender of Herb J. Withers, the present contractor, for the collection of garbage and also for the removal of ashes and tins from the incinerator, was $11,000.

Edward Cooney's bid was $13,350 for the entire work, and W. T. Hughey quoted $9,940; and Wesley Manley offered to remove the ashes and tins for $450.

The committee decided to ask Mr. Hughey for some reference as to his ability to perform the contract, and also to appear before the committee for the purpose of discussing with the members his bid of $9,940, which was $1,060 less than that of Mr. Withers.

Alderman McCannan remarked that even at $11,000 Herb Withers couldn't be making much profit out of the collecting job, but probably got additional revenue by feeding garbage to pigs. Allowing six dollars a day for a team and driver for 310 days in the year, Alderman McCannan said that cost came to $1,860, and Mr. Withers used six teams, which would bring the total to $11,160 on that estimated basis.

"Are you working for the city or for Withers?" Alderman Stocker asked the chairman.

"I am just giving an estimate of what the cost of doing the work might be," Alderman McCannan replied.

Alderman McCannan said that Mr. Withers had always been willing to make special calls even late at night, and had covered extra territory last year without additional charge.

"I can't say a word against Withers," Alderman Wilson commented.

Alderman Stocker told Alderman McCannan that if he was representing Withers he was making a good job of it.

"Walter, if you'll just hold your patience, we are trying to get some information," Alderman McCannan answered.

Alderman Dutton said: "I can't see that we can do anything else but accept Mr. Withers' tender. We don't know whether this other man, Mr. Hughey, can perform the contract."

"I'll make you give the ayes and nays when you do it," Alderman Stocker declared.

"How long has Withers been on the job?" Alderman Wilson enquired.

"Since time immemorial," Alderman Stocker said.

"Our business is to see that we let the contract to a man who can do it," Alderman Dutton observed, recalling an experience of some past failure.

Mr. Hughey had written that he owned wagons and horses and that he could get sleighs and a ton truck. The committee briefly discussed the cost of equipment which Mr. Hughey might have to purchase in addition to which he already owned.

It was pointed out that the committee lacked definite assurance that Mr. Hughey could fulfill the terms of the contract, and Alderman Bradburn proposed that he be requested "to come before the committee and answer questions about his ability to finance it."

Alderman McIntyre said he had nothing against Mr. Withers, "but we owe it to the people to go into this matter of Mr. Hughey's bid and know definitely where we stand."

Alderman Stocker said he had every confidence in Mr. Hughey, and added his opinion that the committee would be impressed by him when they saw him.

A TRIBUTE TO SENATOR DUFFUS

In his speech at a Fraser meeting in Douro Tuesday night, E. A. Peck referred to the promotion of his old opponent, J. J. Duffus, to the Senate. "It is a high honor indeed," he said, "for there are only twenty-four senators from the whole province of Ontario. Senator Duffus has worked for you in the past and no doubt as senator will continue to look after your interests."

PATNA, India, Feb. 28 (CP-Reuters)—A shoe was hurled at Mohandas K. Gandhi in the railway station at Lilooah, six miles from Calcutta when he was leaving for Patna last night, it was learned today. The shoe missed Gandhi but hit his secretary.

Car Is Found On Highway Without Lights

Charles Elmhirst of Otonabee who had his face and head badly cut by glass in an accident on Highway 7 on February 10 faced a charge of careless driving, arising out of the mishap, before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning.

Provincial Traffic Officer Lloyd McClure prosecuted the case and Elmhirst, who pleaded not guilty, was defended by W. B. Gordon.

W. J. Murphy, young Norwood banker, was the first witness for the crown. He testified that in company with two women he was driving toward Peterborough when just after meeting a car travelling east he had found himself confronted by a motionless automobile without lights, parked on the north side of the highway, and just north of the centre line. The parked vehicle, he said semed to be facing in a southeasterly direction. Witness said that he had been unable to avert a crash and his car had struck the left side of the other machine about the front door with the result that it was shoved across the highway while Murphy's car went into the ditch on the north side.

Murphy said that he went to the other car and found Elmhirst was the driver. He was cut and bleeding but all he said was to ask several times for "a shove." Elmhirst had his engine running at that time but the rear of his car was badly damaged.

"I was driving about 35 to 40 miles an hour," Murphy said. "The highway was slippery and it was snowing."

Cross-examined by Mr. Gordon, Murphy said that the other car he had met just before the accident had not veered but came straight ahead." There was lots of room for it to do so," he added. Murphy and his companions had been driving into Peterborough to attend a show, he explained.

Baroara Collins, Cobourg, who was with Murphy on the night of the accident said that Elmhirst's car had been on the north side of the road and that she did not see it until just before the crash, because its light were not on.

Testifying as to the condition of Elmhirst after the accident Miss Collins said he was bleeding and she thought from the manner in which he spoke that he was intoxicated . All he could say was "Give me a shove."

To Mr. Gordon witness said that she had not noticed Elmhirst's breath.

Mrs. Patricia Herr, sister of the previous witness, and a passenger in the Murphy car on the night in question said that she had seen nothing of the Elmhirst vehicle before the impact because the windshield on her side was covered with sleet.

The case is proceeding.

Motorist Fined Twice In Court

Pleading guilty to two traffic charges laid by Chief Constable Wallace Hendren, of Lakefield, a Peterborough motorist, Samuel J. McGlennon was fined twice by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in traffic court this morning.

On his plea of guilty to a charge of careless driving a fine of $5 and $2.50 costs was levied while failure to come to a full stop before entering a highway resulted in a second fine of $3 and $2.50 costs.

Pleas of guilty to illegal parking on Brock Street brought the usual fine of $2 and $75 cents costs to four car owners, Clifford Harding, J. E. Gregson, Earl Huston and James Morency.

A traffic charge against Bruce Parker was withdrawn at the request of the police.

Procedure Outlined In Case Of Accident

When there is an accident at any of Peterborough schools in future precise steps to be taken will be known by school authorities, if a recommendation by the supervision committee Tuesday night is acted upon by the Board of Education.

The committee recommended that in case of accidents the school physician, Dr. R. F. Nott, or one of the school nurses, render first aid, then send the injured pupil to his home in a school nurse's car. She will instruct the parents to call their own physician, under whose care the youngster will be from that time on. A report of each accident will be made to Inspector K. S. Wightman who, in turn, will report to the board.

Inspector Wightman recently asked for a ruling, so that he might follow the same procedure in the case of all accidents on school property.

Market Clerk On Salary To Be Studied

Employment of a market clerk on salary instead of the customary practice of letting a contract for the collection of tolls was proposed at Tuesday night's meeting of the property committee which appointed four of its members to consider the idea and report back. The subcommittee is composed of Aldermen McCannan, Bradburn and Mayor Hamilton.

In the meantime James B. Brown's tender of $1,315 for the right to collect tolls as market clerk was held over for consideration in the light of the report which is expected within the next few weeks.

Information submitted to the committee showed that St. Thomas, Kingston, London, Chatham, Hamilton and Brantford all engaged market clerks on salary.

St. Thomas pays its official $75 a month; has two market days, Wednesday and Saturday, with an average of 50 sellers on Wednesday and 150 on Saturdays; and the clerk is in charge of two rest rooms.

The market clerk's salary in Chatham is $1,000; market days are Wednesday and Saturday, but the market is used every day; no rest room.

The salary of Kingston's clerk is $1,100; market days are Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday; revenue during 1939 was $2,810.56.

In Brantford the market clerk is paid $1,520 a year, and the market revenue is from $7,000 to $8,000. There are 30 meat stalls; rental $2.50 a week, used only on Saturdays. The rest room is operated separately, in charge of a caretaker, and is a bus terminal. Hamilton and London salaries were higher than the others.

Aldermen Bradburn and Dutton expressed the opinion that a change in the operation of the Peterboro market could be effected with advantage to both buyers and sellers.

Alderman Wilson quietly asked "are you suggesting a door prize?" and Mayor Hamilton said that the essential problem, if there was to be an actual improvement, was how the number of buyers could be increased.

These were some of the points referred to the special committee. Alderman Dutton remarked that Peterboro was the centre of a large agricultural district, that it was an imporant business centre and that its trading position had been expanded by the greater use of trucks. In spite of those changed conditions the market was generally about the same, in its management and accommodation as it was twenty years ago or more. Alderman Stocker suggested that the committee might also consider the advisability of requiring the market scales to be designated as standard for local use.

City Solicitor Huyke said he doubted the authority of the council to impose a regulation of that kind.

Aisles Restored.

A letter from J. Ritchie, Toronto, acting Deputy Fire Marshal, approved the present arrangement for the tables in the market hall, with the aisles north and south and six feet in width, and also with a central aisle twelve feet wide across the centre of the hall. He said he appreciated the interest taken in the matter of public safety, but was inclined to the view that there was not sufficient cause to depart from the utility of the hall as provided by the present lay out of the tables instead of the temporary substitute in method by disposing the aisles crosswise.

The space at the side of the stairs in each ground floor entrance may also be used for marketing purposes, it was stated by members of the committee, quoting the verbal permission by the Department's representative at his recent inspection of the premises.

Only One Appeal Is Being Planned

C. A. Salmonsen presided Tuesday at an organization meeting of leaders in the Salvation Army's drive for $10,000 and explained to them that no other appeal will be made to the public this year. The coming drive will take the place of the annual self-denial appeal, the harvest festival appeal, and the tag day.

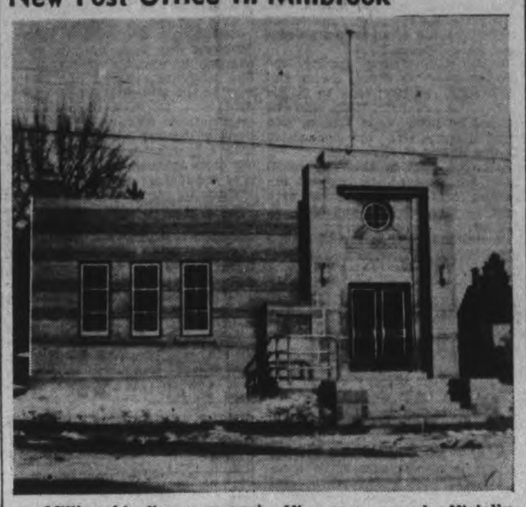
The meeting was at noon and early in the afternoon the women leaders held a meeting, presided over by Mrs. Edmond Wand. They were informed that women are to take over collections at all public institutions and women's clubs.

At both meeting the objects of the drive were thoroughly explained to leaders and enthusiasm was voiced over outcome of the project. At the noon meeting there were present C. A. Salmonsen, John Troke, George Melton, Stan Elliott, J. H. Jamison, H. R. Scott, Ken Smylie, Bert McLeod, G. A. Gillespie, Leo Copp, Morley Shaver, and Tom McArthur.

PICKS WRONG CAR

A Toronto traveller's face was red Tuesday when his car failed to stop at the corner of George and Hunter streets and collided with another vehicle that had been stopped, waiting for the lights to change. The embarrassment was caused by the fact that the car ahead was a police cruiser machine. Very little damage was done.

New Post Office In Millbrook



Millbrook's fine new post office was opened officially today and is being followed by a public banquet in the Town Hall, where the Federal superintendent of land and air mails, Mr. Potts, will be guest speaker. The building cost approximately $10,000. (Examiner News Service Photo.)

"Elections are becoming streamlined" an old-timer was heard to remark Tuesday night. "Nowadays they show moving pictures of the scuttling of the Graf Spee; in the old days they generally harked back to something Sir John A. Macdonald once said."

GETTING MORE ELK

Eight more elk will arrive in Peterborough tonight to swell to 14 the number on the Peterborough county game preserve. They will be moved to the preserve tomorrow. The elk at present in the preserve are wintering well, and are staying close to the haystack the Peterborough Fish and Game Association provided for them as feed.

TO USE AUDITORIUM.

The Board of Education's supervision committee Tuesday night recommended that the Collegiate auditorium be rented to five different groups next month. They were the Industrial Accident Prevention Association, the Peterborough Symphonic Orchestra, Young People of St. Luke's Anglican Church, St. Joseph's Alumnae Association, and the First Church of Christ, Scientist.

JAMIESON BONE COMING

Jamieson Bone, Conservative candidate in Northumberland, will attend the meeting in the Canadian Legion Hall here Monday night when Hon. R. L. "Pat" Maitland, leader of the Conservative opposition in the British Columbia Legislature will be the principal speaker. A delegation from the Campbellford district will be here for the occasion. Mr. Bone will address the meeting briefly.

LEG FRACTURED

John Maurer, a Roumanian, employed as a wood cutter on the farm of Preston Armstrong, near Keene, was seriously injured over the week-end when a tree fell on him. He was working in the woods with his employer, when a falling tree smashed against a dead tree and the latter trapped Maurer, striking him on the head and fracturing the hip bone as well. The head injury was not serious. Dr. Wright of Keene attended the injured man at St. Joseph's Hospital.

THIRD COMMISSIONER

Appointment of the third member of the Suburban Area Commission is expected this week, although it may not come until late. The two present members are M. H. Gainey, representing the city and Morley E. Smithson of Otonabee, the county's representative. If they can agree on another triumvir, to succeed the late John McIntosh of North Monaghan, it is understood that the appointment becomes automatic, with the approval of the Department of Highways. Otherwise, the naming of the third man is referred to Alex L. Elliott in the capacity of referee, and his nominee completes the Board. Gossip says there are around twelve men hoping to get the nod.

MAY BE REPLY

Comment around the city hall hinted that there may be forthcoming a reply to Fred T. Tuggey's criticism of the new tax rate. Mr. Tuggey stated that the reduction in the rate was satisfactory as far as it went, but in his opinion it might have been carried a little further downward.

TAKING NO CHANCES

A system is being used in the present election which will eliminate chances of names being left off the voters' list. Householders are receiving by mail a copy of the registrations for their particular polling subdivision. All that is necessary is to go over the list and make certain that the name of the householder and all others entitled to vote have been properly recorded. One resident has already found a new use for the lists, and remarked: "I have been living on this street quite a while and never before did I know the names of all the people who were living along here."

Plainville Couple Mark Golden Wedding; Bridal Party Of 50 Years Ago Present

PLAINVILE, Feb. 28 (ENS).—The golden wedding of an esteemed couple of Plainville, Mr. and Mrs. Hilliard Doidge, was observed on Monday. Mr. Doidge brought his bride, Miss Crossen of Baltimore, to his farm home at Plainville fifty years ago where they have resided until about four years ago when they retired from farming and moved into their present residence in Plainville. Their only son Hilton Doidge is on the farm.

Mr. and Mrs. Doidge are enjoying good health and lead an active life. About fifty relatives with a few neighbors joined with Mr. and Mrs. Doidge on the evening of their golden wedding day to help celebrate the happy event. An interesting item was that the bridesmaid and groomsman of fifty years ago were able to be present, Mrs. Grace English of Alberta and Nicholas Doidge of Roseneath.

During the evening Mrs. Wilbert Budd read an address and two nephews presented the bride and the groom with two comfortable chairs. Both very suitably replied.

Some who were able to attend were Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Budd, Port Hope, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Budd, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Davey, Mr. and Mrs. George Crossen, Cobourg, Mr. and Mrs. Will Crossen, Baltimore, Nicholas Doidge, Mr. and Mrs. Linton and Mr. Thackerey, Roseneath, and from Plainville were Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Dines, Mr. and Mrs. M. P. Ames, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Brisbin, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Cole, Mr. and Mrs. Everitt Brisbin, Mrs. G. Harris, and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Buttar.

New Post Office Is Opened In Millbrook

MILLBROOK, Feb. 28.—(ENS).—Millbrook boasts a new post office to-day, one of the few communities in which a Federal building has been completed since the war broke out. The fine new building, started last summer, was formally opened this afternoon and the ceremony will be followed by a public banquet in the Town Hall tonight, at which Mr. Potts, superintendent of the Federal Land and Air Mails department will be guest speaker.

The building cost approximately $10,000, has a frontage of 34 feet and a depth of 40 feet. It is of white brick, with tiled floor in the vestibule and public lobby; hardwood floors in the large work room, and the rest of the main floor, including section where stamp, money order, and parcel wickets are located. On the west side there is a grade entrance for rural mail carriers, leading immediately to the basement stairs, a large chute on the main floor carrying the rural mail to the sorting room on the basement floor. The loading platform for the rural carriers is on the east side, and has an overhead covering.

The basement is well lighted, finished with smooth, white walls, and besides the sorting room has the furnace section, a room for the caretaker's supplies, and coal room. There are two lavatories.

The ground floor is finished in birch; furnishings are of solid oak, the cost being about $600; boxes are attractively finished and installed, and the cost estimated at $400.00.

The date for the actual moving into the new building has not yet been received from Ottawa by Postmaster T. H. Collins. M. Sullivan and Son, of Arnprior and Ottawa, had the contract for the building, and P. I. Bentley was the Inspector placed locally for oversight of the construction.

Archibald Haslett Dies In Rawdon

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 28.—(ENS.)—Archibald Haslett, 71, a native of Rawdon Township, died at his home near Bonarlaw early Tuesday morning. The late Mr. Haslett having spent his entire life in the district, was well known and highly regarded by a host of friends. He had been for many years a member of the L.O.L. No. 433, Springbrook, having been a past master and later an honorary member. A farmer all his life he retired from active farm work only three years ago. Surviving besides his widow, the former Lilly Stewart, are two sons, Harry of Bonarlaw and Gerald of Toronto, also two brothers, John of Edmonton and Thomas of Strasburg, Sask.; and one sister, Rose of Springbrook.

The funeral service will be held on Thursday from Springbrook United church and conducted under auspices of the L.O.L., assisted by Rev. Harding of Stirling. Interment will be at the 12th Line cemetery.

Alfred Pooley Is Honored

Alfred Pooley, a valued member of the Prince of Wales Rangers' band, who has joined the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, C.A.-S.F., was given a rousing farewell party by his colleagues on the band this week.

For the past eight years Pooley has played alto saxophone and piano accordeon, often taking solo parts, and the bandsmen expressed regret at his departure. At the same time they voiced tribute on his action and wished him luck in his effort to aid in the national crusade against Hitlerism.

Lieut. Peryer, bandmaster, spoke for the members and Sergeant E. Gibson, president of the band, presented Bandsman Pooley with a silver cigarette case, as a token of remembrance. In reply, Bandsman Pooley recalled the pleasant associations which he had formed since joining the organization eight years ago, and he lauded the men for the fine esprit de corps which exists among the men.

His departure is merely history repeating itself, for during the last great conflict many members of the band joined up for active service to help the Allied cause.

Masonic Picnic Is Set For Thursday

Plans are completed for the Masonic Winter Picnic which is scheduled to be held in the Y.M.C.A. on Thursday night. There will be bowling, table tennis, volleyball, bridge, billiards and swimming contests. The swimming contests are something new and keen interest is being taken in this contest. Rumor had it to-day that there would be a fat man's race under water, with some of the past masters of the three lodges entrants. However, Jim Wharry is keeping everything a close secret.

All Masonic brethren in the city are invited to this annual affair.

SHORT CAUSES EXCITEMENT

A little excitement was caused in the vicinity of Lech's fur store Tuesday night when the burglar alarm started to blast a resounding call and passersby immediately jumped to the conclusion that a break-in was being attempted. The trouble was caused by a short circuit in the alarm system.

Sentenced To Die

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 20 (AP)—Mrs. Tillie Irelan, 35, who pleaded guilty to smothering her 20-months-old son and dismembering his body, was convicted of murder in the first degree today and sentenced to die in the electric chair.

Three Men Are Sentenced To Five Years

LINDSAY, Feb. 28.— (ENS) — Ernest Carr, 36, Charles Martell and Isodore Wolfe Wexler, alias Wexler Wolfe, were sentenced to five years in Kingston Penitentiary late Tuesday by Judge J. A. McGibbon in county court. The three Toronto men were convicted of breaking and entering the garage of W. J. Flett and Son during the month of January and stealing a car, a quantity of cigarettes, 16 tubes, 14 tires and a defroster. Jack Skuta, 24, was acquitted of the same charge.

The men were arrested by Toronto police on January 29, as the officers were watching a garage at the rear of 63 Major street where they had received information that a stolen car was located. Detectives Taylor, Holmes and Scott of the Toronto police force testified that a car containing Martell, Wolfe and Carr drove up to the garage and stopped. Martell opened the garage door and the other two removed the license plates from the car and transferred them to the stolen vehicle. The officers then left their place of concealment and placed the three men under arrest. At this point Skuta appeared and upon making an enquiry for Martell was also placed under arrest.

All four men pleaded not guilty to the charges. Martell, Carr and Wolfe all had long police records, but Skuta pleaded as his first offence.

Sentenced Reduced

The appeal of Harvey Raymond, an Alberta man who was sentenced to ten months definite and four months indeterminate by Magistrate W. A. F. Campbell of Port Hope here in August was heard Tuesday at Osgoode Hall and the sentence was reduced to six months definite and the same indeterminate term.

Raymond was sentenced when he was found guilty of theft of a dress from the Arcade store. After a wild chase by police which took them over back fences and through alleys, Raymond was captured. His confederates escaped. Raymond appealed his own case.

Locker Price Has Increased

With cost of metal lockers up anywhere from 20 to 40 per cent. since last fall, when members of the Board of Education's property committee disagreed with their chairman, over purchase of more than 50 for the Collegiate, members of the supervision committee, into whose hands the problem was thrust, Tuesday night scouted about for means of overcoming increased cost.

They found one solution they believed will prove a happy one. Why, D. G. H. Melton asked, must they be of metal? He suggested that the committee explore the possibility of having them made locally and out of plywood in place of metal. The lockers aren't intended to be fireproof, he pointed out.

Price of metal lockers has increased due to outbreak of war and will probably be even higher before purchase can be made. The Board of Education recently granted the supervision committee $500 with which to make locker purchases and Mr. Melton believed twice as many plywood ones could be procured for the same money.

The squabble over original purchase of lockers came when members of the property committee decided their chairman had been highhanded in ordering their purchase himself without consulting them. When he submitted his purchase to the entire board as a recommendation of his committee, the committee objected and the order was cancelled.

$3,000 Proposed As Top Value 90 per cent Loan

A proposal to the Dominion Government to increase to $3,000 the top value of a house in which the government would make the maximum loan of 90 per cent. under the Dominion Housing Act was embodied in a resolution passed at Tuesday night's meeting of the property committee of the council on Alderman Dutton's motion, seconded by Mayor Hamilton. The present peak outlay by the home-builder on which the 90 per cent. loan can be obtained is $2,500, including the cost of the land which has averaged $50 a lot.

It was suggested that in many instances the cost of houses estimated to be built for this sum probably exceeded the $2,450, and that there may have been "a gentlemen's agreement" by which the owner of the house agreed to pay the contractor an adequate sum for his work, and that the actual total cost must have exceeded $2,500 in those cases.

The committee received new bids for property held by the city on which men are planning to build this year.

John A. Billingsley's offer of $135 for a forty-foot lot on the south side of Douglas Avenue was not enough to get the committee's approval. City Assessor W. J. Henry had recently boosted the listed valuation to $150, and it was decided that Mr. Billingsley can have the lot if he pays that amount and agrees to build within a year.

Russell B. Cooke's bid of $50 for a lot with 36 feet frontage on James Street, east of the C.P.R. in Ashburnham, was accepted. It was one of the lots included in the $50 brackets by which the city obtained the full measure of the Dominion Housing Act's lending accommodation.
